Preamble.

WHEREAS the parliament of Great Britain have granted two hundred thousand pounds sterling, to enable his majesty to make a proper compensation to the respective colonies in North America, for the expences incurred by them in levying, cloathing, and pay, of the troops raised by them, respectively, in the year one thousand seven hundred and sixty; and whereas it is humbly hoped that the parliament will make a grant to the said colonies, for the expences incurred, as aforesaid, in the year one thousand seven hundred and sixty-one, and that will be incurred the present year, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-two,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

CHAPTER 49.

AN ACT TO EXPLAIN, AMEND, AND CARRY INTO EXECUTION, AN ACT MADE IN THE FIRST YEAR OF THE REIGN OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY, INTITULED "AN ACT FOR RAISING A SUM OF MONEY, BY LOTTERY, FOR REPAIRING FANUEIL HALL IN BOSTON."

WHEREAS, in and by an act made in the first year of the reign of his present majesty, intituled "An Act for raising a sum of money, by lottery, for repairing Fanueil Hall in Boston," it is enacted "that Samuel Sewall, Samuel Phillips Savage and Ezekiel Lewis, or any two of them, be allowed and impowered to set up and carry on a lottery or lotteries, amounting to such a sum as, by drawing ten per cent out of each prize, or out of the whole, might raise a sum of two thousand pounds, and no more, and that the said sum should be applied by them, or the major part of them, to the rebuilding the said Fanueil Hall, and the market under the same;" and whereas it is apprehended that the said three persons, so appointed, are not a sufficient number to execute the same, so as to make a provision for the common accidents of death and sickness; and it appears that, by reason of the great advance of the prices of materials and workmanship occasioned by the late dreadful fire, the said sum will not be sufficient for the purposes before mentioned; by means whereof the sums of money which the said Samuel Sewall, Samuel Phillips Savage and Ezekiel Lewis have already expended or engaged for, on the credit of the said act, and such further sums as they may hereafter expend for the said purposes, will probably be lost to the publick by the incompletion of the said hall and market.— Preamble. 1760-61, chap. 26.

That Thomas Cushing, Samuel Hewes, John Scollay and Benjamin Austin, Esqrs., be added to the said Samuel Sewall, Samuel Phillips Savage, and Ezekiel Lewis; and that they, the said Thomas Cushing, Samuel Hewes, John Scollay and Benjamin Austin, Esqrs., together with the said Samuel Sewall, Samuel Phillips Savage and Ezekiel Lewis, be and they are hereby allowed and impowered to carry into execution the said act, in the same manner, and under the same regulations and restrictions, as the said Samuel Sewall, Samuel Phillips Savage and Ezekiel Lewis were, by the said act, allowed and impowered; and further, that they, the said Samuel Sewall, Samuel Phillips Savage, Ezekiel Lewis, Thomas Cushing, Samuel Hewes, John Scollay and Benjamin Austin, Esqrs., or any three of them, be and they are hereby allowed and impowered, —by a lottery or lotteries, in the same manner, and under the same regulations and restrictions, as in the said act is directed, —instead of the said sum of two thousand pounds, as mentioned in the said act, to raise the sum of three thousand pounds, over and above the necessary charges of the said lottery or lotteries; which sum of three thousand pounds shall be applied to the purposes mentioned in the said act, according to the true intent and meaning thereof, and to no other purposes whatsoever. [Passed and published April 24, 1762. Managers appointed for Faneuil-hall Market.

[SECT. 6.] And the province treasurer is hereby fully impowered and directed, some time in the month of July, in the same year, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-four, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the assessors or selectmen of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective parts and proportions of the sums before directed and engaged to be assessed, to be paid into the treasury on the aforementioned time; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to, all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the last preceeding tax act.

[Passed April 24, 1762.

NOTES.—All the acts of this year, except the private act, were printed: chapters 17 and 25 separately; but of the latter no printed copy has been found. The engrossments of chapters 2, 3, 4, 12, 14, 15, 16, 22, 25, 29, 35, 48, 49, and 50, are missing. Chapter 25, in this volume, was printed from the original bill in the State archives.

The following is the title of the only private act passed this year:—

"An Act for Enabling Mary Hunt to Dispose and Convey her Lands and Interest in Holden."—[Passed April 24, 1762.

The acts of the first session were duly certified for transmission, August 20, 1761. They were delivered to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, November 21, and, two days later, were referred to the committee on plantation affairs, by whom, on the tenth of December, they were sent to the Lords of Trade. From the Lords of Trade they went, January 13, 1762, in regular course, to Sir Matthew Lamb, for his opinion thereon, who, on the 22d of May, 1762, reported that he had no objection to them in point of law. This report was read at the Board, June 9, 1762, and it was, thereupon, ordered that these acts "lye by probationary until the further operation and effect of them should be known."

The acts of the second session were certified for transmission, January 16, 1762, and ordered to be delivered to the clerk of the Council, in waiting, June 8, 1762. No order has been found referring them back to the Lords of Trade, nor has any order of the Board been discovered referring them to Sir Matthew Lamb, although the latter included these acts with the acts of the subsequent sessions, in his report hereafter mentioned.

The acts of the third and fourth sessions were certified for transmission, July 6, 1762, delivered to the clerk of the Council, in waiting, September 28, and referred, the next day, to the committee on plantation affairs, by whom, on the 5th of October, they were referred to the Lords of Trade. No record of action upon them by the Board has been found until November 17, when the Secretary informed the Board that these acts "were with Sr Matthew Lamb, for his Opinion thereupon in point of Law." This opinion was given to the Board, January 10, 1763. It embraced the acts of the second session, also, and made no objection to any of these acts, except to the private act, the title of which is given above, and to the acts incorporating towns (see note to 1762–63, chapter 8, post). The report of Sir Matthew Lamb was considered by the Board, January 27, when the further consideration of these acts was postponed to the next day, at which time the resolution respecting acts incorporating towns, as given in the note to 1762–63, chapter 8, post, was passed, the further consideration of chapter 32 was postponed, as shown in the note to that chapter, post, and the draught of a representation was ordered to be prepared, proposing the repeal of the private act aforesaid.

Chap. 3. The proceedings relating to the apportionment of the grant, by parliament, for reimbursing a part of the expenses of the campaign of 1759, and to the receipt of the money from the treasury, are given in the note to 1760–61, chapter 10, ante. The following shows the steps leading to the passage of the present chapter, and also the part that Governor Bernard took in this measure for drawing upon the Agent, instead of importing the coin.

"April 7, 1761. The Secretary deliver'd the following Message from his Excellency the Governor to the two Houses respectively Vizt Gentlemen of the Council and Gentleman of the House of Representatives.

As there was no order made the last Session for gêtting over the money allotted to this Province from the last Parliamentary Grant, I have taken this business into my consideration, and find so large a difference of profit and loss between the two Methods of doing it that I cannot excuse myself stating it to You. But I do not mean to Condemn what is past but only to take care of what is to come. Many circumstances might recommend the former method which do not now exist, one of which, the difference of the Value of exchange is obvious. I shall only consider what is best to be done now. Supposing the sum to be the same as that of the last Year, the Expence of bringing over the Money in Specie I shall reckon from what it cost last Year, as it is not like to be less the next Year. To this must be added the loss of Interest arising from the different times of bringing it into the Treasury. The last Years money arrived here on the 14th day of March last, that of the present Year; if it be drawn for may be got into the Treasury by the 14th of May next, This will make a difference of interest for ten Months; which to the Treasury which pays interest for a much greater sum is a real Loss for so much money as it amounts to.

Thus the Account of the Expence and loss in bringing over the Money in specie will stand,

Difference between the purchase of the money by weight and the Amount of it by tale— to Loss	£605, – 11
Charges of freighting the money &ca	129, 13, –
Freight of £56.000 @ 1 ℔ cent	560, – –
Insurance as paid	1795, 15, 6
Interest of £58.485 being the sum which remain'd after the Charges of receiving it from the Treasury were deducted, for ten months . .	2924, 5, –
	£6014, 14, 5.

If we look for the advantages which are to Ballance this great Sum we shall find them all imaginary; they are not of the Real Value of one shilling. if there was any want of Specie for Circulation, it would be but a temporary Convenience, and not a lasting Gain to introduce Specie, and the want must be great to justify so large a Premium as 10 ℔ Cent, but when there is no want of Specie, nor like to be any, till this money is quite disipated, the Expence &c is an entire loss without even any Convenience to be set against it.

To explain this let us suppose that whilst the Treasury of this Province has £60,-000 to receive in London, some Merchants of this Town want to pay the same sum there, If the Treasury will not exchange its Credit against the Debt of the Merchants, each must freight their own Money, and it is possible that the same sum may be going out and coming in at the same time. The Province will gain nothing by this but will certainly lose the Value of the freight, insurance and Interest of both sums.

What I state here in a feigned Case of particular Persons and time, is actually true in the Real and general Operations of Trade within a short thô indefinite time. For as it is the Nature of Trade like Water to bring itself to a Level, it is just the same thing whether You bring a certain quantity of Specie into the Province, or prevent the like quantity from going out of it.

As therefore the Advantages of negotiating your money by Bills are very plain and certain, the only question will be whether it be practicable. For this purpose I have consulted some of the principal Merchants of this Town, and am by them assured, that if the Treasurer should be impowered to open a subscription for issuing London Bills, for £50, or £0,000—it would soon be full. I have by me a list of a few Gentlemen who are ready to subscribe £30,000 therefore there is no doubt but that the rest will soon be engaged. Not only the general emolument but the particular expediency of the present time must recommend this to your consideration.

FRA BERNARD."—Council Records, vol. XXIII., p. 699.

"April 21, 1761. Chap. 6. "Jan. 9, 1759. A Petition of the Town of Rehoboth—Sign'd Ezekiel Reed Town Clerk—Setting forth the Inconveniences that attend the supporting the Gospel in two distinct Congregations while they act as one body in raising money for that purpose. And praying that said Town may be divided into two distinct Precincts by certain Metes and Bounds as set forth in said Petition, and that the Ministerial Lands belonging to said Town be equally divided between the two Precincts: the Inhabitants of the proposed first or West Precinct agreeing to pay to the East precinct the Sum of Three pounds annually for the term of fifteen years from and after their settling a Minister in the East Precinct.

In the House of Representatives Read: And whereas it has been found by experience that the maintaining the Gospel Ministry in the Westerly and Easterly parts of the Town of Rehoboth in two distinct and seperate Congregations while the Inhabitants have acted together as one Precinct in raising money for that purpose has occasioned great difficulties in said Town. Chaps. 28 and 29. These acts were the result of an attempt, on the part of Gov. Bernard, to induce the General Court to increase the penalties against counterfeiting. The act of 1749-50, chap. 22,—which had been revived and continued by the acts of 1755-56, chap. 10, and 1760-61, chap. 5.—and the act, in addition thereto, of 1753-54, chap. 20, which appears to have been perpetual, imposed the only penalties against counterfeiting current money, not of the coinage of Great Britain, and by neither of these was the offence made felony. The penalty for counterfeiting bills of credit of the province had been made felony, for a second offence, by the provincial statute of 1714, chap. 6; though, even in that act, the benefit of clergy had not been expressly denied; and the same penalty had been extended to the counterfeiting of the bills of public credit of the province of New Hampshire, and of the colonies of Connecticut and of Rhode Island and Providence Plantation, by the act of 1720-21, chap. 10; but there seems to have been no express enactment fixing a penalty for forging the notes of the province treasurer, unless, by a strained interpretation of the act of 1692-3, chap. 18, § 9, the words "bill obligatory" could be made to include such notes. The proceedings that ensued, in both branches of the Assembly, upon the Governor's message at the beginning of the second session, and the different bills that were, thereupon, proposed, before these chapters were finally enacted, are here given not only as an interesting exhibition of the repugnance of the provincial legislature to extreme penalties, but as an illustration of the manner in which, not unfrequently, the ostensible object of legislation covered a movement of widely different import; as, in this instance, the proposition to increase the penalties against counterfeiting dollars, resulted in the establishment of a bimetallic standard, by making gold, as well as silver, a legal tender; and the proposition to provide new and more rigorous penalties against forgery resulted in an act to prevent forgery, by making it more difficult.

The following message had been promised in the Governor's speech on the same day. In this speech the subject of the message is given as the reason for his convening the Assembly, and described as "a particular business that requires an immediate redress."

"Gentlemen of the Council and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives

About a Month ago a discovery was made of the forgery of divers Treasurers notes; I immediately called the Council together and took proper methods for examining the affair to the bottom. In the course of the enquiry a further discovery was made that the very persons, who were concern'd in the forging the Treasurers notes were also engaged with a large confederacy in counterfeiting dollars It has also appeared that the making of false dollars has been so common in this Country that tho' much of it has been traced, yet there remains a great deal of it still undiscovered.

To what length the mischievous effects of these dangerous practises have been extended is at present impossible to say. However it behoves us to brobe* the evil to the bottom, to apply fit remedies for the past and to provide effectual means to prevent the further mischiefs of it. For this purpose I shall lay before you the following considerations which have readily occurred upon this occasion.

The Treasurers notes are issued with few and inconsiderable Checks, so that it has been found easy to counterfeit them: and yet I am surprized to find that there is no Law to punish such counterfeiting except the common Law, which compared with the mischief is little better than none. It occasions little less surprize to find that there is no Provincial Law to punish the counterfeiting bills of Exchange and notes of hand. It should seem that, now the Public credit of the Province is engaged for many thousands, and the private credit of the Merchants is extended through the mercantile world, both the one and the other deserve the same security which public and private credit have in Great Britain, There the Legislature first began with making the counterfieting Public Securities a capital Offence: and they soon found by parity of reason that private Securities were intitled to the same protection, and accordingly they guarded them with the same penalty. These Laws have been found so expedient and beneficial that they have been executed with an uncommon punctuallity there never having been that I know of a single instance of a conviction under these Acts being Pardoned. This seasonable and uniform severity has had the best effects: it has made these Laws, what all severe Laws are intended to be, a Terror to evil Doers, so that forgery in Great Britain is so seldom attempted, that I suppose there have not been so many instances of forgery there for many Years, as have been committed here in a few months.

Although there are some Province Laws against counterfeiting dollars &c[a] yet they are very inadequate to the Offence, of which there cannot be greater proof than that there have been several mints exercised at one time within this Province, some of them by Persons that have already suffered all that the Law inflicts. And how trifling is the punishment in comparison to the Offence? What a good bargain has such a Man who sells an Ear for 10,000 dollars? but how heavy dos this bargain fall upon those that are ultimately affected by the circulating the bad coin? The Laws of England see this Offence in a very different Light; according to them it is the greatest crime known, High Treason, Indeed the Offence there is confined to the national Coin, because that is the common currency and no other money is a legal tender. But in this Country where it is impossible to have a general currency of English money, such foreign Coin as is current by Law and is become a legal tender is substituted in the room of the English coin, and the whole force of the reason of the penal Laws that has been applied in England to punish and prevent the counterfeiting the English coin is equally applicable here to the common coin, whether English or Foreign that is current within the Province.

In regard to the popular Prejudices against capital Punishments which have hitherto prevailed in this Country I shall only say that at present they are very ill timed. Whilst the People of this Country lived from hand to Mouth and had very little wealth but what was confined among themselves, a simple system of Laws might be proper, and capital punishments might in a great measure be avoided. But when by the acquisition, diffusion and general intercourse of wealth the temptations to fraud are abundantly encreased the terrors of it must be also proportionably enlarged: otherwise if through a false tenderness for wicked Men the Laws should not be sufficient to protect the property of the honest and industrious, the rights of the latter are given up to the former, and the undue mercy shewn to the one becomes a real injury to the other. To instance this I need only say that I have no doubt but that if these crimes had been capital some years ago and usually punished as such, they would not have been committed at all at the present time.

I have therefore to propose.

That all the Treasurers notes be called in with all convenient speed such of them as have passed or are near their time of payment to be paid off; the others to be re-emitted in another shape with proper checks to prevent their being counterfeited. By these means you will know the extent of and put a stop to the present frauds and prevent the like practices for the future.

That the Acts of Parliament against Forgery of Public and private securities, or Vouchers for money or such of them as shall be thought necessary be extended to this Province.

That the Acts of Parliament against coining or counterfeiting of money or such of them as shall be thought necessary be extended to this Province and the current coin thereof, to be specified for that purpose.—

That a standing Committee under an injunction of Secrecy be appointed to consider of what further should be done on these occasions."—Gov. Bernard's message, Nov. 12, 1761: Council Records, vol. XXIV., p. 100.

In the House of Representatives the foregoing message was immediately assigned for consideration; and, in the afternoon of the same day, it was resolved that a committee of the whole house consider the subject matter of the speech and message, the next morning. After two sessions of the committee of the whole, the committee rose, Nov. 13th, and reported certain resolutions; whereupon it was resolved that Mr. Speaker, Col. Phillips, Mr. Otis, Col. Clap, Mr Tyler, Capt. Livermore and Mr. Paine, be a committee to prepare bills in accordance with the resolutions, and the committee were then permitted to sit again. It was also ordered that the committee appointed to prepare the bills, be directed to sit forthwith.

On the 14th of November, an order passed the Council that Thomas Hutchinson, John Osborne, John Cushing and James Bowdoin, with such as the House should join, be a committee to consider the speech and message. In this vote the House refused to concur. On the 16th, the Council had prepared, and passed through its first reading, the bill hereunder given, at length, and marked, for convenient reference, [No. 1.]

On the 17th, this bill was read a second time in the Council, passed to be engrossed, and sent down for concurrence. In the House, it was read a first time, on the same day, but, on the 18th, in answer to a message of inquiry, from the Council, the House sent up a messenger to inform the Board that they "have determin'd not to give the said bill another reading."

In the mean time the House committee had reported three bills, given hereunder, in full, and numbered 2, 3 and 4, respectively. These bills took their first reading, Nov. 17th, and their second and third readings, Nov. 18th, when they were passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence.

"Nov. 18, 1761. The House also sent a message to the Council requesting them to direct the joint committee to sit forthwith.

This seems to have been the final action on this bill.

The bill for making foreign gold a lawful tender, &c., [No. 3.] was also sent down to the House, by their request, Nov. 23rd. On the same day it was read three times, passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence. In the Council the bill was read Nov. 23rd, and, again, the next day; when, on the question being put, it was refused an engrossment.

The Council now prepared a bill [No. 5.] intended to embrace the important provisions of bill No. 1, with such modifications as, it was supposed, would be acceptable to the House. This bill had its two readings, and was passed to be engrossed and sent down for concurrence, on the 20th of November. In the House it was read a first time the same day, and a second time the following day, and, Nov. 23rd, it was read a third time, and refused an engrossment. The bill is as follows:—

[No. 5.] "An Act to prevent counterfeiting or falsifying coined Silver or Gold; or uttering the same knowing it to be false or counterfeit: And to prevent the counterfeiting such obligations or notes as are or shall be signed by the Treasurer of the Province or any other person or persons authorized in the name and by order of the Government.

Be it enacted by the Governor Council & House of Representatives that if any person or persons shall forge or counterfeit any coin resembling, or of the similitude of any of the gold or Silver coins of Great Britain; or any of the gold or Silver coins of France, Spain or Portugal; or shall with a fraudulent intent import into this Province any such forged or counterfeit coins, knowing the same to be false or counterfeit; or shall, for lucre or gain or with a fraudulent intent impair diminish or falsify any of the gold or Silver coins aforesaid; or shall utter any false forged counterfeited or falsified gold or Silver coin, knowing the same to be so: or shall knowingly make or mend, or begin to make or mend, buy or sell; or have in his, her or their house or possession any mould or Press contrived for coining metals; or any Instrument or Engine not of common use in any trade, and contrived for coining, stamping or marking metals for coin or money; every such offender, their counsellours, Procurers, Aiders or abetters, being convicted of either of the Crimes aforesaid, at the Superior Court of Judicature, Court of Assize and General Goal delivery, shall be set in the Pillory for the space of one hour, and then have one of his or her ears cut off; and from thence shall be drawn to the Gallows, and set thereon with a rope round his or her neck for the space of an hour, and shall then be publickly whipped; and afterwards be committed to the house of Correction, and there confined and kept to hard labour for a term not less than ten years, nor exceeding twenty; and during such term shall, once in every year at the time of holding the quarter Sessions for the peace when tavern & other Licences are to be granted, be set in the Pillory for the space of one hour.

Provided that the Justices of said Court shall at their discretion abate any part of the pains and penalties aforesaid So far as respects the uttering of such counterfeit coins, according to the circumstances of the offence:

And be it further enacted that if any person shall forge counterfeit or alter; or aid assist or abett in forging counterfeiting or altering any obligation or promisory note signed, or which shall hereafter be signed by the Treasurer of this Province, or any of his Successors, or by any other person or persons authorized in the name and by order of the Government; or if any person or persons shall offer to dispose of or pay away any such forged obligation or promisory Note knowing the same to be forged; or shall with intent to defraud, demand the money therein mentioned, or pretended to be due thereon, or any part thereof from the Treasurer, or any person or persons employed in paying the monies of this Government, every person so offending being convicted of either of the offences aforesaid at the Superior Court aforesaid shall suffer all the pains and penalties, which by this Act are order'd to be inflicted on persons convicted of counterfeiting the coins before-mentioned.

And be it further enacted that upon a Second Conviction of any of the Offences in this Act before-mentioned (the offence of uttering counterfeit-coin only excepted) the offender or offenders shall be deemed guilty of felony And Suffer death without benefit of Clergy.

And be it further enacted That whoever shall inform of any of the foregoing offences so as the offender or offenders shall be convicted of the same, such Informer or Informers shall receive out of the Treasury of this Province the sum of twenty five pounds."—Mass. Archives, vol. 104. p. 107.

The bill for better securing the possessors of the province treasurer's notes, &c., [No. 4.] in which the Council had refused to concur, Nov. 18th, was sent down to the House, Nov. 20th, at their request, and, probably, had its first reading then, although this does not expressly appear in the House journal. On the next day, it was read a second and third time, passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence. In the Council, it was read the first time on the 23rd, and a second time, on the 24th, when the Council voted to concur in the vote for engrossment, with the following amendments:—

The words which appear in italics, in the bill as printed above, were to be stricken out, and the following words inserted; viz., at (A.), "by enabling the province treasurer to give new receipts or obligations in lieu of such notes as are now extant"; at (D.), "and also"; at (B.), "now in force"; and all of that part of the bill following (F.), relative to the counterfeiting of notes, was to be stricken out.

At this stage, the Governor sent the following message, dated Nov. 24th, 1761:—

"Gentleman of the Council and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives

As the several matters recommended to You at the opening of this Session have met with extraordinary delays; and it is time to determine whether this Session shall be continued through the Winter, or the General Court shall be prorogued to the beginning of the new Year, I am willing that my recommendations should be confin'd to the Single business of calling in and reemitting the Treasurers Notes, and that the other business may stand over. But I think it indispensible that the Owners of the Notes should be obliged to bring them in by a certain day under the penalty of the interest ceasing at that day: without this it can neither be ascertained what Notes have been counterfeited, nor will a stop be put to the Practice for the future: for this purpose it will be most expedient to reemit them in the same money they are payable now.

As for the penalty of counterfeiting them although I think all punishments, except capital, will be inadequate, I shall consent to such others as you shall think fit, provided you add a clause, that all the interest upon these reemitted Treasurers Notes shall cease upon the expiration of the several terms for which they are granted, that there may be a certain determination of the probable mischief of counterfeiting notes within a few Years. FRA BERNARD."—Ib., vol. 110, p. 105.

To the amendments proposed as above, the House refused to agree, except to those at (D.) and (E.); and voted to insist upon the bill as thus amended, and so sent it up for concurrence. This was Nov. 25th, and the Council, the next day, voted to concur with the vote of the House respecting the amendments at (A.) and (F.), but voted to insist on their amendment at (C.); and, thereupon, sent the bill down for concurrence. The House again non-concurred, and voted to adhere to the bill as last sent up, and again sent it up for concurrence.

This last action of the House, in which the Council refused to concur, led to a proposal, from the latter, for a conference, to which the House agreed; and a conference was, accordingly, held on the afternoon of the 27th,—the Speaker of the House proceeding to the Council Chamber for that purpose.

The next day the bill was sent down from the Council, with a message that it had been read again, and reconsidered, and that the Board adhere to their own vote as last sent down, with the further amendments which follow; viz., to strike out all the words from (G.) to (G.), and insert "a sufficient number of receipts, notes or obligations, for the purpose hereafter mentioned in this act, be prepared by the province treasurer"; to strike out the italicized words at (H.); and, at (I.), to insert the words "of the form before prescribed in this act."

The House refused to concur, and voted to adhere to their own vote as last sent up, and returned the bill, unchanged, for concurrence; which the Council, on the same day, refused. This ended all legislative proceedings on these bills, for the session. The House, however, took the precaution to pass an order, "That all matters which had day at this session, and are not passed upon, have the same day at the next session of this court"; in which order the Council voted to concur.

On the same day, the Governor prorogued the court, in the following speech:—

"Gentlemen of the Council and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives

After more than a fortnight spent in fruitless Debates, I find myself Obliged to Prorogue this General Court, without any Thing effectual being done in the important Business for which I called you together, I have all the while been a disinterested but not an unconcerned Spectator, of the Disagreement that has arisen among You: And as I have in no way interfered in it, but in pointing out what I thought the present Exigency required of You: It is my Right as well as my Duty, to interpose my Advice. I therefore do earnestly exhort you all and single, that as the Prorogation of this General Court will put a legal End to all the Business now depending in it; it may have the same Effect upon your Minds and Memories; that when you meet again, you may be wholly free from all prejudice and Bias whatsoever, arising from any of the Transactions which have defeated the Intention of this Session. FRA. BERNARD."—Ibid., p. 173.

In his speech at the opening of the third session, the Governor declined to call the attention of the representatives to any new subjects of legislation until "business of great importance, now lying unredressed and unanswered," should have received their attention, and requested "that, as the last prorogation put a legal end to all the business then depending in the general court," the subjects then left unsettled, might be considered, if not without reference to former differences, at least, with the determination to avoid such disputable points, as might end in hopeless division. On the next day, the bills, passed in the House the last session, which were not concurred in by the Council, were produced by the Secretary, upon the order of the House, and a joint committee of both branches was appointed to consider that part of the Governor's speech relating to these bills, and make report. This committee was ordered to sit forthwith. On the 22nd of January, a committee, that day appointed by the House to "prepare the draught of a bill for making gold a tender in payments, &c.," reported the following [No. 6.]; which had its first reading on the same day, and, on the next day, was read a second and third time, passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence.

[No. 6.] "An Act in Addition to an Act made and passed in the twenty third Year of his late Majesty George the Second, Intitled 'An Act for ascertaining the Rates at which Coined Silver and Gold, and English half Pence and Farthings may pass within this Government.

(A.) Whereas divers Doubts (A.) and Disputes have lately arisen relating to the true Intent and Meaning of said Act and it has been made a Question whether the gold Coins therein mentioned are a legal Tender.

Be it therefore enacted and Declared by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, That the several gold and silver Coins in said Act specified, at the (B.) Rates in said Act mentioned, (B.) have been, now are, and shall be a legal Tender (C.) in all Payments, publick and private, (C.) express, Contracts to the Contrary excepted."—Mass. Archives vol. 104 p. 145.

The Council voted to amend, by striking out the words in italics, and inserting, at (A.), "have arisen and a Question been made whether the Gold Coins mentioned in—An Act made and passed in the 23d year of his late Majesty George the Second intituled 'An Act for ascertaining the rates at which coined Silver and Gold and english half pence and farthings may pass within this Government'; and, at (C.), 'Specialties and express contracts excepted'—Provided that a double Johannes or Gold Coin of Portugal mentioned in the said Act shall not weigh less than eighteen penny weight six grains, a single Johannes not less than nine penny weight three grains, a Moydore not less than six penny weight twenty grains; and a Guinea not less than five penny weight seven grains; and that such of the said Coins which shall fall short of the respective weights aforesd shall nevertheless be accounted a Tender with a just Allowance for such deficiency."

On the original bill, in the archives, it appears that these amendments were proposed in the Council, Jan 23rd, on the first reading of the bill, and, on the 27th, that the bill was read a second time, and passed, in concurrence, to be enacted, as taken into a new draught, and sent down for concurrence; and that the House on the next day, concurred in the bill, as taken into a new draught by the House, and sent it up for concurrence; when the Council immediately passed a vote to concur. By the journal of the House, however, as well as by the records of the Council, it appears that the bill had only passed to be engrossed. On the 29th, the bill passed, in both branches, to be enacted.

Notwithstanding this, the House, as late as the 3rd of February, by a yea and nay vote, resolved that the words "express contracts to the contrary excepted" be struck out of the bill; and, on the 6th, the bill was brought down by the Secretary, with an amendment, which the House voted to consider on the 9th. As the above quoted words do not appear in the act, and, as the clause, omitted in the bill, relating to the entering up of judgments, appears in the act, as well as the clause fixing the rate of gold, it would seem that the bill, after it had passed to be enacted, had been, in some manner, reconsidered and amended, sometime after its passage to be enacted in both houses, and before it had been signed by the Governor, or received the seal, though no further record of this irregular proceeding has been preserved.

At the third session, another attempt was made to secure the enactment of the provisions, substantially, of the bill [No. 4.] for better securing the possessors of the province treasurer's notes, &c. Accordingly, Jan. 25th, a joint committee was appointed to prepare the draught of a bill for preventing the counterfeiting coin and the treasurer's notes. Two bills seem to have resulted from this reference to the committee: one was substantially chapter 29. This bill had its first reading, in the House, on the 29th; and, on the 30th, was read a second time, and "recommitted, to make a proposed amendment." On the 2nd of February, it was read again, and referred. On the 4th, it was read again, passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence. In Council, on the same day, it was read twice, and passed to be engrossed, in concurrence, with an amendment striking out the following words from the sixth section; viz., "upon pain of forfeiting the interest of such notes," and inserting the clause, now remaining in that section, beginning with "and no interest," and ending with "July next." It was then sent down for concurrence. The next day, the House voted to concur; and, on the 8th, passed it to be enacted. On the 9th, it was passed to be enacted by the Council; and signed by the Governor, on the 10th.

The other bill is given below. The words in brackets and italics, are interlined, in the hand-writing of Lieut.-Gov. Hutchinson, and the latter of these clauses was substituted for the next nine words which follow.

[No. 7.] "An Act in Addition to an Act, Intitled, 'An Act against diminishing or counterfeiting Money'; made and passed in the twenty third Year of [his late Majesty King] George the Second; and for preventing the counterfeiting of the Province Treasurer's notes.

Be it enacted by the Governour, Council and House of Representatives, That if any Person or Persons after the First Day of March next shall falsely make, forge or counterfeit, or procure to be falsely made, forged or counterfeited, or willingly act or assist in the false making, forging or counterfeiting any (H.) Money or Coin, the Currency of which is established by the Laws of this Province, or shall falsely make, forge or counterfeit, or procure to be falsely made, forged or counterfeited, or willingly act, or assist in the false making, forging or counterfeiting any (A.) Money that is or may be current in this Province, or shall utter any such false, forged or counterfeit Money or Coin, knowing the same to be false, forged or counterfeited, and be thereof convicted at the Superiour Court of Judicature, Court of Assize and General Goal Delivery, shall be set in the Pillory for the Space of One Hour, and then have one of his or her Ears cut off, and from thence shall be drawn to the Gallows and set thereon with a Rope round his or her Neck for the Space of one Hour, and shall then be publickly whipped not exceeding thirty five Stripes, and afterwards committed to the House of Correction, and there confined and kept to hard Labour, for a Term not less than ten years nor exceeding twenty Years; and during such Term, shall once every Year at the Time of holding the Quarter Sessions for the Peace, be set in the Pillory for the Space of one Hour. (H.) (A.)

Provided, That the Justices of the Superiour Court, shall at their Discretion, abate any Part of the Pains and Penalties aforesaid, so far as respects the uttering any [such Gold or Silver Coin as aforesaid.] forged or counterfeited money or Coin established by law.

And be it further enacted, That upon an Escape of any such Person from the House of Correction (after Conviction, or upon a second Conviction of any of the Offences aforesaid, the Offender or Offenders shall be deemed guilty of Felony, and suffer Death without Benefit of Clergy.

And whereas divers Frauds and Deceits have been put upon several Persons, by forging and counterfeiting the Province Treasurer's Receipts and Obligations, tendering in Payment, uttering and exchanging such forged and counterfeited Receipts and Obligations, to the Prejudice of the publick Credit:

Be it further enacted, That if any Person or Persons, from and after the First—Day of March next shall forge or counterfeit any Receipt, Note or Obligation made or given out by the Treasurer of this Province, pursuant to Law, for the Payment of any Sum of Money, or in Imitation of any such Province Treasurer's Note, Receipt or Obligation, or any Indorsement of any such Receipt, Note or Obligation, or procure to be made, forged or counterfeited, or willingly act or assist in the false making, forging or counterfeiting any such Receipt, Note, Obligation or Indorsement, (B.) or in Imitation thereof, or shall tender in Payment, utter, vend, exchange or barter any such forged or counterfeited Receipt, Note or Obligation, (C.) or in Imitation thereof, or demand to have the same exchanged for ready Money, knowing such Receipt, Note or Obligation so endorsed or demanded to be exchanged, vended or bartered, to be forged or counterfeited, or shall tender in Payment, utter, vend, exchange or barter, or demand to have exchanged for ready Money, any true Receipt, Note or Obligation of the Province Treasurer with a forged or counterfeited Endorsement thereon, knowing such Endorsement to be forged or counterfeited; then every such Person so offending, being thereof lawfully convicted at the Superiour Court of Judicature, Court of Assize and General Goal Delivery, shall be set in the Pillory for the Space of one Hour, and then have one of his or her Ears cut off, and from thence shall be drawn to the Gallows, and set thereon with a Rope round his or her Neck for the Space of one Hour, and then shall be publickly whipped not exceeding thirty five Stripes; and afterwards committed to the House of Correction, and there confined and kept to hard Labour for a Term not less than ten Years, nor exceeding twenty Years; and during such Term shall once every Year at the Time of holding the Quarter Sessions for the Peace, be set in the Pillory for the Space of one Hour. (B.) (C.)

Provided, That the Justices of the Superiour Court shall at their Discretion, abate any Part of the Pains and Penalties aforesaid, so far as respects the uttering any forged or counterfeit Receipt or Obligation.

And be it further enacted, (D.) That upon an Escape of any such Person from the House of Correction (after Conviction) or upon a Second Conviction of any of the Offences aforesaid, the Offender or Offenders shall be deemed guilty of Felony, and suffer Death without Benefit of Clergy. (D.)

And be it further enacted, That whoever shall inform of any of the aforegoing Offences so as the Offender or Offenders shall be convicted of the same, such Informer or Informers shall receive out of the Treasury of this Province the Sum of twenty five Pounds.

And whereas in and by an Act made in the twenty third Year of his late Majesty King George the Second, Intitled, 'An Act against diminishing or counterfeiting Money' It is among other Things enacted, That upon a Second Conviction of any or either of the Offences in said Act mentioned, the Offender or Offenders shall be committed to the House of Correction, and there kept to hard Labour for the Space of twenty Years:—And whereas it may happen that the Charge of support-

(E.) ing (E.) such Offender or Offenders in the House of Correction during the Term aforesaid, may (in Case of Sickness or other Disability to Labour) become a Burthen unreasonable to be borne by that single County where the Conviction may be had:
(F.) Be it therefore enacted, That the Charge that may arise for the Relief or Support of such Offender or Offenders (during (F.) such Commitment as aforesaid, either by (G.) Force of the Act aforesaid, or of this present Act) so far as the same through Sickness or (G.) otherwise, shall appear to be unavoidable, shall be born by the Province, and be paid out of the publick Treasury accordingly.

And be it further enacted, That if any Puncheon, Dye, Stamp, Edger, cutting Engine, Press, Flask, or other Instrument for coining or counterfeiting gold or silver Monies, or any Part of such Tool, shall be hid in any Place, or found in the House or Possession of any person (NOT EMPLOYED IN COINING IN HIS MAJESTY'S MINTS), nor having the same by Authority, any Persons discovering are required to seize the same, and to carry them to some Justice of the Peace, to be produced in Evidence against any Person who shall be prosecuted for such Offence, and after they shall have been produced in Evidence, they shall by Order of the Court, or in the Presence of some Justice of the Peace, in Case there be no Trial, be destroyed; and if any counterfeit OR DIMINISHED Money shall be produced in any Court of Justice in Evidence, or otherwise, the Judges shall cause such Monies to be cut in Pieces in Court, or in the Presence of some Justice of the Peace, and then to be delivered to such Persons to whom the same shall appertain.

And this Act shall be read in every Town, and District at their March Meeting Annually. Any Town and District Clerk neglecting to read the same shall forfeit twenty shillings, to the Use of the Poor of the Town or District where such Neglect happens."—Ibid., p. 172.

The amendments proposed to this bill, were, to substitute, for the words which appear in the bill in italics, as follows: at (H.), "gold or silver coin"; at (A.), "gold coin of Spain or Portugal, or any gold or silver coin of France"; at (D.), "that upon a second conviction of any of the offences aforesaid, or upon an escape from the house of correction, after a first conviction of any of the offences aforesaid"; at (E.), "in the house of correction, any offender or offenders against said act or against this act"; at (F.), "his, her, or their, commitment"; at (G.), "other disability to labour"; the italicized words at (B.) and (C.), to be entirely stricken out. The words in small capitals appear to have been cancelled, in committee, before the bill was reported.

This bill was read in the Council a first time, Feb. 4th, and a second time, Feb. 10th; when it was passed to be engrossed, "as taken into a new draught," and sent down for concurrence. In the House it was read a first time, on the 11th, and a second and third time, on the 12th; when the House voted to concur in the bill, "as taken into a new draught by the House," and sent it up for concurrence. The Council passed it, in concurrence, to be engrossed, Feb. 17th, "with the amendments from A. to H.," and sent it down for concurrence The House, on the same day, concurred in all these amendments, except the one at (A.), and again sent the bill up for concurrence. The Council, on the next day, voted to concur; substituting for the proposed amendment at (A.), the words "any gold or silver coin"; and again sent the bill down for concurrence, to which the House agreed.

The bill passed to be enacted in the House, Feb. 23rd, but no record of its enactment by the Council has been found; though it appears the bill was laid before the Governor for his signature, which he withheld for reasons stated in his message printed in the note to 1762-63, chapter 9, post.

In the House of Representatives Read and Ordered That the sum of Ten pounds be paid out of the Public Treasury to John Worthington Esq^r as a reward for his Services as Attorney for the King at the several Assizes in the County of Hampshire in the trial of several Persons concerned together in counterfeiting the current coin of the Province—

In the House of Representatives Read and Ordered That the Attorney General be directed to stay any further proceedings on the Recognizance abovementioned, Provided the Petitioners pay the Costs of prosecution thereon and Thirty pounds to the Province Treasurer.

In Council (11th) Read and Nonconcurred."—Ibid., p. 258.

Praying a Reimbursement may be made him.

In the House of Representatives Ordered that the Prayer of the Petition be granted and that the sum of thirty seven pounds, eight shillings, be allowed and granted out of the Public Treasury to the Petitioner accordingly.—

In Council Read and Nonconcurred."—Ibid., p. 346.

"This Act [chapter 28,] may seem unnecessary as the former Act by ascertaining the rates of particular pieces of gold and silver coin must be supposed by implication to make them a tender—But this was very necessary to quiet the disputes in the Province arising from the carrying away dollars to be transmitted to England being the best specie for that purpose If, as some contended, Dollars only was the Standard of lawful money, gold would have depreciated: but if the Standard of lawful money was founded only on a proportion to sterling as 4:3, as seems evident to me both from Queen Ann's Act and the above recited Act, then the demand for silver would not depreciate gold. This Act has had all the good effects expected from it, it has quieted all the disputes about particular Coins and has fixed the standard of lawful money by a proportion with sterling and is in my opinion not a new Law — but only declaratory of an old one whose meaning seemed to be plain enough before, though it might not be free from the doubts of legal Interpreters.

* * * * * *

This Act [chapter 29,] was occasioned by a discovery of divers forgeries of the Treasurers Notes which were indeed too little guarded against such frauds. By this Act there are so many Checks contrived for the New Notes as render the counterfeiting them almost impracticable. Another advantage from this Act will be that the outstanding Notes of the Treasury will be quite ascertained and the whole of the forgeries discovered within a certain time. But this is not all. The former Treasurers Notes were payable only in dollars or silver at 6/8^d an ounce (near 3^d less than dollar silver) As Dollars were leaving the Province and silver already undervalued, in comparison with dollars, advancing in real value greatly above the rate of dollars, the Province would have suffered very much if it had been obliged to make its payments in the tenor of its bills. It was therefore a very timely prudence to change the tenor of the Bills and make them payable in gold and silver indiscriminately The Credit of the Treasurers Notes (which is above par) made this very practicable and now there is no distinction between Silver Notes and Gold and Silver Notes, no more than there is between gold and silver money.

The following Acts for supplying the Treasury differ only from others preceding them in the regulations before mentioned But I must not omit observing to Your Lordship the extraordinary credit and good state of the Finances of this Province Besides the advantage of a gold & silver currency in which it is almost singular on this Continent and in which the Treasurers Notes the only Government securities, bear little or no part, All the debts of the Province are provided to be sunk in June 1765, tho' indeed it will be necessary to alleviate the burthens of the years immediately ensuing by providing for some part of the payments by allocations at a year or two further distant, even supposing that the extraordinary expenses of the War should end with this Year."—Gov. Bernard to Lords of Trade, April. 12, 1762: "Mass. Bay, B. T.," vol. 78. L. l., 33, in Public-Record Office.

"The currency of Massachusetts Bay had been under as good regulation as possible, from the time that paper had been exchanged for silver, which was made the standard at 6s. 8d. the ounce. Gold was not a lawful tender, but passed current at fixed rates, a guinea at 28s., a moidore at 36s., &c., being nearly the same proportion that gold bore to silver in Europe at the time when the paper-money was exchanged. Silver bullion, for a year or two past, had advanced in price, in England, from 5s. 3d. to 5s. 7d. an ounce. A greater proportion of silver than of gold had been exported, and people, who observed the scarcity of silver, were alarmed. A bill was brought into the house of representatives and passed, making gold a lawful tender at the rates at which the several coins had been current for many years past.

The bill was non-concurred in council, and a conference ensued * between the two houses, the lieutenant-governor being at the head of the managers for the council, and Mr. Otis of those for the house.

The only argument on the part of the house was the danger of oppression upon debtors, by their being obliged to procure silver at disadvantage.

On the part of the council, it was said, that the proportion between silver and gold was different at different times; that one only ought to be the standard, and the other considered as merchandise; that, silver being made the standard in the province, it behoved government rather to reduce the rate at which gold coin should pass, so as to make the proportion between gold and silver the same in the province as in Europe; that, in such case, there would be the same profit upon exporting gold as silver; but as one metal was made the standard and the only lawful tender, it was not advisable for government to regulate the other, but to leave it to take its chance; and that there was no other way of securing the currency from depreciation.

The house was much engaged to carry the bill through, but the council stood firm and rejected it. †

There seems to be no reason for engaging men more on one side the question than the other, in this dispute, only as one side might appear to them more just and reasonable than the other; but the lieutenant-governor having taken one side of the question, Mr. Otis took the other; and the court and country parties took one side and the other with much of the same spirit, as if it had been a controversy between privilege and prerogative."—*Hutchinson's Hist. "Jan. 20, 1762. A Memorial of Andrew Oliver Esq^r and a great number of Others Inhabitants of the Province—Setting forth—That the signal Success of his Majesty's Arms in North America calling for our grateful Acknowledgments to Almighty God, and the Subjection of Canada affording a favourable opertunity to spread the knowledge of the Protestant Religion among the Indians, a large sum has been subscribed, and that they apprehend it would be so much increased in a short time by other Subscriptions, that the Profits of it would be sufficient to effect some Real Service in promoting Christian knowledge, if a Society was erected with corporate powers for this purpose.

And Praying for an Act of Incorporation vesting the Petitioners with such others as they from time to time shall elect with all the Powers necessary for the purpose aforesaid.

In Council Read and Ordered That the Prayer of the Petition be so far granted as that the Petitioners have liberty to bring in a Bill for the purposes therein mentioned. In the House of Representatives Read and Concurred."—Council Records, vol. XXIV., p. 184.

"The Professt design of this Act would have made it very difficult for me to have refused my consent to it if it had been more exceptionable than it really is. But I had no other exception than that it afforded a caution that if all incorporations were done by Acts of Assembly, it would tend in time, to a prescription against the King's right to grant Charters of incorporation. The danger is not at hand at present, as this is the second Act of the kind ever known, An Act for incorporating the Marine Society being the first. I don't reckon within this rule the Acts for enabling Parishes to put out Trust Money for their Church &c (which are frequent) because they are private, for a particular purpose and contain no greater powers than parishes have by general Law But it seems to me that before another Act of this kind is tender'd it would be proper to provide for the support of the King's right to incorporate by Charter: especially as this right has been denied by some people both in the agitation of this business and upon another occasion which was as follows:—

Some Gentlemen at the Western Extremity of this Province projected a Scheme for founding a College and brought in a Bill for that purpose which passed the House and was rejected by the Council The reasons given by the Council for rejecting it were that the College was to be vested with University powers: that the Province could not support two Universities they would interfere with one another. The Gentlemen then applied to me for a Charter under the Province Seal and they agreeing to drop the powers excepted to, I ordered a Charter to be made out which giving no other powers but to hold Lands and Money and sue and be sued I thought must be unexceptionable. Nevertheless this would not do: a great Cry was made against this Charter upon two points—that it would be detrimental to the old College, that it would be injurious to the rights of the people. I had given so many proofs of my regard for the old College that there was no pretence to suspect me of a design to hurt it; and there was as little room to presume an injury to the rights of the people, for as the granting Charters is a right belonging to the King's Seal and the Charter of the Province is entirely silent about it, it certainly belongs to the King's Seal within this Province in the same manner as it does in other Royal Provinces.

Nevertheless as the prosecution of this Affair was no ways an intrest of my Office and it might have impeded affairs of greater consequence, I put a stop to the Charter, still insisting on the King's right of granting Charters, tho' I did not think proper to persist in perfecting this particular one: Upon which the whole dispute immediately subsided. It however persuaded me that it would be necessary to guard against the King's right being impeached by an usage of granting incorporations by Act only, which I humbly submit to Your Lordships consideration."—*Gov. Chap. 48. In his zeal to hasten the revocation of the order stopping the payment of the 1759 money until a balance, appearing to be due from the province in the accounts of the Earl of Kinnoul, was adjusted, Mr. Bollan, upon the calculation, and showing of the books, of Messrs. Hanbury and Thomlinson, contractors for remitting money for the army, and without waiting for further evidence, admitted that the colonies had been overpaid by the contractors, and consented, as the condition of his receiving the province's share of the grant, that £735, 16s. 10d., estimated to be the province's share of this debt, should be deducted. No such debt was actually due; but it was inferred from a fictitious entry in the accounts of Mr. Apthorp, the contractors' agent in America, who had since died. This entry, it appears, was made in order to reconcile Mr. Apthorp's accounts with those of his principals, there being a difference in their accounts, of twopence per dollar, in reducing to the British denomination the money which had been shipped in dollars. Though the necessities of the province at that critical juncture seem to have justified Gov. Shirley in assuming the risk of lending government money, in 1756 (see 1755-56, chap. 27, note, and 1759-60, chap. 16, note), still, it would seem that had the transactions relating to the loan and its repayment been through the regular channels, and upon proper vouchers, all misunderstanding and delay might have been avoided.

In dealing with a case so out of the usual course, it is difficult to see how Mr. Bollan could have acted differently, in the interests of the province, and upon the only evidence that was immediately available. Nevertheless, it appears that this misunderstanding, added to the objections previously urged against him, was sufficient to defeat his re-election; and, accordingly, on the 23d of April, 1762, Mr. Jasper Mauduit was chosen to succeed him.

Richard Jackson, Junior, appointed as his substitute, to receive the money, was also recommended to Mr. Mauduit as a person proper to be consulted by him on all matters of law.

"There had been a great division in the Assembly about a proper person for agent in England. At length the majority agreed upon Jasper Mauduit, Esq., known to the principal members, as treasurer to the society for propagating the gospel among the Indians in New England and parts adjacent, and in esteem for his great integrity. It afterwards appeared that the business of the agency was managed by his brother, Israel Mauduit, Esq., a gentleman of superior talents; and the House being sensible of it, passed a vote appointing him agent for the province in the room of his brother, who had expressed his desire that such a change should be made; and a majority of the Council was disposed to a concurrence, but Governor Bernard, having a desire to introduce another person, which it would be less easy to effect after the establishment of a gentleman of Mr. Israel Mauduit's character, prevailed with the Council to non-concur the vote; and Mr. Jasper Mauduit continued at this time the agent."—*Hutchinson's Hist. Chap. 49. "I take notice of this Act only to declare that I am not unmindful of Your Lordships Orders concerning Lottery Acts, from which I hope this Act will not be considered as a departure altho' it does make some addition to the sum originally granted. Faneuil Hall (the noblest public Room in North America) was burnt down about a year and a half ago: It belonged to the Town and should have been rebuilt by a general Tax, but the great losses by fire which the Inhabitants have suffered made that method to raise the Money impracticable. The Assembly passed the Original Act to raise 2000 pounds. The Trustees immediately set about the Work in assurance that they should have leave to raise such further sum as should be wanted to compleat the Work. It was evident that the Original sum would not do: if an addition should not be made to it, the former grant must be rendered useless by the incompletion of the purpose for which it was granted. This Act was therefore necessary for carrying the original into Execution."—Gov. Bernard to Lords of Trade, May 3, 1762; "Mass. Bay. B. T.," vol. 78, L. l., 33, in Public Record Office.

AN ACT TO REVIVE AND CARRY INTO EXECUTION AN ACT, MADE IN THE THIRTY-THIRD YEAR OF THE REIGN OF HIS LATE MAJESTY GEORGE THE SECOND, INTIT[U]LED "AN ACT FOR RAISING A SUM OF MONEY BY LOTTERY, FOR DRAWING IN SUCH OF THE NOTES OR BILLS OF THE LATE LAND-BANK OR MANUFACTORY COMPANY, AS ARE YET OUTSTANDING."

Preamble. 1759-60, chap. 25.

WHEREAS, in and by an act made in the thirty-third year of the reign of his late majesty George the Second, intit[u]led, "An Act for raising a sum of money by lottery, for drawing in such of the notes or bills of the late Land-Bank or Manufactory Company, as are yet outstanding," Messieurs Joshua Henshaw, Joseph Jackson, Thomas Cushing, Samuel Hewes, John Scollay, Benjamin Austin and Andrew Oliver, jun[r]., or any three of them, were [e][i]mpowered to raise the sum of three thousand five hundred pounds by a lottery or lotteries, for the purposes therein mentioned, which lottery or lotteries were to be wholly compleated and finished within eighteen months from the first day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty; and whereas the said Joshua Henshaw, Joseph Jackson, Thomas Cushing, Samuel Hewes, John Scollay, Benjamin Austin and Andrew Oliver, jun[r]., in pursuance of said act, have caused to be drawn two classes of the said lottery, and have also issued tickets for a third class (the greatest part of the tickets whereof have been sold and disposed of), but have been unavoidably prevented drawing the said third class within the time limited by law for compleating the same, which failure must occasion great trouble and confusion, and will be of considerable detriment to the late Land-Bank or Manufactory Company, unless provided against by law; for remedy thereof,—

Be it enacted by the Governo[u]r, Council and House of Representatives.

[Sect. 1.] That the said Joshua Henshaw, Joseph Jackson, Thomas Cushing, Samuel Hewes, John Scollay, Benjamin Austin and Andrew Oliver, jun[r]., or any three of them, shall and may draw, or cause to be drawn, the said third class of the said lottery, and compleat the same according to the said act and the true intent and meaning thereof, notwithstanding the time for compleating and finishing the same is expired. Managers empowered to proceed.

Provided, nevertheless,—

[Sect. 2.] That the said lottery shall be compleated and finished on or before the first day of December next ensuing. [Passed June 12.*

AN ACT FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING THE SUM OF SEVENTY-FIVE THOUSAND POUNDS; ALSO FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF THREE THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FOUR POUNDS FIFTEEN SHILLINGS, PAID THE REPRESENTATIVES FOR THEIR TRAVEL, SERVICE AND ATTENDANCE IN THE GENERAL COURT IN THE YEAR ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-ONE; ALSO FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-ONE POUNDS THIRTEEN SHILLINGS, FOR FINES LAID UPON TOWNS THAT HAVE NOT SENT ANY PERSONS TO REPRESENT THEM IN THE GENERAL COURT THE PRESENT YEAR; AND ALSO FOR ASSESSING THE TOWN OF PRINCETOWN, FOR THE SUM OF THIRTY-ONE POUNDS ONE SHILLING AND SEVENPENCE BEING SO MUCH ORDERED BY THE GENERAL COURT TO BE ADDED TO THEIR TAX THE PRESENT YEAR, OVER AND ABOVE THEIR PROPORTION OF WHAT IS LAID ON SAID TOWN: ALL WHICH SUMS AMOUNT TO SEVENTY-EIGHT THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED AND FORTY-SEVEN POUNDS NINE SHILLINGS AND SEVENPENCE.

Whereas the great and general court or assembly of this province did, in their session in October, one thousand seven hundred and fifty-nine, levy a tax of one hundred thousand pounds; and also at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-one, did levy a further tax of forty-one thousand pounds; and at the same session, by one other act, did levy a further tax of fifty-five thousand pounds; amounting in the whole to one hundred and ninety-six thousand pounds: and, by the aforesaid acts, provision was made that the great and general court, at this present session, might apportion the same on the several towns, districts, parishes and places within this province, if they thought fit; but inasmuch as such a heavy tax will be insupportable to the inhabitants of the province, under their present distressed circumstances, and as the Parliament of Great Britain have been graciously pleased to make a grant to the colonies, of two hundred thousand pounds, sterling, to recompence them for their services and expences in the expedition for the year one thousand seven hundred and sixty, and have also made a further grant to the colonies of the sum of one hundred and thirty-three thousand three hundred and thirty-three 1759–60, chap. 8, § 4. 1761–62, chap. 15, § 3. 1761–62, chap. 4, § 3.

And be it further enacted,

Rules for assessment.

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town, district, parish or other place within this province, that are taxed, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town, district, parish or other place, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable polls, above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns, districts, parishes or other places, or next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town or place, at ten shillings per poll, and proportionably in assessing the fines mentioned in this act, and the additional sum received out of the treasury, for the payment of representatives (excepting the governor, lieutenant-governor, and their families, the president, fellows, professors, Hebrew instructor and students of Harvard College, settled ministers, and grammar-school masters, who are hereby exempted as well from being taxed for their polls, as their estates being in their own hands, and under their actual management and improvement; as also the estate pertaining to Harvard College); and other persons, if such there be, who, through age, infirmity or extreme poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not able to pay towards public charges, they may exempt their polls, or abate part of what they are set at, as, in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet.

[SECT. 3.] And the justices in their general sessions, in the respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns, districts, parishes and other places in such county, in proportion to their province rate; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and the incomes of all estates, both real and personal, lying with* the limits of such town, district, parish or other place, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession the same is or shall be found, and also the incomes or profits which any person or persons, except as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or employment whatsoever, and all profits which shall or may arise by money, or commissions of profit, in their improvement, according † their understanding or cunning, at twelvepence per pound; and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for each town, district, parish or other place to pay; and in making their assessment, to estimate houses and lands at six years' yearly rent whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all contracts between landlord and tenant, and, where no contract is, the landlord to re-imburse one-half of the tax set upon such houses and lands; and to estimate negro, Indian and mollatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment and discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings; and every cow or heifer of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; and every horse and mare of three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; and every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; goats and sheep of one year old, at three shillings each; the several creatures above mentioned, to be taxed to their respective owners or occupants, by the assessors of the towns in which the owners or occupiers dwell: likewise requiring the said assessors to make a fair list of said assessment, setting forth, in distinct columns, against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate, and income by trade or faculty, and if as guardians, or for any estate, in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly expressed; and the list or lists so perfected, and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collector, constable or constables of any such town, district, parish or place, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collector, constable or constables, with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of November next.

* Sic: within.

[Sect. 4.] And the treasurer for the time being, upon receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, or constable or constables of such town, district, parish or place, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, and to pay in their collection, and issue their accompts of the whole, at or before the thirty-first day of March, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty-three.

And be it further enacted,

Inhabitants to bring in a true list of their polls, estate, &c.

[Sect. 5.] That the assessors of each town, district, parish or other place, respectively, in convenient time before their making of the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town-meeting, or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town, district, parish or place, or notify the inhabitants some other way to give or bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, rateable estate, and income by trade or faculty, and gain by money at interest, which they are to render to the assessors on oath, if required; and if they refuse to give in an account of the money at interest, on oath, the assessors are impowered to doom them; and if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion of this tax, as near as they can, agreeable to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of said assessors, in bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town, district, parish or place where the delinquent lives, to be levied by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collectors or constables, in manner as is directed for gathering the town assessments, to be paid in to the town, district or parish treasurer for the use aforesaid: saving to the party aggrieved at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county, for relief as in the case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estates as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of general sessions, for any abatement of the assessment laid on him or them.

[Sect. 6.] And if the person be not convicted of any falseness in the list, by him presented, of the polls, rateable estate, or income by trade or faculty, business or employment, which he does or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assessed, such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax, which the assessors may not exceed.

And forasmuch as, oftentimes, sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to is finished and delivered to the constable or collectors, and, before the next year's assessment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, though, in the time of their residing here, they reaped considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Transient traders to be rated.

[SECT. 7.] That when any person or persons shall come and reside in any town within this province, and bring any merchandize, or trade, to deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby impowered to rate and assess all such persons, according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions of this act provided, though the former rate may have been finished, and a new one not perfected, as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

Merchants to be rated for carrying on trade in any town besides where they dwell.

[SECT. 8.] That when any merchant, trader or factor, shall set up a store, and traffick, or carry on any trade or business, in any town within this province, not being an inhabitant of such town, the assessors of such town where such trade and business shall be carried on as aforesaid, be and hereby are impowered to rate and assess all such merchants, traders and factors, their goods and merchandizes, for carrying on such trade and business and exercising their faculty in such town, pursuant to the rules and directions of this act: provided, before any such assessors shall rate such persons, as aforementioned, the selectmen of the town where such trade is carried on shall transmit a list of such persons as they shall judge may and ought to be rated, within the intent of this act, to the assessors of such town or district.

Selectmen to transmit the list of such persons before they are rated.

[SECT. 9.] And the constables or collectors are hereby enjoined to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assessed on persons who are not of this province, or are residents in other towns than those where they carry on their trade, and pay the same.

And whereas it has been the practice of some of the inhabitants of the town of Boston to remove to some other town in this province, and there reside for some months, to avoid paying their part of the taxes in the town of Boston, to which they really belong, to the great injury of said town,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Inhabitants of Boston who remove out of town and return in a year, to pay their tax in said town.

[SECT. 10.] That when any inhabitant of the town of Boston shall remove to any other town in this province, and shall, in one year after, remove back to said Boston, and shall have been taxed in said town, he shall be subject to pay said taxes, in like manner as he would have been had he not have removed from said Boston (saving so much as he shall be taxed in the town removed to), anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

And be it further enacted,

Treasurer empowered to issue a further warrant for an assessment, in case, &c.

[SECT. 11.] That if the treasurer shall not receive so much of the several parliamentary grants by this act appropriated for the redemption of the treasurer's notes that shall become due in June next, and the general court shall not otherwise provide for the redemption of said notes on or before the twentieth day of January next, then, and in that case, he shall issue forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors in each of the towns and districts within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of whatever sums shall be wanting of the said parliamentary grants, for the purpose aforesaid, to be paid into the publick treasury by the thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-three; and the assessors, as also all persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to, all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the then last preceeding tax act. CHAPTER 19.

AN ACT DECLARING AND REGULATING THE STANDARD OF WHEAT IMPORTED INTO THIS PROVINCE, AND FOR PREVENTING ABUSES BY MILLERS.

Preamble.

WHEREAS this province hath taken care to regulate its exports, that the subjects of our lord the king in other parts may suffer no damage by fraud and deceit, of any kind, in such exports, and justice requiring that its imports should be so regulated as that his majesty's subjects

* Signed and published February 25, 1763, according to the record and the printed acts.

here, may not suffer like damage by deceit and fraud in such imports: and whereas there having been established no standard of the weight of wheat here, and it being sold only by measure, light wheat is here imported, where it procures a like price with that of due weight, and, other markets being better regulated, this province suffers great damage and loss,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Weight of wheat, ascertained.

[Sect. 1.] That from and after the first day of July next, all wheat offered for sale shall be, when cleansed of dirt and gravel, of the following weight; to wit, light-coloured wheat shall be of the weight of fifty-eight pounds each bushel; and all other sorts of wheat shall be of the weight of sixty pounds each bushel; and if any shall be of greater weight, it shall be deemed so much better than merchantable as its weight, in the bushel, shall exceed the regulation aforesaid; and if any wheat shall be of less weight, it shall be deemed so much worse than merchantable as its weight falls short of the said regulation; and in both cases a proportionable allowance shall be made accordingly.

And be it further enacted,

Measurers of wheat to be appointed, and measures provided.

[Sect. 2.] That the court of general sessions of the peace, in each county in this province wherein are any seaport towns, shall be and they are hereby [e][i]mpowered, yearly to appoint measurers of grain in every such town (so many as they shall judge convenient) who shall each be provided, at the expence of their respective towns, with two half-bushel measures, of the Winchester standard, which shall each have on the top thereof one strip of iron crossing the same, supported by an iron studd in the center thereof; and shall also be provided, each, with proper scales and weights, at the expence of their towns, to weigh at least one bushel at a time.

[Sect. 3.] And such measurers shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their office; and at all times shall attend at the request of the buyer of any wheat, to measure the same, and shall weigh as many bushels as either the buyer or seller shall desire, and from the mean weight shall determine whether the wheat so sold be of greater or less weight than the standard weight aforesaid, and thereof shall give both to the buyer and seller a certificate of the tenor following; viz[t].,—

Form of certificate.

B—— A.D. 17 Measured bushels of wheat well cleansed, and it weighs (one bushel with another) pounds each bushel; being sold by A. B. to C. D.

E. F., measurer of grain for the town of B.

Measurer's fees.

And for such his service he shall receive one halfpenny per bushel for any quantity not exceeding twenty bushels; and if the quantity exceeds twenty bushel[l]s, and shall not be more than fifty bushels, he shall receive one halfpenny per bushel for twenty bushels, and one-third of a penny for the surplusage; and if the quantity shall exceed fifty bushels, he shall receive for the whole at the rate of one farthing, only, per bushel, and twopence for each certificate: the charge of the whole to be borne equally by the buyer and seller; and if any master of a vessel, or other importer or seller of wheat, shall refuse to have his wheat so measured, and shall expose it to sale, he shall forfeit the sum of three pounds for every such refusal.

Penalty on refusal of having wheat measured, and on measurers.

[Sect. 4.] And if any measurer of grain, appointed in pursuance of this act, shall be guilty of any fraud or deceit in measuring or weighing, and be thereof convicted, by verdict of a jury, he shall forfeit the sum of five pounds for every such default, and shall be immediately, upon such verdict, removed from his office aforesaid; and the said court of sessions, if then sitting, if not, the selectmen of the town for which such measurer shall have been appointed, shall immediately appoint another in his room: and if any such measurer shall refuse to attend his duty aforesaid, when thereto called, without reasonable cause, he shall forfeit the sum of ten shillings for every such refusal.

Preamble. And whereas, notwithstanding the many wholsome provisions already made to prevent injustice by millers, great complaints are made thereof, more especially in the towns of Boston, Roxbury and Charlestown,—

Be it enacted,

Millers to be provided with suitable stones, fans and screens. [SECT. 5.] That every miller in the towns of Boston, Roxbury and Charlestown, shall, by the last day of July in this present year, be provided with suitable mill-stones, fans and s[c][k]reens, needful for the cleansing, well-grinding, and making, good meal, out of all sorts of English grain; and shall keep them in suitable order, and shall use the same in the cleansing and grinding of such grain only, and no other grain, on penalty of the sum of ten pounds for such neglect, and the sum of two Penalty. pounds for every month he shall continue thereafter in the neglect thereof: and the selectmen of said towns, respectively, for the time being, are hereby empowered and directed to inspect the mill-stones, fans and screens used for the purpose aforesaid; and if they, or a major part of them, shall judge such mill-stones, fans [or] [and] screens unsuitable, they are hereby [e][i]mpowered and enjoined to bring an action or actions for recovery of the penalty aforesaid. And every miller in the towns aforesaid, if desired, shall weigh the grain and meal brought to and carried from his mill; and if he shall refuse so to do, for every such refusal he shall forfeit the sum of five shillings.

Provided, always,—

Proviso. [SECT. 6.] That all such dirt and gravel as shall, by the said fans and screens, be prevented mingling with the meal, shall be weighed, if the miller thinks proper, and reckoned to the owner of the grain; but if he shall not think proper to weigh the same, and the owner and miller cannot agree what allowance shall be made, such dirt and gravel shall not be reckoned to such owner: and the miller shall be allowed to take, as toll, the sixteenth part of the neat grain of all sorts by him ground, and no more, under the penalty of two pounds for each offence.

Fines, how to be disposed of. [SECT. 7.] All fines and forfeitures arising by this act, shall be one half to the poor of the town where the offence is committed, the other half to the informer; and may be recovered by bill, plaint or information, in any court of record, or before any of his majesty's justices of the peace, within this province, if the sum forfeited does not exceed forty shillings.

Continuation of the act. [SECT. 8.] This act to continue and be in force for the term of five years from the first day of July next, and until the end of the then next session of the general court, and no longer. [Passed February 17; published February 26, 1763.*

NOTES.—All the public acts of this year were printed: chapters 12 and 20 separately; and the engrossments of all the acts, public and private, are preserved, except of chapters 1, 7, 9, 10 and 12, the first four of which have been compared with the record of acts in the Secretary's office.

The following are the titles of the private acts passed this year:—

"An Act confirming the Christian name of Ann Baker of Dorchester in the County of Suffolk Widow notwithstanding the Mistake therein."—[Passed February 17; published February 26, 1763.

"An Act to enable the surviving Executors of Edward Jackson Gentleman deceased to dispose of part of his Real Estate in Shutesbury in the County of Hampshire."—[Passed February 24; published February 26, 1763.

"An Act to enable Faith Cookson Wife of Obadiah Cookson to make Sale of certain Lands in the Township of Rutland set off to her pursuant to the Will of her late Father Cornelius Waldo Esq^r."—[Passed February 24; published February 26, 1763.

The acts of the first session were duly certified for transmission, July 6, 1762. They were delivered to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, on the 28th of September following, and the next day were referred to the committee on plantation affairs, who, in turn, on the fifth of October, referred them to the Lords of Trade. No record of action upon them by the Board, has been found until November 17, when the Secretary informed the Board that they "were with S^r Matthew Lamb, for his Opinion thereupon in point of Law." This opinion was given to the Board January 10, 1763, and contained no objection to any of these acts except to chapters 4 and 8, as shown in the note to the latter chapter, post. See, also, note to 1761–62, ante.

The acts of the second session were certified for transmission, September 25, 1762. They were delivered, by order of the Lords of Trade, to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, December 14, referred, the next day, to the committee on plantation affairs, and, by the latter, referred back to the Lords of Trade, December 17, 1762.

The acts of the third session, including the private acts, were certified for transmission, March 30, 1763. They were delivered to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, June 30, and, on the seventh of July, referred to the committee on plantation affairs, who, in turn, referred them to the Lords of Trade, two days later. The Lords of Trade received them July 13, read them on the 15th, and immediately referred them to Sir Matthew Lamb. The latter reported, September 22, that he had no objection thereto in point of law, which report was read by the Board, October 14, 1763, "and no material objection or observation occurring upon them it was ordered that such of them as are not expired by their own limitation should lye by probationary until the further effect of them shall have been known."

As no record of further action has been found, on the acts of this year (excepting, perhaps, the acts incorporating towns), by the Privy Council, it is to be presumed that they received a virtual approval by lapse of time.

As it does not appear to us, whether these new Towns will by this form of Constitution be entituled to Representatives in the General Court, We shall suspend any determination upon them until We shall have received from you full information upon this point, to which end and that We may know with certainty and precision what is the constitution and practice of the Province in this case, We must desire that you will lose no time in transmitting to us an exact List of the several Towns and Places which send Representatives, distinguishing the number which each place sends when and by what authority the right of Representation was first establish'd and in what way this right takes place whether by Petition to the General Court or by direct application to the Governor.

As the knowledge of these matters is essential to His Majesty's Service, We desire you will be punctual in your obedience to our directions of the want of which in other Cases we have but too much reason to complain, not having yet received from you any answer to our General Heads of Enquiry, transmitted to you so long ago as the 28 of April 1761 and which Answers are in the present state of Affairs very materially necessary for our Information."—*Lords of Trade to Gov. "I have received your Lordships letter of Feb^{ry} 8th requiring a full information concerning the constitution of the House of Representatives of this Province. This I shall state to Your Lordships with all the precision I am able to do.

By the Charter every Town is impowred to elect two Persons to serve for and represent them in the General Assembly. But by an Act of the 4th of Will & Mary cap. 19 No Town is allowed to send two Members but what has 120 freeholders. Every Town that has 40 freeholders is obliged to send one Represent^{ve} A Town that has above 30 and under 40 freeholders may send a Representative or not as they please; A Town under 30 freeholders may send a Representative or join with the next in the choice of a Representative; Boston alone is allowed to send 4. By an Act of the 5th of Will and Mary cap. 11, the qualification of a voter is declared to be his giving oath that he is worth 40 pounds sterling or a freehold estate of 40 shillings per ann:

If according to this regulation Every Town should avail itself of its utmost power to send Representatives, the number would be very large indeed. But as the sending a Member is a burthen upon a Town instead of being exerted, it is avoided as much as possible, so that it scarce ever happens that a Town which has a right to be excused sends a representative: and of those, which are obliged by law to send one, a great many make default; that it is frequent for the House of Representatives to fine Towns for not sending Members, (see Votes pa. 12.) Your Lordships will see at the beginning of the Votes of each year a List of the Towns supposed to send Members distinguishing who have made returns and who not: These are not correct, but near so enough to form a calculation. In the list in 1762, being the last return, there appear to be 168 Towns (reckoning joint Towns as one) which are supposed to be obliged to send Members of which 64 have made default and 104 have returned: Of these last only 4 have sent more than one Member, so that there appears to be 110 (including the supernumeraries of the four Towns) Representatives returned. I will suppose that much the greater part of these Towns have a right, if they please, to send two Representatives and that there are many other Towns not named in this List which have a right to send one representative: so that the House is capable of a great increase even though there was no new settled Country to contribute to it.

I wrote to Your Lordships upon the subject in a letter dated Aug. 3. 1761 which I desire may be read, as if inserted here, for which purpose I shall enclose with this a triplicate of it. Upon account of my representations in that letter Your Lordships sent me his Majesty's relaxation of the instruction Altho' this left me at liberty to consent to incorporating Townships without any restriction yet I have observed the Instruction in all instances of carvings new Townships out of old ones, in which case I have made it a rule that the New Town should join with the old one from whence it was taken, in a Representative. An instance of this, the Town of Great Barrington lately constituted by Act will afford.

Since I have received the relaxation of the instruction, the Bills for constituting Townships in the new settled Counties have been silent in regard to their being represented; of course they are left to the Laws, which I have before stated. When one of these Towns has a sufficient number of Freeholders, it is intitled to a precept as a matter of right, But it is generally expected that they will decline that privilege as long as they can, to avoid the expence of it. In short, My Lords, it were to be wished that some proper method could be devised to limit the general number of Representatives, But it seems to me that it should be done rather by contracting those of the old Counties than by preventing a New County from being competently represented.

I don't apprehend that the difficulty of this Reform will be so great in the planning the work as in the reconciling the people to an alteration which tends to the contracting their representation. It might be done effectually by enlarging the number of freeholders that shall give a Town a right to send one Member and as for Towns that have not such a Number to join them together in chusing a Representative as many already are. The ascertaining this number will depend upon the whole number of freeholders in the Province, which I shall endeavour to learn this Summer and from thence may be calculated what number of freeholders should go to the constituting a Representative to keep the House within a proper number of Representatives."—*Gov. Chap. 9. "At last Winter Session I had before me a Bill for punishing the counterfieting Money and Treasurer's Notes, which I thought proper not to consent to. Among the reasons for my dissent one was, that the counterfieting Treasurers Notes was not made capital As in all other parts of his Majesty's Dominions, that I have observed, the Government Securities are defended from Frauds by the penalty of Death, I could not see why those belonging to this Province should not have the same Protection. And it is in my opinion that if you do not think proper to make counterfieting the Treasurers Notes a capital Offence you had better not exact any Punishment at all: For in this case it will only appear to be an Omission: in the former it will be a Publick diminution of the atrocity of the Crime—

If you shall think proper to make the counterfieting Treasurers Notes a capital Offence it will be best to do it in the Acts which impower the Treasurer to issue such Notes (as was usual with the Government Securities in England until the general Law that made all Forgery capital, pass'd) observing that the first Clause of the kind has a Retrospect to the former Acts: And in such case, it will be proper to order that notice of this penalty be engraved at the Bottom of the Copper plate—I shall leave this Bill for supplying the Treasury with Thirty five Thousand seven hundred pounds in the hands of the Secretary 'till You have determined upon the Subject of this.—Message of Gov. Bernard, to the Assembly, June 9, 1762: Council Records, vol. XXIV., p. 415.

"June 11, 1762. Thomas Cushing Esq^{r} and Others a Committee of the House of Representatives came up to his Excellency the Governor with the following Message Viz^{t}

May it please your Excellency

The House have duly attended to your Excellency's Message of the 9th Instant respecting the Punishing the Counterfieters of money, and of the Treasurers Notes: And after the most deliberate consideration thereof cannot but be of the same Sentiments respecting the Punishment of this Offence, as the two last Houses, by whom the Bill for this purpose was passed.

The House Sir is very Sensible that the crime is very atrocious and that it might be of very mischievous consequence to the Province to make a particular Provision of a punishment so inadequate as in effect to be a Public diminution of the atrocity of it. At the same time the House are very averse to a capital Punishment in any case where the interest of the Government does not absolutely require it: and as they doubt not some other Punishment than Death will be sufficient effectually to deter from the commission of this crime, they can't give their consent it should be punished with death. And as they flatter themselves the Punishment provided for in the Bill will be Sufficient for this purpose, they are very desirous the same may be tried; and are ready to originate another like Bill; and assure your Excellency that should future experience discover the Sentiments of the House to be ill founded, they should be ready themselves, and doubt not any future Assembly would be ready to inhance the Punishment so as to make it effectual to the purpose designed."—Ibid., p. 426.

Chap. 10. A grant of £200,000, to reimburse part of the expenses of all the colonies in the campaign of 1760, was voted by the House of Commons, January 20, 1761, in the same form of words used in the previous grants. Mr. Bollan, who had labored successfully to thwart a movement for reducing this grant, informed the General Court of the passage of the vote, in his letter of February 12, 1761; and he had already taken measures to have the money so apportioned as to secure for Massachusetts compensation for expenses incurred in the campaign of 1759 in excess of her proportion. This extra expense was, chiefly, the cost of maintaining garrisons at Louisbourg and Nova Scotia during the winter of 1759, and the spring of 1760, after the other troops, enlisted for the campaign, had returned home.

Gen. Amherst's returns, upon which the Lords of the Treasury had determined to make the apportionment, although repeatedly called for by Mr. Bollan, in his correspondence with the Secretary of the Province, were delayed so long that, upon the suggestion of Mr. Mauduit, after his appointment, the Lords of the Treasury consented to apportion the grant according to the number of troops and times of service, of the respective quotas, as agreed upon by the colonial agents. The agents, accordingly, agreed that £10,000 should be retained by the Lords of the Treasury, to be held for future distribution, to provide for the adjustment of the additional claim of Massachusetts when the full returns should arrive, and that, in the mean time, the remaining £190,000, should be apportioned on the basis of the returns for the previous year. Under this arrangement Mr. Mauduit received £57,602. 6s. as the share of Massachusetts. This sum was paid July 28, 1762, at the office of the Paymaster-General, instead of through the Exchequer, as formerly—a change effected by Mr. Bollan, by which something was saved in fees, and the trouble of taking part pay in tallies, avoided. A year later Mr. Mauduit wrote to the Secretary that the £10,000 was still undistributed, and that there was no likelihood that the disputes concerning it would be soon determined.

Mr. Bollan had received notice of bills overdrawn upon him to an amount exceeding £3,000, and there were still others that had not been presented; so that the amount of bills authorized to be drawn by the present act was larger than the balance remaining in Mr. Mauduit's hands, after setting aside a sum sufficient to meet liabilities already incurred.

Upon the receipt of General Amherst's returns it appeared that Pennsylvania and Connecticut had been largely overpaid in the apportionment by the Lords of the Treasury. The agent for the colony of Connecticut immediately agreed that the amount received by that colony, in excess of her proportion, ought to be deducted from that colony's share of the grant to reimburse the expenses incurred in the campaign of 1761, while the agent for Pennsylvania, as that province, according to Gen. Amherst's return, had furnished no troops for the campaign of 1761, and would, therefore, not be entitled to any portion of the next grant, upon the recommendation of the agents for all the colonies, agreed to represent the case to their constituents, "praying them that for the honor of the said colony and for supporting the credit of their agents Order might be taken to pay over in America, as soon as may be to the treasurers of the respective colonies" * * "the sum of £10,947 sterling" in the proportion agreed upon—that being the estimated amount which had been overpaid to Pennsylvania.

The whole expense to which Massachusetts had been subjected in the campaign of 1760, and towards the reimbursement of which the above apportionment was made, was carefully computed, at the time, to be £186,562, 9s. 1¾d., and, of the 5,500 men voted to be raised by this province, 4,964 actually took the field.

"June 18, 1760. The Committee are further of Opinion, that some proper persons be appointed and directed to prepare an Account, or Estimate of the Charges incurred by this Province, in the last years Expedition against Canada and particularly of the Charge occasioned by the Detention of the Provincials at Louisbourg, and Nova Scotia after the last years Campaign was over, As also of the sums advanced out of the Province Treasury, for payment of those of this Province that were employed for manning his Majesty's Ships of War, That an Estimate be made of the Expence arisen to this Province, on Account of the French Inhabitants of Nova Scotia, which have been sent hither, and been supported in great measure at the Publick Charge. And Whereas a Petition was sometime since presented to his Majesty in Council, by the Agent for this Province, Setting forth that divers Cannon, Mortars, and some Stores, which were taken from Castle William, and used in his Majesty's Service, at Oswego or on the Crown Point Expedition, were not returned, that others of the Cannon at Castle William were defective, and not to be depended on, and that for the proper strength of the Place, a greater Number of the larger Cannon was requisite, and there upon prayed, that the Cannon and Stores thence taken might be replaced, and such a Supply of Cannon and stores might be granted for Strengthening the said Castle, as to his Majesty should seem meet which Petition is still depending—The Committee are therefore of Opinion that a Plan of that Fortress, and an Account of the Ordnance there be prepared, and that the Commander in Chief of the Province, be desired to give Orders therefor, that so the same together with the Accounts and Estimates beforementioned, may be forthwith transmitted to Mr Agent Bollan, to enable him the better Sollicit and transact the Affairs of the Province in Great Britain; and that Instructions be given him accordingly.

"June 19, 1760. In the House of Representatives—Whereas this Court have appointed a Committee to prepare and liquidate the Accounts, and other Papers, proper to be sent to Mr Agent Bollan, and make report to this Court; but as its probable said Committee will not be able to make report in the present Session, and it being necessary that some of said Accompts, and other Papers should be immediately sent—Therefore Voted that his Honor the Lieutenant Governor be desired to employ some suitable Person to prepare, and liquidate such Accounts as are necessary to be immediately sent to Mr Agent Bollan, and that when said Accounts are ready, his Honour be desired to direct the Secretary to forward them, together with the other necessary Papers for his Majesty's Service.

And Whereas it has been necessary for his Majesty's Service that the Troops of this Province employed the last Year at Louisbourg, and Nova Scotia (whose time of Service expired the first of November last) should continue there, and accordingly have continued there during the Winter, and Spring past, which has occasioned a very heavy and unexpected Charge upon the Province, which it is reasonable should be wholly reimbursed out of the last Parliamentary Grant to the Colonies—Voted that his Honour be desired to cause an Account of such Charge to be prepared, Seperate from the other Accounts aforesaid and transmit the same to Mr Bollan, in order that he may Sollicit Payment for the whole of such Extra Charge out of the Parliamentary Grant aforesaid, before any part of said Grant be apportioned among the Colonies aforesaid.

"June 4, 1762. The Secretary delivered the following Message from his Excellency the Governor to the two Houses respectively viz:

Gentlemen of the Council and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives,

I must remind You, that before you rise, You should take order for the return of the money granted by Parliament for the Services of this Province for the Year 1760, into the Treasury.

Above a Year ago I explained to the General Court then sitting the advantage of drawing for their money rather than having it remitted in Specie: This advantage was great then, but it is doubled now; and will be very considerable, notwithstanding any unpunctuallities that may happen in the payments to your Agents.

I dont think that you can at present settle the whole terms of this business; but you may enable the Treasurer to draw for the money when certain advices of its being settled shall arrive.

And that there may be no occasion to call you together again for this purpose only, you may now appoint a small Committee to assist the Treasurer in fixing the Premium and other Conditions of the Bills he shall draw.

And be it further enacted,

Rules for assessment.

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town, district, parish or other place within this province that are taxed, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town, district, parish or other place, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns, districts, parishes or other places, or next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town or place, at six shillings and eightpence per poll, and proportionably in assessing the fines mentioned in this act, and the additional sum received out of the treasury, for the payment of representatives (excepting the governor, lieutenant-governor and their families, the president, fellows, professors, Hebrew instructor and students of Harvard College, settled ministers, and gramm[e][a]r schoolmasters, who are hereby exempted as well from being taxed for their polls, as their estates being in their own hands and under their actual management and improvement; as also the estate pertaining to Harvard College); and other persons, if such there be, who, thro'[ugh] age, infirmity or extreme poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not able to pay towards public[k] charges, they may exempt their polls, or abate part of what they are set at, as in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet.

[SECT. 3.] And the justices in their general sessions, in the respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns, districts, parishes and other places in such county in proportion to their province rate; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and the incomes of all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town, district, parish or other place, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession the same is or shall be found, and also the incomes or profits which any person or persons, except[ed] as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or employment whatsoever, and all profits which shall or may arise by money, or commissions of profit, in their improvement, according to their understanding or cunning, at twelvepence per pound; and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for each town, district, parish or other place to pay; and in making their assessment, to estimate houses and lands at six years' yearly rent, whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all agreements between landlord and tenant, and where no agreement is, the landlord to re-imburse one-half of the tax set upon such houses and lands; and to estimate negro, Indian and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment and discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings; and every cow or heifer of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; and every horse and mare of three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; and every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; goats and sheep of one year old at three shillings each; the several creatures above mentioned to be taxed to their respective owners or occupants, by the assessors of the towns in which the owners or occupiers dwell: likewise requiring the said assessors to make a fair list of said assessment, setting forth, in distinct columns, against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate, and income by trade or faculty; and if as guardians, or for any estate, in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly expressed; and the list or lists, so perfected and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collector, constable or constables of any such town, district, parish or place, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collector, constable or constables, with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of November next.

[Sect. 4.] And the treasurer, for the time being, upon receipt of such certificate, is hereby [e][i]mpowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, or constable or constables, of such town, district, parish or place, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, and to pay in their collection, and issue their accompts of the whole, at or before the thirty-first day of March, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty-four.

And be it further enacted,

Inhabitants to bring in a true list of their polls, estate, &c.

[Sect. 5.] That the assessors of each town, district, parish or other place, respectively, in convenient time, before their making of the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town-meeting, or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town, district, parish or other place, or notify the inhabitants some other way, to give or bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, rateable estate, and income by trade or faculty, and gain by money at interest, which they are to render to the assessors, on oath, if required; and if they refuse to give in an account of the money at interest, on oath, the assessors are [e][i]mpowered to doom them; and if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion of this tax, as near as they can, agre[e]able to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of said assessors, in bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town, district, parish or place where the delinquent lives, to be levied by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collectors or constables in manner as is directed for gathering the town assessments, to be paid in to the town, district or parish treasurer, for the use aforesaid: saving to the party aggrieved at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county, for relief as in the case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estates as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of general sessions, for any abatement of the assessment laid on him or them.

[Sect. 6.] And if the person be not convicted of any falseness in the list, by him presented, of the polls, rateable estate, or income by trade or faculty, business or employment, which he does or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assessed, such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax which the assessors may not exceed.

And forasmuch as, oftentimes, sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to is finished and delivered to the constable or collectors, and, before the next year's assessment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, tho'[ugh], in the time of their residing here, they reaped considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Transient traders, to be rated.

[SECT. 7.] That when any person or persons shall come and reside in any town within this province, and bring any merchandize, or trade to deal therewith, the assessors of such towns are hereby [e][i]mpowered to rate and assess all such persons, according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions of this act provided, though the former rate may have been finished, and a new one not perfected, as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

Merchants to be rated for carrying on trade in any town besides where they dwell.

[SECT. 8.] That when any merchant, trader or factor, shall set up a store, and traffick, or carry on any trade or business, in any town within this province, not being an inhabitant of such town, the assessors of such town where such trade and business shall be carried on as aforesaid, be and hereby are [e][i]mpowered to rate and assess all such merchants, traders and factors, their goods and merchandizes, for carrying on such trade and business and exercising their faculty in such town, pursuant to the rules and directions of this act: provided, before any such assessors shall rate such persons, as aforementioned, the selectmen of the town where such trade is carried on shall transmit a list of such persons as they shall judge may and ought to be rated within the intent of this act, to the assessors of such town or district.

[SECT. 9.] And the constables or collectors are hereby enjoined to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assessed on persons who are not of this province, or are residents in other towns than those where they carry on their trade, and pay the same.

And whereas it has been the practice of some of the inhabitants of the town of Boston to remove to some other town in this province, and there reside for some months, to avoid paying their part of the taxes in the town of Boston, to which they really belong, to the great injury of said town,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Inhabitants of Boston who remove out of town and return in a year, to pay their tax in said town.

[SECT. 10.] That wh[en][re] any inhabitant of the town of Boston shall remove to any other town in this province, and shall in one year after remove back to said Boston, and shall have been taxed in said town, he shall be subject to pay said taxes in like manner as he would have been had he not have removed from said Boston (saving so much as he shall be taxed in the town removed to), anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

And be it further enacted,

Treasurer empowered to issue a further warrant for an assessment, in case, &c.

[SECT. 11.] That if the treasurer shall not receive so much of the several parliamentary grants, by this act appropriated for the redemption of the treasurer's notes that shall become due in June next, and the general court shall not otherwise provide for the redemption of said notes on or before the twentieth day of January next, then, and in that case, he shall issue forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors in each of the towns and districts within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective part and proportion of whatever sums shall be wanting, of the said parliamentary grants, for the purpose aforesaid, to be paid into the public[k] treasury by the thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-four; and the assessors, as also all persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to, all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the then last prece[e]ding tax act. CHAPTER 11.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO THE ACTS ALREADY MADE FOR THE MORE SPEEDY EXTINGUISHMENT OF FIRE, AND PRESERVING GOODS ENDANGERED BY IT.

Whereas, in and by an act made and passed in the eighteenth year of the reign of his late majesty King George the Second, intituled "An Act for the more speedy extinguishment of fire, and preserving goods endangered by it," it is enacted that the several towns within this province may, if they see meet, at their anniversary meeting in March, annually, appoint a suitable number of persons, not exceeding ten, who shall be denominated fire-wards, whose particular business shall be to take care and govern at fires—which from time to time may break out—as in and by said act they are directed and impowered to do; and in and by an act passed in the twenty-fifth year of [the reign of] his late majesty, the town of Boston are impowered to choose, if they see fit, two persons for fire-wards, over and above the number they were impowered to choose by the act passed in the eighteenth year of the reign aforesaid; and whereas it is apprehended it would greatly serve the said town of Boston, if their numbers were still increased.— Preamble. 1744-45, chap. 30, §§ 1, 2. 1752-53, chap. 2.

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

That it shall and may be lawful for the town of Boston, who, at present, have twelve fire-wards, at any town-meeting warned for that purpose, to elect and appoint four more meet persons as fire-wards, who shall serve in that office till their anniversary meeting in March next; and from thenceforward, as they shall see cause, to choose sixteen persons for that purpose annually, who shall do the duty, and be invested with the like powers and priviledges as fire-wards in and by the said acts are invested. [Passed June 15,* 1763. Town of Boston may elect sixteen fire-wards.

AN ACT FOR CONTINUING AND AMENDING AN ACT MADE IN THE FIRST YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY, INTITLED "AN ACT FOR ALLOWING NECESSARY SUPPLIES TO THE EASTERN INDIANS, AND FOR REGULATING THE TRADE WITH THEM, AND PREVENTING ABUSES THEREIN."

Preamble. 1760-61, chap. 17.

WHEREAS an act, intitled "An Act for allowing necessary supplies to the eastern Indians, and for regulating trade with them, and preventing abuses therein," is near expiring, and it is expedient for his majesty's service that the same should be continued, with some amendments and additions thereto,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Indians to be supplied by persons appointed by the general court.

[SECT. 1.] That provisions, cloathing and other suitable supplies for a trade with the Indians, be procured with the several sums that have been, now are, or shall hereafter be granted for that purpose by the general court, and applied, from time to time, for supplying the said Indians as aforesaid, by such person or persons as shall be annually chosen by this court, who shall proceed according to the instructions they shall receive from this court, or from the commander-in-chief for the time being, by and with the advice of the council, on any emergency in the recess of this court: provided such instructions and directions be consistent with such instructions as are or may be given by the general court; and all supplies of cloathing, provisions or other necessaries shall be lodged at such places in the eastern parts of this province, and elsewhere, as the general court have ordered or may hereafter order.

And be it further enacted,

Truck-masters, how to be appointed.

[SECT. 2.] That a suitable person be appointed by this court for each of the places where any of the goods aforesaid are lodged, as truck-masters for the management of the trade with the Indians; and be paid for his service such sum or sums as this court shall judge reasonable for his allowance in said capacity; and in case of the death or removal of any one or more of said truck-masters, during the recess of the court, another shall be put in his room by the commander-in-chief, with the advice of the council; all such truck-masters shall be under oath, and give sufficient security to the province treasurer for the faithful discharge of their trust, and shall observe the instructions which, from time to time, shall be given them, and they shall not trade, either by themselves, or by any person under them, with the Indians, except it be in the capacity of a truck-master; neither may any officer or soldier, residing at or within any of the truck-houses, or any other person in the pay of this government, either on account of themselves, or any other person or persons, presume to trade with the Indians, on board any ship or vessel or transport, in those parts, for any of the aforementioned goods; nor shall it be lawful for any other person or persons to sell, truck, barter or exchange with any Indian or Indians, any strong beer, cyder, wine, rum, brandy or any other strong liquor, cloathing, or any other thing whatsoever the Indians may want, on penalty of forty shillings, or three months' imprisonment for each and every offence above mentioned.

To be under oath, and give security.

No other persons in the truck-houses permitted to trade with the Indians.

Penalty.

And be it further enacted,

Prices of goods sold the Indians, and of furs received from them, regulated.

[SECT. 3.] That the said truck-master shall sell the goods to the Indians at the prices set in the invoices sent them from time to time by the commissary, which shall be the same which he gave for the goods in the town of Boston, with a reasonable advance thereon, sufficient to pay the charge of transportation and all other charges arising thereon; and shall allow the Indians, for their furrs and peltry, as the market shall be at Boston, according to their several qualities, by the latest advices that they shall receive from the said officer, who shall send the prices to the several truck-masters at least twice in a year; viz., every spring and fall; and the truck-masters may supply the Indians with rum in moderate quantities, as they shall, in prudence, judge convenient and necessary.

[Sect. 4.] And in case any of the truck-masters shall presume to sell any goods at higher rates than they are set at by the government, or shall charge the government more for any furs or other goods than they allowed the Indians therefor, such truck-master, being convicted thereof, shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty pounds, and shall thenceforth be altogether disabled to hold or exercise any office within this government; and the more effectually to prevent or detect any such pernicious practices, each and every truck-master, when and so often as he shall settle and adjust his account with the said officers appointed by this court for supplying the Indians (which shall be at least once in a year, and oftner if required), shall make oath before the said officer, who is hereby authorized and appointed to administer the same, in manner following; viz.,—

Truck-master's oath.

You, A. B., do swear that the goods committed to you for the supply of the Indians, have been sold at no higher rate than they were set at by the government, and that you have charged for the furs and goods you have made return of, no more than you have paid the Indians for them. So help you God.

And for the better discovery of such ill-disposed persons, who, through greediness of filthy lucre, and regardless of the publick good, shall privately sell or deliver any sort of strong drink to any Indian or Indians, of which it is difficult to obtain positive evidence, other than the accusation of such Indian or Indians,—

Be it further enacted,

Method of conviction of privately selling to the Indians.

[Sect. 5.] That the accusation and affirmation of any Indian or Indians, the accuser and accused being brought face to face at the time of trial, shall be accounted and held to be a legal conviction of the persons accused of giving, selling or delivering strong drink to such Indian or Indians, unless the person accused shall acquit himself, upon oath, which the court, in all such cases, are hereby impowered to administer in the form following; viz.,—

You, A. B., do swear that neither yourself, nor any other by your order, general or particular assent, privity, knowledge or allowance, directly or indirectly, did give, sell or deliver any wine, cyder, rum or other strong liquors or drink, by what name or names soever called or known, unto the Indian by whom or whereof you are now accused. So help you God.

And be it further enacted,

Defendant may acquit himself on oath.

[Sect. 6.] That upon the complaint or information of any other person for the breach of this law, there being such circumstances as render it highly probable, in the judgment of the justice of the peace before whom the trial shall be, that the person complained of is guilty of a breach of the said act; then and in every such case, unless the defendant shall acquit himself upon oath, to be administred to him by the justice before whom the trial shall be, the same shall be accounted a legal conviction of the defendant for the breach of this law of which he or they shall be accused, and he or they shall pay and suffer the penalty already by this act provided; but in case the defendant shall acquit himself upon oath, to be administred to him as aforesaid, that then he shall recover against the complainant double his cost occasioned by such prosecution.

Preamble. And whereas many complaints have been made by the Indians, respecting the English hunters destroying beaver and other fur, also the beaver dams, and there being danger of great mischief ensuing therefrom,—

Be it therefore further enacted,

English hunters restrained from hunting beaver. [SECT. 7.] That no person or persons, other than Indians, from and after the first day of May, 1764, shall hunt or take any beaver, sables or other furs, to the northward or eastward of Saco truck-house, or the place where the said truck-house stood, except in the towns or plantations where they dwell, on penalty of forty shillings for every such offence, to be recovered by complaint to a justice of the peace, in manner aforesaid; and in case any such fur be found in the possession of any person or persons who has hunted contrary to this act, and who cannot give a satisfactory account to the justice of the peace before whom the trial may be, how they came by the same, it shall be a sufficient evidence to convict such person or persons of a breach of this act; and he or they shall forfeit the said fur and incur the penalty aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty applied. [SECT. 8.] That the fines and penalties incurred by this act shall be disposed of, one half to the informer, and the other half to be paid to the truck-master, in whose district the same may be tried, for the relief of Indian widows and children, who may most stand in need of the same.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty for false swearing. [SECT. 9.] That if any person or persons shall hereafter be convicted of false swearing in any case in this act mentioned, he or they shall be liable to the same pains and penalties as is already by law provided against wilful perjury.

Provided, nevertheless,—

Proviso for persons to trade with the Indians. [SECT. 10.] That it shall and may be lawful to and for the governor or commander-in-chief for the time being, by and with the advice of his majesty's council, to grant licences unto such persons as they shall find it necessary to trade with the Indians; such persons so licensed giving bond with sufficient bondsmen, in a competent penalty, to conform to such regulations, limitations and restrictions as the governor, with the advice of the council, shall determine.

Limitation. [SECT. 11.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of one year from the first day of May next, and to the end of the then next session of the general court, and no longer. [Passed and published February 4, 1764.

NOTES.—The General Court was adjourned to Cambridge, Jan. 16, 1764, on account of the small-pox then prevalent in Boston. The Court assembled at Cambridge, Jan. 18, and remained in session until the fourth of February.

All the acts of this year were printed: chapters 10 and 19 separately; and the engrossments of all are preserved, except of chapters 17, 19, 21, 22, 29 and 32.

The acts of the first session were certified for transmission, July 1, 1763. They were delivered to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, September 14, and, on the third of October, referred to the committee on plantation affairs, by whom, three days later, they were referred to the Lords of Trade. On the eleventh of October, the Lords of Trade sent them to Sir Matthew Lamb, for his opinion thereon, who, on the sixth of April following, reported that he had no objection to them in point of law. This report was read at a meeting of the Lords of Trade, on the second of July, 1764, when the draught of a letter to Gov. Bernard was ordered to be prepared. This letter was accordingly prepared and signed on the 13th. It contains but one reference to the acts of this session, which is printed in the note to chapter 3, post.

The acts of the second session were certified for transmission, March 8, 1764, and the letter of Gov. Bernard accompanying them, is dated March 10. Mention of them first appears in the minutes of the Lords of Trade, July 2, 1764, when they were referred to Sir Matthew Lamb; but no record has been discovered of his report thereupon. On the 16th of April, 1767, a representation was made by the Board, on such of the acts of several years, including this year, as they judged ought not to be allowed, or which, from their nature, or from the terms and conditions upon which they were passed, required the royal confirmation. In this report the suggestions which appear in the note to chapter 19, post, and the observations on the acts incorporating towns, which are given in full in the note to 1765-66, chapter 23, post,—were the only comments made on the unexpired acts of either session.

And all such Indians as shall neglect to improve their Lands, the same said Trustees shall have Power to enter upon and Lease for a Term not exceeding one Year; the Profits thereof to be improved for the sole use and benefit of said Indian or his Family, And the said Trustees, together with the Reverend Mr Hawley the present Pastor of the Church there, and his successors being Englishmen, chosen and appointed by the Commissioners for propagating the Gospel in America, and the Parts adjacent, and they only to approbate in Writing under their hands every Indenture binding out any of the Children of the Mashpee Indians; and that every Indenture not approved of by them shall be null and void.

The Committee beg leave further to offer as their opinion, That said Indians have Greatly suffered being largely credited, and prosecuted for Debt; in consequence thereof they have been distressed, their Children bound out as a Colateral Security for the Payment thereof: That therefore none of said Indians be credited, and that every Action brought against them, or any of them, shall be barred, in the case of Sickness only excepted; and in that the Court shall allow no more than shall be allowed by said Overseers or Trustees, or the Major part of them, upon the Accounts being first Audited by them, who shall be impowered to audit and examine the same:—That said Trustees, or the Major part of them, and they only, be fully authorized and impowered to determine all petty Quarrels, Contentions, Breaches of the Peace, which by Law are determinable by a Justice of the Peace, that may arise or be done by or amongst said Indians.—And that with the Consent of said Trustees or Selectmen, said Indians living at Mashpee, at a Meeting legally called for that Purpose, or the Major part of them, shall have full Power to Vote and receive any other Indians or Mollatto's into their District, to share with them in their Priviledges, and in their Common and Undivided Lands, in such Proportion as they shall think proper; Provided the same be presented to the Commissioners of the Society for propagating the Gospel in America &c[a] and consented to by them. And if any of said Indians thus admitted should remove from any Lands belonging to them, the said Commissioners be fully impowered to let out the same for a Term of Years, as they shall judge best, the Profits thereof to be improved for the use of the Mashpee Tribe of which said Indians will then be a Part.

That no White Man, upon any Pretence whatsoever, except such as may be sent by said Commissioners as Ministers or School Masters to said Indians, be allowed to inhabit or live upon any of the Indian Lands at Mashpee.—And that every white Man excepting as before is excepted, who shall presume to dwell upon said Lands in Mashpee shall be deemed a Trespasser. And said Selectmen, Trustees or Overseers shall have good Right, full Power and lawful Authority, and be enjoined to prosecute all such Trespassers to final Judgment and Execution.

Lastly. That the Lines between Mashpee and the adjoining Towns, which have not been run this twenty six Years be perambulated by such Persons on the part of the Indians, not living in either of the adjoining Towns, as the Wisdom of this Court shall appoint; and that the adjoining Towns be ordered to perambulate accordingly.

The foregoing Proposals, if accepted; Your Committee are fully convinced will settle the Indians there in great Peace, will greatly increase their Numbers and reform their Manners; and is what We humbly apprehend ought to be done for them. And that without it, we fear much Trouble will be given to the Court Annually, or elsewhere.

All which is humbly Submitted

Chap. 19. "This Act differs from the former in the following particular; instead of 'excepting such goods as are the product or manufacture of Great Britain' as in the former Act at the end of the second section, it stands now 'excepting such Goods as are imported from Great Britain.' This alteration is for the advantage of the trade of Great Britain, as now all goods coming from Great Britain are exempt from these duties whether they are the product or Manufacture of Great Britain or not. And no disadvantage can arise from British product or Manufactures transported from other Colonies being subject to these Duties, as no such goods can be imported here to any purpose. If any goods are imported here as such, they must really be Foreign goods, made like to those of Britain; of which many kinds may be reckoned up, some of which will get in here as British goods, if they can find a passage to other Colonies.

There is also a small alteration of the oath in the 7th section: instead of 'sterling value' and 'than that value,' it now stands 'present value' and 'than the real value' a difference quite immaterial.'—Gov. Bernard to Lords of Trade; Mar. 10, 1764: 'Mass. Bay, B.T.,' vol. 78, L. l., 69, in Public-Record Office.

* Sic: many.

"The first of these is an Annual Act of the Province and does appear to us to be in no other respect objectionable than as it directs a double Impost to be paid for all Goods in general imported by the Inhabitants of other Colonies, by which means it might so happen that Goods imported from Great Britain and coming thro' the Channel or intervention of other Colonies would be subjected to the payment of the duties of Impost as upon foreign Commodities.

If this Objection therefore seems to Your Majesty to have weight, We would humbly propose an Instruction to be given to Your Majesty's Governor of the said Province for procuring an amendment to be made in this particular Clause exempting from Duties of Impost all British Goods coming thro' the Channel of any of the other Provinces or Colonies on this Continent or of the British West India Islands, to which likewise it may be expedient to annex an exception in favour of all such foreign goods and merchandize as shall be imported from Great Britain either directly or thro' the intervention of other British Colonies, provided such Foreign Goods &c[a] have paid the Duties in Great Britain."—Report of Lords of Trade, Apr. 16, 1767: "Plant[s] General, B.T.," vol. 42, p. 91, in Public-Record Office.

Chap. 20. "June 10, 1763. A Petition of A number of the Inhabitants in and about that part of the Town of Newbury called the Waterside—Setting forth the extensiveness of the said Town which renders it very proper that it should be divided, and as the Inhabitants of one Part of said Town are mostly Farmers, and of the other principally Merchants, Tradesmen, and Sea faring Persons; and as the Intrests of said Parties are so different, and in some respects opposite, Praying that they may be divided and separated by such Bounds & Limits, as this Court shall think proper, and that they would appoint a Committee to determine the same.

"At the end of the last Session an Act passed for dividing the Town of Newbury into two to be called Newbury and Newbury Port. It has been a constant rule with me in dividing old Towns to take care that the number of Representatives should not be increased. This has generally been done by providing that the two new Towns created out of one old Town should join in the election of Representatives in the same manner as if they had not been separated, But in the present case for good reasons it was ordered otherwise: The old Town of Newbury had always sent two Members and as of the two New Towns the one was composed of Husbandmen and the other of Merchants and therefore their interests would be different, It was thought best that each should send one Member only, instead of both joining in sending two, And so it was enacted.

Nevertheless upon the new elections of the present Assembly, the Town of Newbury returned two Members, This was so barefaced a violation of the Law but just passed, that I thought I could not avoid taking notice of it. I accordingly directed the Commissrs appointed to administer the Oaths to the House not to swear the two Members for Newbury. This produced, as I expected it would, a remonstrance from the House by a Committee, complaining of a breach of priviledge for not leaving to them the judgment of the validity of the Elections of their own Members. I told them that I did not desire to impeach their priviledges, nor did imagine that I had done it in this instance, That the Act which gave the House the cognizance of the validity of election must be confined to matters that were doubtful or disputable in some degree, But where a return appeared upon the face of it to be contrary to law, it was no return and ought to be rejected in the first instance. That I was obliged to take notice of this by the practice of the house which was to postpone the consideration of the returns till after the first day, by which means all persons returned, tho' ever so illegally had a vote in the election of Councillors, And if the Governor could not reject returns that were illegal on the face of them and the House would not inquire into them before they entered upon business, it followed that any Number of pretended Members might be poured in to serve a particular purpose in the election of Councillors who would be content to be rejected after they had done the business they came for. If this was the Law, it was high time it should be animadverted upon. Upon which several Gentlemen present, who had been speakers in former Assemblies, declared that it was the old usage to examine the returns before they did any business and that the postponing it was a very late practice, And the Committee of the House all except one said that they believed that the House would, as soon as they were sworn, immediately proceed upon enquiring into this return. Upon which I told them that, in confidence that they would do so, I would withdraw my caution and let them proceed in their own way. Nevertheless the House upon debate postponed the consideration of this election and left the two Members of Newbury at liberty to vote for Councillors, altho' as I have been told, they did not actually vote. So that it is now established by formal precedent, that pretended Members, tho' their return be ever so notoriously illegal, will have the liberty to vote for Councillors, before their return is disallowed.

If the present method of constituting the middle Legislative Body is to be permanent, it will be proper that it should be secured from being abused as much as is possible. Its natural and constitutional imperfection which has been continually increasing, is enough: new and adventitious disadvantages need not be added. I must therefore desire your Lordship's directions how I am to act upon a future occasion of the like kind: for if a notion should prevail that all persons returned as Members whether legally or not, will have a vote for Councillors, before their right of sitting at all can be determined, It is obvious to me, that advantage will be taken of such a laxity in the Government to serve occasional purposes."—Gov. Bernard to Lords of Trade, June 29, 1764: "Mass. Bay, B.T.," vol. 79, M.m., 5, in Public-Record Office.

"June 1, 1762. The Committee appointed to consider the Petition of the Indians at Stockbridge made the following Report viz^{t} The Committee having considered the said Petition and the Arguments in support of it at a hearing before the Houses are humbly of opinion That there has not been sufficient Evidence offered to support the Indian Title to the Lands referred to in the said Petition, That the Indians have for many Years past laid claim to Lands in the Western parts of the Province, and when Grants have been made of Townships in that part of the Province, Gratuities have been frequently made to the Indians to prevent discontents and keep them quiet. That divers Persons have lately in an irregular manner made Purchases of the Indians and paid them large sums of money, which Purchases the Committee are of opinion ought not to be countenanced by the Government. The Committee are therefore of opinion that although in strict Justice nothing is due from the Government to the Indians, they not having shown any Title to the Lands in their Petition mentioned; yet inasmuch as Gratuities have been made to them in the like cases heretofore; and it may be of importance to the Public to keep the Indians quiet and in good temper that therefore a sum of money not exceeding One Thousand pounds be deposited in the hands of a Committee of this Court for the use of the said Indians to be applied as shall appear to the said Committee to be equitable, the said Indians before such application be made, relinquishing all Claim to any of the Lands of the Province to which they pretend a title. The Committee are further of opinion that the Committee of this Court appointed to make Sale of the Lands in the Western parts of the Province should proceed as ordered. Chap. 32. "This Act has been continued from time to time for several years, with occasional additions or omissions. It is now made as comprehensive and effectual as ever, at my desire, who have made myself acquainted from the Indians themselves, with the great abuses and dangerous mischiefs of the English trading with the Indians and hunting in their Territories; of which I gave the Assembly several proofs from recent facts.

At the end of this Act is a new Clause impowering the Governor with the advice of the Council to Grant Licences to persons to trade with the Indians. This was inserted at my desire that the Act might not seem to contradict his Majesty's late Proclamation. But there will be no occasion to make use of this Power until our Settlements in the Eastward are extended farther than they are at present or are like to be for some time. For all the Eastern Indians that communicate with this Province are so few, that the two public truckhouses at Fort Halifax & Fort Pownall are more than enough to supply them with all they want. Nor would it be worth the while of this Government to support those truckhouses for the advantage of the trade only, which by no means pays its own expences; the preventing the mischiefs of the private Indian trade is by much the chief consideration of keeping up these truckhouses, And I am convinced that if a private Indian trade was to be generally allowed, it would be impossible to keep the Country in peace."—*Gov. AN ACT FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF FIFTY THOUSAND POUNDS; ALSO, FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF EIGHTEEN HUNDRED AND FORTY-NINE POUNDS TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE, PAID THE REPRESENTATIVES FOR THEIR TRAVEL, SERVICE AND ATTENDANCE IN THE GENERAL COURT IN THE YEAR ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-THREE; ALSO, FOR ASSESSING THE TOWNS OF SUNDERLAND AND MONTAGUE THE SUM OF TWENTY-SIX POUNDS TWELVE SHILLINGS, BEING SO MUCH LAID UPON NEW SALEM, FOR THEIR PART OF THE CHARGE OF A REPRESENTATIVE SENT FROM SUNDERLAND, AFTER THEY WERE DISCHARGED FROM PAYING ANY SUM FOR THAT PURPOSE, WHICH SUM IS ORDERED BY THE GENERAL COURT TO BE ADDED TO SUNDERLAND AND MONTAGUE TAX THE PRESENT YEAR; ALSO, TO ASSESS THE TOWN OF LEXINGTON THE SUM OF FIFTY POUNDS SIXTEEN SHILLINGS AND ONE PENNY, TRANSFERRED TO SAID TOWN FROM THE TOWN OF LINCOLN, BEING SO MUCH WHICH THE TOWN OF LINCOLN HAS PAID, MORE THAN THEIR JUST PROPORTION, AND WHICH SHOULD HAVE BEEN LAID UPON THE TOWN OF LEXINGTON; ALSO, TO ASSESS THE TOWN OF BELCHERTOWN THE SUM OF SIX POUNDS TWO SHILLINGS AND NINEPENCE, BEING SO MUCH THAT THE TOWN OF GREENWICH WAS TAXED, THROUGH MISTAKE, MORE THAN THEIR PROPORTION, AND WHICH SHOULD HAVE BEEN LAID UPON BELCHERTOWN; ALL WHICH TAXES ARE TO BE OVER AND ABOVE THEIR PROPORTION OF WHAT IS LAID UPON SAID TOWNS; ALL WHICH SUMS AMOUNT TO FIFTY-ONE THOUSAND EIGHT HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-ONE POUNDS SEVENTEEN SHILLINGS AND THREEPENCE.

WHEREAS the great and general court or assembly of this province, by an act made and passed at their session in May, one thousand seven

1761-62, ch. 50, § 4. upon and ordered a further tax of twenty thousand and three hundred pounds; and by another act, made and passed at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-three, agreed upon and ordered
1763-64, ch. 16, § 4. a further tax of forty-one thousand and thirty-one pounds and four shillings; amounting in the whole to one hundred and eighty-seven thousand three hundred and thirty-one pounds and four shillings: and whereas by the acts aforesaid provision is made that the general court, at this present session, might apportion the same on the several towns, districts, parishes and places within this province, if they should think fit; yet inasmuch as such a heavy tax will be insupportable to the inhabitants of this province, under their present distressed circumstances, and as the parliament of Great Britain have been graciously pleased to make a grant to the colonies of one hundred and thirty-three thousand three hundred and sixty-three pounds six shillings and eightpence, to recompence them for their services and expences in the expedition for the year one thousand seven hundred and sixty-two; of which sum, this province's proportion, when drawn for by the province, or otherwise received into the treasury, with the tax of fifty thousand pounds, now agreed to be assessed and levied this year, together with the other provision now made therefor by this court, will be sufficient to redeem

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

[Sect. 1.] That each town, district, parish or other place within this province be assessed and pay, as such town, district, parish and place's proportion of the sum of fifty-one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one pounds seventeen shillings and threepence, the several sums following; that is to say,—

[Sect. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town, district, parish or other place within this province, that are taxed, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town, district, parish or other place, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns, districts, parishes or other places, or next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town or place, at six shillings and eightpence per poll, and proportionably in assessing the additional sum paid out of the treasury to the representatives, for their travel and attendance aforesaid (excepting the governor, lieutenant-governor and their families, the president, fellows, professors, Hebrew instructor and students of Harvard College, settled ministers and grammar-school masters, who are hereby exempted as well from being taxed for their polls, as their estates being in their own hands, and under their actual management and improvement; as also the estate pertaining to Harvard College); and other persons, if such there be, who, through age, infirmity or extreme poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not able to pay towards public charges, they may exempt their polls or estate, or abate part of what they are set at, as in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet. Rules for assessment.

[Sect. 3.] And the justices in their general sessions, in the respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns, districts, parishes and other places in such county, in proportion to their province rate; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and the incomes of all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town, district, parish or other place, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession the same is or shall be found; and also the incomes or profits which any person or persons, except as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or employment whatsoever, and all profits which shall or may arise by money, or commissions of profit, in their improvement, according to their understanding or cunning, at twelvepence per pound; and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for each town, district, parish or other place to pay; and in making their assessment, to estimate houses and lands at six years' yearly rent whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all agreements between landlord and tenant, and when no agreement is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax set upon such houses and lands; and to estimate negro, Indian and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment and discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings; every cow or heifer of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; and every horse and mare of three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; and every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; goats and sheep of one year old and upwards, at three shillings each; the several creatures above mentioned to be taxed to their respective owners or occupants, by the assessors of the towns in which the owners or occupants dwell: likewise requiring the said assessors to make a fair list of said assessment, setting forth, in distinct columns, against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate, and income by trade or faculty; and if as guardians, or for any estate, in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly expressed; and the list or lists so perfected, and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collector, constable or constables of any such town, district, parish or place, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collector, constable or constables, with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of November next.

[SECT. 4.] And the treasurer, for the time being, upon receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, or constable or constables of such town, district, parish or place, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, and to pay in their collection, and issue their accompts of the whole, at or before the thirtieth day of March, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty-five.

And be it further enacted,

Inhabitants to bring in a true list of their polls, estate, &c.

[SECT. 5.] That the assessors of each town, district, parish or other place, respectively, in convenient time before their making of the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town-meeting or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town, district, parish or place, or notify the inhabitants some other way, to give or bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, rateable estate, and income by trade or faculty, and gain by money at interest, which they are to render to the assessors, on oath, if required; and if they refuse to give in an account of the money at interest, on oath, the assessors are impowered to doom them; and if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion of this tax, as near as they can, agreeable to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of said assessors, in bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town, district, parish or place where the delinquent lives, to be levied by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collectors or constables in manner as is directed for gathering the town assessments, to be paid in to the town, district or parish treasury, for the use aforesaid: saving to the party aggrieved at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county, for relief as in the case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estates as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of general sessions, for any abatement of the assessment laid on him or them.

[SECT. 6.] And if the person be not convicted of any falseness in the list, by him presented, of the polls, rateable estate, or income by trade or faculty, business or employment, which he does or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assessed, such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax which the assessors may not exceed.

And forasmuch as, oftentimes, sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize into the same, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to is finished and delivered to the constable or collectors, and, before the next year's assessment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, tho', in the time of their residing here, they reaped considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Transient traders to be rated.

[Sect. 7.] That when any person or persons shall come and reside in any town within this province, and bring any merchandize, or trade to deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby impowered to rate and assess all such persons, according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions of this act provided, though the former rate may have been finished, and a new one not perfected, as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

Merchants to be rated for carrying on trade in any town besides where they dwell.

[Sect. 8.] That when any merchant, trader or factor, shall set up a store, and traffick, or carry on any trade or business, in any town within this province, not being an inhabitant of such town, the assessors of such town where such trade and business shall be carried on as aforesaid, be and hereby are impowered to rate and assess all such merchants, traders and factors, their goods and merchandizes, for carrying on such trade and business and exercising their faculty in such town, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act: provided, before any such assessors shall rate such persons, as aforementioned, the selectmen of the town where such trade is carried on shall transmit a list of such persons as they shall judge may and ought to be rated, within the intent of this act, to the assessors of such town or district.

Selectmen to transmit a list of such persons before they are rated.

[Sect. 9.] And the constables or collectors are hereby enjoined to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assessed on persons who are not of this province, or are residents in other towns than those where they carry on their trade, and pay the same.

And whereas it has been the practice of some of the inhabitants of the town of Boston to remove to some other town in this province, and there reside for some months, to avoid paying their part of the taxes in the town of Boston, to which they really belong, to the great injury of said town,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Inhabitants of Boston who remove out of town, and return in a year, to pay their tax in said town.

[Sect. 10.] That when any inhabitant of the town of Boston shall remove to any other town in this province, and shall, in one year after, remove back to said Boston, and shall have been taxed in said town, he shall be subject to pay said taxes, in like manner as he would have been had he not removed from said Boston (saving so much as he shall be taxed in the town removed to), anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding. CHAPTER 19.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT INTITLED "AN ACT FOR ENABLING THE PROPRIETORS OF THE LANDS IN THE TOWN OF BERNARDSTON TO RAISE MONIES TO PAY THE DEBTS DUE FROM THEM."

Preamble. 1764-65, chap. 8.

WHEREAS, in pursuance of an act intitled "An Act for enabling the proprietors of the lands in the town of Bernardston to raise monies to pay the debts due from them," a meeting of said proprietors was held on the twenty-sixth of September last—which said meeting stands adjourned to the twentieth day of February, this present year,—and the said proprietors were impowered, at their meeting, to pass such votes as might appear necessary for the granting, raising, assessing, levying and collecting such sums as they are indebted, together with such further sums as they might think proper for defreying the expences which are mentioned in the said act; but no provision is made in the said act to enable the said proprietors to call to an account their collectors and treasurers; and it appears that several taxes have been granted, assessed and committed to the collectors to collect, which have been only partially collected, and considerable sums of money paid in to their treasurers, which have not been accounted for,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Committee to call to account former collectors of taxes and treasurers:

[SECT. 1.] That the said proprietors, at the time to which their meeting stands adjourned; to wit, on the twentieth day of February, this present year,—or at any after adjournment of the said meeting, be and hereby are fully authorized and impowered to choose a committee to call to an account all former collectors and treasurers of the said proprietors, or their heirs, respectively, in the same manner as the said proprietors might have done, by law, before they were incorporated into a town; and the same committee is further impowered to compleat the collections of all former taxes, and to proceed in such manner as is provided in an act intitled "An Act to subject the unimproved lands within this province, to be sold for the payment of taxes," made in the second year of his present majesty's reign.

Preamble.

And whereas, by a resolve of the general court heretofore made, the proprietors were directed to raise their taxes upon their lands that were to be laid out in two draughts, which were to be laid out in pitches; some of which are laid out, others the particular proprietors neglect to lay out, and by that means they will escape paying the proportion of taxes, unless provision be made therefor by this court,—

Be it therefore further enacted,

Lands to be taxed though not laid out.

[SECT. 2.] That in all future taxes raised on said proprietors, the assessors shall, from time to time, tax the proprietors' lands, in said division or draughts, not laid out, in the same manner as those already laid out; and the method of collecting the taxes on said draughts, in case the owners fail of duly paying their taxes, shall be the same as by law provided in other cases, except such wherein the whole draught shall be sold for payment of any tax; in which case the overplus of the sale, if any be, after the tax and all reasonable charges are deducted, shall, within three months from the sale, upon demand thereof, be reimbursed by the assessors to the owner of the draught so sold. [Passed February 14, 1765.

CHAPTER 22.

AN ACT FOR INCORPORATING A NEW PLANTATION IN THE COUNTY OF WORCESTER, CALLED AND KNOWN BY THE [*NAME] OF DORCHESTER-CANADA, INTO A TOWN BY THE NAME OF ASHBURNHAM.

Preamble.

Whereas the inhabitants of the plantation called and known by the name of Dorchester-Canada [*labour und]er many difficulties and inconvenienc[i]es by reason of their not being incorporated; therefore, for the remov[e]al [*thereof],—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Ashburnham made a town, by certain bounds.

[Sect. 1.] That the planta[*tion comm]only known by the name of Dorchester-Canada, according to the bounds of the original grant thereof, made by [*the gen]eral court the first day of June, 1736, being as follows; viz[t]., a tract of land of six miles square, bounding, [*sout]herly, on the Narraganset[t] township, No. 2; westerly, on a township laid out for Tilton† and others; northerly, on a township laid out for Ipswich; and easterly, part on Townsend and part on Lunenbourg; it begins at a hemlock, the north-easterly corner of the said Narraganset[t] town, and runs, west, eighteen degrees south, seven miles, wanting twenty rods; from thence, north, twelve degrees east, eight miles and two hundred rods; and from thence, east, twelve degrees sou[*th], seven miles and one hundred perch; from thence, southerly, by said Townsend line, one thousand one hundred and tw[*enty] rods; and, by Lunenbourg line, six hundred and twenty rods, to where it first began: and the inhabitants of the sa[*me] plantation, together with all the lands and farms included within the same boundaries, be and hereby are incorporated into a town by the name of Ashburnham; and that the same town be and hereby is vested with all the powers, privile[d]ges and immunities that any other of the towns in this province do or may by law exercise and enjo[*y].

Preamble.

And whereas it is agreed, between the inhabitants of the plantation aforesaid and the proprietors of the common and undivided lands there, that a tax of three halfpence an acre be laid upon all the lands within the same (excepting Cambridge farm, the lands allotted and reserved for the ministry, the first minister there, and the school) for the space of three years from the five-and-twentieth day of January, [Passed February 22, 1765.

CHAPTER 23.

AN ACT FOR REBUILDING THE GREAT BRIDGE OVER THE GREAT RIVER, IN THE TOWN OF WESTFIELD IN THE COUNTY OF HAMPSHIRE, AND MAINTAINING THE SAME.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the great bridge, built by the town of Westfield, in the county of Hampshire, over the great river there, a little below the mills commonly called Weller's Mills, has, by the violence of the stream, lately been carried away and destroyed; and it appearing that a bridge there, is necessary, not only for the inhabitants of the said town of Westfield, but also for the other towns in the said county of Hampshire; and whereas the charge of rebuilding and maintaining the said bridge would be too great a burthen on the inhabitants of the said town of Westfield, considering how many other bridges they are obliged to build and maintain in the said town,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

The town of Westfield to be assisted by the county of Hampshire in building and repairing their great bridge.

That when and so often as the said town of Westfield shall make application to the court of general sessions of the peace, in and for the said county of Hampshire, for assistance to enable them to build and maintain a cart-bridge, of sixteen feet wide, across the great river, in said town, at or near the place where the last bridge stood, below the mills commonly called by the name of Weller's Mills, the court of general sessions of the peace aforesaid be and hereby are impowered and authorized to tax the inhabitants of the several towns and districts in the county aforesaid, or so many of them as they shall think reasonable, in such sum or sums as the said court shall agree upon from time to time, and to be added to each town's proportion of the county tax, and to be paid into and drawn out of the county treasury for the uses and purposes aforesaid. [Passed February 27, 1765.

CHAPTER 24.

AN ACT TO PREVENT THE DESTRUCTION OF SALMON AND OTHER FISH IN MERRIMACK RIVER, WITHIN THIS PROVINCE.

Preamble.

Whereas the salmon and other fish taken in Merrimack River, within this province, have been of great service to the inhabitants, and still will be so if due care is taken to prevent the unnecessary destruction thereof; and whereas, by the constant fishing with seines, nets and pots, and by erecting weares and other incumbrances, there, to prevent the passage and facilitate the taking of the fish, they are greatly diminished, and there is danger of their being wholly destroyed; therefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Salmon to be taken only three days in a week in Merrimack River, after 15th March, annually.

[Sect. 1.] That no person or persons, whatsoever, be allowed, from and after the fifteenth day of March next, and so during the continuance of this act, to catch salmon, or other fish of any kind, with sienes, nets, pots, or in any other way, in any part of Merrimack River, within this province, or in any of the rivers and streams running into Merrimack River, ofther than three days in the week,—the days to be Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in every week; and if any person or persons shall presume to catch fish there at any other times than hereby is allowed, every person or persons so offending shall, for each offence, forfeit and pay the sum of forty shillings; and the same net or pot used in such fishing shall be forfeited.

Penalty.

And be it further enacted,

Wears, &c., erected, accounted nuisances.

[Sect. 2.] That all weares, fences and other incumbrances now erected, or that hereafter shall be erected, in any part of Merrimack River, within this province, for the stopping the course of the fish, or to facilitate the taking of the fish by seines, nets, pots or otherwise, be deemed common nuisances, and as such shall be pulled down and demolished; and all persons that hereafter shall erect any such weares, fences or other incumbrances, or that shall continue such already erected, on due conviction thereof, shall forfeit and pay the sum of three pounds.

Forfeiture, on conviction.

Preamble.

And whereas it is found that fishing at the mouths or entrance of the rivers and streams that run into Merrimack River, and in the ponds that empty themselves into it, and in the brooks and rivulets that run into the said ponds, prevents the said fish from going into the said rivers and streams, and so into the ponds above, to cast their spawn, and tends to destroy the increase of said fish; therefore,—

Be it enacted,

No fish to be taken at the mouths of rivers, &c., running into Merrimack River, after 15th March.

[Sect. 3.] That no person or persons, from and after the said fifteenth day of March, shall, at any time during the continuance of this act, catch any salmon, shad or alewives, with seines, nets or pots, at the mouth or entrance of any such river or stream, or within one hundred rods of the same, nor in any of the ponds aforesaid, nor in any of the brooks or rivulets that run into the said ponds, on pain of forfeiting for each offence the sum of three pounds.

Preamble.

And whereas many persons who live out of this province, constantly fish in that part of Merrimack River that is within this province, at the proper seasons of fishing, and some provision ought to be made for the recovering of such persons the penalties inflicted by this act, if they offend against it,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Justice may issue his warrant for apprehending

[Sect. 4.] That, on complaint made to any justice of the peace for the county where any offence against this act shall be committed, against any person or persons for the breach of this act, or upon view offenders not inhabitants of the province.

of any justice, such justice is hereby impowered to issue his warrant to apprehend such offender or offenders, and cause them to find sufficient sureties for their appearance at the then next court of general sessions of the peace for the county, to answer for their said offence; and on failure of finding sureties as aforesaid, to commit them to the common goal for the county; and such justice is also required to bind over the witnesses against such offending person.

And be it further enacted,

Towns bordering on Merrimack River, to choose persons to see to the observation of this act.

[SECT. 5.] That every town in this province, bordering on Merrimack River, and in which there are any ponds, streams or rivers emptying themselves into Merrimack River, where salmon, shad or alewives are taken, shall, during the continuance of this act, at their annual March meeting, choose two suitable and fit persons to see that this act is duly observed, and to inform against any person that shall offend against it, who shall be sworn to the faithful discharge of their duty; and if any person, chosen as aforesaid, shall refuse to be sworn, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of forty shillings, for the use of the poor of the town, to be recovered by the town treasurer; and such town shall proceed to a new choice.

And be it further enacted,

Fines and forfeitures, how to be recovered:

[SECT. 6.] That all fines and forfeitures incurred by any breach of this act shall be recovered, by action or information, in any of his majesty's courts of record, where other method of recovery is not directed; and all offences for fishing or obstructing the course of the fish, contrary to this act, shall and may be presented by the grand jurors for the respective counties where the offence is committed; and the said grand jurors are hereby enjoined diligently to enquire after, and duly to present, such offences.

And be it further enacted,

—how to be applied.

[SECT. 7.] That the fines and forfeitures incurred by offending against this act, where not otherwise disposed of, shall be paid to the treasurer of the county where the offence is committed, to be appropriated for the payment of the necessary county charges, except where any person commences a prosecution, by action or information; and in that case one-half of the forfeiture shall go to the prosecutor.

Provided, always,—

Proviso, with respect to Concord River.

[SECT. 8.] This act shall not be construed to affect the fishing in Concord River (except the clause respecting the fishing at the mouths or entrance of the rivers and streams that run into Merrimack River), but that the inhabitants of Concord and Sudbury may erect weares within their respective towns for taking fish in said river: provided they fish only three days in each week; viz., Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday; and the inhabitants upon and at the mouth of said river may take fish, with seines or nets, two days in each week; viz., Tuesday and Thursday: and that said weares be kept open, and said fishing with seines or nets cease the rest of the time.

Limitation.

[SECT. 9.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the publication of it, and no longer. [Passed February 28, 1765.

CHAPTER 25.

AN ACT TO PREVENT THE DESTRUCTION OF OYSTERS IN THE SEVERAL BAYS AND RIVERS HEREAFTER MENTIONED, WITHIN THIS PROVINCE.

Preamble.

Whereas it hath been the practice for some years past for persons to come, with their vessels and boats, into the rivers and bays lying either in the towns of Wellfleet, Freetown, Swanzey, Dartmouth, Barnstable, Yarmouth, and in other of the bays, ports and rivers in this province, then and there to rake the oyster-beds, carry away from thence large quantities of oysters, by means whereof said beds are almost destroyed, to the great prejudice both of the English and Indian inhabitants living in or near to the towns aforesaid; for remedy whereof,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

No person to sweep any oyster-beds without leave from the selectmen, &c.

[Sect. 1.] That if any person or persons shall, at any time after the twenty-fifth of March next, presume to take any oysters, or to rake or sweep any of the oyster-beds, lying either in the rivers or bays in either of the towns of Wellfleet, Freetown, Swanzey, Dartmouth, Barnstable, Yarmouth, or in any of the bays, ports or rivers in this province, without leave first had and obtained from the selectmen, or the major part of them, in writing, under their hands, in such town where the oysters may be taken, or where the beds may be raked or sweeped, as aforesaid, every person so offending shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding ten pounds, nor under forty shillings, to be recovered by action, information or presentment of a grand jury in any of his majesty's courts of record proper to try the same: unless the prosecutor shall see cause to bring the tryal before a justice of the peace, in which case the justice may try the same; and the fine shall be forty shillings, and no more, one-third thereof to and for the use of him that shall inform or sue for the same, the other two-thirds for the use of the poor of the town where the offence shall be committed.

Penalty.

Provided, nevertheless,—

Proviso, for inhabitants to take for their own eating.

[Sect. 2.] Nothing in this act shall be understood to hinder any inhabitant in this province from taking oysters for their own eating, or for market in their own town, without leave from the selectmen, as aforesaid: provided the same be not sent out of the province.

Limitation.

[Sect. 3.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of three years from the twenty-fifth of March next, and no longer. [Passed February 28, 1765.

CHAPTER 27.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO, AND IN EXPLANATION OF, TWO ACTS MADE AND PASSED IN THE PRESENT YEAR OF HIS MAJESTY'S REIGN, THE ONE, INTITLED "AN ACT FOR DETERMINING THE TIMES FOR HOLDING THE SUPERIOR COURT OF JUDICATURE, COURT OF ASSIZE AND GENERAL GOAL DELIVERY IN THE SEVERAL COUNTIES WITHIN THIS PROVINCE;" THE OTHER, INTITLED "AN ACT DETERMINING AT WHAT TIMES AND PLACES THE SEVERAL INFERIOR COURTS OF COMMON PLEAS AND COURTS OF GENERAL SESSIONS OF THE PEACE SHALL BE HELD WITHIN AND FOR THE SEVERAL COUNTIES OF THE PROVINCE, FOR THE FUTURE."

Preamble.

Whereas, in and by an act made and passed in the present year of his majesty's reign, intitled "An Act for determining the times for holding the superior court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery in the several counties within this province," it is, among other things, enacted as follows; viz., "That all appeals, writs of review, recognizances, warrants, processes, matters or things whatsoever, returnable to, or which might have been proceeded on, adjudged and determined at, any court, the time for holding which is altered by this act, shall be in like manner returnable to, and may in like manner be proceeded on, adjudged and determined at, the court in the same county to be holden next after by virtue of this act;" and in and by another act, made and passed in the present year of his majesty's reign, intitled "An Act determining at what times and places the several inferior courts of common pleas and courts of general sessions of the peace shall be held within and for the several counties in the province for the future," it is, among other things, enacted as follows; viz., "That all original writs, summons, warrants, recognizances, executions, processes, matters or things of what kind soever, returnable to, or which might have been adjudged, determined or acted upon at, any court, the time for holding of which is altered by this act, shall be in like manner returnable to, adjudged, determined and acted upon at, the court in the same county to be holden next after by virtue of this act;" and whereas it may be doubtful whether the said clauses, or either of them, extend to the service of executions which are returnable to any court the time for holding which is altered by the said acts, after the day when, by law, such executions would have been returnable if the said acts had not passed,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Service of executions rendered valid, the alteration of the times for holding the several courts notwithstanding.

[SECT. 1.] That the service of all executions already made, or which shall be made, after the day on which such executions would, by law, have been returnable if the time for holding the courts to which they are or may be returnable had not been altered by the before-mentioned acts, and before the day on which they are made returnable by force of the said acts, shall be deemed as valid and effectual, to all intents and purposes whatsoever, as if such service had been made before the day on which they would, by law, have been returnable if the said acts had not been made and passed.

Preamble.

And whereas divers writs, summons and other processes have issued, or may issue, within the several counties of the province, after the passing of the aforesaid acts, and such writs, summons or other processes may have been, or may be, made returnable to the court to which, by law, they would have been returnable, if the aforenamed acts had not been made and passed,—

Be it therefore further enacted,

Writs, summons and other processes, established.

[SECT. 2.] That all writs, summons and processes whatsoever, which have issued or been commenced, or may issue or commence, after the passing the aforenamed acts, which are, or may be, made returnable on such day as, by law, they would have been returnable, if the said acts had not passed, shall still be deemed returnable to the court to be held on such day, unless the time of holding such court be altered by one or other of the said acts; and in such case such writs, summons or other process shall be and are hereby declared to be returnable to the court to be held within and for the same county next after, and shall, to all intents and purposes, be as valid and effectual in law as if the said acts had not been made and passed. [Passed March 5, 1765.

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, [Sect. 1.] That the selectmen of such town and district within this province (chosen for the year one thousand seven hundred and sixty-four) where the above order has not been complied with, or the survivors of them, do take an exact account of the number of dwelling-houses, families and people, agreeable to the form aforementioned, and make return thereof unto the sheriffs of the several counties, respectively, on or before the twenty-fifth day of May next; and in case of refusal or neglect of their duty, to forfeit and pay to his majesty, for the use of the county where such offence shall arise, the sum of fifty pounds; to be recovered by the treasurer of the said county in any court of record proper to try the same. CHAPTER 29.

AN ACT FOR GRANTING UNTO HIS MAJESTY AN EXCISE UPON SPIRITS DISTILLED, AND WINE, AND UPON LIMES, LEMMONS AND ORANGES.

We, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in general court assembled, being desirous of lessening the present debt of the province, have chearfully and unanimously granted, and do hereby give and grant unto his most excellent majesty, for the end and use above mentioned, and for no other use, an excise upon all rum and other spirits distilled, and upon all wines whatsoever, and upon lemmons, limes and oranges, to be raised, levied and collected, and paid in manner and form following:— Preamble.

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, [Sect. 1.] That from and after the twenty-fifth day of March, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-five, and until the twenty-sixth day of March, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-six, every person already licensed, or that shall be hereafter licensed, to retail rum or other spirits distilled, or wine, shall pay the duties following:— Time of this act's continuance.

For every gallon of rum and spirits distilled, eightpence.

For every gallon of wine of every sort, eightpence.

For every hundred of lemmons or oranges used and consumed in making punch, or otherwise for sale by taverners and innholders only, eight shillings.

For every hundred of limes used and consumed in making punch, or otherwise for sale by taverners and innholders only, three shillings.

—And so proportionably for any quantity or number.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 2.] That every retailer of rum, wine or spirits distilled, Accounts to be taken.

taverner and innholder, shall, on the twenty-sixth day of March, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-five, take a just and true account, in writing, of all wine, rum and spirits distilled, then by him or her, or in his or her possession; and that every person who shall be hereafter licenced to be a taverner, innholder and retailer of wine, rum or spirits distilled, shall take a like account of all wine, rum and other spirits distilled by him or her, or in his or her possession at the time of such licence granted; and every taverner, innholder and retailer of rum or other spirits distilled, or wine, shall make a fair entry, in a book by them respectively to be kept for that purpose, of all such rum, or other spirits distilled, or wine, as he or she, or any person or persons for him or her, shall buy, distill, take in or receive, after such first account taken, and when and of whom the same was bought and taken in; and at the expiration of the said year shall take a just and true account how much thereof then remains by them; and shall, in writing, under their hands, render to him or them that shall collect the duties aforesaid the whole of those several accounts, and shall also make oath, in the form following, before such collector or collectors, who are hereby impowered to administer the same:—

Form of the oath.

You, A. B., do swear that the account by you now rendered is, to the best of your knowledge, a just and true account of all wines, rum and distilled spirits you had by you, or in your possession, on the twenty-sixth day of March, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-five, and also of all the wine, rum and other distilled spirits bought, distilled, taken in or received by you, or by any person or persons for or under you, or by or with your knowledge, allowance, consent or connivance, and that there still remains thereof in your possession, unsold, so much as is in this account said to remain by you unsold; and that there has not been by you, or by any other person or persons for or under you, by your order, allowance, consent or connivance, either directly or indirectly, sold, used or consumed any wine, or any liquor for, or as, wine; any rum or distilled spirits, or liquor for, or as, rum or distilled spirits; or, if a tavernor or innholder, that there has not been any limes, lemmons or oranges by you, or by any person or persons for or under you, or by your order, consent, allowance or connivance, used in making punch, or otherwise for sale, since the said twenty-fifth day of March, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-five, besides what is contained in the account by you now rendered. So help you God.

Penalty for collector's receiving accounts without oath.

—and every collector of the excise who shall receive any account from any person, in consequence of this act, without their making oath to the same, as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay for the use of the government the sum of twenty pounds.

[SECT. 3.] And for every person that was not licenced on the same twenty-sixth day of March, the form of the oath shall be so varied as that instead of expressing the day aforesaid, the time of taking their licence shall be inserted and used.

Duties to the collector.

[SECT. 4.] And every such taverner, innholder and retailer shall pay the duties aforesaid to him or them that shall collect the same, on the whole of the several articles mentioned in such account rendered, saving only for such part thereof as remains in their hands unsold: provided, nevertheless, that for ordinary leakage, &c., ten per cent shall be allowed them on all liquors in such account mentioned, besides what remains in their hands unsold, and what they shall on oath depose they have lost by extraordinary leakage, or other casualties.

Ten per cent allowed for leakage.

And be it further enacted,

Taverners, &c., to give bond.

[SECT. 5.] That every person hereafter licensed to be a taverner, innholder or retailer of any wine, rum or spirits distilled shall, within thirty days after such licence granted, and before he or she shall sell by virtue of the same, not only become bound to keep good rule and order, as by law is already required, but shall also become bound, with sufficient sureties, by way of recognizance, to his majesty, for the use of this government, in a sufficient sum, to be ordered by the court that grants the licence, which sum shall not exceed three hundred pounds nor be less than fifty pounds, conditioned that they shall keep and render the accounts aforesaid, and pay the duties aforesaid, as in and by this act is required.

Provided, nevertheless,—

And it is hereby enacted and declared,

Recognizances put in suit may be chancered as other bonds.

[Sect. 6.] That all recognizances taken in consequence of this act, and, on forfeiture, put in suit in any court of record within this province, may, by such court, be chancered down to the just debt and damage (where that can be known), as other bonds may be by the laws of this province, already enacted.

And be it further enacted,

Licenses not to be renewed if former excise is not paid.

[Sect. 7.] That no such taverner, innholder or retailer shall be licenced by the justices of the general sessions of the peace, who have not accounted with the collector, and paid him the excise, aforesaid, due from such person at the time of his or her taking or renewing his licence.

Preamble.

And whereas, notwithstanding the laws made against selling strong drink without licence, many persons, not regarding the penalties of said act, do receive and entertain persons in their houses, and sell great quantities of spirits and other strong drink, without licence; by reason whereof great debaucheries are committed and kept secret, and such as take licences and pay the duties of excise therefor are greatly wronged, and the government thereby defrauded,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Forfeiture for selling without license.

[Sect. 8.] That if any distiller, importer, or any other person whatever, after the said twenty-fifth day of March, shall presume, directly or indirectly, to sell any rum or other distilled spirits, or wine, in less quantity than fifteen gallons, or any beer, ale, cyder, perry or other strong drink, in any quantity less than three gallons, without licence first had and obtained from the court of general sessions of the peace in that county, and recognizing in manner as aforesaid, shall forfeit and pay for each offence the sum of two pounds and costs of prosecution, two thirds for the use of the government, and the other third for the prosecutor.

Preamble.

And whereas divers other persons than those licenced to sell rum and other distilled spirits by retail, have heretofore supplied persons employed by them in the fishery, building vessels, and in other business, without paying any excise therefor, and thereby have defrauded the government of the duties of excise, and have not been subject to the penalty provided by law against selling drink without licence, and the same practice will probably be continued unless effectual care be taken to prevent the same,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Persons not licensed, supplying those employed by them in the fishery, &c., with spirituous liquors, to be deemed sellers.

[Sect. 9.] That all persons not licensed as aforesaid, who shall hereafter by themselves, or by any other person or persons under them, or by their orders, allowance or connivance, supply any person or persons employed by them in the fishery, building of vessels, or any other business or employ, with rum or any other distilled spirits, or wine, shall be deemed and taken to be sellers of such liquors, and be subject to the aforesaid pains and penalties provided against persons selling any of the liquors aforesaid without licence, and shall be recovered in like manner, unless they make it appear that such wine, rum or other distilled spirits was purchased of a taverner, innholder or retailer, or other person or persons that had licence or permit to sell the same.

And be it further enacted,

Vessels employed in the cod- and whale-fishery allowed 20 gallons free of excise.

[SECT. 10.] For the encouragement of the cod-and whale-fishery, that all rum and other spirits, consumed by such persons as are employed in said business out of this province, be exempted from paying excise, and that there be allowed for the consumption of each vessel's crew, usually fishing upon George's Banks and to the eastward and southward thereof, the quantity of twenty gallons for each trip or fare; and that every master or owner of such vessel or vessels that shall, after the twenty-sixth day of March next, supply any such vessel with any rum or spirits, on a fishing voyage, and produce an account thereof to the collector, under oath, not exceeding the aforesaid quantity of twenty gallons for one trip or fare, shall be allowed the same drawback as is provided in this act on rum and other spirits exported out of this province.

And be it further enacted,

One witness sufficient for conviction.

[SECT. 11.] That when any person shall be charged with selling strong drink without licence, one witness produced to the satisfaction of the court or justice before whom the trial is, shall be deemed sufficient for conviction. And when and so often as it shall be observed that there is a resort of persons to houses suspected of selling strong drink without licence, any justice of the peace in the same county shall have full power to convene such persons before him, to examine them upon oath concerning the persons suspected of selling or retailing strong drink in such houses, outhouses or other dependencies thereof; and if upon examining such witnesses, and hearing the defence of such suspected person, it shall appear to the justice there is sufficient proof of the violation of this act by selling strong drink without licence, judgment may thereupon be made up against such person, and he shall forfeit in like manner as if process had been commenced by action or information before the said justice; or otherwise the said justice may bind over the person suspected, and the witnesses, to the next court of general sessions of the peace for the county where such person shall dwell.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty on persons refusing to give evidence.

CHAPTER 30.

AN ACT FOR ALLOWING NECESSARY SUPPLIES TO THE EASTERN INDIANS, AND FOR REGULATING TRADE WITH THEM AND PREVENTING ABUSES THEREIN.

Preamble. 1763–64, chap. 32.

Whereas an act intitled "An Act for allowing necessary supplies to the eastern Indians, and for regulating trade with them and preventing abuses therein," is near expiring, and it is expedient for his majesty's service that other provision should be made instead thereof,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Indians to be supplied by persons appointed by the general court.

[Sect. 1.] That provisions, cloathing and other suitable supplies for a trade with the Indians, be procured with the several sums that have been, now are, or shall hereafter be granted for that purpose by the general court, and applied, from time to time, for supplying the said Indians as aforesaid, by such person or persons as shall be annually chosen by the court, who shall proceed according to the instructions they shall receive from this court, or from the commander-in-chief for the time being, by and with the advice of the council, on any emergency in the recess of the court: provided such instructions and directions be consistent with such instructions as are or may be given by the general court; and all supplies of cloathing, provisions or other necessaries shall be lodged at such places in the eastern parts of this province, and elsewhere, as the general court have ordered, or may hereafter order.

And be it further enacted,

Truck-masters, how to be appointed.

[Sect. 2.] That a suitable person be appointed by this court for each of the places where any of the goods aforesaid are lodged, as truck-masters for the management of the trade with the Indians; and be paid for his service such sum or sums as this court shall judge reasonable for his allowance in said capacity; and in case of the death or removal of any one or more of said truck-masters during the recess of the court, another shall be put in his room by the commander-in-chief, with the advice of the council; and all truck-masters shall be under oath, and give sufficient security to the province treasurer for the faithful discharge of their trust, and shall observe the instructions which, from time to time, shall be given them, and they shall not trade, either by themselves or by any person under them, with the Indians, except it be in the capacity of a truck-master; neither may any officer or soldier, residing at or within any of the truck-houses, or any other person in the pay of this government, either on account of themselves, or any other person or persons, presume to trade with the Indians, on board any ship or vessel or transport, in those parts, for any of the aforementioned goods; nor shall it be lawful for any person or persons to sell, truck, barter or exchange with any Indian or Indians, any strong beer, cyder, wine, rum, brandy or any other strong liquors, cloathing, or any other thing whatsoever the Indians may want, on penalty of forty shillings, or three months' imprisonment for each and every offence above mentioned.

Truck-masters to conform to such prices.

[SECT. 4.] And in case any of the truck-masters shall presume to sell any goods at higher rates than they are set at by the government, or shall charge the government more for any furrs or other goods than they allowed the Indians therefor, such truck-master, being convicted thereof, shall forfeit and pay the sum of fifty pounds, and shall thenceforth be altogether disabled to hold or exercise any office within this government; and the more effectually to prevent or detect any such pernicious practices, each and every truck-master, when and so often as he shall settle and adjust his accounts with the said officer appointed by this court for supplying the Indians (which shall be at least once in a year, and oftner if required), shall make oath before the said officer, who is hereby authorized and appointed to administer the same, in manner following; viz.,—

So help you God.

And for the better discovery of such ill-disposed persons, who, through greediness of filthy lucre, and regardless of the public good, shall privately sell or deliver any sort of strong drink to any Indian or

Indians, of which it is difficult to obtain positive evidence, other than the accusation of such Indian or Indians,—

Be it further enacted,

[Sect. 5.] That the accusation and affirmation of any Indian or Indians, the accuser and the accused being brought face to face at the time of trial, shall be accounted and held to be a legal conviction of the person accused of giving, selling, or delivering strong drink to such Indian or Indians, unless the person accused shall acquit himself, upon oath, which the court, in all such cases, are hereby impowered to administer in the form following; viz.,— Method of conviction of privately selling strong drink to the Indians.

So help you God.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 6.] That upon the complaint or information of any other person for the breach of this law, there being such circumstances as render it highly probable, in the judgment of the justice of the peace before whom the trial shall be, that the person complained of is guilty of the breach of the said act; then and in every such case, unless the defendant shall acquit himself upon oath, to be administred to him by the justice before whom the trial shall be, the same shall be accounted a legal conviction of the defendant, for the breach of this law, of which he or they shall be accused, and he or they shall pay and suffer the penalty already by this act provided; but in case the defendant shall acquit himself upon oath, to be administred to him as aforesaid, that then he shall recover against the complainant double his cost occasioned by such prosecution. Defendant may acquit himself upon oath.

And whereas many complaints have been made by the Indians respecting the English hunters destroying beaver and other furr, also the beaver dams, and there being danger of great mischief ensuing therefrom,— Preamble.

Be it therefore further enacted,

[Sect. 7.] That no person or persons, other than Indians, from and after the twentieth day of June next, shall hunt or take any beaver, sables or other furrs, to the northward or eastward of Saco truck-house, or the place where the said truck-house stood, except in the towns or plantations where they dwell, on penalty of forty shillings for every such offence, to be recovered by complaint to a justice of the peace, in manner aforesaid; and in case any such furr be found in the possession of any person or persons who has hunted contrary to this act, and who cannot give a satisfactory account, to the justice of the peace before whom the trial may be, how they came by the same, it shall be a sufficient evidence to convict such person or persons of a breach of this act; and he or they shall forfeit the said furr, and incur the penalty aforesaid. English hunters restrained from hunting beaver, &c. Method of conviction. Forfeiture.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 8.] That the fines and penalties incurred by this act shall be disposed of, one half to the informer, and the other half to be paid to the truck-master in whose district the same may be tried, for the relief of Indian widows and children who may most stand in need of the same. CHAPTER 34.

AN ACT FOR PREVENTING THE UNNECESSARY DESTRUCTION OF ALEWIVES, AND OTHER FISH, WITHIN THIS PROVINCE.

Preamble. 1709–10, ch. 7. 1727, ch. 10. 1734–35, ch. 8. 1737–38, ch. 4. 1739–40, ch. 15. 1741–42, chaps. 16 and 20. 1743–44, ch. 26. 1745–46, ch. 20. 1754–55, ch. 31. 1757–58, ch. 37. 1759–60, ch. 32. 1761–62, ch. 11, 1763–64, ch. 27. 1764–65, chaps. 10 and 24.

WHEREAS the laws already provided against the destruction of fish called alewives, and other fish, do not, in divers circumstances, reach the case of divers rivers and ponds where said fish usually go to cast their spawn, so that great waste is made of them by ill-minded persons, to the great damage of the publick,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

No person to draw seines, &c., or set up wears in any rivers but in Connecticut and Merrimack Rivers. Penalty.

[SECT. 1.] That from and after the fifteenth day of March next, no person or persons whosoever, shall, on any pretence, presume to stretch, set or draw any siene or drag-net, or set up any weares or other fishing engines, in any part of the rivers, or ponds adjacent thereto, within this province (Merrimack and Connecticut Rivers only excepted), where the fish usually spawn, or use any other instrument for the catching of alewives but by dip-nets or scoop-nets, on penalty of a fine of five pounds for each offence, to be paid by every person concerned in taking alewives or other fish in either of the ways forbidden by this act.

And be it further enacted,

Or in any ponds.

[SECT. 2.] That no person or persons whosoever, shall, on any pretence, presume to stretch, set or draw any seine or drag-net, for the catching of fish of any sort in any of the fresh ponds in this province, on penalty of the fine of five pounds for each offence, to be paid by every person concerned in taking fish in said ponds in either of the ways forbidden by this act; and the seine or net may be seized by any person or persons, and shall be forfeited.

Preamble, reciting a defect in a former act. 1741–42, chap. 16, § 5.

And whereas, by an act or law of this province, made in the fifteenth year of his late majesty's reign, intitled "An Act in addition to an act made to prevent the destruction of fish called alewives, and other fish," it is therein enacted "That it shall be in the power of any town, at their annual meeting in March, to choose one or more persons whose business it shall be to see that the passage-ways are open, pursuant to said act, and that said fish may not be obstructed in their usual passing up and down stream, and to appoint the proper place or places for the taking such fish with scoop-nets, and to limit the particular times and days for taking the same;" but no provision is made in said act to oblige the persons so chosen to serve in said business, or to do their duty therein, neither is there any limitation as to the quantities of said fish that shall be taken, in each town, for pickelling and barrelling for a market, by reason whereof many mischiefs arise,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Persons chosen to see the act executed, to be under oath.

CHAPTER 35.

AN ACT FOR PREVENTING FRAUD IN DEBTORS, AND FOR SECURING THE EFFECTS OF INSOLVENT DEBTORS FOR THE BENEFIT OF THEIR CREDITORS.

Preamble.

Whereas it has sometimes happened that persons have absconded or concealed themselves to avoid arrests from their creditors, and the effects of such persons have been attached, and actions have been brought against their debtors, as trustees of such absconding or concealed persons, by means whereof great inequality and injustice has been occasioned to the creditors, and law-suits have been greatly multiplied; for prevention whereof for the future,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

One justice of the superior court, in certain cases, to issue a warrant for seizing all the estate of an absconding debtor:

[Sect. 1.] That it shall and may be lawful for any one of the justices of the superiour court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery, upon application made in writing, by any creditor, for not less than thirty pounds, or creditors, for not less than sixty pounds, of any person or persons who shall appear, to the satisfaction of such justice, to have absconded or concealed themselves to avoid the arrests of their creditors, to issue a warrant, directed to all and every the sheriffs, their undersheriffs and deputies, within this province, requiring them, in his majesty's name, to attach, seize, take and keep all the goods, chattles and estate, real, personal, and mixt, of what nature or kind soever, within their respective bailywicks, of such absconding debtor or debtors, for the use and benefit of his or their creditors.

—if of a perishable nature, may be sold.

[Sect. 2.] And any part of such estate which may be taken in pursuance of such warrant, and which shall be of a perishable nature, and shall be proved to be actually in a perishing state, before the justice from whom such warrant shall issue, shall and may be forthwith sold by the officer taking the same, for the most the same will fetch.

Public notice to be given of the attachments of such absconding debtor's estate.

[Sect. 3.] And notice shall be forthwith given by such justice, in "The Massachusetts Gazette" published next after the issuing such warrant, or as soon as may be, and for three weeks successively, that the effects of such absconding or concealed debtor or debtors are directed to be attached, seized and taken; and that, unless such debtor or debtors shall return or appear, and discharge his or their just debts, or give security, to the satisfaction of the creditors, for payment thereof within three months from the date of such warrant, all the estate ordered to be so attached, seized and taken will be sold for the benefit of the creditors.

And be it further enacted,

Such debtors incapable of alienating their effects.

[Sect. 4.] That every person whose effects shall be directed to be so attached, seized and taken, be and is hereby declared to have been, immediately, from and after their absconding or concealing themselves as aforesaid, incapable of alienating any part of their effects or estate of what nature or kind soever; and all assignments, transfers, conveyances or alienations afterwards made by such person or persons, are hereby declared to be null and void; and all summons and attachments which shall, at any time after such absconding or concealment, be served upon any debtor or trustee of such person or persons, by virtue of an act or law of this province, intitled "An Act to enable creditors to receive their just debts out of the effects of their absent or absconding debtors," shall enure to the use and benefit of all the creditors of such absconding and concealed debtor or debtors, in just proportion.

All other attachments to enure to the benefit of the creditors.

1738-39, chap. 15.

Provided, nevertheless,—
And it is hereby declared,

Proviso.

[SECT. 5.] That no attachments, summons on the absconding-act, or other process whatsoever, already commenced, shall be affected by this act; but the creditors therein shall have such and the like remedy thereon as if this act had never been made; nor shall any assignments, transfers, conveyances or alienations, bonâ fide made before the passing this act, be understood to be affected thereby.

And be it further enacted,

Trustees to be appointed if such absconding debtor shall not appear within three months.

[SECT. 6.] That if any absconding or concealed debtor or debtors, whose effects and estate shall be directed to be attached, seized and taken as aforesaid, shall not, before the expiration of three months as aforesaid, return, or appear and discharge their just debts, or give security for the discharge thereof, to the satisfaction of their creditors, it shall and may be lawful for the justice who shall have issued such warrant, to appoint three of the creditors of such absconding or concealed debtor or debtors, to be trustees of their estate.

Provided, always,—
And be it accordingly enacted,

Proviso, in case such debtor is willing to surrender his effects.

[SECT. 7.] That if any concealed debtor or debtors shall, by writing, under their hands, signify to the justice issuing the warrant aforesaid, their willingness to surrender up all their effects, and shall desire that trustees may be forthwith appointed, it shall be lawful for such justice forthwith to appoint the same; and the advertisement to surrender shall thereupon be discontinued.

And be it further enacted,

Trustees to give public notice.

[SECT. 8.] That the trustees so appointed shall, as soon as may be, notify in "The Massachusetts Gazette," three weeks successively, time and place for a meeting of the creditors of such absconding or concealed person or persons, such meeting to be held within one month from the date of such notification; and it shall and may be lawful for the major part of the creditors present at such meeting, to approve or disapprove of all or any of the trustees so appointed, and to chuse others in the room of such as may be disapproved; and the trustees who shall be approved or chosen at this meeting shall be sworn before the justice issuing such warrant, or before a justice of the peace, to the faithful discharge of their trust; and the power of the trustee or trustees first appointed and disapproved shall then determine and cease; and the creditors may thereupon give in to the trustees their respective claims and demands, then due and payable, or which may become due or payable at a future day, upon or against the debtor.

supposed debtors, and, with the like consent, to compromise or make abatement upon any claim or supposed debt.

[Sect. 10.] And, that the whole estate may be converted into money as soon as may be, the said trustees are hereby authorized and impowered to make sale of every part thereof, to redeem all mortgages and conditional contracts, and also to grant, bargain, sell and convey to any person or persons whomsoever, any lands, tenements or hereditaments, whereof such absconding or concealed debtor or debtors shall be seized, in possession, reversion or remainder, as of an estate in fee-simple, or an estate for life or years, and also all their right, title and interest, for the term of their own lives, in any entailed estate, and to execute good and sufficient deeds therefor: provided, always, that the right of dower of the wife of any such debtor shall not pass without her free and voluntary consent, in writing, signified thereto.

And be it further enacted,

Trustees to make a dividend in eighteen months.

[Sect. 13.] That at the expiration of eighteen months from the appointment of such trustees, they shall make a dividend of the effects of such absconding or concealed debtor or debtors, so far as shall have then come to the hands of such trustees, and been converted into money, each creditor to receive of said dividend in proportion to the debt which shall have been proved and allowed; and at the end of six months more, or sooner, if it shall appear to the trustees that the whole estate is received, a further dividend shall be in like manner made, of any further effects which may have come to the hands of such trustees since the former dividend; and so, at the end of every six months, or sooner, until the whole effects shall be distributed.

Proviso.

Debtor's oath.

You, A. B., do solemnly swear that the inventory and account by you delivered is a just and true account of all your estate, real, personal and mixt, both in law and equity, either in possession, reversion or remainder, the necessary wearing-apparel and bedding of yourself, wife and children excepted, and that you have not, directly or indirectly, sold, leased, assigned or otherwise disposed or made over, either, in trust, for yourself or otherwise, except as set forth in the same account, any part of your estate, real, personal or mixt, for your future benefit, or in order to defraud your creditors. So help you God.

—And where there shall be no wife or no children, those words "wife" and "children," respectively, shall be omitted.

Debtor discharged upon certificate.

[SECT. 15.] And a certificate being given by the said two justices, that such debtor is discharged, every such debtor is hereby declared to be discharged from all debts due or contracted before his or her absconding or concealment as aforesaid, and, if prosecuted for any such debt or contract, may plead the general issue, and give the special matter in evidence.

And be it further enacted,

Proviso, for allowing costs and necessary charges:

—and for allowance to be made to the debtor.

—and for concealing estate or effects.

[Sect. 22.] This act to continue and be in force for three years from the twelfth day of March, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-five. [Passed March 9, 1765.

Limitation.

NOTES.—All the acts of this year, except the private act the title of which is hereafter given, were printed: chapter 3 separately; and, for the first time, an impost act (chapter 33) was included with the printed acts of the session in which it was passed. The engrossments of twenty-four, out of thirty-six, acts, of this year, are missing; viz., chapters 1, 3, 8, 9, 10, 13, 14, 16, 17, 19, 20, 21, 23, 24, 25, and 27 to 35, inclusive.

The following is the title of the only private act passed this year:—

"An Act to enable Abigail Little of Pembroke, formerly the Widow of Isaac Thomas late of said Pembroke, Gentleman, Deceased, to recover of the Children and Heirs of the said Isaac certain Sums of Money due from them to the said Abigail for Right of Dower in the real Estate that was the said Isaac Thomas's." [Passed June 14, 1764.

The acts of the first session were certified for transmission, June 29, 1764. As the Governor's letter containing his observations on these acts, and bearing date July 2, was received by the Lords of Trade, September 5, it is probable that the acts were received at the same time. They were delivered to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, September 10, and referred to the committee on plantation affairs, September 14, by whom, on the 14th of December, they were referred to the Lords of Trade.

The acts of the second session were certified for transmission, November 13, 1764, delivered to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, January 14, 1765, referred to the committee on plantation affairs, February 1, and by them referred to the Lords of Trade, March 19, who received them on the 22d of the same month.

On the seventh of June, 1765, the Lords of Trade ordered such of the acts of the first and second sessions as have not expired by their own limitation, to be sent to Sir Matthew Lamb, for his opinion thereupon, in point of law; and, on the 24th of September following, the acts of the second session were again read at the Board.

The acts of the third session were certified for transmission, April 3, 1765. Governor Bernard's letter of observations on these acts, and bearing date April 8, was received by the Lords of Trade, June 26, so that, probably, the acts arrived as early as that date. They were delivered to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, July 11, referred to the committee on plantation affairs July 13, and sent to the Board of Trade, July 16, where they were received the next day. They appear to have been considered by the Board, together with the acts of the second session, on the 24th of September, and, on the 29th of October, they were ordered to be sent to Sir Matthew Lamb.

Sir Matthew Lamb's report on the acts of the three sessions, was received June 30, 1766, and concludes—"Upon perusal and consideration of the before mentioned Acts I have no other objections than are before mentioned;" i. e., to the private act, and to chapter 26: see the note to that chapter, post. This report was read at the Board, February 6, 1767, and, on the tenth, the draught of a representation thereon was ordered to be prepared; and, accordingly, an order was subsequently passed by the Privy Council, disallowing the private act.

Chap. 3. "Dec. 30, 1763. In the House of Representatives Resolved That the Inhabitants of the District of New Salem in the County of Hampshire be, and Hereby are impowered to receive out of the Public Treasury Twenty six pounds, twelve shillings, the sum they paid towards defraying the Charge of a Representative sent from Sunderland after they were discharged from paying any Sum, as appears by an Act of this Court: And that the said Sum of Twenty six pounds twelve shillings be annexed to the Tax of the Towns of Sunderland and Montague in their next years Tax.

In Council A Petition of the Inhabitants of the District of New Salem—

In the House of Representatives Read and Resolved That the Prayer of the Petition be granted, and that the Inhabitants have leave to tax the Non-resident Proprietors at one peny per Acre on their Lands; they observing the Act of this Court passed the 9th of February 1760, and laying out the Money arising therefrom for the purposes mentioned in said Act."—*Council Records, vol. "Jan 26, 1764. In the House of Representatives. On a Complaint of a Committee of the Town of Lincoln relative to their Taxes, the following Resolve passed viz^t

It appearing that there was a Mistake made in carrying off the proportion to a Thousand pounds which that part of Lexington paid to the Province Tax, that was taken from them and added to Lincoln when it was first incorporated into a Town; they being then set at 7/4½ to the £1000—thō their just proportion was no more than 5/3, so that it appears that the Town of Lincoln paid 2/1½ to the £1000—that Lexington ought to have paid, from the time of said Lincoln's Incorporation to the Year 1760 inclusive, which in the whole amounts to £50. 16. 1 which Sum Resolved that it be remitted to the Town of Lincoln, and laid upon the Town of Lexington in their next Province Tax.

In Council Read and Concurred Consented to by the Governor."—Ibid., p. 154.

"June 4, 1764. A Memorial of the Selectmen of Sunderland—Setting forth That they are informed that the District of New Salem hath applied to this Court for a reimbursment of the Pay of a Representative put to said District for sundry Years by an Act of Assembly, whilst in connection with the Town of Sunderland; and that they have thereupon obtained an Act of this Assembly for such reimbursment, which either is, or is likely to be, laid on the Town of Sunderland, altho' they have been always notified to join in the choice, and have constantly had the benefit of the representative chosen, whenever they have had any particular Concerns depending. And praying that the Town of Sunderland may be freed from the charge of any such Reimbursment. In the House of Representatives Read and Ordered That the Petitioners serve the Clerk of the District of New Salem with a Copy of this Petition that they shew cause, if any they have, on the Second Wednesday of the next Session of this Court why the Prayer thereof should not be granted. And that the Province Treasurer be directed not to make any addition to the Province Tax of Sunderland or Montague for the reimbursment made to the said Precinct of New Salem till the further Order of this Court.

In Council Read and Concurred Consented to by the Governor."—Ibid., p. 219.

Chap. 4. By General Amherst's returns it appears that, of the 3,220 men voted to be raised by Massachusetts in the campaign of 1762, 2,991 actually took the field, of whom 591 remained on garrison duty during the winter and spring. For reimbursing the expenses of all the colonies, in this campaign, the House of Commons voted the same amount as was granted the previous year; viz., £153,333, 6s. 8d. (See Journals of the House of Commons, March 17, 1763). Of the proposed grant, Mr. Mauduit got an early intimation through his brother, and communicated the information to the secretary of the province, in a letter dated March 12, 1763.

By the apportionment, which was made about the first of April, 1764, the share of Massachusetts was determined to be,—after all allowances added for extra men and extra times of service,—£45,419, 18s. 6d. This was to be paid one-half in money, and one-half in Exchequer bills. As the latter, however, were bills of the previous year, and payable the next day after they were given out, the Agent was enabled to write, on the 25th of April, that the whole money, with one day's interest on the bills, had been deposited in bank, for the order of the General Court.

"Jan. 29, 1765. In the House of Representatives. It appearing to the House that all the Bills of Exchange which by Law of this Province made in June last, the Treasurer of this Province was enabled to draw upon Jasper Mauduit Esq^r late Agent of this Province are not yet Sold, and disposed of; and that some doubt arises whether the said Bills may be drawn in the form prescribed by the said Law, since the new Choice made of an Agent.

Resolved That the Treasurer be and hereby is Ordered to draw the Bills in the form, and directed as in the said Law is required, the new Choice of an Agent notwithstanding.

In Council, Read and Concurred, as taken into a new draft. The new Draft is as follows viz^t—In the House of Representatives 28^th January 1765—

Whereas Richard Jackson jun^r Esq^r has been Chosen Agent for this Province in the room of Jasper Mauduit Esq^r who resigned that trust; and certain part of the Money which had been received by M^r Mauduit belonging to the Province still remaining in his hands, and the Treasurer being confined to a particular form in drawing for such money viz^t on Jasper Mauduit Esq^r Agent for the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in London, or in case of his Death or absence on Richard Jackson jun^r Esq^r.

Resolved, That all Bills for such Monies as yet remain in M^r Mauduit's hands, be drawn on Jasper Mauduit Esq^r in London, and the Treasurer is directed to transmit to M^r Mauduit a Copy of this Vote by the first opportunity.

In the House of Representatives Read and Nonconcurred Nemine contradicente and the House adhere to their own Vote. In Council, Read and Nonconcurred

M^r Otis from the House of Representatives, who brought up the foregoing Vote of nonconcurrence, at the same time delivered a Verbal Message to the Board, acquainting them that it has been usual for the House to originate their own Resolves, and that they choose to continue in that practice."—Council Records, vol. XXV., p. 362.

"Jan. 29, 1765. The Secretary went down to the House of Representatives with the following Message from the Board viz^t—The Board have received a Message from the Hon^ble House in the forenoon to this purpose 'That the House have always been in the practice of Originating their own Votes, and chuse to continue in that practice'.—

The Board think it necessary to observe, that their Vote, which induced the Honourable House to that Message was agreeable to the uninterrupted practice of the two Houses, in taking into a new draft any Votes sent from one House to y^e other, in order to save the trouble and perplexity which arises from a great number of Amendments by marginal references. The Board not intending to prepare a Vote to originate in the House, but to alter a Vote before originated there; and therefore the House could have no just Occasion for sending such a Message."—Ibid., p. 365.

"Jan. 30, 1765. M^r Otis and others from the House of Representatives came up to the Board with the following Message viz^t—

The House think it Necessary to observe, that tho' it may be agreeable to the uninterrupted practice of the two Houses to take into a new draft any Bills or Votes (Grants & Money Bills excepted) sent from one House to the other: And tho' the reason & grounds of that practice are truly assigned by the Hon^ble Board, yet such new draft should be made by, and passed upon as the Act of the House framing such new draft, and in the name of the House framing the same, and then sent to the other House for Concurrence: But the House of Representatives have not before found an Instance, that one House has made a new draft for, and in the name of the other, and then sent it to the other to act upon. And tho the House of Representatives readily believed it was far from the intention of the Hon^ble^ Board to prepare a Vote to originate in the House; yet it is conceived the Hon^ble^ Board have in fact so prepared a Vote for them.

The House of Representatives therefore must think the Hon^ble^ Board have done some what more than altering or amending the Vote sent up: It seems hard to conceive that the Vote of the Hon^ble^ Board, their framing an entire new draft in the name of the House, and sending it down to the House for them first to act upon, can with any kind of propriety be said to be only altering or amending the Original Vote of the House.

The Hon^ble^ Board have an undoubted right in all cases (except those of Grants & Money Bills) to bring any Vote or Bill sent up from the House into a new draft: But then such new draft should be made the Act of, and passed upon by the Hon^ble^ Board before it is sent down.

The House of Representatives therefore, being on the one hand cautious how they attempt any infringement of the just rights & priviledges of the Hon^ble^ Board, and on the other tenacious of their own, and ever desirous of preserving and cultivating that good understanding and Harmony which has hitherto happily subsisted between the two Houses, think they had just occasion for sending the Message referred to by the Hon^ble^ Board; which Message but barely hinted at the innovation that seemed to be taking place."—Ibid., p. 366.

"Feb. 7, 1765. In the House of Representatives. Whereas by an Act passed by this Court at their Session in May last, the Treasurer was impowered to draw Bills to the amount of Forty eight thousand pounds Sterling directed 'To Jasper Mauduit Esq^r^ Agent for the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in London, or in case of his Death or absence, To Richard Jackson jun^r^ Esq^r^'—since the passing of which Act, the said Jasper Mauduit hath desired to resign the Agency, and the Court hath accepted of his s^d^ resignation; and there yet remains in his hands a Sum fully sufficient to Answer the Treasurers Bills to Compleat the amount aforesaid.

Chap. 13. The passage of this act was the result of repeated applications to the General Court, during the period of about five years, by a large number, if not a majority, of the male inhabitants of the plantation of Narragansett, No. 7, whose efforts to secure an act of incorporation were strenuously opposed by a large minority of the qualified voters among the actual settlers. The contention between these parties seems to have begun in the opposition of the petitioners for incorporation, to Mr. Solomon Lombard who, in 1750, was settled as the regular minister of the plantation.

In December, 1759, these petitioners applied to the general court, to be incorporated into a town, alleging that the inhabitants of the plantation had increased to sixty families, and that, by the discontinuance of the aid hitherto granted by the non-resident proprietors, and for want of proper authority to assess and collect the necessary funds, they had no meeting-house nor schools; that their highways were neglected, their cattle and fences without regulation, and that disorderly poor were coming in among them. This petition was signed by Edmund and John Phinney and thirty-six others.

On this petition, the General Court at their third session (1759–60), ordered notice to the non-resident proprietors. The petition was again read in the fourth session, together with the answer hereinafter described; but no further action was had upon it until the first session of the next year, when the petition and answer were referred to a joint committee, June 5, 1760. The answer bears date March 24, 1760, and is signed by Jacob Hamblen and Hugh McLellan, who claim to be a committee of the "well affected, who are heartily well wishers to government and fully attached to the constitution of our churches, and bear a true affection to a learned ministry and have not the least inclination to prove prejudicial to any public interest nor prevent the exercise of any power that may be for the real benefit and peace of society nor prevent any power lodged in any hands that may answer the ends of government; viz., God's glory and the good of men."

The reasons alleged by these remonstrants why the prayer of the petitioners should not be granted, are, briefly, the poverty of the inhabitants, and their consequent inability to pay province, county and town taxes; the spirit of hostility manifested by the petitioners, towards the remonstrants and the non-resident proprietors, and the expensive litigation that would result therefrom, at the common expense, as soon as they should be incorporated; and, finally, the expense to which the remonstrants would be subjected in being forced to contribute towards building a meeting-house other than that which the proprietors were already obliged to build by the terms of the original grant.

Up to this time, the inhabitants had met, for the transaction of their religious and secular affairs, in the flanker of the fort built for their protection against the hostile French and Indians; and it seems to have been generally understood that the exposed situation of this settlement, on the frontier, was a sufficient excuse for non-compliance, by the proprietors, with the condition requiring them to build any other structure, as a meeting-house, during the continuance of the war with France.

As early as 1757, Mr. Lombard had become obnoxious to those of his parishioners who now asked for an act of incorporation, on account of his conduct in the discipline of his church, which, it was alleged, had had such an evil tendency that it had weaned their "affections from him and in a great measure spoilt his usefulness towards" them. They also charged him with fomenting quarrels among neighbors, and of neglecting his official duties, to engage in secular business, for his private benefit. Being unable to secure the dismissal of Mr. Lombard, these disaffected parishioners seceded from the church at the fort, and set up a separate congregation, over which they installed, as minister, Mr. Townsend,* a layman,—ordaining him, April 4, 1759, by the primitive congregational method, without the aid of the neighboring ministers and churches, who declined to assist therein.

Such was the state of affairs among the inhabitants of the plantation at the time the petition first above alluded to was presented to the General Court. Upon the merits of this controversy, the non-resident proprietors were divided in opinion; and of these, James Bryant and eight others favored the petitioners, and John Waite, Wm. Cotton and Joshua Bangs, who professed to sign in behalf of all the non-resident proprietors, favored the remonstrants.

After a full hearing, the petition was, by a concurrent vote of the Assembly, ordered to be dismissed, June 10, 1760.

The petitioners made another effort, in November, 1761, to secure an act of incorporation, in a petition signed by John Phinney, Bryant Morton, Richard Edwards and forty-one others. In this petition they ask permission to renew their former petition, for the reason that, by the tax act of 1761-62, the assessors of the tax therein laid on the inhabitants of the plantation, were required to be paid for their services, by the town treasurer; an officer they had no authority to choose without an act of incorporation. They alleged, as further reasons for granting their prayer, that since their former petition they had built a meeting-house, which the proprietors had still neglected to do, and that their population had increased to eighty families.

* See Pierce's History of Gorham.

This petition was opposed in a remonstrance by the "well affected,"—confessedly a minority, and representing "about thirty or five and thirty mails from sixteen years old and upwards." This paper is in the handwriting of Lombard, and signed by him, John M^cDaniel, and thirty others.

The proceedings on this last petition are evidently not all recorded. It appears to have been presented at the May session, 1762-63, and was, probably, dismissed, either during that, or the next session; for we find, at the third session, both the petition and remonstrance read again, revived and dismissed, by a concurrent vote. The next that appears of record in this matter is the following entry; from which it is inferred that either the dismissed petition was again revived, or a new one presented, in the second session of 1763-64, the files of which session were unfortunately consumed in the fire which destroyed the new college at Cambridge, where the General Court was held:—

"Dec. 27, 1763. Upon the Petition of a Number of the Inhabitants of Narraganset, N° 7, alias Gorham Town in the County of Cumberland, praying that they might be erected into a Township, the following Order passed viz^t

In Council Read and Ordered That the Petitioners serve Solomon Lombard Esq^r one of the principal Inhabitants of Gorham Town with a Copy of this Petition, that so he and the other Inhabitants, Non Petitioners shew cause (if any they have) on the last Wednesday of January next why the Prayer thereof should not be granted.

In the House of Representatives; Read and Nonconcurred and the Petitioners are allowed to bring in a Bill for the purposes mentioned.

In Council Read and and Concurred."—Council Records, vol. XXV., p. 98.

This petition seems, by the following entry in the journal of the House, under date of June 4, 1764, to have been renewed at the next May session:—

"A Petition of a Number of Inhabitants of a Place called Gorham-Town, praying they may be incorporated into a Township for the Reasons mentioned.

Read and so far granted, as that the Petitioners be allowed to prepare the draft of a Bill for that purpose, and make Report."

Chap. 17. Distance from the shire towns, and the inconvenient seasons at which the terms of court were held, led to petitions from several towns in Worcester, Hampshire and Middlesex, for either the establishment of new times and places for holding the superior court and inferior courts of common pleas, or the erection of new counties, by division of the old ones. In some instances, the petitioning towns united in the appointment of agents, to urge their petitions, and secure a redress of their grievances, in the general court. Except in the case of Middlesex county, these petitions, although they were received, and notice ordered to be given upon them, seem not to have been pressed further; possibly because this chapter, and chapter 20, of this year, made such changes in the times for holding the courts, as were satisfactory to the petitioners, or because their respective petitions, and the accompanying papers, were destroyed by fire, with other public documents, when the new college-building was consumed.

As early as January, 1764, a committee appointed to prepare a bill for altering the times for holding the common-law courts in the county of Middlesex, had reported the draught of a bill, which was referred to the next May session, in order that several towns, in that county, which had not joined in the petition, might be apprized of the movement. This bill related only to the superior court of judicature, court of assize and general gaol delivery, and provided for changing the place of holding said court, from Charlestown to Concord.

At the May session, 1764, the report of this committee was again continued, and further notice was ordered to be given to the towns of Middlesex. No further action on this report has been discovered.

At the third session of the general court, this year, a joint committee was appointed "to prepare the draught of a bill for altering the time for holding several of the courts throughout the province." This committee was subsequently enlarged, and reported a bill to the Council, the 2d of February. This bill, which was identical with the present chapter, had reached the House, and there passed through its several stages, to be enacted, by Feb. 7, on which day the House also ordered that it be printed in all the Boston newspapers. It was passed to be enacted by the Council on the 11th, and was signed by the Governor on the 12th, of February.

In the mean time the agents of sundry towns in Middlesex had renewed their petition to be set off as a new county, and a committee had been appointed to hear the parties and make report. Although the records fail to show the final action on this petition, it appears, by the following petition, that it was dismissed, and that, thereupon, the petitioners joined in asking that one term of the court of common pleas might be held, annually, in or near the town of Groton. By the non-concurrence of the Council, this measure also failed.

"Jan. 20, 1764. The Secretary delivered the following Message from the Governor to the two Houses respectively viz^t

Gentlemen of the Council and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives

At the last Session I informed you that I had Orders from the Lords of Trade among other things to return an account of the numbers of the People of this province, and that I found it necessary to ask your Assistance to enable me to do this in the most effectual manner. This buisiness was then under your consideration, but being some how or other misunderstood, it never came to a conclusion. But I learnt that a principal objection to my proposal was that it did not appear that this Question was equally proposed to other colonies, although upon the Face of the Queries it appeared to be a General and circular Requisition, and that it was frequently repeated at a certain distance of time. As I had no opportunity to satisfy You upon this Point at the last Session; I soon after informed myself of what had been done in the same case in the neighbouring Colony of Connecticut: And I find that this Question has been answered about two years ago, and that this Answer was framed by the same method I proposed to you, namely a Return of the Selectmen of each Town by order of the General Court. It also appears from their Return that the same Question had been proposed in 1756, and that an exact Return had been made to it. If this had been made known to You at the last Session, I make no doubt but that You would readyly have complyed with my Request: And as upon all Ocasions I represent your proceedings in the most favourable Light I can, I have acquainted their Lordships, that I considered this buisiness as posponed only, and that I did not doubt but that it would pass at the next Session. I must therefore desire You to reconsider it according to my former proposal.

Council Chamber, FRA. BERNARD.
January 19^th 1764."—Ibid., p. 139.

On the second day of February following, the order recited in the preamble to the act was passed.

"Feb. 15, 1765. The Secretary delivered the following Message from his Excellency the Governor to the two Houses respectively viz^{t}—

Gentlemen of the Council, and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives.

I am to inform you that the Order of the General Court made on the 2^{d} of February 1764 for the Selectmen of each Town and District to make a Return of their Houses, Families & people has been disobeyed by a great part of the Province, so that the Returns which have been made are of no use. I have been near three years endeavouring to carry into Execution this Order which was executed in the Colony of Connecticut by order the Assembly in less than three months: from whence this Contempt of an order of Court so reasonable and useful arises, I am at a loss to say: but surely it will bring a great reproach upon the Province, if you do not intervene to prevent it. I must therefore desire that you will forthwith enforce the Execution of this Order by a short day, and in such a manner as shall leave no room for disobedience or at least that you will furnish me with an Answer to his Majesty's Ministers, shewing cause why this Enquiry cannot be Executed in this Province as well as in others. FRA BERNARD."—Ibid., p. 414.

"I have before informed your Lordships of the difficulties I met with in procuring an exact account of the numbers of the people of the Province, which have been occasioned by a few wicked persons insinuating groundless fears and jealousies concerning this measure among the people. Above a year ago the General Court made an order for this business in the manner I desired. This order was but partially obeyed, therefore last Session the General Court passed the present Act which explains itself. It is made a question whether this Act will be universally obeyed however I shall pursue my purpose."—Gov. Bernard to Lords of Trade, Apr. 8, 1765: "Mass. Bay, B. T.," vol. 78, L. l., 79, in Public-Record Office.

"Whilst the people in the province were thus disposed to engage in parties, the state of the colonies became a matter of more serious consideration in England, than it had ever been before. The amazing increase of the national debt, by a war engaged in at the solicitations, and for the protection of the colonies, seems to have caused this new attention.

The first proof of it towards Massachusetts Bay was an order to the governor, to obtain a more exact and certain knowledge, than had ever been obtained, of the number of inhabitants, distinguishing age, sex, &c. This the governor could not obtain without the aid of the assembly, by a law to compel the several towns and districts to make return of their numbers. Objections were made to it. Some suspected that it was required for purposes, though they could not discover them, to the disadvantage of the province; others, and not a few, seemed to have religious scruples, and compared it to David's numbering the people. The proposal was referred from one session to another, and, though it was finally agreed to by a majority, yet many remained dissatisfied."—Hutchinson's Hist. Mass. Bay, vol. 3, p. 103.

"This is an annual Act of Revenue: it differs much from the former in the means of carrying it into execution, which are made more easy to the traders than the former. It also differs in the excise of Wine, which is but two thirds of the former Act, upon account of the parliamentary duty. Nevertheless Wine is heavily loaded, the whole of the parliamentary, Excise & Tonnage duties amounting to £13-7-6 sterling p^{r} Ton. But as this Act got thro' the general Court with great difficulty, it is expected that it will not be renewed next year: the consideration of the Pro-

It will be impossible to reconcile the Indians to the frequent settlements upon the Eastern Coasts, which we may expect to see now continually increasing unless the Indians are quieted in their hunting grounds, upon which, as they observe, their very being depends and in my opinion the fur trade of that Country also: as the Indians take care to preserve the breed of beavers; the English hunters do all they can to extirpate it. I have allready wrote to Your Lordships upon this subject: so shall only add that I cant assure myself that I shall be able to get this necessary prohibition continued beyond the time of the present Act (to June 1766) tho' I shall use my utmost endeavours to do it."—*Gov. "This Province has long laboured under the want of a Bankrupt Act. About 8 years ago An Act of this kind was passed, but it was disallowed by the King, upon exceptions urged, as it was said, by some of the London Merchants trading here. This Act was very voluminous and therefore it could not be well expected but that it must have some exceptionable clauses in it. But it is a pity that the Gentlemen that took exception to it did not signify the particulars which they excepted to; that another bill might have been prepared free from such exceptionable parts. As it has been of late, every Insolvency has afforded instances of great partiality and injustice. The Common Method has been for the Creditors who get the earliest advice of a persons becoming insolvent to sue out attachments against the goods and credit of the insolvent, according to the custom of the Country, and help himself to such part thereof as he pleased. A general scramble ensues, there is no regular audit of the Accounts of the Creditors; The goods are sold in an hurry at a low value; and great part of the effects of the debtor are spent in law proceedings and contests between contending attachments. This has been felt and complained of ever since I have been Governor here; but no adequate remedy attempted till of late. This Winter a gentleman, who had acted considerably as a Banker, stop't payment for £170,000 Sterling. This was like an Earthquake to the Town: numbers of people were creditors, some for their all: Evry one dreaded the consequences; Lesser Merchants began to fail; a stop to all Credit was expected and a general

Bankruptcy was apprehended for a time. In this state of things Application was made to the general Court for present relief: but it was difficult to say what could be done there. I could not consent to another Bankrupt Act, because I knew not what were the exceptionable parts of the former Act. At last it was thought proper to send to New York for copies of their Acts for the relief of the Creditors of insolvent Debtors; which having his Majesty's consent either tacit or exprest, it was presumed that a Bill of the like nature would be admissible here. From the New York Acts this Act has been framed: and it does not that I know of, differ materially from them. It must be expected that Experience will point out some necessary emendations of this Act: and therefore it is enacted only for three years. This Circumstance gives me an opportunity so to recommend it to your Lordships, that if exceptions should be taken to some parts of it only and not to the general purport of the Act, Your Lordships will be pleased to signify what alterations you would have made to it, that the whole may not be condemned, for particulars only: for some such Act is absolutely necessary for the trade of this Country, I wish it was more in the nature of the English Bankrupt Acts; so as to prevent partial Attachments especially private ones; but all cannot be done at once."—Gov. Bernard to Lords of Trade, Apr. 8 1765: "Mass. Bay, B. T.," vol. 78, L. l., 79, in Public-Record Office.

The following list, compiled from the columns of "The Massachusetts Gazette," of absconding debtors, and debtors who concealed themselves from their creditors, against whom proceedings were commenced under this act, is believed to be complete. Against each name is placed the date of the warrant issued by a justice of the Superior Court of Judicature, the date of the first publication of notice of the issuing of the warrant, and the date of the notice of the time and place of the first meeting of creditors. This last was invariably signed by the trustees appointed, and is usually dated some days earlier than the paper in which it was published The warrants appear to have been generally, if not in every instance, issued either by the Chief Justice, or by Mr. Justice Lynde; and the names of the justice and of the trustees, in each case, are given, opposite the name of the debtor:—

† The Stamp Act went into operation Nov. 1, 1765. It was repealed March 18, 1766; and tidings of the repeal reached Boston on the sixteenth of May. Early in February, however, agreeably to a recommendation by the Council, the justices of the Superior Court of Judicature met to determine, whether or not they would proceed with business at the ensuing terms of the court. The determination of the majority of the bench was expressed in a reply prepared by the chief justice, which, though equivocal, was understood to be a declaration that, if the condition of affairs remained unchanged at the opening of the court, trials and other business would proceed, from necessity, without the use of the stamps required by the act of parliament.

Thereupon the inferior courts, some of which, as well as some of the probate courts, had already begun to pursue this course, proceeded to business; and, outside of the courts, conveyances were made, and commercial business was conducted, as if no stamp act existed.

The next Superior Court was held in Suffolk, on the second Tuesday of March; and, although Hutchinson declares that, at that term, at which he declined to be present, all business requiring stamps was continued to an adjourned session, or to the next term (Hist. Mass. Bay. vol. 3, p. 146), it is clear that even before the date of the above-named declaration of the justices, he did not decline to issue warrants under the insolvency acts.

* The insolvency act (1764-65, chap. 35, and 1765-66, chap. 2), were repealed by chap. 5 of the acts of 1766-67, which was passed June 27, 1766; and their operation, which had been interrupted, for a while, by the Stamp Act, was, at the close of the third session of the Assembly of 1765-66, suspended, except in respect to proceedings already commenced, by a resolve (which is given, in full, in the note to 1766-67, chap. 5, post) passed in anticipation of the passage of the repealing act.

The insolvency acts again went into operation, Feb. 3, 1768, upon receipt of notice of the order in Council disallowing the repealing act, which, it seems to have been generally assumed, revived the former acts; but, as their continuance was limited to March 12, 1768, it was found necessary to pass an act for completing unfinished cases, many of which were begun in this short interval. This, however, was not effected until April 26, 1770. (Act of 1769-70, chap. 10.)

The following notice appeared in "The Massachusetts Gazette and Boston News-Letter" of Feb. 4, 1768:—

"Province of the Massachusetts Bay. In Council, Feb. 3, 1768.

His Excellency having laid before the Board an Order of His Majesty in his Privy Council dated the 24th Day of July, 1767, by which His Majesty hath been pleased to disallow and reject an Act passed by the Great and General Court or Assembly of this Province in June 1766, intituled as follows; viz., [Here follows the title of the repealing act.]

It was Advised and Ordered that Notice be given in the Massachusetts Gazette that all Persons concerned therein may govern themselves accordingly.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT, INTITLED "AN ACT FOR PREVENTING FRAUD IN DEBTORS, AND FOR SECURING THE EFFECTS OF INSOLVENT DEBTORS FOR THE BENEFIT OF THEIR CREDITORS."

Whereas, in and by an act made and passed in the present year of his majesty's reign, intitled "An Act for preventing fraud in debtors, and for securing the effects of insolvent debtors for the benefit of their creditors," it is provided, among other things, as follows; viz., "That if any absconding or concealed debtor or debtors shall, at any time after the appointment of trustees, and the meetings of the creditors as aforesaid, offer to surrender themselves, and disclose and also deliver up their whole estate, if any shall remain in their hands, and the major part of the creditors in number and value, shall, in order to the discharge of such debtor or debtors, present a petition to any two of the justices of the superior court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery, it shall and may be lawful for such two justices, if no just objection be offered, to discharge such debtor or debtors accordingly;" and whereas absconding or concealed debtors, having surrendered their whole estates, are rendered incapable, during their confinement, of supporting themselves and families,—

Preamble. 1764-65, chap. 35, § 11. 15 Mass. 406.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

[Sect. 1.] That if any absconding debtor, after the appointment of trustees of his or her estate, pursuant to the provision made in the aforesaid act, shall deliver, in writing, to the said trustees, an account of all his or her creditors, and the sums respectively due and owing to them, and shall make oath that such account, according to the best of his or her knowledge and belief, is just and true, and the major part of such creditors in number and value, shall, by writing, under their hands, or the hands of their attornies, desire that the body of such debtor may be freed from arrest, it shall and may be lawful for any one of the justices of the superior court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery, to certify, under his hand, that the major part in number and value of the creditors of such debtor have signified their consent that he or she be free from arrest; and from and after the date of such certificate, such debtor, for all debts contracted before the issuing the warrant to attach and seize his or her estate, shall be free from arrest for and during the term of eighteen months from the first appointment of trustees, and also for and during the further term of two months after the expiration of the said eighteen months; that so the major part of the creditors, whose claims shall have been allowed, may have opportunity, if they see cause, of presenting a petition for the final discharge of such debtor, pursuant to the provision made in the aforesaid act.

And be it further enacted,

Upon the death or removal of any trustee or trustees, the creditors may appoint others.

[SECT. 2.] That in case of the death or removal out of the province of any trustee or trustees appointed by virtue of the aforesaid act, it shall and may be lawful for the creditors, present at any meeting duly called, by a major vote, to chuse another trustee or trustees in his or their stead; and in case any trustee or trustees appointed as aforesaid shall desire to be excused from continuing in such trust, it shall and may be lawful for the major part of the creditors present at any meeting duly called, to chuse, if they see cause, another trustee or trustees in his or their stead.

And be it further enacted,

Sheriff to make a true inventory of estate or effects seized and taken.

[SECT. 3.] That the respective sheriff or sheriffs to whom any warrant for attaching, seizing and securing the effects of any absconding or concealed person shall be directed, in pursuance of the aforesaid act, be and hereby are required to make a just and true inventory of all the estate and effects seized and taken, and return the same, signed by himself, to the justice who shall have issued the warrant as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

Creditors who have made attachments, not to share with other creditors unless they shall discontinue their suits.

[SECT. 4.] That if any creditor of any debtor whose estate shall by warrant be hereafter attached, seized and secured, in pursuance of the aforesaid act, shall have made any attachment of the goods or estate of such debtor, or commenced any process against any trustee of such debtor, upon which attachment or process judgment shall not have been recovered before the date of the said warrant, such creditor shall not be admitted to share any part or proportion of such debtor's estate with his other creditors, unless such creditor shall discontinue such suit or process, or cause or suffer the judgment which may be recovered thereon to enure to the common use and benefit of the creditors of such debtor, anything in the aforesaid act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Limitation.

[SECT. 5.] This act to continue and be in force until the twelfth day of March, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-eight, and no longer.

CHAPTER 3.

AN ACT TO ESTABLISH AND CONFIRM THE RECORDS OF THE PROPRIETORS OF ATHOL.

Preamble.

Whereas, in the beginning of the first settlement of a tract of land at a place called and known by the name of Pequoig, now Athol, in the county of Worcester, and for many years after, Joseph Lord, Esq., was their proprietors' clerk, who, removing out of this province, carried the records of the said propriety with him, which cannot be obtained; since which the said proprietors, from original papers, have made and agreed upon a new book of records, which, with the records of the transactions of some meetings of said proprietors, now in the hands of the Reverend Mr. Abraham Hill, their late clerk, will make a compleat book of records to this time; and the said proprietors having made application to this court that the same may be confirmed: wherefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

The records of the proprietors of Athol, established.

That the Reverend Mr. Abraham Hill, late the proprietors' clerk of the town of Athol, in the county of Worcester, be and hereby is directed and required to deliver the records of the transactions of the several meetings of the said proprietors of Athol, now in his hands, to Nathan Goddard, their present clerk, which, with the book of records, voted and agreed upon by the said proprietors at their meeting on the third day of May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-three, now in the said Goddard's hands, are hereby established and confirmed, as the records of said proprietors, to all intents and purposes whatsoever, so as to bind the said proprietors, and no others. [Passed June 18; published June 25.

CHAPTER 4.

AN ACT TO IMPOWER THE PROVINCE TREASURER TO DRAW BILLS OF EXCHANGE UPON JASPER MAUDUIT, ESQ., LATE AGENT OF THE PROVINCE IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Preamble.

Whereas there will remain in the hands of Jasper Mauduit, Esq., the sum of eight thousand three hundred thirty-three pounds seventeen shillings and sixpence sterling, after payment of the bills for which the treasurer is, by a former act, impowered to draw, being part of the sum he received, on behalf of this province, out of the grant made by parliament to enable his majesty to recompence his northern colonies in America for their military services,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Province treasurer empowered to draw bills of exchange.

Preamble.

8 Met. 584, 594.

WHEREAS divers piously disposed persons, in the first settlement of the town of Ipswich, in the county of Essex, granted and conveyed to feoffees in trust, and to such their successors in the same trust as those feoffees should appoint, to hold perpetual succession, certain lands, tenements and annuities by them mentioned, for the use of school-learning in the said town forever; of which feoffees John Choate, Samuel Rogers, Aaron Potter and Francis Choate, Esqrs., are the only survivors; and whereas the said town of Ipswich did also, in their laudable concern for promoting learning, about the same time, and for the same uses, give and grant to certain persons in their grants mentioned, and to such others as the said town should appoint, a large farm, then called a neck of land, scituate in Chebacco, in the said Ipswich, with some other lands, the rents of which to be applied to the use of learning in said town as aforesaid; but, as is apprehended, no power was given by the said town, to their trustees, to appoint successors, in that trust, for receiving and applying the rents, or of ordering and directing the affairs of the school in said town, as in the first-mentioned case is provided; from which difference in the original constitution of those grants, which were all designed for one and the same use, disputes have heretofore arisen between the said town and the said feoffees; and also some doubts have arisen whether, by the constitution of those grants as aforesaid, it is in the power, either of the said town or feoffees, to compel the payment of the rents of said farm and other lands granted by said town, as before mentioned; and whereas, for the removal of the aforesaid difficulties, on the joint application of both said town and the then feoffees, this court did, in the twenty-ninth year of his late majesty King George the Second, by one act then passed, intituled "An Act for regulating the grammar school in Ipswich, and for incorporating certain persons to manage and direct the same," empower the then surviving feoffees, with three successors, together with part of the selectmen of said town, for the time being, as an incorporate body, to manage and direct the affairs of said school for ten years then next coming, in manner as in said act is expressed, which ten years will expire on the first day of March next; and whereas it has been found by experience that the said act has been of great advantage to the interest of learning in said town, and that all doubts and disputes aforementioned, from the passing of said act, have ceased, and the parties concerned have desired the continuance of the aid of this court touching the premisses; wherefore,— 1755-56, chap 26.

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, [Sect. 1.] That from and after the first day of March next, the aforenamed John Choate, Samuel Rogers, Aaron Potter and Francis Choate, Esqrs., the present surviving feoffees on the part of the private persons granting lands as aforesaid, together with Michael Farlow, Samuel Burnham and Samuel Lord the third, three of the present selectmen of the said town of Ipswich, shall be and they are hereby incorporated a joint committee or feoffees in trust, with full power and authority by the whole, or the major part of them, to pass necessary leases of any of said lands, not prejudicial to any lease already made and not exceeding the term of twenty-one years at any one time; also to demand and receive all rents and annuities, on such other grants or leases relative to said school, that now is or that hereafter may be, and, if need be, to sue for and recover the same, either by themselves or by their attorney; also to appoint a clerk and treasurer, also a grammar-school master, from year to year; and, from time to time, to agree with him and them for his and their salaries; and to apply the said rents, grants and annuities for the payment of his and their salaries, and for the discharge of other necessary expences attending this affair, so far as those rents, grants and annuities will go; with a like power from time to time to inspect the said school and master, and, in general, to transact and order all matters and things relative to said school, and to all the lands, grants, rents and annuities that do now, or that may hereafter, belong to said school, arising from the donations aforesaid, so as best to answer the general design and intent thereof; annually laying an account of their proceedings in this trust before the said town, at their March meeting, for their inspection. Feoffees of Ipswich school appointed. Their power.

And for the continuance of the succession of the aforenamed committee or feoffees,— any time to be appointed that is not an inhabitant of the said town of Ipswich: and the selectmen aforesaid, by this act incorporated as aforesaid, shall, from year to year, be succeeded by the three eldest, in that office, of the selectmen of that town, other than such of them as be also one of the feoffees constituted as aforesaid; and in case it shall so happen, at any time, that there are not three selectmen chosen by the said town who have served in that office before, then those first named in such choice shall succeed as aforesaid.

Be it further enacted,

And, for rendering the whole more effectual,—

Be it further enacted,—

Feoffees may sue or be sued, as such.

CHAPTER 18.

AN ACT FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF FIFTY THOUSAND POUNDS; AND ALSO FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF TWO THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED AND TWELVE POUNDS NINETEEN SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE, PAID THE REPRESENTATIVES FOR THEIR TRAVEL, SERVICE AND ATTENDANCE IN THE GENERAL COURT, IN THE YEAR ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FOUR; ALSO FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-EIGHT POUNDS THREE SHILLINGS, FOR FINES LAID UPON TOWNS THAT HAVE NOT SENT ANY PERSONS TO REPRESENT THEM IN THE GENERAL COURT THE PRESENT YEAR; AND ALSO FOR ASSESSING THE TOWN OF HANOVER THE SUM OF SIXTEEN POUNDS, PAID OUT OF THE PROVINCE TREASURY TO SYLVANUS WING; AND ALSO FOR ASSESSING THE SUM OF TEN POUNDS THREE SHILLINGS AND FIVEPENCE ON THE TOWN OF SPRINGFIELD; AND THE SUM OF TWO POUNDS ONE SHILLING AND EIGHTPENCE ON WILBRAHAM; AND THE SUM OF TWELVE POUNDS FIVE SHILLINGS AND ONE PENNY ON NORTHAMPTON; AND THE SUM OF TWELVE POUNDS AND ELEVENPENCE ON WESTFIELD; AND THE SUM OF TWELVE POUNDS FIVE SHILLINGS AND ONE PENNY ON HATFIELD; AND THE SUM OF EIGHT POUNDS THREE SHILLINGS AND TWOPENCE ON BRIMFIELD; AND THE SUM OF THREE POUNDS SEVENTEEN SHILLINGS AND NINEPENCE ON SOUTH BRIMFIELD; AND THE SUM OF TWELVE POUNDS AND ELEVENPENCE ON DEERFIELD; AND THE SUM OF SIX POUNDS AND SEVENPENCE ON GREENFIELD; AND THE SUM OF TWO POUNDS NINETEEN SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE ON MONSON,—MAKING THE SUM OF EIGHTY-ONE POUNDS EIGHTEEN SHILLINGS AND ONE PENNY, BEING THE TAX REMITTED TO BERNARDSTON FOR TWO YEARS LAST PAST, AND THE TAX REMITTED TO HUNTSTOWN FOR THREE YEARS LAST PAST, AND ORDERED TO BE ADDED TO THE PRESENT YEAR'S TAX OF THE SEVERAL TOWNS AFORESAID, AND IN THE MANNER AFORESAID; WHICH TAXES ARE TO BE OVER AND ABOVE THEIR PROPORTION OF WHAT WAS LAID ON THE SAID TOWNS: WHICH SUMS AMOUNT TO FIFTY-TWO THOUSAND SIX HUNDRED AND SIXTY-NINE POUNDS AND SEVENPENCE.

WHEREAS the great and general court or assembly of this province, by an act made and passed at their session in January, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-three, agreed upon and ordered a tax of fifty-four thousand pounds; and one other act made and passed at the same sessions, agreed upon and ordered a further tax of forty-five thousand six hundred and seven pounds; and by another act, made and passed at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-four, agreed upon and ordered a further tax of one hundred and fifty thousand pounds: amounting in the whole to two hundred and forty-nine thousand six hundred and seven pounds; and whereas by the acts aforesaid provision is respectively made that the general court, at their present session, might apportion the same on the several towns, districts, parishes and places within this province, if they should think fit; yet inasmuch as such a heavy tax will be extremely burthensome to the inhabitants of this province, under their present distressed circumstances, and as some of the possessors of government securities, for the redemption of which the aforesaid sum of two hundred and forty-nine thousand six hundred and seven pounds is applied, are willing to continue their money upon loan, payable at a further period; which, with the tax of fifty thousand pounds now agreed to be assessed and levied this year, will be sufficient to redeem the government securities, with the interest thereon, that will become due in June next; wherefore, for the ordering, directing and effectually drawing in the said sum of fifty-two thousand six hundred and sixty-seven pounds four shillings and sevenpence, we, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives in general court assembled, pray that it may be enacted,—

1762–63, chap. 30, § 4.

1764–65, chap. 11, § 6.

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

[Sect. 1.] That each town, district, parish or other place within this province be assessed and pay, as such town, district, parish and place's proportion of the sum of fifty-two thousand six hundred and sixty-seven pounds four shillings and sevenpence, the several sums following; that is to say,—

Rules for assessment.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town, district, parish or other place within this province, that are taxed, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town, district, parish or other place, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns, districts, parishes or other places, or next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town or place, at six shillings and eightpence per poll, and proportionably in assessing the additional sum paid out of the treasury, to the representatives for their travel and attendance aforesaid (excepting the governor, lieutenant-governor and their families, the president, fellows, professors, Hebrew instructor and students of Harvard College, settled ministers, and grammar-school masters, who are hereby exempted as well from being taxed for their polls, as their estates being in their own hands and under their actual management and improvement; as also the estate pertaining to Harvard College); and other persons, if such there be, who, through age, infirmity or extreme poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not able to pay towards public charges, they may exempt their polls or estate, or abate part of what they are set at, as in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet.

[SECT. 3.] And the justices in their general sessions, in the respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns, districts, parishes and other places in such county in proportion to the province rate; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and the incomes of all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town, district, parish or other place, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession the same is or shall be found, and also the incomes or profits which any person or persons, except as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or employment whatsoever, and all profits which shall or may arise by money, or commissions of profit, in their improvement, at twelvepence per pound; and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for each town, district, parish or other place to pay; and in making the said assessment, to estimate houses and lands at six years' yearly rent, whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all agreements between landlord and tenant, and where no agreement is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax set upon such houses and lands, new cleared lands for tillage not to be rated until the first crop be taken off; and to estimate negro, Indian and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment and discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings; every cow or heifer of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; and every horse and mare of three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; and every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; goats and sheep of one year old and upwards, at three shillings each; the several creatures above mentioned to be taxed to their respective owners or occupants, by the assessors of the towns in which the owners or occupants dwell: likewise requiring the said assessors to make a fair list of said assessment, setting forth, in distinct columns, against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate, and income by trade or faculty, and if as guardians, or for any estate, in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly expressed; and the list or lists, so perfected and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collector or constable or constables of any such town, district, parish or place, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collector, constable or constables, with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of November next.

[Sect. 4.] And the treasurer, for the time being, upon receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, or constable or constables, of such town, district, parish or place, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, and to pay in their collection, and issue their accompts of the whole, at or before the thirtieth day of March, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty-six.

And be it further enacted,

Inhabitants to bring in a true list of their polls, estate, &c.

[Sect. 5.] That the assessors of each town, district, parish or other place, respectively, in convenient time before their making of the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town-meeting, or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town, district, parish or place, or notify the inhabitants some other way, to give or bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls and rateable estate they shall be possessed of, on the first Monday in September next, and income by trade or faculty, and gain by money at interest, which they are to render to the assessors, on oath, if required; and if they refuse to give in an account of the money at interest, on oath, the assessors are impowered to doom them; and if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion of this tax, as near as they can, agreeable to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of said assessors, in bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town, district, parish or place where the delinquent lives, to be levied by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collectors or constables, in manner as is directed for gathering the town assessments, to be paid in to the town, district or parish treasury, for the use aforesaid: saving to the party aggrieved at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county, for relief as in the case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estates as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of general sessions, for any abatement of the assessment laid on him or them.

[Sect. 6.] And if the person be not convicted of any falseness in the list, by him presented, of the polls, rateable estate, or income by trade or faculty, business or employment, which he does or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assessed, such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax, which the assessors may not exceed.

And forasmuch as, oftentimes, sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize into the same, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to is finished and delivered to the constable or collectors, and, before the next year's assessment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, tho', in the time of their residing here, they reaped considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Transient traders to be rated.

[SECT. 7.] That when any person or persons shall come and reside in any town within this province, and bring any merchandize, or trade to deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby impowered to rate and assess all such persons, according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions of this act provided, though the former rate may have been finished, and a new one not perfected, as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

Merchants to be rated for carrying on trade in any town beside where they dwell.

[SECT. 8.] That when any merchant, trader or factor, shall set up a store, and traffick, or carry on any trade or business, in any town within this province, not being an inhabitant of such town, the assessors of such town where such trade and business shall be carried on as aforesaid, be and hereby are impowered to rate and assess all such merchants, traders and factors, their goods and merchandizes, for carrying on such trade and business and exercising their faculty in such town, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act: provided, before any such assessors shall rate such persons, as aforementioned, the selectmen of the town where such trade is carried on shall transmit a list of such persons as they shall judge may and ought to be rated, within the intent of this act, to the assessors of such town or district.

Selectmen to transmit a list of such persons before they are rated.

[SECT. 9.] And the constables or collectors are hereby enjoined to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assessed on persons who are not of this province, or are residents in other towns than those where they carry on their trade, and pay the same.

And whereas it has been the practice of some of the inhabitants of the town of Boston to remove to some other town in this province, and there reside for some months, to avoid paying their part of the taxes in the town of Boston, to which they really belong, to the great injury of the said town,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Inhabitants of Boston who remove out of town and return in a year, to pay their tax in said town.

[SECT. 10.] That when any inhabitant of the town of Boston shall remove to any other town in this province, and shall, in one year after, remove back to said Boston, and shall have been taxed in the said town, he shall be subject to pay said taxes in like manner as he would have been had he not have removed from said Boston (saving so much as he shall be taxed in the town removed to), anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding. CHAPTER 19.

AN ACT FOR THE PRESERVATION AND INCREASE OF MOOSE AND DEER ON TARPOLIN-COVE ISLAND AND NENNEMESSET ISLAND, LYING AND BEING IN THE COUNTY OF DUKES COUNTY.

Preamble.

WHEREAS James Bowdoin and William Bowdoin, Esqrs., by their petition to this court, have represented that they have been long endeavouring to raise a stock of deer on Tarpolin-Cove Island, otherwise called Nausham, or Catamock, and on the island Nennemesset, and several small islands contiguous (said islands being in the town of Chilmark, in the county of Dukes County), but have been in a great measure prevented by hunters and others coming on said islands to hunt and kill deer; to the great damage of the said petitioners, not only in the loss of deer, but of other live stock, which has been clandestinely taken away by said hunters, or destroyed by their dogs; and whereas the raising and increase of moose and deer on said islands may be of great advantage not only to the said petitioners and their successors, but also to the publick,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

No person but such as are proprietors or have license, to hunt, wound, or kill moose or deer on the islands mentioned.

[Sect. 1.] That each and every person, except the said petitioners, or such as shall be proprietors of said islands, or such as shall have special licence from them, who shall, after the twentieth day of July in this present year, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-five, hunt, wound, kill or take away any moose or deer upon either of the islands aforesaid, or be concerned or assisting therein, and be thereof convicted, either by his own confession or by the oath of one witness, shall, for each and every time he shall so hunt, or for each and every moose or deer he shall so wound, kill or take away, pay a fine of six pounds and costs of prosecution; one moiety of said fine to be to his majesty for the use of this province, and the other moiety thereof to him or them that shall inform against and prosecute the offender to effect; such prosecution to be commenced within two years after the offence done.

Penalty.

And be it further enacted,

Offenders deemed trespassers, and may be sued accordingly:

[Sect. 2.] That every person killing or taking away, or assisting in killing or taking away, any moose or deer on either of the islands aforesaid, shall be and hereby is deemed a trespasser; and is hereby subjected to the action of such as are or shall be the proprietor or proprietors of all or any of said islands, or to the action of any or either such proprietors, for the recovery of six pounds for each and every moose or deer so killed or taken away, if such proprietor or proprietors shall choose rather to bring an action of trespass against such offender, than a prosecution: provided, that such trespasser shall not, for one and the same offence, be subjected both to an action and a prosecution; and if both shall be brought against the same offender, for the same offence, the proprietors shall be obliged to make their option which they will continue, and shall discontinue the other.

—but subject to only one action or prosecution.

And be it further enacted,

The flesh and skins deemed to be evidence, unless proof be made that they were not killed contrary to law.

[Sect. 3.] That if the flesh, skin or skins of any moose or deer newly killed, be, at any time after the twentieth day of July aforesaid, found with, or in the possession of, any person or persons whatsoever, except as before excepted, on either of the islands aforesaid, it shall be deemed sufficient proof of such person or persons' having killed moose or deer contrary to this act, unless such person or persons shall prove, by evidence, that such moose or deer were not killed on either of the said islands, or killed thereon by persons authorized to kill the same.

And be it further enacted,

Lawful to kill dogs found on the islands, not belonging there.

[Sect. 4.] That it shall be and hereby is declared to be lawful for any person or persons to kill any dog or hound that may at any time be brought or found on any of the islands aforesaid, not belonging to the said islands or some of the inhabitants of the same.

Limitation.

AN ACT FOR RAISING BY LOTTERY THE SUM OF THREE THOUSAND TWO HUNDRED POUNDS, FOR BUILDING ANOTHER HALL FOR THE STUDENTS OF HARVARD COLLEGE TO DWELL IN.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the buildings belonging to Harvard College are greatly insufficient for lodging the students of the said college, and will become much more so when Stoughton Hall shall be pulled down, as, by its present ruinous state, it appears it soon must be; and whereas there is no fund for erecting such buildings, and considering the great expence which the general court has lately been at in building Hollis Hall, and also in rebuilding Harvard College, it cannot be expected that any further provision for the college should be made out of the public treasury, so that no other resort is left but to private benefactions, which, it is conceived, will be best excited by means of a lottery; therefore, to prevent the further inconveniences which will arise from the necessary pulling down Stoughton Hall, and to provide for the present want of lodging-rooms in the said college,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Directors of the college lottery appointed:

[SECT. 1.] That Thomas Hubbard, Esq., Harrison Gray, Esq., Thomas Flucker, Esq., Edward Holyoke, Esq., Joseph Lee, Esq., John Winthrop, Esq., and Mr. Thomas Gray, be appointed and impowered directors to set up and carry on a lottery or lotteries, in one or more classes, whereby to raise the sum of three thousand and two hundred pounds, lawful money; which sum so to be raised, and every part thereof from time to time so raised, after deducting the necessary expences, to be settled and approved of by the governor and council, shall be paid unto the treasurer of the province, to be subject to the

And the said directors, and each of them, before they or he shall undertake the execution of this act, shall take an oath for the faithful execution of the trust reposed in them, before one of his majesty's council or a justice of the peace, the administration of which oath shall be certified unto the governor and council; and the accounts of the said directors, and each of them, shall be audited and finally settled by the governor and council, and there shall remain upon record.

Money, how to be applied.

Governor and council to approve the scheme.

Directors to be under oath.

[Sect. 2.] And if there shall be any disputes concerning the right of or to any benefit-ticket or tickets, the same shall be heard and determined by the directors, or any four of them; and if either of the parties shall be dissatisfied with such determination, they shall be at liberty to appeal to the governor and council, who shall hear and finally determine the same; and if any prize which shall be drawn in the said lottery or lotteries shall not be claimed within one year after the list of prizes shall be published in some or one of the Boston newspapers, the same shall be considered as generously given to the uses aforesaid, and shall be paid unto the said treasurer, and applied accordingly; and if there shall remain any overplus of the said money remaining, after the said new hall shall be built and compleatly finished, the same shall be applied, for the benefit of the college, to such uses as the governor, with the advice and consent of the council, shall order and direct.

Prizes not claimed in one year, to be considered as given to the college.

Overplus, if any, to be applied for the benefit of the college.

And be it enacted,

[Sect. 3.] That if any person or persons shall forge or alter, or knowingly publish any forged or altered ticket or tickets, with intent to defraud, and shall be convicted thereof in the superior court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery, such person or persons shall be punished by fine, imprisonment, setting in the pillory, and whipping, or any of them, according to the discretion of the court and the nature of the offence. [Passed and published June 25.

Penalty on forging tickets.

And it is hereby enacted and declared,

Recognizances put in suit may be chancered as other bonds.

[SECT. 6.] That all recognizances, taken in consequence of this act, and on forfeiture put in suit in any court of record within this province, may, by such court, be chancered down to the just debt and damage (where that can be known), as other bonds may be, by the laws of this province already enacted.

And be it further enacted,

Licenses not to be renewed if former excise is not paid.

[SECT. 7.] That no such taverner, innholder or retailer shall be licenced by the justices of the general sessions of the peace, who have not accounted with the collector, and paid him the excise, aforesaid, due from such persons at the time of his or her taking or renewing his licence.

Preamble.

And whereas, notwithstanding the laws made against selling strong drink without licence, many persons, not regarding the penalties of said act, do receive and entertain persons in their houses, and sell great quantities of spirits and other strong drink, without licence, by reason whereof great debaucheries are committed and kept secret, and such as take licences and pay the duties of excise therefor are greatly wronged, and the government thereby defrauded,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Forfeiture for selling without license.

[SECT. 8.] That if any distiller, importer, or any other person whatever, after the said twenty-fifth day of March, shall presume, directly or indirectly, to sell any rum or other distilled spirits, or wine, in less quantity than fifteen gallons, or any beer, ale, cyder, perry or other strong drink, in any quantity less than three gallons, without licence first had and obtained from the court of general sessions of the peace in that county, and recognizing in manner as afores[*aid], shall forfeit and pay for each offence the sum of two pounds and costs of prosecution, two thirds for the use of the government, and the other third for the prosecutor.

Preamble.

And whereas divers other persons than those licenced to sell rum and other distilled spirits by retail, have heretofore supplied persons employed by them in the fishery, building vessel[l]s, and in other business, without paying any excise therefor, and thereby have defrauded the government of the duties of excise, and have not been subject to the penalty provided by law against selling drink without licence,

* Parchment mutilated.

and the same practice will probably be continued unless effectual care be taken to prevent the same,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Persons not licensed, supplying those employed by them in the fishery, &c., with spirituous liquors, to be deemed sellers.

[Sect. 9.] That all persons not licenced as aforesaid, who shall hereafter, by themselves, or by any other person or persons under them, or by their order[s], allowance or connivance, supply any person or persons employed by them in the fishery, building of vessel[l]s, or any other business or employ, with rum or any other distilled spirits, or wine, shall be deemed and taken to be sellers of such liquors, and be subject to the aforesaid pains and penalties provided against persons selling any of the liquors aforesaid without licence, and shall be recovered in like manner, unless they make it appear that such wine, rum or other distilled spirits was purchased of a taverner, innholder or retailer, or other person or persons that had licence or permit to sell the same.

And be it further enacted,

Vessels employed in the cod and whale fishery allowed twenty gallons free of excise.

[Sect. 10.] For the encouragement of the cod and whale fishery, that all rum and other spirits consumed by such persons as are employed in the said business, out of this province, be exempted from paying excise, and that there be allowed for the consumption of each vessel[l]'s crew usually fishing upon George's Banks, and to the eastward and southward thereof, the quantity of twenty gallons for each trip or fare; and that every master or owner of such vessel[l] or vessel[l]s that shall, after the twenty-sixth day of March next, supply any such vessel[l] with any rum or spirits on a fishing voyage, and produce an account thereof to the collector, under oath, not exceeding the aforesaid quantity of twenty gallons for one trip or fare, shall be allowed the same drawback as is provided in this act on rum and other spirits exported out of this province.

And be it further enacted,

One witness sufficient for conviction.

[Sect. 11.] That when any person shall be charged with selling any strong drink without licence, one witness produced to the satisfaction of the court or justice before whom the trial is, shall be deemed sufficient for conviction. And when and so often as it shall be observed that there is a resort of persons to houses suspected of selling strong drink without licence, any justice of the peace in the same county, shall [*have power] to convene such persons before him, to examine them, upon oath, concerning the persons [*suspected of selling] or retailing strong drink in such houses, outhouses or other depend[a][e]nc[i]e[s] thereof; and if, upon examining such witnesses, and hearing the defence of such suspected person, it shall appear to the justice there is sufficient proof of the violation of this act by selling strong drink without licence, judgment may thereupon be made [*up] against such person, and he shall forfeit in like manner as if process had been commenced [*by] action or information before the said justice; or otherwise the said justice may bind over the [*pers]on suspected, and the witnesses, to the next court of general sessions of the peace for the [*coun]ty where such person shall dwell.

And be it further enacted,

Penalty on persons refusing to give evidence.

[Sect. 12.] That if any person or persons shall be [*s]ummoned to appear before a justice of the peace, or the grand jury, to give evidence relating to any person's selling strong drink without licence, or to appear before the court of general sessions of the peace, or other court proper to try the same, to give evidence on the trial of any person informed against, presented or indicted for selling strong drink without licence, and shall neglect, or refuse to appear, or to give evidence in that behalf, every person so offending shall forfeit the sum of forty shillings and costs of prosecution; the one half of the penalty aforesaid to be to his majesty for the use of the province, and the other half to and for the use of him or them who shall sue for the same as aforesaid. And when it shall so happen that witnesses are bound to sea before the sitting of the court where any person or persons informed against, for selling strong drink without licence, is or are to be prosecuted for the same, in every such case, the deposition of any witness or witnesses, in writing, taken before any two of his majesty's justices of the peace, quorum unus, and sealed up and delivered into court, the adverse party having first had notice, in writing, sent to him or her, of the time and place of caption, shall be esteemed a sufficient evidence, in the law, to convict any person or persons offending against this act, as if such witness or witnesses had been present at the time of trial, and given his, her or their deposition vivâ voce; and every person or persons who shall be summoned to give evidence before two justices of the peace, in manner as aforesaid, and shall neglect or refuse to appear, or to give evidence relating to the facts he or she shall be enquired of, shall be liable and subject to the same penalty as he or she would have been, by virtue of this act, for not appearing, or neglecting or refusing to give his or her evidence before the grand jury or court aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

How fines, &c., are to be recovered.

[SECT. 13.] That all fines, penalties and forfeitures arising by this act shall and may be recovered by action or information before any court of record proper to try the same, and, where the sum forfeited does not exceed forty shillings, by action or information before any one of his majesty's justices of the peace in the respective counties where such offence shall be committed: which said justice is hereby impowered to try and determine the same. Collectors already chosen are to see to the execution of this act;

[SECT. 15.] And such collectors in each county who shall hereafter be appointed by the general court to take charge of this duty of excise, shall be upon oath to take care of the execution of this law, and to prosecute the breakers of it.

[SECT. 16.] And every collector of excise in any county may substitute and appoint one or more deputy or deputies under him, upon oath, to collect and receive the excise aforesaid, which shall become due in said county, and pay in the same to such collector, which deputy and deputies shall have, use and exercise all such powers and authorities as in and by this act are given or committed to the collector for

[*An] ACT FOR AMENDING OF AN ACT MADE IN THE FIFTH YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY'S REIGN, INTITULED "AN ACT TO [*PREVENT THE DESTRUCTION O]F SALMON AND OTHER FISH, IN MERRIMACK RIVER, WITHIN THIS PROVINCE."

Whereas, in and by an act intitled "An Act to prevent the destruction of salmon and other fish [*i]n Merrimack River, within this province," which act was to take place from and after the fifteenth day of March, 1765, it is, among other things, enacted "That no person or persons, from and after the said fifteenth day of March, shall, at any time during the continuance of this act, catch any salmon, shad or alewives, with seines, netts or potts, at the mouth or entrance of any such river or stream, or within one hundred rods of the same, nor in any of the ponds aforesaid, nor in any of the brooks or riv[u]lets that run into the said ponds, on pain of forfeiting, for each offence, the sum of three pounds"; which distance of one hundred rods is found, by experience, to be very prejudicial to the inhabitants dwelling near Merrimack River, and does not tend to the preservation and increase of said fish; therefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Places and distance for fishing, described.

[Sect. 1.] That the prohibition to take fish, within one hundred rods in said act mentioned, shall hereafter extend only to the fishing within twenty rods; and that by "the rivers and streams" run[n]ing "into Merrimack River," Concord River excepted, shall be construed and understood only such as issue out of ponds where the fish usually go to cast their spawns.

Preamble.

And whereas no person or persons whatsoever, are, by the said act, allowed to catch such fish "in any part of Merrimack River within this province, or in any of the rivers and streams run[n]ing into Merrimack River, oftner than [*t]hree days in the week, the days to be Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, every week,"—

Be it further enacted,

Time for fishing, described.

[Sect. 2.] That the time to begin the fishery shall commence at sunset, [*on Mon]day evening, and end at sunset, on Thursday evening, every week.

Continuation.

[Sect. 3.] This act to continue and be in force for the space of two years from the publication of the act aforesaid, and no longer. [Passed February 21, 1766.

CHAPTER 31.

AN ACT FOR DIVIDING THE DISTRICT OF SOUTH BRIMFIELD, IN THE COUNTY OF HAMPSHIRE, INTO TWO SEPARATE PARISHES.

Preamble.

Whereas the dividing the district of South Brimfield, in the county of [*Hampshir]e, into two parishes, would serve very much to remove many difficulties and inconveniences which the inhabi[*tant]s of the said district at present labour under,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, Bounds of west and east parish in South Brimfield.

[Sect. 1.] That the district of South Brimfield aforesaid be divided into two separate parishes, in manner following; viz[1]., the dividing

And be it further enacted,

West parish exempted from paying towards building the meeting-house in east parish.

[SECT. 2.] That all the inhabitants of the lands which, by this act, are made the west parish, be and hereby are, and shall forever hereafter be, exempted from paying or contri[*buting] any part toward the charges that have already arisen, or may hereafter arise, by reason of the building the new [*meeting]-house, which has lately been erected on the lands, by this act, made the east parish, in said district, and from the [*charge of] settling and supporting the ministry in the said east parish.

And be it further enacted,

Annual meetings to be held alternately.

[SECT. 3.] That the annual March meetings, to be [*held in] said district, for the future, shall be alternately held in the said east and west parishes.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That Daniel Burt, Esq[r]., be and hereby is [*imp]owered to issue warrants, directed to some principal inhabitant of each parish, requiring them to warn the inhabitants [*of s]aid parishes, qualified to vote in parish affairs, to meet at such time and place as shall be therein set forth, to choose all [*s]uch officers as shall be necessary to manage the affairs of said parishes. * Parchment mutilated.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

That the act aforesaid shall continue and remain in force for the term of four years, only, from the said first day of July, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-three, and no longer, and that every clause and paragraph thereof shall then expire and cease; and that no bounty shall be paid, by virtue of [the] said act, upon any wheat that shall be sowed after the twentieth day of April, this present year, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-six, or upon any flour that shall be made of wheat, sowed after the said twentieth day of April, anything in the act aforesaid to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed February 21, 1766.

Continuance of the act further limited.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

That such of the beforementioned acts as are expired, be revived, and such of the said acts as are not yet expired, be continued, with all and every article, clause, matter and thing therein respectively contained, and shall be in force until the first day of July, one thousand seven hundred and seventy, and no longer. [Passed February 21, 1766.

Continuation.

Notes.—All the acts of this year were printed: chapter 18, separately; and the engrossments of all the acts are preserved, except of the first ten chapters, and chapters 14, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, and a private act, the title of which is as follows:—

"An Act impowering Peter Hallet to make and execute a Deed of Exchange with Stephen Hallet of certain Lands lying in Yarmouth in the County of Barnstable."—[Passed June 12; published June 25, 1765.

The acts of the first session were certified for transmission, July 10, 1765. They were delivered to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, September 17, and referred to the committee on plantation affairs, October 2, and, the next day, referred, by them, to the Lords of Trade. They were received by the Lords of Trade, October 8, read October 29, and immediately referred to Sir Matthew Lamb, whose report, dated June 30, 1766, was read at the Board, February 6, 1767. Three days later, the draught of a representation to the committee of the Privy Council, on plantation affairs, was ordered to be prepared. The report of April 16, 1767 (vide infra), includes the acts of this session.

The acts of the second session were delivered to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, March 11, 1766; but no certificate for transmission has been found. They were referred, March 21, to the committee on plantation affairs, and, by them, on the next day, to the Lords of Trade. They were received by the Lords of Trade, March 27, and, on the 16th of April, were read, and ordered to be sent to Sir Matthew Lamb, for his opinion thereon. On the 29th of October, 1766, Sir Matthew Lamb reported that he had no objection to any of them, in point of law. The report of the Lords of Trade, of April 16, 1767, includes the acts of this session.—See note to chapter 23, post.

The acts of the third session were certified for transmission, March 20, 1766, delivered to the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, May 29, referred to the committee on plantation affairs, June 18, and, by them, referred to the Lords of Trade on the 8th of July. They were received by the Lords of Trade, August 13; and were read, and ordered to be sent to Sir Matthew Lamb, for his opinion thereupon, August 30, 1765. Sir Matthew Lamb's report upon the acts of this session is dated February 16, 1767, and states that he has no objection, in point of law. This report was read, together with the acts of the third session, March 19, 1767; but nothing further appears to have been done with any of the acts of this year.

Chap. 1. "The next transaction of this kind was concerning the appointment of my Salary I acquainted Your Lordships last year that an opposition was made to the usual grant to the Governor upon this principle, that as the Parliament was about to tax the American Colonies, they ought also to provide for the expence of their Government This year the same Gentleman made the like objection to the Grant to the Governor but with additional force that the Parliament had actually taxed the American Colonies and that private advices from London assured that it was intended to pay the support of the Governments out of the produce of the Parliamentary Tax. To this it was answered that supposing there was such an intention, the Parliamentary Tax had not yet commenced and it would be at least a year from that time before it brought in any money to the King's Treasury and therefore it could be no argument for not supporting the Gov[r] in the mean time. Upon this the opponent withdrew his objection, owned he was too early in making it and declared his intention of enforcing it next year. I expect that before that time the necessity of the Government at home taking into their hands the appointment of the Civil Lists of the American Governments will become more and more apparent."—Gov. Bernard to Lords of Trade, July 8, 1765: "Mass. Bay, B. T.," vol. 78, L. l., 84, in Public-Record Office.

"Having received a letter from Francis Bernard Esq[re] Your Majesty's Gov[r] of the Massachusetts Bay, wherein, amongst other matters, he acquaints us, that an opposition had been made in the General Court of that Province to the usual Grant to the Governor upon this principle, that as the Parliament had taxed the American Colonies they ought also to provide for the expence of their Government, which though withdrawn at that time, was declared to be intended to be inforced the next Year. We lose no time in representing this Transaction to Your Majesty, as stated to us by M[r] Bernard and at the same time humbly lay before Your Majesty an Extract of so much of the Governor's letter as relates thereunto.

Upon this occasion both in justice to the merits of M[r] Bernard and in consideration of the advantages which we conceive would accrue to the public service from rendering the Governors independent of the Legislature of the respective Colonies, over which they are in command, we humbly submit it to Your Majesty, whether in the present circumstances of the Province of the Massachusetts Bay, it will not be advisable that such a fixt and permanent appointment or salary should be allowed to Your Majesty's Governor thereof as shall be sufficient for his support in the execution of his Office, without the precarious Grant of the General Court, by which Provision his own situation may be rendered more respectable and independent and he be better enabled to carry into execution any future Measures for Your Majesty's Service."—Representation of the Lords of Trade, to the King, Sept. 27, 1765: ibid., vol. 86, p. 190.

Chap. 2. "I have before explained the necessity and reasonableness of the principal Act. This additional one is calculated to improve the provisions and extend the equity of the former. By this Act, where a Creditor has made a partial attachment of Goods, he has his option whether he will adhere to his attachment, or take his share in a general dividend: if he chooses the latter, he must bring in the attached goods to the common fund. This is Equity, and will help to do justice to foreign Creditors, who stand no chance in a general scramble."—Gov. Bernard to Lords of Trade, July 15, 1765: "*Mass. Bay, B. Chap. 9. "This is an Annual Act, the nature of which I have before explained to Your Lordships. The General Court reduces their debt by 50,000 pounds evry year, and as they are obliged conformably to the Act of Parliament to confine their bills of Credit within 2 years, they annually borrow a sum less by £50,000 than what will be due at the end of the year, by which the whole debt appears on the face of the Bill and is evry year £50,000 less than the former. What is remarkable in this bill is that the intrest is reduced from 6 to 5 pr. ct: this was done by a public subscription and is a striking instance of the credit of the Government, if not of the riches of the people, Indeed the finances of this Government are extremely well conducted."—*Gov. Chap. 20. "Feb. 6, 1762. A Petition of Thomas Foster and Edward Winslow Esqrs Agents for the Town of Plymouth—Setting forth, That the Beach in said Town commonly called Plymouth Beach by the many and repeated Storms the last Fall is in great danger of being washed away, that even common tides now flow over many parts of it, and that if something be not done speedily to secure it, the Harbour must be entirely destroyed, That this is a matter which affects not only the Town of Plymouth, but the Province in general, as there is no Harbour between Boston and Cape Cod but this for Vessels to put into in bad Weather; and the expence of securing it would be too great for the Town to undertake—And Praying for some Assistance from the Government.

In the House of Representatives Read and Ordered, That Mr Speaker and Colo Clapp, with such as the honourable Board shall join be a Committee to repair to Plymouth view the Harbour on the South and North side and report at the next May Session what they judge proper for this Court to do thereon."—*Council Records, vol. "Feb. 11, 1763. The Committee appointed the 6th of February 1762 on the Petition of Thomas Foster and Edward Winslow Esqrs made the following Report Viz: The Committee to whom was referred the Petition of Thomas Foster and Edward Winslow Esqrs relating to Plymouth Beach have attended that Service, viewed the said Beach, and find that the Beach aforesaid which makes Plymouth Harbour is as we judge about four miles long. That the Meadows at the entring on to said Beach has been much damnifyed by the Sea washing over in high tides and storms into the Harbour at divers places for near a mile, That at divers other places the Sea has run over said Beach into said Harbour for near two miles, That the Owners of said Meadow have been at considerable charge to defend their Marsh by raising said Beach, and as we are informed they design to make it secure, That the above Beach to the Northward and more directly against the Harbour for near two miles at several places is greatly damnifyed by the Sea running over it as aforesaid; and the Harbour it is probable will be ruined if said Beach is not secured, That the charge in securing and well defending the same, we judge will be near Five hundred pounds, which will be hard for said Town of Plymouth to pay; and as the advantage of having said Harbour secured will be of great service to said Town of Plymouth and to Seafaring People in general who trade in this Province, We apprehend that for the encourageing said Town in this Work, the sum of two hundred and fifty pounds ought to be allowed them by said Province, and that said Town be enjoined to raise the like sum for the Service aforesaid to be under such directions and limitations as shall be judg'd convenient, and that the Agents for the Town of Plymouth have leave to bring in a Bill accordingly. "June 7, 1764. A Petition of Thomas Foster Esqr Agent for the Town of Plymouth Setting forth, That in the year 1762, they preferred a Petition to the General Court, representing the danger of the Harbour in said Town being ruined by the Breaches made by the Sea on the Beach which is the Security of the said Harbour; that a Committee was thereupon appointed to view the same, who reported That it would require Four hundred pounds to secure the said Beach, two hundred pounds whereof they were of opinion should be paid by the Government provided the Town of Plymouth raised and applied two hundred pounds more for that purpose; which Report was continued over to the Session of the General Court in December last, when the Petition and Papers were burnt with the College: Since which the said Beach has been greatly damnified by a heavy Storm in April last. And Praying that the matter may be now considered, and Relief granted.

In the House of Representatives Read and Resolved That the sum of Two hundred pounds be allowed and paid out of the Public Treasury to the Petitioner, for the use of the said Town, to enable them to repair and secure the Beach and Harbour mentioned in this Petition: And that the said Town of Plymouth render an account to the Great and General Court, of the said monies, and that Mr Otis and Mr Witt with such as the honorable Board shall join be a Committee to repair to the Beach and Harbour mentioned in the Petition, and report what the whole Cost thereof will amount to, and what part of it shall be borne by the Province, & what by the said Town of Plymouth.

"June 22, 1765. In the House of Representatives. And in case the Town refuse to raise the said Sum, then that Thomas Foster Esq^r^ pay into the Province Treasury the aforesaid Sum of Two hundred pounds on or before the second Monday of the next Session of this Court; and in case the said Sums of Four hundred pounds should be more than sufficient for the aforesaid purpose, then the Town and Province Money be paid in equal proportion, and the surplusage of the Two hundred pounds be returned into the Province Treasury. And that the said Trustees keep a fair Account of all expences, and make return to this Court as soon as the work is compleat, or when the Court order such Account to be rendred. Chap. 21. "At the last Session of the General Assembly A Bill was prepared to be brought into the House to raise by Lottery a sum of Money in addition to the sum of £4250 before granted by the General Assembly to erect a new building* for the use of the College at Cambridge in this Province. The case was this. By the increase of the Students of the College there have been of late near 80 more than can be lodged &c. in the College, in consequence of which some disorders have arisen which have been irremediable, whilst a considerable part of the Collegians have been for the greatest part of their time not subject to the inspection of their Governors. The obvious remedy for this was the bringing them all within the walls of the College, for which purpose upon an application from the College, the Assembly granted the sum of £4250, being the precise estimate of a building to contain lodgings for 64 Students.

Upon a further consideration of this Scheme, it was found that something more than mere lodgings were wanting, particularly an addition to the Dining Hall, which was not capable of receiving an additional number. It has therefore been thought expedient to add the Library (which at present adjoins) to the Hall and build a new Library in the new building. It was impossible to ask the Assembly (after the former ample beneficence) to contribute a further sum for this new Expence, and therefore the expedient of a lottery was the only one that could be resorted to.

This being the case I should have made no doubt of consenting upon general principles, nor does it seem to fall within the rules which Your Lordships have laid down in your exceptions to the former Lottery Bills, But as in consequence thereof Your Lordships laid a general injunction upon me not to pass any more Lottery Bills, I prevailed on the Gentlemen concerned not to bring in this Bill, untill I had time to lay the case before your Lordships and obtain from you a relaxation of that injunction in this Case, or rather a declaration that the rule of reasoning, upon which your Lordships disapproved of the raising the money by Lotteries for making bridges, mending roads &c. matters due from the Community either of the County or Township does not extend to this Case. If there is any case wherein a Lottery may be said to be lawful and advisable the providing for the education of youth in the higher path of learning, for which the generality of the People are no ways obliged to contribute, is one, Upon this Principle the Academy at Philadelphia has received great part of its support from an annual lottery. And lately when a scheme was formed for cutting off that resource by a general Act against lotteries, it was thought more advisable to allow a general licence for lotteries of all kinds (abused as it was sure to be) than to suffer a learned seminary to be defeated of a considerable part of its usual income. For these reasons it is much more to be hoped that Your Lordships will allow me (who am under no other injunction than a signification of your Lordships sentiments upon lottery bills of another kind) to consent to this Bill for the benefit of a Society well deserving Your Lordships favour, which is neither like to be abused or repeated."—*Gov. that the too frequent practice of such a mode of raising money will be introductive in great mischief, Yet in consideration of the general Propriety and utility of the service to be provided for by this Bill, We have no objection to your passing it into a Law, desiring at the same time, that it may be understood that such a permission shall not be drawn into precedent in any other case whatever."—Lords of Trade to Gov. Bernard, Dec. 24, 1762: "Mass. Bay, B. T.," vol. 86, p. 148.

"Near three years ago I was applied to to pass a Lottery Bill for raising a sum of money to build a Library and Philosophy Rooms for the use of the College, which were to be made the centre of a building for lodging Students then being to be erected at the expence of the Province. As Your Lordships at that time had expressed your disapprobation of the frequent Lottery Bills passed here, I chose to submit this matter to Your Lordships before I passed the bill, and I immediately received Your Lordships approbation of it. When that came to hand, it was thought more advisable to keep this building detached from lodging rooms than to join it to them, upon account of the danger from fire: it was therefore postponed till the other building was finished. In the Winter Session in 1764 a Bill was prepared for this purpose, but before it could be brought in, the old Harvard College, containing the Hall, the Library and the Apparatus Room &c. was burnt down. As this happened whilst the General Court was sitting in these rooms (the smallpox prevailing at Boston) and by means of the fires kept for them; the House, upon my recommendation, generously undertook to rebuild the whole. There were in the old building some lodging chambers: but it being now judged expedient to take hold of this opportunity to have all the public rooms of the College brought under one roof, secured from fire and therefore detached from lodging rooms, I engaged with the Committee appointed to conduct this building that if they would include in it a Library an Experimental Philosophy Room &c I would consent to a Lottery Bill to build lodging rooms in lieu of the Library &c. This was agreed to, and accordingly a Magnificent Building has been erected and is nearly finished containing an Hall a Chapple, a Library, a Philosophy School, two other Schools and an Observatory in a Cupola, together with a compleat set of Offices in a base floor running under the whole. And now this Act is brought in to raise money to build lodging rooms which have been lost to the College by bringing all the public rooms together.

I have thought proper to give Your Lordships this detail, that it may appear that I pass this Act in pursuance of leave obtained from Your Lordships above two years ago and also whence arose the delay of it and the alteration of its purposes."—Gov. Bernard to Lords of Trade, July 15, 1765: Ibid. vol. 78, L. l., 85.

"The night after the 24th of January, the building called the old college was entirely consumed by fire, which began in the library, the room where the council had sat the evening before. A very large collection of books, but the greatest part of them not very valuable, together with the apparatus for the use of the professor of natural and experimental philosophy, were wholly lost. A much better building was erected at the charge of the province, planned by the governor, who was a very ingenious architect, and a much more valuable library and apparatus were supplied by publick and private donations."—*Hutchinson's Hist. "June 11, 1766. A Petition of Timothy Paine, John Chandler, John Murray and Abijah Willard Esq^{rs} Setting forth That in June 1762 they purchased a Tract of Land of the Government for a Township, since which they admitted James Otis Esq^{r} as a partner to one fifth of three fourths: that the same is now incorporated into a Town by the name of Murrayfield, and that they have nearly complyed with the Conditions of Settlement; but that they have no absolute Grant from the Government, which prevents them giving a Title to purchasers, who appear to buy Lots of Land in said Township. By an order in Council, of December 3, 1766, the Lords of Trade were directed to consider, and, from time to time, to report their opinion upon, all acts then before them or which should thereafter be transmitted to them. In accordance with this order, they reported, April 16, 1767, upon all such acts, including "eighteen" acts incorporating "plantations into townships." As no list of the titles of these acts is given with the report, it is difficult to determine just what acts were included in the eighteen acts referred to. By taking only such acts as expressly incorporated "plantations" into towns, including the seven acts passed from January to June, 1762, which were considered by the Lords of Trade in their letter to Gov. Bernard (see note to 1762-63, chapter 8, ante), and also the present chapter, the number is just eighteen; but, although the seven acts above mentioned were ordered "to lye by probationary," all questions relating to them would seem to have been settled in the correspondence alluded to, and by subsequent lapse of time. If all the newly incorporated towns are included, except such as were made from other towns, or such as were denied the right of representation, by their acts of incorporation, the number, exclusive of the seven which have already been considered, cannot be increased to eighteen without including Pownalborough (1759-60, chapter 23) and Pittsfield (1760-61, chapter 34), for which there seems to be no stronger reason than for including the seven towns incorporated in 1762.

The towns, with the privilege of representation, incorporated since Windham (1762-63, chapter 8), which is the last of the seven acts above mentioned, are nineteen; viz., Bowdoinham, Warwick, Wilbraham, Newburyport, Topsham, Fitchburg, Winchendon, Gorham, Boothbay, Royalston, Ashburnham, Williamstown, Bristol, Ashfield, Lanesborough, Charlemont, Richmont, Becket and Murrayfield: but of these, Wilbraham and Fitchburg (1763-64, chapters 9 and 30) were joined, in the choice of representatives, with the towns from which they were, respectively, set off, so as not to increase the number of representatives to be chosen; while Newburyport (1763-64, chapter 20), for the same reason, was authorized to choose one of the representatives previously allowed to Newbury.

It is possible that the act incorporating Murrayfield, although it had been referred to the Lords of Trade by the committee on plantation affairs as early as March 11, 1766, and had been sent by them to Sir Matthew Lamb, and returned by him with his opinion thereupon, October 29, 1766, and so was, properly, within the description of acts reported upon as above, may, nevertheless, have been omitted from the list. This would reduce the number to eighteen.

The following is the portion of the report which relates to the acts incorporating towns with the privilege of choosing representatives to the General Court:—

"It remains now for us to observe to Your Majesty upon various Acts which have been passed in this Province for erecting and incorporating sundry Plantations into Townships. There is no occasion as we conceive, for us to recite these several Laws, which are eighteen in number, inasmuch as they are all in their nature and consequence exactly similar and as such liable to one and the same objection.

By these Acts for the institution of Townships, the said Towns become thereby invested with all the privileges powers and immunities that Towns in this Province by law enjoy of sending Representatives to the General Assembly.

By the Charter granted by their Majesties King William and Queen Mary every Town is empowered to elect two persons to serve for and represent them in the General Assembly; This Privilege by an Act of Assembly passed in the 4th Year of the same reign is limited to a stated number of Freeholders; According to these restrictions no Town is allowed to send two Members but what has one hundred and twenty freeholders; Every Town that has forty freeholders is obliged to send one Representative; a Town that has above thirty and under forty Freeholders may send a Representative or not as they please, and a Town under thirty Freeholders may send a Representative or join with the next in the choice of one.

By these Regulations it follows that every Township thus instituted by Act of the Legislature of that Province becomes of course entitled to such privileges as other Towns therein have and do by Law enjoy, even altho' the Act for their institution is silent in regard to their being represented. When therefore such a Township has a sufficient number of Freeholders, it becomes entitled to a Precept as a matter of right and should every Town avail itself of such its right and privilege to send Representatives, the number of that body is capable of a very considerable increase, even tho' there were no new erected Townships to contribute to it whilst at the same time Your Majesty's Council in the said Province are limited and confined to a fixt and very disproportionate number.

This being the state of the Case these Acts for erecting so many new Townships appear to us to lead to inconveniences arising from too great an increase of the number and influence of the Representative Body and from a disproportion of the other Branches of the Legislature, and We could wish that some proper methods might be devised for limiting and restraining the general number of Representatives.

By what means these Purposes can be best accomplished, whether, as the Governor suggests in his letter to us of the 30th of April 1763 by enlarging the number of Freeholders that shall give a Town a right to send one Member, and by joining others together in the choice of one Representative who have not such a Number, as many already are, or whether by proposing an Act of Assembly, ordaining that no Towns shall be incorporated to send Members but what have the full number of Inhabitants according to the first regulation of the Charter, or by what other rule and method of proceeding are points which must be left to the wisdom of Your Majesty and Your Council to consider and determine thereupon; And We humbly submit to Your Majesty whether this is not a case that does from the nature and importance of it require immediate attention; It being represented to us by Your

Majᵗʸ's Governor that the number of Representatives who compose the Assembly of that Province and who at the time of granting the Charter amounted only to Eighty four are now increased to upwards of One hundred and eighty."—" *Plantations, General," B. " Jan. 18, 1760. The Committee appointed the 15th Instant on the Petition of Ezekiel Cushing Esqr and Others of the second Parish in Falmouth made the following Report vizt

The Committee upon the Petition of Ezekiel Cushing and Others of the Second Parish in Falmouth have maturely considered it with the Answer thereto and the Papers put in by the said Ezekiel in favour of the Petitioners as also by Colo Waldo in favour of the Respondents. And upon the whole beg leave first to report Facts, and then our opinion upon the Same.

First—That on the 30 day of July 1755 an Ecclesiastical Council was convened at the second Parish in Falmouth consisting of fifteen Churches, unto which Council the difference mentioned in said Petition was submitted, and by the Committees of the contending Parties, the Result of the said Council was to be decisive and final. The Charges exhibited against Mr Clark were as follows.

1. His want of a liberal and learned Education.
2. His seperating Principles which he set out upon when he was ordained over a Seperation in Boston.
3. His immoral Conduct.
4. The Divisions, Contentions and mischeifs that will attend said Parish if Mr Clark should be installed over the Church there.—Said Venerable Council having considered the same put the following Question.

Question. Whether the Venerable Council considering all things which have been offered, think it expedient to proceed to the Instalment of Mr Ephraim Clark in the Work of the Ministry in this Place. Voted in the Negative. And accordingly this was part of their result—That they advised that he should not be installed over said Church; at the same time adding therein—That they find nothing in the Objections made against Mr Clarks moral Character sufficient to influence them to such a Conclusion.—They go on in their Result to advise said Church to take every prudent Step in order to such a Settlement as may be if possible unexceptionable to those of their Brethren who have differed from them.

The Above Facts were taken from the Minutes and Result of Council and sworn to by the Reverend Mr Langdon of Portsmouth their Scribe.

Soon after this result said Church in Falmouth sent to the following Churches to instal Mr Clark over them vizt The second Church in Kittery, the first and second Churches in Berwick, the second Church in York and two Churches more vizt one in Ipswich and another in Glocester. How many of the Churches were present the Committee can't determine; three only of their Reverend Pastors were present vizt Mr John Rogers and Messrs Cleavelands, who in direct opposition to the result aforesaid, and without any renewall of the Call of Mr Clark, either by Church or Parish installed him—which very extraordinary Doings of theirs were laid before the Convention of Ministers at their annual Meeting May 27. 1756, Who thereupon Voted, Nemine contradicente, that in the opinion of this Convention all such Proceedings are very irregular—against which they think themselves obliged to bear their testimony, as having a manifest tendency to destroy these Churches if not seasonably discountenanced.

The Committee can't but in justice to the said Ezekiel observe that the several Charges in the respondents Answer against him are without Ground and injurious.

Upon the whole the Committee apprehend the Interest of Religion the Order and Peace of the Churches of this Land in general, and in the second Parish in Falmouth and their Vicinity in special make it reasonable and necessary that such of said second Parish as are aggreived at the Settlement of said Mr Clark in manner aforesaid be with their Estates exempt from paying Taxes to his Support and maintenance, and therefore humbly propose the following Order may pass.

(Sign'd) SAMl Watts #' Order.

Said Order is comprized in the resolve that follows vizt

In Council. Read and Accepted. And Resolved that such of the Inhabitants of the second Parish in Falmouth who are aggrieved at the Instalment of Mr Clark and are desirous not to sit under his Ministry (upon their transmitting their names together with their desires to be set off to the first Parish in Falmouth) into the Secretary's Office at Boston on or before the last day of May next, be and hereby are with their Estates set off to said first Parish in Falmouth there to do duty and receive Privilege 'till the Further order of this Court. In the House of Representatives Read and Concurred Consented to by the Governor."—Ibid., p. 182.

"Feb. 15, 1765. A Petition of Ezekiel Cushing Esq^r and others—Setting forth That the Great and General Court were pleased at their Request some time since to set them off from the second parish in Falmouth to the first parish in the said Town; but that they since find their being so set off to be attended with many inconveniences. And praying that they with their Estates may now be restored to the said second parish.

In the House of Representatives. Read and Ordered That the Petitioners serve the first parish in Falmouth with a Copy of this Petition, that so they shew cause if any they have on the second Wednesday of the next Session of this Court why the prayer thereof should not be granted. In Council, Read and Concurred."—Ibid., vol. XXV., p. 410.

The Committee on the Petition of Jonathan Loveit and Samuel Skillin have fully considered the same together with the answer of the Committee of the first Parish in Falmouth, whereby it appears the Petitioners failed of giving seasonable notice to the parties concerned agreable to an Order of the General Court in February last—Wherefore your Committee are unanimously of opinion that the further consideration of the same be referred to the second Wednesday of the next Winter Session of this Court; and that the Petitioners aforesaid in the mean time seasonably notify the parties concerned by leaving a Copy of their Petition with the Clerk of each parish so that each and every of those persons, who were formerly set off from the second to the first parish in Falmouth may have an opportunity to make answer to the Petition aforesaid—And your Committee are further of opinion, that for the present all those persons who were set off to the first parish as aforesaid be held to pay Taxes to the said first Parish, unless they or any of them shall signify to the assessors of each parish by writing under their hands, their desire of being taxed to the second Parish, in which case, they shall pay taxes to the second Parish, and that only. "Apr. 17, 1771. "Apr. 26, 1771. The Committee appointed the 17 instant on the Petition of the first Parish in Falmouth, made the following Report viz:—

The Committee upon the Petition of the first Parish in Falmouth by their Agents Mr Thomas Smith junr and Mr Ephraim Jones, have attended the Service assigned them and fully heard the parties thereon, beg leave to observe That A D 1760 sundry Persons were set off from the second Parish in Falmouth to the first Parish in Falmouth there to do duty and receive privilege till the further Order of the Court, for good reasons well known in that day.—That A D 1765 there was an Act of the Province for Incorporating said second Parish into a District; from whence many in said District apprehended that the Act aforesaid superceded and made null and void said Resolve, and therefore that those who were set off to the said Parish were no longer obliged to pay Precinct Taxes to said first Parish, but to the second Parish in Falmouth. The first Parish in Falmouth was quite of another mind, they did not apprehend that the relation of those of the second Parish that were set off to the first Parish was dissolved by said second Parish being made a District the one being purely a Parochial or Ecclesiastical privilege or favor, there being many instances of Persons belonging to one Town or District and yet are of a Precinct even in another Town; whereupon a controversy arose and the whole matter was laid before the General Court, and after a long and very tedious hearing of both parties, both Houses in June 1767 Resolved, that notwithstanding their being made a District two years before, yet their Parochial relation was not dissolved, but that they should pay to the first Parish in Falmouth as before till the further Order of the Court; this we observe past both Houses, but his Excellency Governor Bernard did not Sign it, and consequently tho' it was expressive of the sentiments of the then both Houses, yet it was no valid Act. After this there was another Petition preferred from a number in said District praying that the first mentioned Persons might be set back to said second Parish; thereupon the Houses passed an Order that said Petitioners should notify said first Parish to make answer if they saw cause &c now, in fact, it appears by the Evidence of Mr Longfellow Clerk of said first Parish and otherwise, that said Order was never complied with, that said first Precinct was not notified; a fact not denied by the Gentlemen Agents for the second Parish; yet, unnoticed and without the first Parish's hearing anything of the matter, on the 28 of March 1770 the General Court Resolved That from the time the Act of Incorporation of Cape Elizabeth into a District took place, all the Inhabitants of said District included within the Lines of said District were, and still are, held to pay Taxes there and to no other place: This is directly contrary to the Resolution of both Houses in June 1767 with this difference, that in the Resolution of both Houses in June 1767 the opposite party was notified and was present; in the last Resolve the opposite party viz: the first Parish, was ordered to be notified, but was not notified and was not present. Upon the first Parish in Falmouth hearing of this last Resolve, after they got over their surprize they Petitioned the Court that this Resolve might be set aside, whereupon in April last the whole Court Resolved That all proceedings in consequence of said Resolve be staid as fully as if it had not been till the second Wednesday of the then next Session of the General Court, at which time the first Parish may be heard &c The case being thus fairly, tho' largely, stated by your Committee which they apprehend will not be disagreable, as the Court may hereby be better able to form a judgment, Your Committee beg leave to observe, that in their opinion that part of the Petition of the said first Parish wherein they pray that it may be Resolved that those persons who in the year 1760 were set off from the second Parish in Falmouth to the first shall be held to pay Parish Taxes in said first Parish to the year 1769 inclusive of said year 1769, ought by no means to be granted or even countenanced because it would be depriving said District of that Constitutional Right they have namely, to be tryed by their Peers, by a Jury, and that it would be ousting the Common Law Courts of their Jurisdiction, unless both parties had consented to have left it to the General Court by them to be decided, which was by no means the case, but inasmuch as the Resolve of 1770 was unfairly obtained, and that in sundry respects: Your Committee cannot but think that it ought to be set aside and be declared null and void—And further that all those who were set off from the second Parish to the first Parish in Falmouth with their Estates A D 1760 shall not from the begining of the year 1770 be holden to pay any Parish Taxes assessed since that time to the first Parish in Falmouth, but shall and hereby be holden to pay them to said District, and all Parish Taxes assessed by the first Parish upon the Inhabitants of said District, not paid before said begining of January 1770 be determined in the Common Law Courts, where the same are Cognizable, unless both parties come to an agreement in another less expensive way; Wherefore your Committee Report the following Resolve—

Resolved That the Resolve aforesaid passed in March 1770 be and hereby is set aside to all intents and purposes and is hereby rendered as null and void as tho' it never had passed.

W. BRATTLE p^r^ Order

Upon which the following Order passed viz^t^

In Council, Read and unanimously accepted and Ordered that the Resolve passed in March 1770 be and it is hereby set aside to all intents and purposes, and it is hereby rendered as null and void as tho' it never had passed.

In the House of Representatives, Read and nonconcurred & Resolved that the Petition be dismissed. In Council, Read and nonconcurred."—Ibid., p. 562.

rowed, to be applied for the redemption of government securities.

And in order to draw said money into the treasury again, and enable the treasurer effectually to discharge the receip[t]s and obligations (with the interest that may be due thereon), by him given in pursuance of this act, we, his majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in great and general court assembled, have chearfully given and granted unto his most excellent majesty a tax of one hundred and sixty-five thousand eight hundred and fifty pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within the province, according to such rules, and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within this province, as shall be agreed on and ordered by the great and [and] general court or assembly at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-seven, and to be paid into the public treasury on or before the thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-eight; and pray that it may be enacted.

Tax granted for the sum borrowed, to be paid into the treasury 31st March, 1768.

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, [Sect. 4.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty a tax of one hundred and sixty-five thousand eight hundred and fifty pounds, to be accordingly levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within the province, according to such rules, and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within this province, as shall be agreed on and ordered by the general court or assembly at their sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-seven, and to be paid into the public treasury on or before the thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-eight.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 5.] That if the general court, at their sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-seven, and some time before the twentieth day of June in said year, shall not agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sums which by this act are engaged to be paid in said year, apportioned, assessed and levied, then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by a tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their limits, the same proportion of the said sum as the said towns and districts were taxed by the general court in the tax act then last preceeding.

If the court shall not apportion the tax in May, 1767, the tax shall then be apportioned as in the tax act preceding.

[Sect. 6.] And the province treasurer is hereby impowered and directed, some time in the month of June, in the same year, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-seven, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the assessors or selectmen of each town and district within this province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns and districts, for their respective parts and proportions of the sums before directed and engaged to be assessed, to be paid into the treasury at or before the aforementioned time; and the assessors, as also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to, all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the then last preceeding tax act. [Passed June 27; published June 28.

Province treasurer to issue his warrants accordingly.

CHAPTER 4.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH THE SUM OF EIGHTEEN THOUSAND POUNDS.

Preamble.

WHEREAS no provision is made to defrey the charges of government for the present year; and whereas the treasurer has represented to this court, that, when the taxes for the year one thousand seven hundred and sixty-five are paid into the treasury, with the excise upon spirituous liquors, there will be a surplusage in the treasury of at least eighteen thousand pounds,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Treasury supplied with £18,000.

[SECT. 1.] That the treasurer be and he hereby is directed to apply the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand pounds to defrey the charges of government for the ensuing year, to be issued in the manner following; that is to say, the sum of seven thousand and five hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of grants made or to be made by this court; and the further sum of three thousand and three hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of his majesty's council and the members of the house of representatives serving in the great and general court during the several sessions of the present year; and the further sum of five hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand pounds, shall be applied for the purchasing [of] provisions and the commissary's disbursements for the service of the several forts and garrisons within this province; and the further sum of fifteen hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand pounds, shall be applied for the discharge of debts owing from this province to persons who have served and shall serve them, by order of this court, in such matters and things where there is no establishment nor any certain sum assigned them for that purpose, and for paper, writing and printing for this court, and repairs of the province-house, court-house, lighthouse, wood at Castle William, and repairs of fortifications within this province; and the further sum of four thousand pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of [the] expences of the several forts and garrisons within this province; and the further sum of eleven hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand pounds, shall be applied for the payment of the bounty upon wheat and flour; and the further sum of one hundred pounds, part of the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand pounds, shall be applied to pay such contingent and unforeseen charges as may arise, and for no other purpose whatever.

How appropriated.

And be it further enacted,

Treasurer to pay the money out of the appropriations directed by warrant.

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer pay the aforesaid sum of eighteen thousand pounds out of such appropriations as shall be directed by warrant, and no other; and the secretary to whom it belongs to keep the muster-rolls and account of charge, shall lay before the house of representatives, when they direct, such muster-rolls and accounts of charge, after payment thereof. [Passed June 27; published June 28.

CHAPTER 5.

AN ACT FOR REPEALING TWO ACTS, ONE, INTIT[U]LED "AN ACT FOR PREVENTING FRAUD IN DEBTORS, AND FOR SECURING THE EFFECTS OF INSOLVENT DEBTORS FOR THE BENEFIT OF THEIR CREDITORS," THE OTHER ACT, INTIT[U]LED "AN ACT IN ADDITION TO 'AN ACT FOR PREVENTING FRAUD IN DEBTORS, AND FOR SECURING THE EFFECTS OF INSOLVENT DEBTORS FOR THE BENEFIT OF THEIR CREDITORS,'" BOTH MADE IN THE FIFTH YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY'S REIGN.

Disallowed by the privy council, July 24, 1767.

Whereas by experience it has been found that the two acts made in the fifth year of his present majesty's reign, for preventing fraud in debtors, and for securing the effects of insolvent debtors for the benefit of their creditors, have not answered the good purposes therein designed,— Preamble. 1764–65, chap. 35. 1765–66, chap. 2.

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, [Sect. 1.] That the two acts aforesaid be and hereby are repealed, and every clause and paragraph therein. Two acts repealed.

Provided, nevertheless,—

[Sect. 2.] That this act shall not be so construed as to extend to any case where trustees have been already appointed, or where application, agre[e]able to law, has been heretofore made to either of the justices of the superio[u]r court, for any person or persons that are intitled to the benefit of said acts. [Passed June 27; published June 28.

"These, my Lords, are the reasons assigned by His Majesty's Governor for passing these Laws; and upon a full consideration thereof, and a due attention to the Laws themselves, they did appear to us to be, both in their principle and provision, just and necessary Regulations; and it was a great satisfaction to us to see the Legislature of this Province adopting a measure, calculated in general to give stability to public credit and security to the Foreign Creditor.

As it appeared however that the Laws were of temporary duration, we thought it advisable to suffer them to lye by probationally, trusting that what the Province had for the present only adopted as an experiment, would have been found so convenient and advantageous as might have induced a future Law, by which a provision in cases of Insolvency might have been made in this (as it is in most other Colonies) a permanent part of the Constitution; Your Lordships however will observe, that, by the Act which we now lay before you, both these Laws, represented by His Majesty's Governor to have been so essential to public credit and the security of the foreign Creditor, are entirely set aside, upon a general suggestion of inconvenience, unaccompanied with any representation of what that inconvenience was, or without any clause suspending the execution of this Act of repeal, until His Majesty's pleasure could have been known; and therefore we beg leave to recommend to Your Lordships to advise His Majesty to reject it."—Report of Lords of Trade, June 26, 1767: "Mass. Bay, B. T.," vol. 86, p. 223, in Public-Record Office.

AN ACT FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF FORTY THOUSAND POUNDS; AND ALSO FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF TWO THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED AND FIFTY-THREE POUNDS TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE, PAID THE REPRESENTATIVES FOR THEIR TRAVEL, SERVICE AND ATTENDANCE IN THE GENERAL COURT IN THE YEAR ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FIVE; ALSO FOR APPORTIONING AND ASSESSING A TAX OF NINETY-EIGHT POUNDS SEVEN SHILLINGS, LAID UPON TOWNS THAT HAVE NOT SENT ANY PERSON TO REPRESENT THEM IN THE GENERAL COURT THE PRESENT YEAR; [A]ND ALSO, FOR ASSESSING THE TOWN OF SWANZEY THE SUM OF FIFTY POUNDS, BEING PART OF THE SUM OF THREE HUNDRED POUNDS LENT SAID TOWN

IN THE YEAR ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FOUR; AND ALSO, [*FOR AS]SESSING THE TOWN OF DEERFIELD THE SUM OF TWENTY-FIVE POUNDS SEVENTEEN SHILLINGS AND ONE PENNY, PAID OUT OF THE PUBLIC TREASURY TO JOHN WORTHINGTON, ESQ[R]., AND OTHERS, A COMMITTEE TO ENABLE [*THEM TO] RUN THE LINE BETWEEN DEERFIELD AND HUNT'S TOWN; AND ALSO, FOR ASSESSING THE SUM OF TEN POUNDS TWO SHILLINGS AND SIXPENCE ON THE DISTRICT OF NEW SALEM, BEING SO MUCH PAID THE SELECTMEN [*OF SUN]DERLAND IN FULL OF ANY DISPUTES BETWEEN THE TOWN OF SUNDERLAND AND DISTRICT OF NEW SALEM, RELATIVE TO REPRESENTATIVES' PAY; AND ALSO, FOR ASSESSING THE SUM OF THIRTY-SIX POUNDS [*NI]NETEEN SHILLINGS AND TENPENCE HALFPENNY ON THE TOWN OF FALMOUTH, AND THE SUM OF SIX POUNDS NINE SHILLINGS AND FOURPENCE ON THE TOWN OF NORTH YARMOUTH, AND THE SUM OF FIVE POUNDS FIFTEEN SHILLINGS AND TWOPENCE ON THE TOWN OF BRUNSWICK, MAKING IN THE WHOLE THE SUM OF FORTY-NINE POUNDS FOUR SHILLINGS AND FOURPENCE HALFPENNY, BEING A TAX REMITTED GORHAMTOWN, FOR THE YEAR ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FOUR, AND ORDERED TO BE ADDED TO THE PRESENT YEAR'S TAX OF THE SEVERAL TOWNS AFORESAID, AND IN MANNER AFORESAID; WHICH TAXES ARE TO BE OVER AND ABOVE THEIR PROPORTION OF WHAT WAS LAID ON SAID TOWNS; WHICH SUMS AMOUNT TO FORTY-TWO THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED EIGHTY-SIX POUNDS THIRTEEN [*SH]ILLINGS AND FIVEPENCE HALFPENNY.

WHEREAS the great and general court or assembly of this province, by an act made and passed at their sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-five, on the grant of the house of representatives, agreed upon and ordered a tax of one hundred and ninety-seven thousand pounds; and whereas by the act aforesaid provision is made that the general court, at their present session, might apportion the same on the several towns, districts, parishes and places within this province, if they should think fit; yet inasmuch as such a heavy tax will be extremely burthensome to the inhabitants of this province, under their present distressed circumstances, and as some of the possessors of the government securities, for the redemption of which the aforesaid sum of one hundred ninety-seven thousand pounds is applied, are willing to continue their money upon loan, payable at a further period, which, with the tax of forty thousand pounds now agreed to be assessed and levied this year, will be sufficient to redeem the government securities, with the interest thereon, which will become due in June, [1767] [one thousand seven hundred and sixty-seven]; wherefore, for the ordering, directing and effectually drawing in the sum of forty-two thousand seven hundred eighty-six pounds thirteen shillings and fivepence halfpenny, and to the end that the same may be apportioned, assessed and levied in the easiest manner we are able, for the benefit of his majesty's subjects, and also that his majesty's government within this province may have the better and more speedy effect of said grant, we, his majesty's most loyal[l] and dutiful subjects, the representatives in general court assembled, pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

[SECT. 1.] That each town, district, parish or other place within this province be assessed and pay, as such town, district, parish and place's proportion of the sum of forty-two thousand seven hundred and eighty-six pounds thirteen shillings and fivepence halfpenny, the several sums following; that is to say.—

[Sect. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town, district, parish or other place within this province, that are [*tax]ed, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town, district, parish or other place, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns, districts, parishes or other places, or next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town or place, at five shillings and fourpence, and proportionably in assessing the additional sum paid out of the treasury to the representatives, for their travel and attendance aforesaid (excepting the governor, lieutenant-governor and their families, the president, fellows, professors, Hebrew instructor and students of Harvard College, settled ministers and gramm[e][a]r-school masters, who are hereby exempted as well from being taxed for their polls, as their estates being in their own hands, and under their actual management and improvement; as also the estate pertaining to Harvard College); and other persons, if such there be, who, through age, infirmity or extreme poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not able to pay towards public[k] charges, they may exempt their polls or estate, or abate part of what they are set at, as in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet. Rules for assessment.

[Sect. 3.] And the justices in their general sessions, in the respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns, districts, parishes and other places in such county, in proportion to the province rate; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and the incomes of all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town, district, parish or other place, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession the same is or shall be found; and also the incomes or profits which any person or persons, except as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or employment whatsoever, and all profits which shall or may arise by money, or commissions of profit, in their improvement, at twelvepence per pound; and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for each town, district, parish or other place to pay; and in making the said assessment, to estimate houses and lands at six years' yearly rent whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all agreements between landlord and tenant, and where no agreement is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax set upon such houses and lands (new cleared lands for tillage not to be rated until the first crop be taken off); and to estimate negro, Indian and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment or discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings; every cow or heifer of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; and every [*hor]se and mare of three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; and every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; goats and sheep of one year old and upwards, at three shillings each; [*the se]veral creatures above mentioned to be taxed to their respective owners or occupants, by the assessors of the town in which the owners or occupants dwell: likewise requiring the said assessors [*to make] a fair list of said assessment, setting forth, in distinct columns, against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how [*much for] personal estate, and income by trade or faculty; and if as guardians, or for any estate, in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly expressed; and the list or lists so perfected, and signed [*by them], or the major part of them, to commit to the collector, or constable or constables of any such town, district, parish or place, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collector, [*constab]le or constables, with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of November next.

[SECT. 4.] And the treasurer, for the time being, upon receipt of such [*certif]icate, is hereby [e][i]mpowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, [or] constable or constables of such town, district, parish or place, requiring him or them, respectively, to [*colle]ct the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, and to pay in their collection, and issue their accompts of the whole, at or before the thirtieth day of March, [*which] will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty-seven.

And be it further enacted,

Inhabitants to bring in a true list of polls, estate, &c.

[SECT. 5.] That the assessors of each town, district, parish or other place, respectively, in convenient time before their making of the assessment, shall give [*se]asonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town-meeting or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town, district, parish or place, or notify the inhabitants some other way, to give or bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, and rateable estate they shall be possessed of, on the first Monday [of][in] September next, and income by trade [and][or] faculty, and gain by money at interest, which they are to render to the assessors, on oath, if required; and if they refuse to give in an account of the money at interest, on oath, the assessors are [e][i]mpowered to doom them; and if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion of this tax, as near as they can, agre[e]able to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of said assessors, in bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town, district, parish or place where the delinquent lives, to be levied by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collectors or constables in manner as is directed for gathering the town assessments, to be paid into the town, district or parish treasury, for the use aforesaid: saving to the party aggrieved at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county, for relief as in the case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estates as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of general sessions, for any abatement of the assessment laid on him or them.

[SECT. 6.] And if the person be not convicted of any falseness in the list by him presented, of the polls, rateable estate, or income by trade or faculty, business or employment, which he does or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assessed, such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax which the assessors may not exceed.

And forasmuch as, oftentimes, sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize into the same, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they come to is finished and delivered to the constable or collectors, and, before the next year's assessment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing

Be it therefore enacted,

Transient traders to be rated.

[Sect. 7.] That when any person or persons shall come and reside in any town within this province, and bring any merchandize, or trade to deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby [e][i]mpowered to rate and assess all such persons, according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions of this act provided, though the former rate may have been finished, and a new one not perfected, as a[*foresaid.]

And be it further enacted,

Merchants to be rated for carrying on trade in any town besides where they dwell.

[Sect. 8.] That when any merchant, trader or factor, shall set up a store, and traffic[k], or carry on any trade or business, in any town within this province, not being an inhabitant of [*such town, the] assessors of such town where such trade [or] [and] business shall be carried on as aforesaid, be and hereby are [e][i]mpowered to rate and assess all such merchants, traders and factors, their goods and merchand[*izes, for carrying] on such trade and business and exercising their faculty in such town, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act: provided, before any such assessors shall rate such persons, as aforemention[*ed, the selectmen] of the town where such trade is carried on shall transmit a list of such persons as they shall judge may and ought to be rated, within the intent of this act, to the assessors of such town or dis[*trict.]

Selectmen to transmit a list of such persons before they are rated.

[Sect. 9.] [*And the cons]tables or collectors are hereby enjoined to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assessed on persons who are not of this province, or are residents in other towns than th[*ose where they carry on their trade, and pa]y the same.

[*And where]as it has been the practice of some of the inhabitants of the town of Boston to remove to some other town in this province, and there reside for some months, to avoid paying their part of the taxes in the town of Boston, [*to which they] really belong, to the great injury of the said town,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Inhabitants of Boston who remove out of town and return in a year, to pay said tax in their town.

[Sect. 10.] That when any inhabitant of the town of Boston shall remove to any other town in this province, and shall, in one year after, remove back to said Boston, and shall have been taxed in the [*said t]own, [he] shall be subject to pay [the] said taxes, in like manner as he would have been had he not have removed from said Boston (saving so much as he shall be taxed in the town [he] removed to), anything in this act to the [*contra]ry notwithstanding. Preamble. 1729–30, chap. 1.

WHEREAS it hath been represented to this court that the lands of Edward Stearns of Billerica, in the county of Middlesex, together with [the][his] place of his habitation, lie much nearer the place of public worship in the town of Bedford, in said county, than to the place of public worship in the said town of Billerica, and in all respects will be more accom[m]odated to be set off from the said town of Billerica, and annexed to the said town of Bedford, and, in consideration thereof, the said town of Billerica have consented thereto; and whereas the said Edward Stearns, together with the agents of the said town of Bedford, have humbly petitioned this court therefor,—

CHAPTER 13.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO TWO SEVERAL ACTS TO PREVENT THE DESTRUCTION OF SALMON AND OTHER FISH IN MERRIMACK RIVER, WITHIN THIS PROVINCE.

Preamble. 1764-65, chap. 24, § 3. 1765-66, chap. 30, § 1.

Whereas in and by an act made and passed in the fifth year of his present majesty's reign, intituled "An Act to prevent the destruction of salmon and other fish in Merrimack River, within this province," no person or persons were allowed to catch any of the said fish within one hundred rods of the mouth, or entrance, of the several brooks which empty into the said river; and by another act, made in the sixth year of his present majesty's reign, for amending the aforementioned act, it was enacted "That the prohibition to take fish within one hundred rods in said act mentioned, shall hereafter extend only to the fishing within twenty rods;" and such liberty, being found by experience greatly to obstruct, and, is feared, will soon destroy, the course of such fish as usually pass up a brook, in the town of Andover, known by the name of Cochechawick Brook; therefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Fishing near Cochechawick Brook restricted.

[Sect. 1.] That no person or persons whatsoever be allowed, from and after the fifteenth day of March next, and so during the continuance of this act, to catch salmon, or other fish of any kind, with sien[e]s, nets or pots, or in any other way, within one hundred rods of the mouth of said brook, in said town, on pain of forfeiting for each offence the sum of three pounds, one moiety thereof to the prosecutor, the other to the poor of said town; said fine and forfeiture incurred by the breach of this act to be recovered as in and by said first-mentioned act is provided.

Limitation.

Bills of store to be allowed.

[SECT. 16.] And the commissioner or receiver of impost is hereby impowered to allow bills of store to the master of any ship or vessel importing any wines or liquors, for such private adventures as shall belong to the master or seamen of such ship or vessel, at the discretion of the commissioner or receiver, not exceeding three per cent of the lading; and the duties payable by this act, for such wines or liquors, in such bills of stores mentioned and expressed, shall be abated.

Preamble.

And for the more effectual preventing [any] [and] wines, rum or other distilled spirits being brought into this province from the neighbouring governments, by land, or in small boats or vessels, or any other way, and also to prevent wines, rum or other distilled spirits being first sent out of this province, and afterwards brought into the government again, to defraud the government of the duties of impost,— to appoint deputies in places where wines, rum, &c., may be brought out of other governments.

Be it enacted,

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 18.] That the commissioner or his deputies shall have power to administer the several oaths aforesaid, and search in all suspected places for all such wines, rum, liquors, tea, goods, wares and merchandize as are brought into this province, and landed contrary to the true intent and meaning of this act, and to seize the same for the uses hereinafter mentioned.

Tonnage of shipping.

[Sect. 20.] And the said commissioner is hereby impowered to appoint a meet and suitable person, to repair unto and on board any ship or vessel, to take the exact measure and tunnage thereof, in case he shall suspect the register of such ship or vessel doth not express and set forth the full burthen of the same; the charge thereof to be paid by the owner or master of such ship or vessel, before she shall be cleared, in case she appear to be of greater burthen: otherwise, to be paid by the commissioner out of the money received by him for impost, and shall be allowed him, accordingly, by the treasurer in his accompts. And the naval officer shall not clear any vessel until he be certified, also, by the commissioner, that the duty of tunnage for the same is paid, or that it is such a vessel for which none is payable according to this act.

For every pipe of wine, four shillings.

For every hogshead of rum, seven shillings.

And for every pound of tea, fourpence.

Proviso.

[SECT. 22.] That if, after the shipping of such wines or rum or tea to be exported as aforesaid, and giving security as aforesaid, in order to obtain the drawback aforesaid, the wines or rum or tea so shipped to be exported, or any part thereof, shall be relanded in this province, or brought into the same from any other province or colony, that then all such wine, rum and tea so relanded and brought again into this province, shall be forfeited, and may be seized by the commissioner aforesaid, or his deputy.

And be it further enacted,

Appointment and duty of the commissioner.

[SECT. 23.] That there be one fit person, and no more, nominated and appointed by this court, as a commissioner and receiver of the aforesaid duties of impost and tunnage of shipping, and for the inspection, care and management of the said office, and whatever relates thereunto, to receive commission from the governor or commander-in-chief for the time being, with authority to substitute and appoint a deputy-receiver in each port, or other places besides that in which he resides, and to grant warrants to such deputy-receivers for the said place, and to collect and receive the impost and tunnage of shipping, as aforesaid, that shall become due within such port, and to render the account thereof, and to pay in the same, to the said commissioner and receiver: which said commissioner and receiver shall keep fair books of all entries and duties arising by virtue of this act; also a particular account of every vessel, so that the duties of impost and tunnage arising on said vessel may appear; and the same to be open, at all seasonable times, to the view and perusal of the treasurer or receiver-general of this province (or any other person or persons whom this court shall appoint), with whom he shall account for all collections and payments, and pay all such monies as shall be in his hands, as the treasurer or receiver-general shall demand it. And the said commissioner or receiver, and his deputy or deputies, before their ent[e]ring upon the execution of their office aforesaid, shall be sworn to deal truly and faithfully therein, and shall attend in said office from ten of the clock in the forenoon, until one in the afternoon.

[SECT. 24.] And the said commissioner or receiver, for his labour, care and expences in the said office, shall have and receive, out of the province treasury, at the rate of sixty pounds per annum; and his deputy or deputies shall receive for their service such sums as the commissioner of impost, together with the province treasurer, shall judge necessary, for whatever sums they shall receive and pay; and the treasurer is hereby ordered, in passing and receiving the said commissioner's accounts, accordingly, to allow the payment of such salary [or] [of]salaries, as aforesaid, to himself and his deputies.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 26.] That from and after the commencement of this act, in all causes wherein any claimant shall appear, and shall not make good the claim, the charges of prosecution shall be borne and paid by the said claimer, and not by the informer. [Passed and published March 20, 1767.

CHAPTER 19.

AN ACT IN FURTHER ADDITION TO THE SEVERAL LAWS NOW IN BEING FOR THE MORE SPEEDY FINISHING THE LAND-BANK OR MANUFACTORY SCHEME.

Whereas, by reason that Samuel Danforth and Nathaniel Hatch, Esq[rs][uires], two of the commissioners by law appointed for adjusting the affairs necessary for the equitable finishing the Land-Bank or Manufactory scheme, desire to be excused from officiating any further in that trust, and Thomas Goldthwait, Esq[r]., the other of them, is removed to such a distance that he cannot attend that service, so that no further proceedings can be had for adjusting and finishing those affairs, without the aid of this court,—

Preamble. 1743–44, chaps. 17 and 28. 1744–45, ch. 12. 1748–49, ch. 16. 1750–51, ch. 23. 1754–55, ch. 24. 1757–58, ch. 28. 1758–59, ch. 20. 1759–60, ch. 25. 1762–63, ch. 21.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, [Sect. 1.] That Edward Sheaffe, Samuel Dexter and James Humphry, Esq[rs][uires], be the commissioners, in the room of the said Samuel Danforth, Nathaniel Hatch and Thomas Goldthwait, Esq[rs][uires], to receive commission from the governor; and the said commissioners shall, by virtue of this act, after the said Edward Sheaff[e], Samuel Dexter and James Humphry have been duly sworn as the law directs, have as full power, in all respects, as the commissioners heretofore by law appointed, for adjusting and settling the affairs of that scheme, were vested withal; and the several laws of this province relative to said scheme, and each and every clause and paragraph therein, with the powers and directions, in the same laws, given to sheriffs and other ministerial officers, touching the service of executions or warrants, of distress, issued or to be issued by commissioners; the subjecting the estates of delinquents to the payment of assessments; the sale of estates that have or may be taken by execution; the quieting of the purchasers of such estates; and every other matter and thing whatsoever, shall be of force and take place under the commission to be issued, in pursuance of this act, for the better enabling the commissioners herein appointed, and other officers, to proceed to the finishing of those affairs, as fully, to all intents and purposes, as the said laws would or might have taken place, had the commissioners heretofore appointed still continued in that trust.

Edward Sheaffe, Samuel Dexter and James Humphry, Esqrs., appointed commissioners, and their power described.

Provided, nevertheless,—

[Sect. 2.] That the commissioners appointed by this act do not proceed in the execution of their trust farther than to call in what may remain due and outstanding of three first assessments, made by the former commissioners Anno Domini one thousand seven hundred and forty-four, and one thousand seven hundred and forty-five, until the further order of this court.

Proviso.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 3.] That the commissioners herein appointed are hereby enjoined, from time to time, to render an account of their doings, to the general court, when and so often as said court shall order; the said commissioners to be paid for their time and trouble in executing this trust, as the general court shall hereafter order. [Passed March 20, 1767.

CHAPTER 21.

AN ACT FOR LAYING OUT AND ESTABLISHING A NEW STREET IN THE TOWN OF BOSTON, LEADING FROM MILK STREET TO BATTERY-MARCH STREET.

Preamble.

WHEREAS Benjamin Hallowell, Esq[r]., by his petition to this court, has represented that the late widening of Batterymarch Street, in the town of Boston, has greatly incommoded his ship-yard, and has proposed that Bread Street, crossing Milk Street, should be continued up to his house, and there open into Batterymarch Street, and that the old street leading along his ship-yard, from the bottom of Milk Street, towards his house, and hitherto making a part of Batterymarch Street, should be closed up, and the property thereof, according as the same has been lately widened, vested in him; in consideration whereof he would satisfy the heirs of Stephen Greenleaf and Isaac Dafforn, deceased, and also the heirs of William Hallowell and Samuel Hallowell, for all the land belonging to them, respectively, that might be taken into said proposed new street; and whereas it appears, by the memorial of the selectmen of Boston, in answer to said petition, that said proposed new street will be convenient to the public, and that the said town acquiesce in the aforesaid proposal of the said Hallowell, provided, that, at his charge, said new street be made passable for carriages; that the stones of the pavement of said old street be removed to the new street, at his cost; and that he open said new street, at his own charge, into Batterymarch Street; and also, that Milk Street preserve its full length and breadth, as lately projected by a committee of the general court: all which conditions the said Hallowell has agreed to; and whereas the said Benjamin Hallowell has agreed with the heirs of the aforesaid Stephen Greenleaf, Isaac Dafforn, William Hallowell and Samuel Hallowell, for the purchase of the land taken into said new street, and said new street has been laid out by a committee of this court,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, [Sect. 1.] That said new street as now laid out, the westerly side of which begins on the southerly side of Milk Street, twenty-five feet to the eastward of the north-easterly corner of the house now improved by, and belonging to, John Fullerton; and, from thence, runs, on a strait line, to the westerly side of the front door of said Benjamin Hallowell's dwelling-house; and the easterly side of which runs parrellel with, and at forty feet distance from, the said westerly side, which is nearly on a line with the westerly side of Bread Street,—shall be, forever, a public street, and used and deemed as such; and shall be of the width of forty feet throughout its whole length, from Milk Street to Batterymarch Street, aforesaid; and all encroachments thereon shall be removed, as is directed by an act made and passed in the thirty-third year of the reign of his late majesty George the Second, intitled "An Act for the better rebuilding that part of the town of Boston which was laid waste by the late fire, and for preventing fire in that town for the future;" and all actions that shall be brought for recovering possession of any land lying within said street, or for damages sustained or occasioned thereby, shall be barred.

Batterymarch Street laid out anew and described.

Provided, nevertheless,—

[Sect. 2.] That said Hallowell is hereby subjected to make good all damages that may arise from his failing to perform the whole or any part of his agreement aforesaid.

Proviso.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 3.] That the said Benjamin Hallowell shall be and hereby is subjected, at his own costs, to remove from the aforesaid old street adjoining to his ship-yard, all the paving-stones, into said new street, but not to lay or pave the same; and also, to make the new street, hereinbefore described, passable for carriages, and to satisfy or compensate the heirs above mentioned, as aforesaid.

Duty enjoined on Benjamin Hallowell, Esq.

In consideration whereof, and of his giving for public use the land contained in said new street,—

It is hereby enacted,

[Sect. 4.] That said Benjamin Hallowell shall have all the land

now contained in the said old street, according as the same has been lately widened, by a committee of the general court, in pursuance of an act made in the thirty-third year of his late majesty's reign, intitled "An Act for the prevention of danger and inconvenienc[i]e[s] in rebuilding that part of the town of Boston that was lately consumed by fire;" that is to say, the southerly line of Milk Street, as settled by said committee, being continued across said old street, the said Hallowell shall have all the land in said old street to the southward of said line, as far as the north side of Batterymarch Street, where said new street will open into it, except so much of said old street as the new street may take in; it being hereby intended that Milk Street should preserve its full length and breadth as settled by the committee aforesaid; the said Hallowell to hold the said land to him, his heirs and assigns, forever: provided, nevertheless, that sai[*d] land shall be and hereby is subjected to secure the heirs aforesaid, in case of said Hallowell's failing to compensate them as aforesaid. [Passed March 20, 1767.

Land to remain as security for performance.

CHAPTER 22.

AN ACT FOR [THE] EFFECTUAL PREVENTING THE CURRENCY OF THE BILLS OF CREDIT OF CONNECTICUT, NEW HAMPSHIRE AND RHODE ISLAND, WITHIN THIS PROVINCE.

Preamble. 1761–62, chap. 27.

WHEREAS bills of credit still continue current within the governments of Connecticut, New Hampshire and Rhode Island, and it is of great importance to the interest of the inhabitants of this province, and to the interest of such of his majesty's subjects in Great Britain and elsewhere, as have trade and commerce here, that the currency of said bills should be effectually prevented throughout this government,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Bills of other governments, prohibited,

[SECT. 1.] That every person within this province be and hereby is strictly forbidden to account, receive, take or pay any bill or bills of credit, of either of the governments of Connecticut, New Hampshire or Rhode Island, in discharge of any contract or bargain, or for any valuable consideration whatsoever; and that every person who shall so account, receive, take or pay any of said bills within this province, shall forfeit the sum of fifty pounds for every offence; one moiety thereof to his majesty, his heirs and successors, to and for the use of this government, the other moiety to him or them that shall sue for the same; to be recovered, with full cost[s] of suit, by action of debt, in any of his majesty's courts of record within this province, or by presentment of the grand jury.

—on penalty of £50.

And be it further enacted,

Persons chosen into offices, to take an oath, with an exception.

[SECT. 2.] That from and after the last day of March, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty-seven, every person who shall be chosen to serve in any office in any of the towns or districts or precincts of this province, such offices excepted to the refusal of which any penalty is, by law, annexed, shall, before his entrance upon such office, take the following oath, to be administred by a justice of the peace, or, where no justice of the peace shall be present, by the town, district, or precinct clerk, who is hereby [e][i]mpowered to administer the same; viz[1].,—

* Parchment mutilated.

Form of the oath.

You, A. B., do, in the presence of God, solem[n]ly declare that you have not, since the thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-seven, wittingly and willingly, directly or indirectly, either by yourself or any for or under you, been concerned in receiving or paying, within this government, any bill or bills of credit of either of the governments of Connecticut, New Hampshire or Rhode Island. So help you God.

Other officers to be chosen, in case of neglect or refusal.

[Sect. 3.] And where any person, chosen and not exempted as aforesaid, shall refuse or neglect to take the oath aforesaid, on tendering the same, the town, district or precinct shall proceed to the choice of another person in his room.

And be it further enacted,

Person chosen representatives, to take the oath.

[Sect. 4.] That when any person shall be chosen to represent any town within this province, in the general court or assembly, such person so chosen shall take the oath aforesaid; and return shall be made by the selectmen, upon the back of the precept, that the person so chosen hath taken the oath aforesaid; and if any person so chosen shall refuse or neglect to take the oath aforesaid, such refusal or neglect shall be deemed a refusal to serve as a representative; and the town shall proceed to the choice of another person in his room.

And be it further enacted,

His majesty's council, to take the oath.

[Sect. 5.] That the oath aforesaid shall be administred to each of the members of his majesty's council every year, at the same time when the usual oaths required to be taken by the said members of his majesty's council shall be administred; and all officers, civil and military, within this government, who shall be nominated or appointed, shall, before they receive their respective commissions, take the oath aforesaid, and their respective commissions shall be otherwise void; and all persons elected into any office by the general assembly shall be deemed not qualified to enter upon the execution of their respective offices until they have taken the oath aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

The said oath to be taken upon issuing executions on judgments of court:

[Sect. 6.] That no execution shall be issued from the office of any clerk of any of the inferio[u]r courts of common pleas, or of the superio[u]r court of judicature, for any sum whatsoever, unless the plaintiff or plaintiffs, suing in his or their own right, and dwelling within this province, shall first take the oath aforesaid, to be administred by a justice of the peace, or by the clerk of the court from which such execution shall issue; and certificate thereof shall be made on such execution; and if any execution shall issue or go forth without such certificate, the same shall be and hereby is declared to be void, excepting as is hereinafter provided: provided, nevertheless, that no person taking out an alias execution, shall be required to take said oath; and no licence shall be granted to, nor any recognizance taken from, any taverner, innholder or retailer, by the justices of any of the courts of session within this province, until[l] such taverner, innholder or retailer shall have taken said oath in presence of the court, or certificate of his having so done, from a justice of the peace, shall be presented to the court.

—and upon taking out licenses.

And be it further enacted,

Clerk's fee.

[Sect. 7.] That for every oath administred as aforesaid by the clerk of any court, he shall be allowed threepence, and for every certificate by him signed as aforesaid, threepence, and no more; and the cost and charge of such oath and certificate shall be added to the sum in the execution required to be levied accordingly.

Preamble.

And whereas it frequently happens that persons who are intitled to take out writs of execution upon judgments by them obtained, are absent out of this province, or employed in his majesty's service in such parts of it as are very remote from the places where such judgments are entered, and so cannot take the oath by law appointed to be taken before executions are issued; wherefore, for remedy of these inconveniencies,—

Be it enacted,

Proviso with regard to executions, where persons are absent or remote.

[SECT. 8.] That when any person or persons shall be absent from this province, or employed in his majesty's service in such parts thereof as are very remote from the courts or places where they recover judgments, in all such cases it shall be lawful for the clerks of the superio[u]r court of judicature, court of assize and general goal delivery, and of the inferior courts of common pleas, or other courts of law, to issue writs of execution, when applied for, upon judgments recovered by such person or persons as are before mentioned, notwithstanding he or they have not taken the oath appointed by this act to be taken: provided, nevertheless, that before executions are issued, as aforesaid, a certificate in writing, under the hand of any justice of the peace for any county in the province, shall be delivered to the clerk who issues the execution, setting forth that, at the date of such certificate, the person or persons on whose behalf execution is applied for, is then out of the province, or employed in his majesty's service as aforesaid.

Certificate thereof to be delivered to the clerk.

Limitation.

[SECT. 9.] This act to continue and be in force until the last day of March, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy. [Passed and published March 20, 1767.

NOTES.—All the public acts of this year were printed,—chapter 6, separately; and the engrossments of all acts are preserved, including one private act, the title of which is as follows:—

"An Act to enable William Pepperrell Sparhawk Esq[r] to take the name of William Pepperrell." [Passed June 18.

The acts of the first session were certified for transmission, August 10, 1766. They were received by the clerk of the Privy Council, in waiting, on the seventh day of November following, and immediately referred to the committee on plantation affairs, by whom, on November 29, they were referred to the Lords of Trade. They were received by the latter, December 6, read December 8, and thereupon referred to Sir Matthew Lamb, who reported, May 2, 1767, that, "upon perusal and consideration of the before mentioned Acts I have no objections thereto in point of law." This report, together with the acts to which it referred, was considered by the Board, June 12, 1767; and the draught of a report to the Lords of the Council was ordered to be prepared, proposing the disallowance of chapter 5.—See the note to that chapter, post.

The acts of the second session were certified for transmission, December 27, 1766. They were received by the Lords of Trade, March 10, 1767, and the proceedings that followed are shown in the note to chapter 10, post.

The acts of the third session were certified for transmission, May 2, 1767, and were laid before the Lords of Trade, June 30, and immediately referred to Sir Matthew Lamb, for his opinion thereupon. On the fifteenth of November Sir Matthew Lamb reported that he had "no objection thereto in point of law," which report, with the accompanying acts, was read at the Board, December 1, when the further consideration of chapter 22 was postponed to December 8, 1767, after which no record of any further proceedings upon the acts of this year has been discovered.

Chap. 1. See note to 1768, chap. 1, post.

Chap. 2. "June 14, 1766. On the Petition of William Miller and Others Inhabitants of that part of the Town of Bristol in the County of Lincoln formerly called Walpole: A Bill was brought in intitled 'An Act in addition to an Act intituled An Act for erecting a Town in the County of Lincoln by the name of Bristol,' The said Bill having been read a first and second time In Council, Passed to be Engrossed.

In the House of Representatives, Read a first, second and third time, and passed a concurrence."—Council Records, vol. XXVI., p. 255.

Chap. 5. "Nov. 1, 1765. In the House of Representatives. Ordered that Col[o] Bowers, M[r] Hall, Col[o] Noyes, M[r] Cushing and Cap[t] Brown with such as the Hon[ble] Board shall join be a Committee to consider the Expediency of Repealing the act respecting insolvent Debtors &c and report.

In Council, Read and Concurred, and William Brattle, Harrison Gray and Nath[l] Ropes Esq[rs] are joined in the affair."—Council Records, vol. XXVI., p. 103.

The committee appointed as above, reported a bill to the Council, on the fourth of February, 1766. The bill so reported, which provided that it should not be so construed as "to exclude such as have made application since the first of Nov[r] last, in order to receive y[e] benefit of s[d] acts" was recommitted, after a second reading in the House, and, on the tenth of February it was passed to be engrossed, in the Council,

"as taken into a new draught by the committee." The House refused to concur in this vote, although the new draught appears to have been identical with the present chapter, and voted for the appointment of a new committee, to report, at the next session, "what they judge proper to be enacted relating to the repeal" of the insolvency-acts, "or to report a new bill." The Council nonconcurred, and voted to adhere to their vote of the tenth of February. The House thereupon receded; and the bill was passed to be enacted in both branches, but failed to receive the assent of the Governor, for the reasons which appear in his letter to the Lords of Trade, dated March 10, 1766, from which the following extract is taken:—

"There was another Bill laid before me, which I have not passed: that is a Bill for repealing the late Insolvent Act. The reason given for it was that the Act had been much abused by fraudulent debtors. But it is the nature of these Acts to be subject to abuse and much more so where they are not assisted by a Court of Equity which can enquire into frauds, And yet without them the Common Law is pregnant of greater abuses from partial attachments and fraudulent judgments. I therefore thought and with me many others that the Act should be rather amended than repealed, But if it was to be repealed, it ought to be done at a day distant from the passing the Act of repeal, that absent Creditors who now trust it may know when it is to cease. For these reasons I have declined passing the Bill, tho' as the General Court is continued by adjournment I can yet do it if I see occasion."—"*Mass. Bay, B. "Feb. 21, 1766. In Council. Whereas a Bill has passed the two Houses and now lies before his Excellency for consideration intituled 'an Act for Repealing two Acts, one intituled An Act for preventing fraud in Debtors and for securing the Effects of Insolvent Debtors for the benefit of their Creditors: The other Act intituled An Act in addition to an Act for preventing fraud in Debtors and for securing the Effects of Insolvent Debtors for the benefit of their Creditors: both made in the fifth year of his present Majesty's Reign.' Ordered That the Justices of the Superior Court of Judicature &c. be and hereby are directed to issue no Warrants for attaching the Effects of absconding or concealed Debtors until after the end of the present Session of the General Court, saving to those who had before this time legally applied for said Warrants, and had a right to the benefit of said Acts. In the House of Representatives, Read and Concurred. Consented to by the Governor."—Council Records, vol. XXVI., p. 197.

"Feb. 21, 1766. In Council (19th). The Board being informed that application had been made to Benja Lynde Esqr one of the Judges of the Superior Court by the Creditors of Mr Henry Quincy a person represented insolvent for a Warrant to attach the Effects of the said Quincy the Board thereupon sent for Capt Samuel Bulfinch who had been employed in this business, who accordingly appeared before the Board and informed them that he went to Salem on Monday the 17th Instant, and asked of Judge Lynde a Warrant to attach the Effects of Mr Henry Quincy a person insolvent. The Judge asked him if he was a Creditor? He said No; but that he came by desire of Mr Quincy and shewed him a petition from about a dozen of the Creditors—When the Judge knew he was thus impowered, and the demand was still made, he replied, he would make a minute of it, and if the Others who applied had the benefit of the Act Mr Quincy would have it likewise. Judge Lynde inquired of Mr Bulfinch if the Bankrupt Act was repealed, who told him, it was not: and in the conversation the Judge said, he did not choose to issue a Warrant unless he could be indemnified against the penalties of the Stamp Act. Thereupon Ordered That the Secretary send by Express a Copy of this information to Judge Lynde and acquaint him that the Board would be glad he would forthwith come and take his seat in Council if he can conveniently, that he may then inform the Board of the true state of this matter, and if he cannot attend in person that he would write them and let them know whether his difficulty arose from the uncertain situation in which he left the Bankrupt Bill, or whether it arose from the penalties he might be exposed to on account of the Stamp Act; on which last Article he is requested to be full and explicit.

In Council (20th). The Board having received a Letter from Benja Lynde Esqr one of the Justices of the Superior Court in reply to what had been alledged Yesterday by Mr Bulfinch of his having refused to grant a Warrant to attach the Effects of an insolvent Debtor—The said Letter was read at the Board, and it was thereupon Resolved, that Judge Lynde's Reply was fully satisfactory to the Board; and that it thereby appears that his Conduct in the affair is not only free from all blame, but that it merits the approbation of the Board."—Ibid.

"June 17, 1766. In the House of Representatives. Ordered that Mr Otis, Colo Bourne and Majr Humphrey with such as the Honble Board shall join be a Committee to bring in a Bill for the Repeal of the Bankrupt Act. In Council. Read and Concurred, and James Bowdoin and Harrison Gray Esqrs are joined in the affair."—Ibid., p. 258.

"June 25, 1766. His Excellency acquainted the Board that a Bill for repealing the Bankrupt Acts passed the last year, had been laid before him, and stated to the Board certain difficulties he had about giving his Consent thereto, particularly as it might affect Creditors in England, who being at a distance might in many cases be prevented coming in for any share of the effects of Insolvent Debtors.

His Excellency further informed the Board that he had laid this difficulty before the Board of Trade when such a Bill was laid before him the last Session, which made it more difficult for him to sign the Bill now before him; but that on the other hand he understood that the inconveniences that would attend the Creditors in England by the fraudulent practices upon the said Acts, might be greater and more prejudicial to them than if the Repeal of the said Acts were to be suspended for some months: And asked the Advice of the Board upon the whole matter.

The Board were of Opinion that the inconveniences that would arise from the suspending the Repeal of the said Acts for such a term of time, would be greater and more prejudicial to the British Merchants than the inconveniences first mentioned: And thereupon Advised 13, to 3,—That upon consideration of all circumstances His Excellency Sign the Bill now laid before him."—Executive Records of the Council, 1765–1774, p. 127.

"Among the Acts which are now transmitted to Your Lordships is an Act for repealing the Bankrupt Act, which I've before observed upon. All Acts of this kind are very subject to abuses: this had produced so many fraudulent insolvencies, that people of all kinds, were earnest for having it repealed. I had refused it in a former Session because I thought Creditors ought to have previous notice of the repeal taking place. This objection had less weight in this Session, as it was urged that the two Houses passing the Bill last Session was giving such notice as I had required. Being very much pressed to pass this Act, I took the advice of a very full Council, when having stated my reasons why the repeal ought to take place at a distant day, they were unanimously of opinion that the inconveniences arising from the postponing the repeal, which were certain, greatly outweighed those apprehended from making it instant, which were barely probable, I thereupon passed the Act."—*Gov. That act, the operation of which was limited to July 1, 1760, was continued, by subsequent acts, beyond the time of the adoption of the Constitution, and, with the act of June 17, 1791 (chap. 9), which superseded it, is the basis of the existing statutes upon the subject, although it appears from the following petition, that nearly a year after the passage of that act there was no incumbent of the office of assayer, and no evidence has been discovered of the appointment of such officer during the provincial period:—

"Dec. 12, 1755. The Board of Trade had encouraged the production of this new staple of the American colonies, which, they hoped, would, ultimately, render the mother country independent of foreign markets, for a material indispensable to certain established industries in Great Britain; and the encouragement thereof by the Home Government might, moreover, be regarded as a concession to the growing spirit for manufactures, in the colonies, though in a line in which British manufacturers would incur no possible danger from competition. In legislating for the encouragement of this manufacture, the principal difficulties encountered, arose from insufficient knowledge of the art of producing potash, and from the want of certain and convenient tests of its strength and purity: the latter being as necessary to maintain its reputation in the market, as the former was to enable the producers to compete with the prices of the article imported from foreign countries.

The following extracts exhibit some of the more important steps in the progress of this manufacture in Massachusetts, as well as of the movement resulting in the passage of this chapter. It was not, however, until after the passage of the act of June 17, 1791, that potash and pearlash, of Massachusetts brands, began to compete favorably with those inspected and branded in New York, where a more rigid system was adopted earlier.—See Dr. David Townsend's pamphlet on the manufacture of pot and pearl ashes, Boston, 1793.

"To His Excellency William Shirley Esq^{r} Cap^{t} General & Commander in cheif of the Province of the Massachusetts Bay &c. &c. &c. and

To the Hon^{ble} His Majesties Council and House of Representatives in general Court assembled—

The Petition of those engag'd in the Manufactory of Pot-Ash humbly sheweth—

That your Petitioners having with great labour and Expence erected Buildings and prepard Materials for making tryal of the beforemention'd Manufacture, the practice of which tho' often attempted here to little or no purpose, is now or will in a short time be made so intelligible, as to render it at least a very advantageous Branch of Trade, if not the principal Staple of the Country, provided some Encouragement could be afforded which may contribute to support the extraordinary charge naturally attending the investigation of things of this Nature, and so requisite to bring them forward to Maturity;

Would therefore humbly pray this Hon^{ble} Court that they would please to grant Encouragement in such way and manner as in their Wisdom they may judge meet, both as an alleviation of the extraordinary Expence and trouble your Petitioners have been att, and for the farther promoting so valuable a Branch of Trade as your Petitioners apprehend this Manufactory is likely to prove to this Country in general, and to this Province in particular.—

And your Petitioners as in Duty bound shall ever pray &c RICH^{d} GRIDLEY

This accompanies a Petition of Mess^{rs} Gridley Mascarine & Barnes, Undertakers of the Manufacture of Potash within this Province Praying for some Encouragement from this Governm^{t} in that Business:

I think myself obliged to recommend this matter to your Consideration as that which the Parliam^{t} of Great Britain have much at Heart; And which, If it takes Footing here cannot fail of being highly beneficial to this Province by Introducing a good Staple for our Trade & Faciliting the Clearing of our unimproved Land & thereby Promoting our Husbandry: I think it will be our Wisdom to encourage such Productions & Manufactures among ourselves as will be so far from giving umbrage to the Governm^{t} at Home as they will render us more acceptable to them especially if we can also otherwise find our own account therein.

As to the particular Way of Answering the Petitioners Request I leave to your Discretion; but think the Affair of such Importance as to require your deliberate attention. W SHIRLEY."—Ibid., p. 423.

That your memorialists at the close of the last Session of the Great & General Court for this province presented the Petition accompanying this memorial, praying as in said Petition appears but by reason of the weighty affairs then lying before the said Court nothing was done on said Petition

Humbly Shews,

That your Petr has lately gained the Art of manufacturing of Pot-ash, & being willing to bring the same to perfection has expended large sums of money in erecting Buildings & setting up Works at a place called Cold Spring in the County of Hampshire.—That your Petitioner finding it impossible to carry on the said Works without assistance, communicated the said Art to six Persons, who now aid your Petr in the management of said Business, & without whose assistance the said Works must stand still, & a stop put to the said manufactury.—and inasmuch as the manufacturing of pot-ash has from experience already been found to be a great publick Benefit.

Your Petr humbly prays that Your Honrs would be pleased to Grant a Protection to the said Six men, that so they may be freed from any Impress which may occasion an obstruction to their Carrying on the Business aforesd—and your Petr as in Duty bound will ever Pray &c

To His Excellency Thomas Pownall Esqr Captain General and Commander in chief of His Majesties Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New-England &c. &c. &c. and

To the Honourable His Majesties Council and House of Representatives for the said Province in general Court assembled November 23d 1757.—

The Petition of John Mascarene of Boston Merchant humbly sheweth

That your Petitioner, upon the Encouragement which Mr Stevens (a Gentleman who lately came from England) had receiv'd from the Right Honble the Board of Trade for setting up the Manufactory of Pot-Ash in America, and prompted by the desire of undertaking a Business which seem'd to promise so many advantages to this Country; did at his own Expence and charge about two Years past, undertake to erect buildings, and prepare necessary Works and Materials for carrying on the said business, but that your Petitioner finding the Method then practis'd insufficient to answer the end propos'd, has since that time with unwearied diligence and application been making alterations, trying Experiments, and using all Methods which the Nature of the thing seem'd from step to step to require, in order to bring the business to perfection, and render it capable of being carried on in a plain and regular Manner, which he has so far effected as to be able to produce Pot-Ash equal, if not superiour to what is made in Russia, as is evident from its obtaining the highest Markett in London, signified to your Petitioner in a Letter from his Correspondent there, and that your Petitioner having nearly compleated the necessary preparations is now prosecuting the said Business. And as your Petitioner doubts not he can sufficiently satisfie any impartial Enquirer of the many advantages which will arise to the Country in general, and to the Farmer in particular from the prosecution of this Business, and able also to satisfie any Committee which this Honble Court may appoint of the Improvements made in the said Pot-Ash manufacture, and of the great trouble and Expence your Petitioner has been at therein, insomuch that unless some assistance be granted to reimburse his former Expences, your Petitioner finds himself unable to carry on the same, and thereby the said Manufacture may in a great measure, if not wholly be discourag'd.

Your Petitioner therefore humbly prays that he may be look'd upon as one who has been employing his stock and Talents in the Service of his Country, and in consideration thereof may receive some reimbursement of the heavy burthen which he has drawn upon himself, or be assisted in such other way as the Honble Court shall in their Wisdom think most convenient, to enable him still to prosecute the said Business, and thereby lay a foundation for the increase of this valuable manufacture, which will prove One very advantageous Spring of Wealth to this Province, and such an One as (has been very justly observ'd in a late Speech from the Chair) will not be likely to fail, having its Source in the Profits arising from our own produce, Labour, and Export.

Your Excellency and Honour's favourable return to this Request, will command your Petitioners assiduous application to the Business thereby encourag'd, and will farther oblige him as in Duty already bound to pray &c—

John Mascarene."—Ibid., p. 439.

This petition was read in the House, Dec. 10, 1757, and ordered to lie on the table. It came up again before the next Assembly, when it was "read and ordered that the consideration of this memorial be referred to the next sitting."

The next legislative proceeding upon this subject appears in the following entry:—

"Oct. 19, 1764. In the House of Representatives: Ordered That Mr Thacher Mr Wilder, Cole Chandler, Capt Taylor and Cole Nichols with such as the honorable Board shall join be a Committee to consider and report at the next Session a method to regulate the Manufacture of Potash.

"May 30, 1765. Soon after my arrival to this Government, I formed in my mind an Idea of three improvements which this Country was capable of making profitable to itself and convenient to Great Britain; I mean Potash Hemp and the carrying Lumber to the British Markets. They are all proper Staples for New England and must be very acceptable to Great Britain as she is at present supplied with them from Foreigners by a losing Trade. I have already had the pleasure to see the first of these established with Effect, and wanting now nothing but care to preserve its Credit & prevent the general quality of the Goods which is of a superior kind being rendered doubtful and suspicious by the fraudulent practices of particulars. This is a necessary Caution at the commencement of a new Trade: for upon its first Reputation depends its future Success. There is already a Law for the regulation of this Trade; but it wants to be carried into execution: this I must desire may be done this Session as it is now become immediately wanting.

These are proper Objects of your concern, Works which naturally arise in your own Country, strengthen your Connection with Great Britain, may easily be confined within yourselves, and will soon be superior to those of foreign Rivals. When these are added to your other Resources they will form a Fund, which with the Blessing of God upon your Industry and Frugality will be adequate to the expence of all necessary Imports: and you will have no Occasion as you have hitherto shewn no disposition, vainly to attempt to transfer Manufactories from their settled Abode; an undertaking at all times difficult; but under the disadvantage of high priced labour impracticable."—Extract from Governor Bernard's speech to both Houses: ibid., vol. XXVI., p. 5.

The Governor's recommendation respecting potash was immediately referred to a joint committee, consisting of Col. Partridge, and Messrs. Wilder and Bourn, of the House, and Messrs. Samuel Danforth and John Chandler, of the Council. On the 24th of June, this committee reported the following bill, which was read and recommitted:—

"An Act in addition to an Act, entitled an Act for appointing Assayers of Pot Ash & Pearl Ash,

Whereas in and by the said Act, it is declared, 'that, from and after the first day 'of July 1754, no Pot Ash or Pearl-Ash made within this province, shall be shipped 'or exported, but such as has been assayed, and found to be of sufficient strength & 'purity, and to have those qualities in such degree of perfection, as shall be ascer-'tain'd & fixed by this Court (or such fit person as shall be appointed & author-'ized for that purpose) as the standard of such pot ash or pearl ash, as shall be 'deemed merch^ble & fit for exportation.' but as the Quantity of pot ash & pearl ash, made within this province, has been, till of late, but small; and this court has therefore thought it unnecessary to fix the Rule or standard for assaying the said materials before this time, when it is very evident, that there are brought to market, and to be shipped for Great Britain & other places great Quantities thereof;—In order to carry the said act into execution and

For the more effectually preventing the mischiefs which may attend or be consequent upon shipping Pot ash & pearl ash, on board of any Ship or other Vessel without being first duely assayed, and for the better securing the dealers in said Comodities against all kinds of Frauds & Impositions from ill minded persons

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council & House of Rep^ves, that no pot ash, or Pearl ash made, or that shall be made within, or that shall be imported into, this province, shall be shipped or exported, but Such as shall have been assayed, and discovered and judged by the Assaymaster to be of sufficient purity, and of Such degree of Strength, as shall be evident, from its weighing (upon due experiment, of thirty two Carats reduced to a lye) not less than ten Carats more than common Water or from other more expeditious & equally certain experiment & proof of the said quality which shall be Satisfactory to the Assaymaster, and which he is to use accordingly to his best Skill & Judgement in the Nature & properties of the said material and that every barrel of pot ash or pearl ash, being so Assayed & proved to be good and Merchantable, according to the Rule or standard, established as aforesaid shall be by the said Assaymaster marked or imprinted by some distinguishing Mark or Brand (as is by the said Act provided) to denote the same having been assayed & approved.

And be it further enacted by the Authority afors^d, that all such Casks of pot ash or pearl ash, that shall by the Assay master, be found impure in its quality, and not of sufficient strength, agreable to the Rule and standard fixed by this Act, may nevertheless be offered and sold at Market, for the value of it, or what it will produce; or be shipped or exported by the Maker or other person or persons, under Some certain Mark or Brand (to be appointed by the Gov^r & Council) distinguishing y^e same from the Casks of pot ash or pearl ash, w^ch shall be found good & Merchantable,

And be it further enacted, that every Cask of pot ash and pearl ash that shall be offered for sale in any port or place of export within this province, shall be imprinted with the first Letter of the Christian Name of the owner or owners, maker or makers, and his or their Sirname or names at length, and also with the Name at length of the town or place, where the pot ash or pearl ash was made.

And be it further enacted that every Assaymaster is, & shall be by this Act authorized, in Case he shall judge it necessary, to shift or Cause to be shifted, with due care and caution the whole or any part of a quantity of pot or pearl ash, which shall be contained in one or more Casks, into other suitable Cask or Casks, in order the more effectually to discover & prevent all fraud & Imposition: and in case, any ill minded person or persons shall presume to mix or cause to be mixed with any pot ash or pearl ash (sold or offered for Sale at market) any foreign matter of any sort or kind, & shall be thereof convict, shall forfeit & pay to the person injured; a Sum not exceeding treble the amount of the Damage thereby sustained, at the Discretion of the Court or Justice before whom the Cause shall be tried—Such treble Damages to be estimated by two or more meet Persons to be appointed by such Court or Justice for that purpose: or in such other way & manner as to such Court or Justice respectively may be Satisfactory. This act to continue & be in force from the Day of next, to the Day of which will be in Year of our Lord 1768—& no longer."—Mass. Archives, vol. 59, p. 504.

"June 25, 1765. In Council. The Committee to whom was recommitted the Bill for appointing Assayers of Pot ash and pearl ash, having reported that as the Court is in expectation of rising to day, they are not able to offer a Bill for the purpose so precise and exact as it ought to be. Ordered that the said Committee prepare a Bill; and that it be brought in the next Session of this Court. In the House of Representatives. Read and Concurred."—Council Records, vol. XXVI., p. 63.

No further action appears to have been taken upon this matter during this or the following session; but early in the third session the subject was again brought up, and another committee, consisting of William Brattle and Royall Tyler, of the Council, and Messrs. Sheaffe, Wilder and Hall, of the House, was appointed, Jan. 17, 1766, "to consider some proper measures for encouraging the manufacture of potash within the province and for preventing fraud therein, and report." On the 19th of February, the further consideration of the "affair relative to potash" was referred to the next sitting of the Assembly, and the committee was "directed to sit, in the mean time, and make report at the said session."

In the next General Court this committee was enlarged by the addition of Thomas Flucker, from the Council, and Messrs. Hancock, Partridge, and Taylor of Southborough, in place of Messrs. Wilder and Hall, of the House. This was May 30; and, on the 18th of June, in answer to a message from the House, a bill was sent down from the Council, where it had passed to be engrossed. The House, thereupon, on the 19th and 20th, took the testimony of Messrs. Edmund Quincy and Samuel Blodget, respecting the manufacture, "true standard," and method of assaying, potash and pearlash, and the testimony of Caleb Wilder, of Lancaster, on the subject of the true standard of potash; upon which last-named subject, also, Professor Winthrop was ordered to confer with Mr. Danforth, of the Council, who, appearing before the House, upon a message of invitation, was requested to inquire "into the true standard of potash and communicate the same." On the 23d, a committee was appointed by the House, to confer forthwith with Mr. Danforth, and also with Maj. Wilder, Mr. Mascarene, Dr. Marshall and Dr. Smibert, upon the same subject. After reference to another joint committee, and after a full debate, and various amendments, the bill was finally passed in its present form.

Chap. 10. The act of parliament, known as the Stamp Act, which was passed Jan. 10, 1765, did not go into operation until the first day of November following. Throughout the British-American colonies the passage of this act, as is well known, created intense excitement, and developed a general and determined spirit of opposition. As soon as it was known that the secretary of this province, Andrew Oliver, had been appointed distributor of stamps, measures were concerted, in certain quarters, to prevent his exercising the functions of that office. Accordingly, on the 14th of August, the day on which the Council ordered the Stamp Act to be printed and distributed, the Secretary was publicly hanged in effigy; and in the evening a brick building, which he had erected, as was supposed, for the reception of the stamps, was demolished by a mob, and his house forcibly entered, the windows broken, and his furniture partly destroyed.

Mr. Oliver promptly announced his intention to decline the office of stamp-distributor, and, on the 21st, informed the Council that he had written to the Commissioners of Stamps, in London, that he should not be able to take the stamps into his custody, upon their arrival.

On the evening of the next day after the Secretary had expressed his intention to resign, the rioters again assembled, and began an attack—which they soon abandoned, under the belief that its occupant was not at home—upon the dwelling-house of Thomas Hutchinson, lieut.-governor, and chief justice of the Superior Court of Judicature, whose ready submission to each successive encroachment of the imperial government, and whose zealous hostility to the leaders and principles of the opposition, had caused or strengthened the impression that he was the responsible promoter of all the oppressive measures against which the popular party protested.

Emboldened by their success with the Secretary, whose resignation they celebrated, the next evening, by a bonfire and other demonstrations of gratitude, and still further encouraged by the apathy or timidity of the local magistrates and town-officers, the rioters once more assembled, on the evening of August 26, to make a demonstration against the incumbents of certain offices the objectionable functions of which had been created or enlarged by certain acts of parliament: and also against the Lieutenant-Governor. Accordingly, starting from their rendezvous around a bonfire in King Street, now State Street, where they were supplied with intoxicating liquors, and proceeding, first, in two bodies, they attacked the dwelling-houses of Benjamin Hallowell, comptroller of the customs,—who had received his appointment from the commissioners of customs in London,—and William Story, deputy registrar of the court of Vice Admiralty, a court the jurisdiction of which, without a jury, had been, it was generally felt, unconstitutionally enlarged. Considerable injury was done to the dwelling-houses, outbuildings and furniture of those officers, and still more damage to the papers and records in their custody. Uniting their forces, and inflamed by a free use of liquors from the well-stocked cellar of the Comptroller, they next proceeded to demolish the fine mansion of Lieut.-Governor Hutchinson. The contents of this house, which his large income, derived, in part, from the emoluments of several lucrative public offices, had enabled him to furnish with exceptional elegance, were scattered or destroyed, and with them perished many unique MSS., and other valuable materials, then in his keeping, illustrative of our colonial and provincial history.

The following extracts show the course pursued by the provincial authorities to prevent the riots, and the progress of the measures taken to obtain, for the sufferers, indemnity from the province treasury:—

"Aug. 14, 1765. His Excellency having informed the Council that an Image was this day hung up, on a Tree in a public Street at the South end of Boston, that a great number of People were assembled together, & that the said Image was evidently intended to represent the Gentleman appointed the Stamp Officer for this Province; He therefore desired the Advice of the Council upon this occasion:

Advised, that His Excellency give orders to the Sheriff of the County of Suffolk, & to the several Peace Officers in the Town of Boston that they be vigilant in the execution of the Laws, and preserving the Public Peace on this occasion."—Executive Records of the Council, 1765–1774, p. 31.

"Aug. 15, 1765. His Excellency, having ordered the Council to meet on occasion of a Mob in the Town of Boston the last night, which had been guilty of great outrages, had pulled down a brick building newly erected by the Secretary of the Province, broke into his Dwelling House with violence, damaged and destroyed his furniture, having first broke the windows, pulled down the fences of his yard and garden, and committed other great enormities; desired the Advice of the Council what were the proper measures to be taken on this occasion:—

Advised that His Excellency issue a Proclamation requiring all Justices of Peace, and all Officers Civil and Military to use their utmost endeavours for the discovery apprehending and bringing to justice, any and each person concerned in the Outrages aforesaid, and promising a reward of One Hundred Pounds for the discovery and apprehending of any & each person so concerned, and over and above the reward aforesaid a pardon to every person concerned, who shall make discovery of any of his accomplices.

The Governor then asked if they would Advise him to appoint a Military Guard: the Council were of Opinion that some other method for preserving the Peace would be more adviseable.

The Governor asked what methods they would propose for preserving the Peace.

Advised that the Justices of the Peace in the Town of Boston and the Select Men of the said Town be notified forthwith to attend His Excellency in Council, and that it be recommended to them to cause the Act of this Province of the 11th of King William the Third intituled "An Act for keeping of Watches in Towns" to be effectually carried into Execution upon the present exigency.

The Justices of Peace and Select Men aforesaid attended according to Order, & thereupon his Excellency earnestly recommended to them a vigilant care and endeavour in their respective stations, by their council advice and authority, to intend the preservation of peace and good order in the Town of Boston, and in a particular manner that they would cause the aforementioned Law effectually to be put in execution, so long as there should appear to be any danger of a revival of the like disorders."—Ibid., p. 32.

"Aug. 27, 1765. His Honor the Lieutenant Governor acquainted the Governor in Council of the great damage he had sustained the night before by a number of riotous and tumultous people who had totally destroyed his house and all he had therein.

Advised and Ordered that John Erving, Thomas Hubbard, Thomas Flucker, Royall Tyler and Harrison Gray Esqrs be a Committee to confer with His Honor the Lieut Governor and the other Gentlemen of the Town who have suffered by the riotous proceedings of the last night and of the night of the 14th Instant and to appoint Carpenters, masons and other tradesmen to estimate the damage done to the Buildings in particular; the said Committee to appraise the damage upon the whole which either of the parties have sustained and make Report as soon as may be.

Advised that His Excellency send for Joseph Jackson Esqr Colonel of the Regiment of Militia in the Town of Boston and Leonard Jarvis Esqr Captain of the Company of Cadets to let them know that their assistance would be wanted to preserve the peace of the Town; the said Gentlemen accordingly attended and signified their readiness to obey orders.

Advised that His Excellency give orders to Col. Jackson to raise four Companies of his regiment, to consist of Three Hundred men at least to patrole the Town this night, well accoutred and armed, in order to preserve the Peace of the Town.—That His Excellency give orders to Col. Jarvis to raise his Company to watch also this night, and to incorporate into his said Company, for a term not exceeding three months, such gentlemen as shall be willing to put themselves under his command; & that His Excellency give orders to the said Gentlemen to furnish such Detachments from time to time as he shall think necessary.

His Excellency acquainted the Council, that Mr Hale, being apprehensive of an attack upon the Custom House, had desired a Guard for the protection of it this night.

Advised that His Excellency give orders to Colo Jarvis to guard the Custom House accordingly."—Ibid., p. 37.

"Aug. 28, 1765. His Excellency having represented to the Council the extreme danger that may be apprehended from the late riotous proceedings in the Town of Boston, proposed to them the following question—Whether it is expedient to write by express or otherwise, to General Gage and Lord Colville,* acquainting them with what has happened.

The Board, after debating thereon, came to the following Resolution, viz:

That it appears to the Board that the measures taken for preserving the Peace of the Town the last night have had a good effect, that if there should not be a sufficient power within the Town to continue the peace of it, a force from the Country might be called in which would sufficiently answer that end. Therefore Advised, that it is not expedient to write to General Gage or Lord Colville, as has been proposed by His Excellency."—Ibid., p. 39.

* Commanders, respectively, of the British land and naval forces in America.

"Aug. 28, 1765. Advised that His Excellency issue a Proclamation for apprehending the persons concerned in the riot in the Town of Boston on the night of the 26th Instant, promising a reward of Three Hundred Pounds for detecting the Leader of the parties, and One Hundred Pounds for detecting other persons concerned in the said Riots, to be paid upon conviction."—Ibid., p. 40.

A proclamation, in accordance with the above order, appeared in the "Boston Gazette and Country Journal," of Sept. 2, 1765.

"I must recommend to you to do an Act of Justice, which at the same time will reflect Credit upon yourselves. I mean to order a compensation to be made to the sufferers by the late disturbances. Their losses are too great for them to sit down with; one of them amounts to a very large Sum. You must be sensible that it will be expected that these damages be made good; and it will be better for you to do it of your own accord before any requisition is made to you. An Estimate of these damages is made by a Committee of the Council pursuant to Order, which will be laid before you.

Gentlemen I am sensible of the difficulty of the part you have to Act it may not be sufficient for you to be convinced of the necessity of a submission to the Law for the present, unless the same Conviction shall be extended to the people in general. If this should be so I can only desire you to use all means to make yourselves well acquainted with the Exigencies of the present time; and if you shall be persuaded that a disobedience of the act is productive of much more evil than a submission to it can be; you must endeavour to convince your Constituents of the truth of such persuation. In such case I shall readily grant you a recess for a sufficient time, and I shall be ready to concur with you in all other legal Measures to provide for the safety of the people in the best manner. Fra Bernard."—From the Governor's speech, Sept. 25, 1765: Council Records, vol. XXVI., p. 75.

"Oct. 2, 1765. The Sheriff of the County of Suffolk being admitted into Council, acquainted His Excellency & the Board, that divers Prisoners had made their escape, three of whom had been committed on account of the late Riots, and prayed the directions of His Excellency in the affair.

Advised that His Excellency give directions to the Sheriff to cause the matter to be inquired into, and if there appeared reason to suppose that they were aided from any Persons without, that he cause depositions to be taken concerning it, and lay the affair before the Board tomorrow."—Executive Records of the Council, 1765–1774, p. 52.

"Oct. 3, 1765. The Sheriff of the County of Suffolk having laid before His Excellency & the Board sundry depositions respecting the escape of the Prisoners mentioned in the account he laid before the Board yesterday, His Excellency asked the Board whether they would Advise him to issue a Proclamation on this occasion.

The Board were of Opinion that it does not appear the Escape was effected by any armed force, but that the Prisoners were privately assisted by some of their friends without, and that they accomplished their purpose thro' the weakness of the Goal, and that it being the duty of the Sheriff in such cases to issue his advertisement for the recovery of such prisoners, it is not incumbent on the Government to issue any Proclamation on this occasion."—Ibid., p. 53.

"Oct. 24, 1765. Your Excellency is pleased to recommend a Compensation to be made to the Sufferers by the late disturbances—We highly disapprove of the Acts of Violence which have been committed yet 'till We are convinced that to comply with what your Excellency recommends, will not tend to encourage such Outrages in time to come, and 'till some good reason can be assigned why the losses those Gentlemen have sustained should be made good, rather than any damage which other persons on any different occasions might happen to suffer we are persuaded we shall not see our way clear to order such a compensation to be made. We are greatly at a loss to know who has any right to require this of us, if we should differ from your Excellency in point of its being an Act of justice rather than generosity, unless your Excellency supposes a Crime committed by a few Individuals chargeable upon a whole Community."—Message from the House: Council Records, vol. XXVI., p. 85.

"Oct. 29, 1765. On a motion made and seconded, Ordered that Mr Speaker, Colo Bourn, Mr Cushing Mr Foster of Plymouth and Mr Dexter with such as the Honble Board shall join be a Committee to supervise the Laws now in force respecting Riots and tumultuous assemblies, and report whether they judge anything further is necessary to be done to strengthen the Laws relating thereto.

In Council, Read and Concurred and William Brattle, Thos Hubbard, Harrison Gray & Royall Tyler Esqrs are joined in ye affair."—Ibid., p. 92.

"June 3, 1766. The Secretary went down to the House of Representatives with a verbal Message from his Excellency the Governor to acquaint them that his Excellency had received his Majestys Commands signified to him in a Letter from Mr Secretary Conway a Copy whereof is now preparing to be laid before the assembly and to desire that the House would not proceed upon any public business until he has any opportunity to communicate the same to them.

The Secretary afterwards went down to the House of Representatives with a Message from his Excellency the Governor, directing their attendance in the Council Chamber.

Mr Speaker and the House accordingly came up when his Excellency made the following Speech to the two Houses viz:

Gentlemen of the Council, and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives.

I have received a Letter from the Rt Honble Mr Secretary Conway inclosing two Acts of Parliament; the one for securing the dependency of the Colonies on the Mother Country; and the other for the Repeal of the Stamp Act. At the same time he is pleased to signify what his Majesty and his Parliament expect from the Colonies in return for the Indulgences shewn to them. I am also ordered to recommend to You, that full and ample Compensation be made to the late Sufferers by the Madness of the people and for that purpose, I am directed to lay before You the Votes of the House of Commons, expressing their sense upon that subject; whose humanity and justice it is hoped it will be your Glory to imitate. The whole of this Letter is conceived in such strong, patriotic and conclusive terms, that I shall not weaken it by a representation of my own, other than this short Capitulation necessary to introduce what I have to say on the subject."—Ibid., p. 210.

The letter of Secretary Conway, referred to by the Governor, bears date March 31, 1766; and the following is the recommendation to which the attention of the Assembly was called:—

"Nothing will tend more effectually to every conciliating purpose, and there is nothing therefore I have in command more earnestly to require of you, than that you should exert yourself in recommending it strongly to the assembly, that full and ample Compensation be made to those who, from the madness of the people, have suffered for their deference to acts of the British Legislature; and you will be particularly attentive, that such persons be effectually secured from any further Insult, and that as far as in you lies, you will take Care, by your Example and Influence that they may be treated with that respect to their persons, and that Justice in regard to all their pretensions which their merits and sufferings undoubtedly claim.

The Resolutions of the House of Commons, which, by his Majesty's Commands, I transmit to You, to be laid before the Assembly, will shew You the sense of that House on those points and I am persuaded it will, as it most certainly ought be the Glory of that Assembly to adopt and imitate those sentiments of the British Parliament, founded on the clearest principles of Humanity and Justice."—Mass. Archives, vol. 56, p. 473.

"Gentlemen of the House of Representatives.

The Requisition contained in this Letter is of a most singular nature, and the only one of the kind that I have known since I have served his Majesty in America. It is founded upon a Resolution of the House of Commons, formed after a full consideration of the matter, and represented to his Majesty by the Address of that House. The Justice and humanity of this Requisition is so forcible that it cannot be controverted; the Authority with which it is introduced should preclude all disputation about complying with it. I hope therefore You will add to the merit of your compliance by the readiness of it, and assume to yourselves the honor which now offers itself of setting the first example of Gratitude and dutiful Affection to the King and Parliament by giving those proofs of it which are now pointed out to You. I must observe that it is from the Provincial Assembly that the King & Parliament expect this Compensation should be made to the Sufferers without referring them to any other persons whatsoever. Who ought finally to be charged with this Expence may be a proper consideration for you; and I shall readily concur with you in your Resolutions thereon, after the Sufferers have been fully satisfied."—Governor's speech, ut supra: p. 212.

"We thank your Excellency for your kind assurances of 'using all Means to save the Credit of this Province.' But We conceive that when the true state of the Province is represented & known its Credit can be in no kind of danger. The recommendation enjoined by M^r^ Secretary Conway's Letter, and in consequence thereof made to Us, we shall embrace the first convenient opportunity to consider and act upon. In the mean time cannot but observe, that it is conceived in much higher & stronger terms in the Speech, than in the Letter. Whether in thus exceeding your Excellency speaks by your own Authority or a higher is not with us to determine.

. However if this Recommendation, which your Excellency terms a requisition be founded on 'so much Justice & humanity that it cannot be controverted:' 'If the Authority with which it is introduced should preclude all disputation about complying with it,' We should be glad to know what freedom we have in the Case."—Message from the House to the Governor, June 6, 1766: Ibid., p. 232.

"June 17, 1766. The Secretary went down to the House of Representatives with a Message from his Excellency the Governor accompanying an Estimate of the damages sustained by the Lieu^t^ Governor and Others in the Riots at Boston in August last referred to in his Excellency's Speech of 25^th^ Septem^r^ last, acquainting the House that the same had lyen in the Secretarys Office open to the perusal of the Court ever since the return was made in October last; and is now laid before the Hon^ble^ House as his Excellency has had occasion to mention this matter again in a Speech delivered this present Session."—Ibid., p. 258.

"June 25, 1766. M^r^ Dexter and others from the House of Representatives waited on the Governor with the following Message viz^t^— May it please your Excellency.

The House of Representatives have duly attended to that part of your Excellencys Speech which had reference to a full and ample Compensation to be made to the Sufferers in the late disturbances. We are sensibly affected with the loss they have sustained and have the greatest abhorrence of the Madness & Barbarity of those Persons who were the Instruments of their sufferings; Nothing shall be omitted by us in our department to bring the perpetrators of so horrid a Fact to exemplary Justice, and if it be in their power to a pecuniary Restitution of all damages. But may it please your Excellency as a compliance with your Excellency's recommendation to the Provincial Assembly to make up their losses, appears to this House not as an Act of Justice but rather of Generosity; they are in doubt whether they have any authority to make their Constituents chargeable with it, without their express Consent. The House therefore beg leave to acquaint your Excellency that they have thought it their duty to refer the Consideration of this matter to the next sitting of the General Court, that the Members may have the opportunity of taking the minds and Instruction of their several Towns thereupon."—Ibid., p. 286.

"June 25, 1766. A Petition of Benj[a] Hallowell Esq[r]—Setting forth That on the 26[th] of August last, his House was violently entered by a considerable number of persons unknown, and among other things then carried off by them, was a Receipt or Promissory Note signed by the Treasurer of this Province, dated 7[th] August 1764 for the Sum of £1350 payable to the Petitioner in June 1766, on which is endorsed one years interest and no more. And praying that the said Sum with the Interest that may be due thereon may be paid him out of the Province Treasury.

In the House of Representatives. Resolved That the Prayer of the Petition be granted: and that the Treasurer be and he hereby is directed to pay to the Petitioner Benj[a] Hallowell jun[r] Esq[r] the Sum of Thirteen hundred and fifty pounds with the Interest due thereon to this day in full for the note within mentioned: he first giving sufficient caution to the Treasurer of this Province to save harmless the said Province from being obliged to pay the same Sum and the Interest due thereon to any person or persons hereafter. In Council, Read and Concurred. Consented to by the Governor."—Ibid., p. 288.

"June 27, 1766. The Secretary went down to the House of Representatives with the following Message from his Excellency the Govern[r] viz[t] Gentlemen of the House of Representatives. As your Reasons for not complying at present with what has been recommended to You by order of the King with the Advice of his Parliament, on the behalf of the Sufferers in the late disturbances will probably be canvassed with great precision; it will be proper that the intendment of them should be as certain as may be. I should therefore be glad to know, whether I must understand from your Message of yesterday, that it is your opinion that a detection of the perpetrators of the late Mischiefs is necessary to intitle the Sufferers to a compensation for their losses. It appears to be the gracious intention of the King and Parliament, that a Veil should be cast over the late disturbances provided it be covered by a general and uniform dutiful behaviour for the future. But it is certainly no less their firm and resolute purpose that the Sufferers by these disturbances shall have a full and ample indemnification made to them: and this business has been committed to You upon principles of humanity and justice, rather than of mere generosity.

If you think that an inquiry into the promotion and perpetration of the late disorders is a necessary Prelimenary to determine from whence the charge of the compensation shall finally come, and shall pronounce for the expediency of such an enquiry, you will certainly be assisted by the Governor and Council in the prosecution of it. And I dare say it will be no difficult work to trace this matter to the bottom.

But in the mean time I fear the King and Parliament will think their intimations disregarded by your proposing an enquiry now, after it has been neglected for nine Months past; during all which time the House have had this very business of indemnification under their consideration. They expect from You that the sufferers shall be indemnified at all Events, whether the offenders are discovered or not, or whether they are able to pay the damages or not; and seem to be more intent upon indemnification than upon Punishment.

I therefore wish for the sake of the Province whose Interests, and especially those of its Trade are now in a very nice balance, & for the sake of this Town whose respectable Inhabitants have already suffered much in the Opinion of the World, for having been tame Spectators of the violences committed in it, that you would remove this disgrace without the least delay, by ordering the Indemnification immediately to be made upon the Credit of those whom You shall hereafter judge to be chargeable with it. When this is done, there can be no Objection to your postponing the consideration, on whom this money ought ultimately to be laid, to what time You please: and there is no doubt but that any enquiry which You shall think fit to make for this purpose will be as efficacious as you can desire.

Fra. Bernard."—Ibid., p. 295.

"June 28, 1766. M[r] Hancock and Others, a Committee of the House of Representatives waited on his Excellency the Governor with the following Message viz[t]—May it please your Excellency.

This House have duly attended to your Excellencys Message of the 27[th] Instant—We are fully sensible of the Goodness of the King and Parliament, and agree with your Excellency that it appears to be their gracious Intention that a Veil should be drawn over the late disturbances. And we hope our behaviour will always be such, as to merit their approbation.

Sir, The House are ever attentive to the application of persons of every Rank, whose Case justly claims their Consideration: But as the Sufferers, whom we apprehend your Excellency refers to, have never applied to this House, as we conceive, in a Parliamentary way for Relief; We are humbly of opinion, that we have done all at present, that our most gracious Sovereign and his Parliament can reasonably expect from Us. But to shew our regard to everything recommended by the King and Parliament, we have appointed a Committee to sit in the Recess of the Court, to make a thorough inquiry into the Riots committed in the month of August last, and discover the persons concerned therein as far as may be. For the effectuating which business, we doubt not, but we shall be aided by your Excellency and his Majesty's Council.

And further, We would acquaint your Excellency, that the House have passed a Resolve to take the Report of this Committee under consideration at the beginning of the next Sessions of this Court, and act thereon what shall appear to them to be just and reasonable.

Your Excellency is pleased to enforce the immediate Compliance of the House with this requisition by an argument drawn from a regard to the Town of Boston, the reputation of whose Inhabitants your Excellency says has already suffered much for having been tame spectators of the Violences committed, and that this disgrace would be removed thereby. We see no reason why the reputation of that Town should suffer in the opinion of any one from all the evidence that has fallen under the Observation of the House; nor does it appear to us how a compliance would remove such disgrace, if that Town had been so unhappy as to have fallen under it."—Ibid., 301.

"June 28, 1766. Upon a Motion made and seconded, Ordered, That Capt. Thayer, Col. Brown, Major Johnson, Capt. Taylor of Southborough, and Capt. Fuller, be a Committee to sit in the Recess of the Court, to make a thorough Enquiry into the Riots committed in the Month of August last, and discover the Persons concerned therein as far as may be, with full Power to send for Persons and Papers; the said Committee to ascertain as far as they shall be able, the Losses of the Sufferers: And that the Matter of their Enquiry be kept a Secret till they shall make Report to this House.

Resolved, That this House will at the beginning of the next Session of the General Court take the Report of the Committee appointed to inquire into the Disturbances in the Town of Boston, and to ascertain the Losses sustained thereby, and will act thereon as shall appear to be just and reasonable."—House Journals, p. 142.

"London August 6th 1766.

Sir Since my last I Recd a few Lines from Lord Dartmouth in which he says 'I am Sorry to hear that the Assembly of Boston has refused to make the Indemnification, recommended by Parliament.' New York has Complied—had you been here to be fully apprised of the long Debate in the House your Friends Supported to obtain the word Recommend as a Term intirely Consistent wth your Liberty, it must have left a gratefull Impression on your mind, which your Adress Presented to his Majesty by the Duke of Richmond—is so full of, both to King, and Parliament, that I can hardly believe you should come to such a Resolution. If the Report be a Slander on the Province I shall be glad if you will put it in my Power to refute it, as I am ambitious your assembly who I have the Honour to be employed by, should Stand high in the Esteem of the King, Ministry, and Parliament, as well as in the Esteem of all the real Friends of america, which such a Refusal will abate. "He [Earl of Shelburne] desired you would finish the affairs of the damages sustained, because it gave occasion to your & the enemys of the administration to upbraid them for the gentle measures they adopted on the other hand he had also wrote to every Govenour on the Continent to behave with moderation & Temper to the several Provinces over which they precide, & he had wrote to your Govenour in particular to persue healing measures, & was so condesending to offer shewing me a Copy of his letter, the next time I waited on him & added that whatever new Govenours were made for the future, he would take care to send such men as should Act upon the most generous principals & thereby secure the affection of the People."—Extract from letter of Agent DeBerdt, Sept. 19, 1766: ibid., p. 515.

"Gentlemen of the Council and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives.

I have thought proper to call you together, that You may have an opportunity to give a positive Answer to what I recommended to You, by order of his Majesty, last Session; as it will be expected of me that it be reported to his Majesty before the opening of the business of the next Year: And I heartily wish that it may be such as will answer the Expectations and Desires of your Friends in Great Britain For my own part, I shall upon this occasion, as upon all others make the best use of the means You shall put in my hands to promote the Honour and Reputation of the Province.

As You are called together for this business only, when it is finished, I shall have no Objection to your returning home until the usual time of opening the Winter Session.

"Oct. 30, 1766. The Committee appointed the last Session of this Court to make Enquiry into the Riots committed in the Month of August 1765 Reported, That on the 9th of July they met and waited on his Excellency to receive that Assistance which he was pleas'd to propose to this House, in a Message communicated to them at their last Session; to which his Excellency replied, That the proposal in the Message referred to, was made on the presumption that the Council would concur with him; That he was ready to afford your Committee what Light he could, if the Council would then comply, and that he would Summon them for that Purpose; that on 27th of August your Committee, being met, received a Message from his Excellency by the Deputy Secretary acquainting them, that the Governor and Council were ready to receive the proposals of your Committee: To which your Committee replied, That they were not full, their Chairman being absent. That the above Message was soon repeated: To which your Committee replied, That they had nothing to propose to his Excellency and their Honors but were ready to receive from them any Information respecting the late Riots which they should be pleased to communicate. That the Governor and Council then adjourned without Day. That your Committee then sent for the Worshipful Richard Dana, John Hill, and Belcher Noyes, Esq'rs; from whom they received the Examinations of sundry Persons apprehended by them, on Account of the Riots committed in the Town of Boston, on the Evening of the 26th of August, Copys whereof accompany this Report. That your Committee were informed by the Justices abovenamed, That the Governor and Council directed them to make no Enquiry of what passed on the 14th of August. That your Committee then sent for and examined sundry reputable Persons, Inhabitants of the Town of Boston, Neighbours of his Honor the Lieut Governor, who declared, That they were in his House in the Evening of the 26th of August, endeavouring to suppress the Riot, and prevent any Mischief; but that they knew none of the Rioters, many of whom from their Habits appeared to be disguised, who were the most active in the Disorders.

Your Committee beg leave further to Report, That they have inquired into the Losses sustained by the Sufferers, accounts whereof accompany this Report."—House Journal, p. 153.

"Oct. 30, 1766. A Petition of his Honor Thomas Hutchinson, Esq; setting forth the great Damage he sustained by the violent and outrageous Proceedings of a great Number of Persons unknown on the Evening of the 26th of August, 1765, who with all the Rage and Fury imaginable, suddenly with Axes and Clubs, and other Instruments, burst or broke open the Windows of his Dwelling-House, dispersed thro' every part of the House, distroyed the Furniture, carried away the Wearing Apparel, Books, Papers, Money and Effects of every sort belonging to him and his Family, (a small Part of the Kitchen Furniture only excepted) and continued from between Eight and Nine o'Clock in the Evening, until after Four o'Clock the next Morning, ruining the House, Outhouses, Fences, Gardens, &c. and threatning Destruction to all those who should oppose or interrupt them. The Petitioner prays this Court that a Compensation may be made him for his great Losses and sufferings aforesaid.

And he further represents that exclusive of that Pain and Distress of Mind which he is unable to describe, arising from this most injurious and barbarous Treatment, he has been deprived above 14 Months of the Use of this great Part of his Substance and he and his Family have been subjected to many Inconveniencies, Difficulties, and extraordinary Charges; he therefore hopes and prays for a favorable Consideration of his Case, in all its Circumstances.

A Petition of Benjamin Hallowell, jun. Esq; shewing That on the 26th of August 1765, a great Number of Persons unknown to him, and by him unprovoked, in a tumultous Manner assembled, did with Force and Violence, beset the Dwelling House of the Petitioner, enter'd and injur'd the same, to a great Degree, broke and destroyed great Part of his Furniture, and carried off his Linen, Money and Papers; tore his Fences down and wasted his Liquors. The Petitioner prays that a Compensation may be made to him, in such Way and Manner as this Court shall think fit.

A Petition of William Story, Esq; shewing That in the Year 1765, and for a number of Years before, he was Deputy Register of the Court of Vice Admiralty for this Province: That by the late Stamp Act the Trial of many or most of the Breaches of said Act were committed to the same Court of Admiralty, which as well as the Act itself, diffused a general Uneasiness in Persons of almost every Rank, they being thereby deprived of the invaluable Priviledge of Trial by Juries: And some ill-minded Persons intending to destroy the Substance of their Fellow Subjects, took Occasion from the general Uneasiness, on the 26th of August 1765, in the Night, armed with Clubs, Staves and other Weapons of Violence, with Force & Arms to attack and break open the Dwelling House of the Petitioner, destroying almost every Glass Window in the front Part of his House, and the Windows and Doors of his Office, tho' the same were well lock'd or bolted; making a thorowfare from the Street thro' his Office, into the other Part of his Dwelling; destroying and damaging a great Part of his Household Furniture, and carrying out of his Office all the Files and Records of the said Court of Admiralty; all his private Papers, Books and every Thing that was in his Office, most of which were consumed to Ashes or otherwise destroyed and lost. That he is well satisfied the generality of the Inhabitants of Boston were not privy to the Disorders of that Night, and would have prevented the same had they expected any such thing.

The Petitioner humbly submits this Matter to the Wisdom of this Court, and prays that they would be pleased to make him a Grant of such a Sum of Money for repairing his Losses aforesaid, as in their great Goodness they shall think fit.

On a Motion made and seconded, Ordered, That the further Consideration of the Petition of his Honor Thomas Hutchinson, Esq; the Petition of Benjamin Hallowell, jun. Esq; and the Petition of William Story, Esq; be referred till To-Morrow Morning Ten o'Clock."—I bid., p. 155.

"Nov. 2, 1766. A Bill intitled, An Act for granting Compensation to the Sufferers, and of free and general Pardon, Indemnity and Oblivion to the Offenders in the late Times, was considered and Debated according to Order: And it was moved that a Clause be inserted therein to oblige every Town for the future, where any Riots shall happen and Damage ensue, to make Compensation for the same: And the Question being put, it pass'd in the Negative, 27 Yeas, 45 Nays.

"Nov. 12, 1766. And further to acquaint the Board that as the House could not with Propriety send up this draft for concurrence, they had directed the Printers to present a Copy of the said Bill to his Excellency the Governor, and one to each Member of the Board.

Mr Otis from the House came up to the Board with a Message to acquaint them that the House had passed on all matters before them and to desire that the Board would do the same that the Court may have a recess as soon as his Excellency pleases."—Council Records, vol. XXVI., p. 325.

"May it Please your Excellency

Your Speech to both Houses at the opening of the present Session has been repeatedly under the most deliberate consideration of the House of Representatives.—It was indeed Sir, with great reluctance, that the House found themselves under the necessity of having recourse to your former Speech and Message upon this Occasion; but as you are pleased to refer us to them without saying any thing to qualify them; the House cannot help observing, that the manner in which your Excellency has repeatedly proposed a Compensation to the Sufferers, has been derogatory to the Honour of the House and in breach of the priviledges thereof: That the terms you have made use of, have been essentially different from those dictated to you by his Majestys express command, signifyed in a Letter from his Secretary of State: That they tended to weaken the inherent, uncontroulable Right of the People, to dispose of their own money to such purposes as they shall judge expedient and no other: and that under these apprehensions, it is not improbable, some of the Towns may have framed their Instructions to their Representatives against a Compensation out of the Public Treasury.

The House however with the most dutiful and profound respect, have attended to his Majesty's most gracious and mild recommendation; and observe that it is his pious and benevolent Intention, that not only a Compensation should be made to the Sufferers in the late times; but also that a veil be drawn over every disgraceful Scene, and to forgive and even to forget the undutiful behaviour of any of his Subjects in those unhappy times— Confirmed in the opinion, that an indemnifycation of the Offenders is of equal importance and necessity with the making compensation to the Sufferers, and being ever ready with the utmost chearfullness, to unite their endeavours in promoting the wise and gracious purposes of their rightful Sovereign; in conformity to the Spirit of Mr Secretary Conway's Letter, the House have framed a Bill intituled 'An Act for granting Compensation to to the Sufferers, and of free and general Pardon, indemnity and Oblivion to the offenders in the late times.'

This Bill they have ordered to be published for the consideration of the several Towns, and humbly pray that your Excellency would please to give them a Recess for that purpose."—Message from the House, Nov. 12, 1766: ibid., p. 328.

"Nov. 13, 1766. His Excellency then made the following Speech to the House of Representatives viz^{t} Gentlemen of the House of Representatives.

In the Letter of the Earl of Shelburne which I laid before you, you have a second Testimony from another of his Majesty's Secretaries of State, of the tenderness and affection towards the People under my Government with which I have conducted myself during the late disputes, and therefore I shall make no other Answer to the ungenerous Insinuations in your Message of yesterday, than by referring to your own Journals, from whence it will evidently appear that it is from among yourselves and not from me, that the difficulties which have prevented your making Compensation to the Sufferers have arose.

I am very sorry that you have not already complied with what has been recommended to you: but it is some satisfaction to me, that you have laid a foundation for compleating this business, which I hope will not fail of Success. The importance of the Affair and the hasty Approach of the New Year. will not allow the Loss of a day which can be saved; and therefore I shall make the Recess which you desire as short as possible: And that you may do the business with as much credit to yourselves as may be, I shall continue the Session until you can come to a final determination. Fra Bernard."—Ibid., p. 331.

"My Lord, By my letter dated July 19th I informed Your Lordship that if there should be any opening for me to expect that the House would act in the business of the Compensation in a different manner from what they had done I should not fail to avail myself of it. I am therefore now to inform your Lordship of the second Trial I have made to get this business done, with the event of it. And in order to explain these proceedings more fully, I must beg leave to delineate to Your Lordship, the real difficulties which have prevented this Business being done, as they appear very little in the Journals of the House and pains have been taken that they should not appear; altho' they are notorious to every person in the Province, who thinks upon the subject.

The riotous proceedings at Boston were generally abhorred by the best Men in the Province, and by much the greater part of the common people, And therefore when a Compensation to the Sufferers was first talked of, it was the general opinion that it ought to be made, but that it was due from the Town of Boston only, and not from the Province in general. This opinion was very prevalent, when Mr Secry Conway's letter, dated March 31st arrived here on the last day of May and this was the reason why the Members for Boston, contrary to the real intrest of the Town determined to oppose the making a Compensation, even out of the Treasury: in which way, if they had at that time with their Party joined the Friends of Government, it might have been done. But they were apprehensive that if the Mony was ordered to be paid out of the Treasury, it would be then moved, that it should be charged upon the Town of Boston; which, as the Tax bill was to be past at that time, might have been done with the dash of a pen. They therefore, resolving to oppose the granting the Compensation that Session, turned the whole business into evasions and subterfuges to give pretended reasons for their not complying and to conceal the true one. The reasons given were first, That it was a business of too much importance to transact without consulting their Constituents; 2nd That the Sufferers had not applied to them in a Parliamentary way that is by petitioning the House.

It was not long before they received repeated advices, that the general opinion in England was that the Honor of Parliament was to see this Compensation made and they would certainly take it up where the Provincial Assembly refused it. And it was very obvious that the Parliament might enforce the payment of a sum of mony from a seaport Town or from a maritime Province, without infringing any rule of rights laid down by the most sanguine advocate for the Colonies, or even claimed by themselves in form. The People of Boston therefore began to be uneasy that the Mony was not paid, a Town Meeting was called and Instructions given to their Members to use their utmost endeavours to get the Mony paid out of the Treasury. This was a signal for me to call the Assembly, which I had kept prorogued by short intervals in order to take hold of the first fair opportunity that offered: And I accordingly gave notice that the Assembly would meet, at the time it was then prorogued to.

In the mean time, one of the Pretences which had been made use of last Session to excuse the granting the Compensation had an effect contrary to what was expected or at least, not foreseen. As the necessity of consulting their Constituents had been made the pretence for postponing the business, the Members in general found themselves obliged actually to consult their Constituents in form which they would not have done otherwise. This produced a number of Instructions against paying the Mony out of the Treasury that many Members staid away to avoid appearing against Government, and others were obliged to come fettered with Instructions to act against it. Among these People the general reasoning was, that as it was notorious that the disturbances arose entirely within the Town of Boston, It was not only unjust that the whole Province should be charged with the damages done by them, but if they were to consent to the payment out of the Treasury, they should thereby acknowledge themselves to be partakers of proceedings, of which they had always expressed their detestation and abhorrence. This was urged particularly at the Meeting at Salem, the second Town in the Province and always noted for its attachment to Government, which however its Members were not allowed to support upon this occasion only.

Upon the Meeting of the Assembly I determined to say nothing that could possibly be perverted and in general to avoid interfering with the House in any manner. I accordingly made the Speech I herewith inclose in full confidence that it could not receive a rude answer. I was soon informed that a majority of the House had instructions against granting the Compensation out of the Treasury, the only method that could be proposed with any prospect of success.

The Grant was strongly urged by the Members for Boston, in which they were supported by some of the ablest friends of Government and opposed by only one man of ability who in that instance seemed to be infatuated. The Argument was entirely on the side of the Compensation and was much assisted by the examination of some Gentlemen from England to show the assurances which had been given by the friends of the Colonies that this Compensation would be cheerfully made and the almost certain probability that the Parliament would not acquiesce in the refusal of it. But the dead weight of the Instructions could not be got over altho' there was a general conviction throughout the House that the Compensation ought to be made. I must again repeat that the Boston Members exerted themselves for the Question in this Session, as much as they did against it in the last, but they were defeated by their former Machinations, otherwise I believe it would have been carried without a division.

After a litigation of a fortnight, in which the Question was put in different forms two or three several times and lost by no great majority, this expedient was hit upon: that they should bring in a bill for compensating the sufferers, in which the sums should be ascertained (the misreport of which was supposed to have hurt the cause) and also for indemnifying the Rioters. And that the Bill should be printed for the consideration of the Constituents and the Governor should be desired to grant a recess for that purpose. This past with little or no opposition and a bill was accordingly brought in and printed and a Message was sent to me accordingly. Two hours after I received Your Lordship's letter: I immediately communicated it to both Houses and gave the House of Representatives time to consider of it, which was only spent in fruitless altercations, without any attempt to resume the business. I therefore adjourned the General Court for three weeks, being the earliest day I could appoint. I inclose Copies of the Message to me and my Speech upon the Adjournment.

After the Adjournment had passed and before I had left the Chair, It was observed in the Council that the House had not ordered Your Lordship's letter to be printed as it is usual to do in cases where such publication is like to facilitate the business recommended. It was therefore moved that the Governor be desired to order the letter to be printed, as it would very much tend to conciliate the minds of the people to the Compensation and to remove the ill humour prevailing among them. This having the unanimous voice of the Council, I assented to, being fully of the same opinion. I must beg Your Lordship will let the occasion apologize for my taking this liberty, if there should be an impropriety in it, which at present I don't see as these kind of publications are not uncommon in this Government.

I must beg Your Lordship's indulgence in adding a few words upon an incident in the forementioned Transactions, I mean the Reflexion cast upon me in the Message of the House. Nothing can show the spirit of these factious Leaders better than this does, when not being able to find any cause for a Contest with me in the present Session and yet finding it necessary to keep up a contention so essential to their own importance, they go back to a passage at the beginning of the former Session, which was then sufficiently animadverted upon, and since has been hackneyed in the Newspapers, for a fresh cause of quarrel with the Governor. At the same time I believe there was not a Man in the House who really thought that any thing I had done or said had contributed to influence a single Vote against the Question, whereas many of them knew of the Pains I had taken for it. The Town of Boston (I mean the Political Leaders of it which are but a small part of the gentry) have no pretence to my partial services and yet I have been a constant advocate for granting the mony out of the Treasury and thereby indemnifying the Town. Indeed I must own that in so doing I have acted more upon Principles of Policy than rules of Justice.

However, my Lord, if I have in any instance, let my Spirit get the better of my Prudence, I beg that one distinction, which Your Lordship upon a precise enquiry will know to be founded in truth, may be admitted, that I have not exerted myself upon self considerations. I have borne a torrent of obloquy and abuse with the temper of a Stoick and I have not done an Act of Resentment upon account of personal injury in any one instance that I can recollect. But, My Lord, having been educated in the frequent contemplation of the British Constitution I have contracted such a reverence for the Imperial State, that I may perhaps have expressed a respect for it, unsuitable to the present unhappy state of this Country. But I have at all times had in view to heal the distractions of the Country & compose its Divisions and I have never knowingly departed from that purpose.

The importance of the subject & something due to my own defence have extended this letter to a considerable length, but I hope my next on this subject will be shorter & that there will be no occasion to say any more than that the Compensation is made, As I have great expectation that the Method taken to reconcile the Country People to it will succeed."—*Gov. "Dec. 5. 1766. Ordered, That Major Hawley, Mr. Otis, and Mr. Adams, be a Committee to prepare a Resolve, setting forth the Motives which induced this House to pass the Bill for granting Compensation, &c. Who Reported thereon as follows.

Resolved, That this House in passing the Bill for granting Compensation to the Sufferers, and of free and general Pardon, Indemnity and Oblivion, to the Offenders in the late Times, were influenced by a loyal and grateful Regard to His Majesty's most mild and gracious Recommendation; by a Deference to the Opinion of the illustrious Patrons of the Colonies in Great-Britain; and for the sake of internal Peace and Order: Without Regard to any Interpretation of his Majesty's Recommendation into a Requisition, precluding all Debate and Controversy; and under a full Perswasion that the Sufferers had no just Claim or Demand on the Province. And that this Compliance ought not hereafter to be drawn into a Precedent.

After which the House pass'd the two following Resolutions, Viz.

I. Resolved, That it was the indespensible Duty of the Sufferers to have applied to the Government here, rather than to the Government at Home; and that the neglect of any of them to petition to this Assembly till October last, while they were complaining at Home, is very reprehensible.

II. Whereas it appears to this House by the Resolutions of the Honorable the House of Commons of Great Britain, that it was their Opinion that the Resolutions of diverse Assemblies in America, had a Tendency to encourage the Riots that happened there. Resolved, That this cannot be said of the Resolutions of the House of Representatives of this Province, as the said Riots happened about two Months before any such Resolutions were made.

Then the Committee appointed for the purpose carried the Bill up to the Honorable Board, and return'd."—House Journal, p. 210.

"Dec. 9, 1766. The Secretary went down to the House of Representatives with a Message from his Excellency the Governor directing their attendance in the Council Chamber.

M^r^ Speaker and the House attended in the Council Chamber accordingly, when the Secretary by direction of the Governor informed the two Houses, that his Excellency had Signed his Consent to an engrossed Bill intituled 'An Act for granting compensation to the Sufferers, and of free and General Pardon Indemnity and Oblivion to the Offenders in the late times:'

His Excellency then made the following Speech viz^t^—

Gentlemen of the Council and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives. As the Business for which you were assembled is now happily finished, I am unwilling to detain You here any longer. I have therefore postponed some business which I should otherwise have laid before you unto the next Session. And to the same time I have referred your Vote concerning the Agent which was laid before me last Night; at which time I shall take it into consideration without delay.

"Mar. 17, 1767. The Committee appointed to sit in the recess of the Court to enquire into the Riots committed in the month of August 1765 presented their account of time and travel in attending on that business. Whereupon the following Order passed viz^t^—

"Upon the meeting of the new Assembly on May 28, it was very apparent that the Government party must be the Minority. Nineteen of the proscribed members had been left out, among which were some of the most able men in the House and most respectable for their knowledge and prudence The House was uncommonly filled with men of confined and narrow ideas unacquainted with and unfit for public business. It was known that Otis's faction intended to push the Government by all practicable means and also that they intended to oppose the making a compensation to the sufferers, for which purpose the great intrest which the Lieut Governor had in the losses would be sufficient inducement to their leader. Under all these difficulties the Government had no chance to get that or any disputable business done, but by preventing Otis taking the lead. This was to be done no otherwise than by convincing the House of the dangerous consequences which might follow the violent measures which it was known he would propose and prosecute. There was no one to do this but myself: I was sensible that arguments from the chair have but little weight in popular Assemblies when a Governor is reduced to argument; but I had no choice and there seemed to be no danger in trying an experiment which could not make things worse than they would be without it. It was upon these principles that I made my essay in my two speeches of May 29 and June 3 and tho' it failed of success yet I can say that if the Government got nothing by it it has lost nothing.

For the reasons before mentioned knowing that the Faction intended to oppose the Compensation I found it necessary to introduce the recommendation of it in as forcible a manner as I could. And yet I used no other Terms nor expressions more forcible than I had been used to apply to his Majesty's recommendations during such part of the late War wherein I have been Governor of this Province, with the constant approbation of the Assembly. At this time nothing but a fixed determination to cavil at whatever I should say, to oppose whatever I should recommend and to work up in the people a jealousy of the interposition of Parliament could cause an exception to be taken to the words I used upon the occasion. I certainly intended to do honour to the recommendation of the King with the advice of his Parliament by the most respectful terms which I could use. but to argue that I intended thereby to impeach the free agency of the Assembly is absurd when it is considered that at the same time I was applying to them, as free Agents. But the text of these expressions will be,* comparing them with others used upon like occasions: for this purpose I have desired the Secretary to search the books of the General Court in order to compare the one with the other. His Report I shall inclose with this, from whence will appear the Terms which have been applied to His Majesty's recommendations for four years together to which I beg leave to refer. The Exception taken in the present instance is that I have called His Majesty's recommendation a requisition and say that the authority with which it is introduced should preclude all disputation about complying with it. In regard to the first will not a stander by be astonished at seeing the cavilling at this word carried to such a length when he shall know that his Majesty's recommendations have been usually called requisitions both by me and the House for six years past and that the word requisition was first used to this purpose by the House and taken from them by me and again and again re-echoed by them. As to the other words, there are in these extracts expressions full as forcible such as these "you cannot hesitate one moment about a ready compliance with this requisition" feb. 23. 1762 and they were considered as terms of respect and not of positive obligation. And so they would have been now, if there had not been a settled design of quarrelling with the Govern[t] and promoting among this people a jealousy of the authority of Great Britain.

I should not have troubled Your Lordship with this explanation, if the House had not revived this dispute at the last Session and made it so serious as to instruct their special Agent to represent it to Your Lordship as the probable cause of the delay of the Compensation which I shall observe upon hereafter. In the meantime I have thought proper to insert this account of my intention in its proper place.

There were but two reasons given by the House in this Session for their not complying with the Recommendation the one was that it was a matter of such consequence that they must consult their constituents, the other, that the sufferers had not applied to the House in a parliamentary way. This latter was produced but just before the rising of the Court, if it had been mentioned in time it would have been removed by the sufferers petitioning the House, as they did at the beginning of the next Session. The former reason did not appear to be sincere, as they would not fix upon a short day for a recess and apply to me to adjourn them to such day, which I let them know I would do if they would make application for it. Instead of this they rather showed a disinclination to having an early session for this purpose and it was commonly said that the usual time of the winter Session (the middle of Jan[y]) would be soon enough for this business. On the other hand if I had called them together without a probability of success, it would have only made the matter worse, I had therefore nothing to do, but to watch the opportunity, when there should appear a disposition to make the compensation and then to lay hold of it.

In my letter to Your Lordship of Nov. 14 I informed you how cautious I was in guarding what I said to the General Court at the opening the Session from being perverted and of what little avail it was to my purpose; since for want of some fresh matter to quarell about, the House went back to a Speech I made 5 months ago, which was then fully animadverted upon, in order to make a fresh dispute. In their Address they say that the manner in which I had proposed a compensation to the sufferers had been derogatory to the Honor of the House and in breach of the priviledges thereof. The exceptionable words in my speech were these "The justice and humanity of this requisition is so forcible that it cannot be controverted; the authority with which it is introduced should preclude all disputation about complying with it." Now supposing I meant something more than terms of respect towards the King and Parliament (which it is difficult for any one who considers the nature of the business to conceive) Yet surely such assertion is much within the bounds of the solemn Declaration of their authority so lately made by the King and Parliament themselves, and therefore my crime would amount to no more than an indiscreet assertion of a real right upon an improper occasion. But surely for a Provincial Assembly to tell their Governor that his indirectly asserting the authority of the King and Parliament over them is a breach of the priviledges of their House, is itself a high breach of the priviledges of a much greater body. But my Lord I will make it evident that I meant only to use respectful terms towards the King and Parliament and not to urge any legal or legislative obligation upon the Assembly, and that the persons who made this objection knew that this was so, or ought to have known it. For this purpose I've employed the Secretary to search the Journals for the expressions I had formerly used in laying before the House the several orders I received from His Majesty during the late war, whose Report I beg to inclose with this: from whence it will plainly appear that upon this occasion I used no other terms nor more forcible expressions than I had often used before with the approbation and concurrence of the House: and that it was the temper of the House and not my words from whence this objection arose.

What the temper of the House or rather the disposition of the few leaders who influence a majority of it is, will appear from several passages which have passed in the House this last Session, which tho' at another time they would have been thought too insignificant for notice, are not so now. A gentleman, one of the chief speakers against the Compensation, in the course of his Argument said, in direct terms, 'The Parliament of Great Britain has no right to legislate for us' Upon which M[r] Otis got up made him a bow and thanked him saying that 'he went fur-

The following extract is inserted, in the order of its date, to show what efforts were made, in certain quarters, to extend the precedent established by this act, of granting amnesty to rioters.

"Feb. 25, 1767. A Petition of Elijah Alvord, Joel Ely, Eleazer Day, James Doane, Stephen Ward, Nathan[l] Willistone, Lucas Morgan Daniel Nash jun[r], Thomas White jun[r] Nathan[l] Church and Jon[a] Pinney—Setting forth—That they, or the most of them have for several years past been engaged in the Lumber business on Connecticut River; that a certain Gentleman in the County of Hampshire by virtue of a deputation from the Surveyor of his Majesty's Woods seized all the white Pine Timber he could find on the River, and greatly distressed the people concerned in this business, and that as they conceive without discrimination; Whereupon they, at a time when peoples minds were greatly fretted and unsettled, unhappily assembled in a riotous manner in the Fields of Northampton where great numbers of those white pine Logs lay under Seizure with an intent to turn them into the River seized the Officer and carried him to Hadley and there detained him some hours against his will until by duress and Battery they obliged him to resign his Commission and to engage no more to pursue the aforesaid method of supposed Oppression. For which assault and Battery, of which they sincerely repent, they were indicted at the Court of General Sessions of the peace holden at Northampton in 1765, and at the next Session of said Court in February last, all appeared and pleaded guilty, and were by said Court fined Three pounds each, which they have paid with Costs; besides which they have some of them suffered the action of the said Officer against them who obtained a Judgment of Court against them on Verdict which they have also satisfied. And as they conceive that their Offence is full within the late Act of Indemnity, praying that they may be admitted to share in the Grace of the Government, their Conviction, & payment of their Fines being before the said act was made, notwithstanding.

In the House of Representatives. Read & Ordered that the prayer of this Petition be granted; and that the Treasurer of the County of Hampshire be, and he is hereby directed to pay out of the Treasury of the same County to each and every of the Petitioners aforesaid such Sums as they have respectively paid as Fines set upon them by the Court of General Sessions of the peace for said County on their Conviction of the Offence aforesaid, and that have been paid into said Treasury, and that upon his paying the same to said Petitioners, he shall discharge himself to the said County of such Sums so paid by virtue of this Order. In Council, Read and unanimously Nonconcurred."—Council Records, vol. XXVI., p. 419.

"This proceeding in the house [amnesty to the rioters] took its rise from one of the members, a principal lawyer in the county of Hampshire, several of whose clients were then in prison, in that county, for not paying their fines and the costs of court, having been convicted of a riot raised to oppose the execution of the stamp act. The attorney-general, having advised with the court, caused them to be indicted for a riot, and not for treason. This gentleman took exception to the indictment, the offence amounting, indisputably, to treason. The court was sensible that like exception, in like cases, had been taken in England, and overruled: and, upon those authorities, overruled the exceptions in this case, and gave judgment. The bill was framed to include these offenders in the indemnity. It was very doubtful whether, without this provision, the grant would have been made."—*Hutchinson's Hist. Mass. Gentlemen,

As the Law herewith inclosed, passed in the Province of the Massachusets Bay in December 1766, appears to the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations to be of a new and extraordinary nature and importance, I am directed by their Lordships to desire you will be pleased to take it into your consideration and to favour them with your opinion, whether the Legislature of that Province have by their Constitution a power to enact a Law of General Pardon, Indemnity and Oblivion, in the case to which it refers, without the previous consent of the Crown.

"To the Right Honourable The Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations.

May it please your Lordships,

In obedience to Your Lordships Commands signified to us by Mr Pownall's Letter of the 13th of March last, inclosing to us a Law passed in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in Dec[r] 1766 appearing to Your Lordships to be of a new and extraordinary nature and importance and desiring us to take it into our consideration and report our opinion whether the Legislature of that Province have by their Constitution a power to enact a Law of General Pardon, Indemnity and Oblivion in the case to which it refers without the previous consent of the Crown.

We have taken the same into our consideration and are of opinion that the Governor Council and Assembly of the Massachusetts Bay have not by the Constitution of that Province any original power to enact a Law of General Pardon, Indemnity and Oblivion in the case referr'd to, without the previous communication of the grace and pleasure of the Crown.

All which is humbly submitted to Your Lordships consideration

Your Majesty having been pleased by Your Order in Council of the 13th of last Month to referr unto this Committee a Representation of the Lords Commissrs for Trade and Plantations touching and concerning an Act passed by the Great and General Court or Assembly of Your Majesty's Province of the Massachusets Bay in New England on the 6th day of December 1766 intituled

An Act for granting compensation to the Sufferers and of free and general pardon, indemnity and oblivion to Offendors in the late times.

The Lords of the Committee in obedience to your Majesty's said Order of Reference did on the 1st and 4th of this instant and again upon this day meet and take the said Representation and Act into their consideration together with the Charter granted to the said Province by Your Majesty's Royal Predecessors King William and Queen Mary, and also Your Majesty's Commission and Instructs to the present Governor of that Province and upon due deliberation had thereupon, and after a diligent enquiry into the precedents of the conduct of the Council Board in similar cases, Their Lordships are humbly of opinion, that it may be adviseable for Your Majesty (if in Your Royal wisdom you shall think fit) to disallow and reject the said Act, the said Assembly having therein unwarrantably incorporated an Act of Pardon with an Act of Compensation, without having obtained Your Majesty's previous consent to such Act of Pardon; and that it may likewise be adviseable for Your Majesty to direct Your Governor of the Massachusetts Bay, forthwith to require the said Assembly to pass a particular and effectual Act for compensating all or any of the Sufferers unmixed with any other matter whatsoever, in case such compensation shall not have been already made—And the Committee submit this opinion to Your Majesty without prejudice to the consideration of any question touching the nullity of the Act now under consideration ab initio, whenever the same may judicially come into question

Chap. 17. Soon after the peace of Paris, the Acadians who had been brought into the province, upon the suggestion of Gov. Lawrence of Nova Scotia, and of his successor, Lieut.-Governor Belcher, began to take measures for emigrating to some place under the dominion of France, or to some other country where the priests of their religion would be tolerated,—the provincial statute 1700-1, chap. 1, which proscribed all Roman Catholic clergymen, on pain of perpetual imprisonment, being still in force in Massachusetts.

The Count D'Estaing, governor-general, as early as June 1764, had issued an invitation to them to settle in San Domingo; but the policy of allowing these subjects of Great Britain to thus change their allegiance, being doubted by Gov. Bernard, he issued his proclamation forbidding their departure until he could receive advice and direction from the ministry.

The distressed condition of these strangers, and the burden they imposed upon the several towns among which they were distributed, made it imperative that speedy provision should be made for them somewhere outside of the province, where they might settle, as British subjects, and eventually become self-sustaining; and therefore the newly acquired territory of Canada, where, by the terms of the treaty, Romish priests and Protestant ministers enjoyed equal toleration, seemed the most available place for their future habitation.

This chapter was enacted to provide for defraying the expenses of relieving and transporting them; and the following extracts show the progress of some of the events and of the measures which resulted in its enactment. See, also, note to 1757-58, chap. 7, ante.

"Mr. Secretary came down from His Excellency the Governor with the following Message, Viz.

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives.

At the beginning of this Session I sent a Message to you recommending a Petition of some French Acadians, to which I have received no Answer. I now recommend to you another Petition of the Acadians in general, which I desire you would immediately take into your Consideration.

Ever since I have been Governor of this Province I have had great Compassion for this People, as every one must, who has considered that it was by the Exigencies of War, rather than any Fault of their own, that they were removed from a state of Ease and Affluence, and brought into Poverty and Dependance; from which in their present situation they can see no prospect of being delivered. I have heretofore made several Attempts to get them settled in some manner that might make them useful Subjects of Great-Britain, and comfortable to themselves; but I have failed for want of Ability.

You have now an Opportunity at no great Expence to dispose of these People, so that, instead of being a Burthen to the Province and to themselves, as they are like to continue whilst they remain here; they may become a fresh accession of Wealth and Strength to the British Empire in America; as it is certain that their Industry only waits for Property to exert itself upon, without which no one will be industrious. I therefore hope you will improve this Occasion; and in so doing you will unite public Spirit with Charity, FRA. BERNARD.

"Feb. 20, 1766. In the House of Representatives. Upon the Petition of the Accadians Resolved That the Commissary General be directed forthwith to put in Execution the Resolve of the whole Court of the 15th of February last respecting said Accadians, and if they refuse to go to the several Towns to which they were assigned by order of this Court, that then the House Rent and provisions they now receive be withdrawn, and that they still be deemed as Inhabitants of the Towns to which they are originaly assigned. But in case any of them should be in such necessitous circumstances as to require immediate Relief and support they shall be relieved at the charge of the Province 'till they are in circumstances to return to the Towns to which they belong.

In Council, Read and Nonconcurred "—Council Records, vol. XXVI., p. 193.

"Sir. I received some time ago your Letter of the 25th Feby relative to the Accadians in your Province: I think it will be for the good of the British Empire in General, and that of this Province in particular that these people were Settled here upon the same footing with his Majestys New Canadian Subjects, and therefore I shall not hesitate to receive them. But as they formerly refused to take the Oath of Allegiance & abjuration, and by their Petition to me, it appears they expect to be supported here at the expence of Government until they can provide for themselves, I think it necessary to inclose my Answer to their Petition, which I beg you will be pleased to have communicated to them in such a way that none may plead ignorance: this will prevent future heartburnings & reproaches on either side."—*Extract from letter of Gov. POUNDS, BEING PART OF THE SUM OF THREE HUNDRED POUNDS LENT SAID TOWN IN THE YEAR ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FOUR; AND ALSO, FOR ASSESSING THE TOWN OF NEWBURY THE SUM OF SEVENTY-THREE POUNDS TEN SHILLINGS AND TENPENCE, AND THE TOWN OF NEWBURYPORT THE SUM OF FIFTY-EIGHT POUNDS FIFTEEN SHILLINGS AND TENPENCE, BEING TAXES ARISING BY MEANS OF A DEFECTIVE CONSTABLE, IN THE YEAR ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-ONE; AND ALSO FOR ASSESSING THE TOWN OF CHELSEA THE SUM OF SEVENTY-ONE POUNDS NINETEEN SHILLINGS AND ONE PENNY, ARISING BY MEANS OF A DEFECTIVE CONSTABLE, IN THE YEAR ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND FORTY-NINE; AND ALSO, FOR ASSESSING THE TOWN OF MIDDLEBOROUGH THE SUM OF SIXTY-EIGHT POUNDS FOUR SHILLINGS AND EIGHTPENCE, ARISING BY MEANS OF A DEFECTIVE CONSTABLE, IN THE YEAR ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-TWO; AND ALSO, FOR ASSESSING THE DISTRICT OF SOUTH HADLEY THE SUM OF THIRTEEN POUNDS SEVEN SHILLINGS AND FIVEPENCE, PAID OUT OF THE PUBLICK TREASURY TO A COMMITTEE SENT THERE BY THE GENERAL COURT; AND ALSO, FOR ASSESSING THE DISTRICT OF SOUTH BRIMFIELD THE SUM OF FOUR POUNDS FOUR SHILLINGS, PAID OUT OF THE PUBLICK TREASURY TO A COMMITTEE SENT THERE BY THE GENERAL COURT; AS ALSO, FOR ASSESSING GREAT BARRINGTON THE SUM OF THREE POUNDS AND THREEPENCE, PAID JOSEPH HAWLEY, ESQ., SENT THERE BY ORDER OF THE GENERAL COURT; AND ALSO, FOR ASSESSING THE SEVERAL TOWNS IN THE COUNTY OF HAMPSHIRE THE SUM OF ELEVEN POUNDS TEN SHILLINGS, PAID OUT OF THE PUBLICK TREASURY TO A COMMITTEE SENT TO THE TOWN OF WESTFIELD; AND ALSO, FOR ASSESSING SUNDRY TOWNS IN THE COUNTY OF WORCESTER THE SUM OF ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTY-SEVEN POUNDS THREE SHILLINGS AND FOURPENCE, ABATED UPON THE TOWN OF WINCHENDON; AND ALSO, FOR ASSESSING UPON SEVERAL TOWNS AND DISTRICTS THE SUM OF THIRTY-SIX POUNDS NINE SHILLINGS AND ELEVENPENCE, PAID OUT OF THE PUBLICK TREASURY FOR THE SUPPORT OF FRENCH NEUTRALS; ALL WHICH SUMS AMOUNT TO FORTY-THREE THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-FIVE POUNDS AND FOURPENCE.

WHEREAS the great and general court or assembly of this province, by an act made and passed at their sessions in May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-six, on the grant of the house of representatives, agreed upon and ordered a tax of one hundred and fifty-seven thousand pounds; and whereas by the act aforesaid provision is made that the general court, at their present session, might apportion the same on the several towns, districts, parishes and places within this province, if they should think fit; yet inasmuch as such a heavy tax will be extremely burthensome to the inhabitants of this province, under their present distressed circumstances, and as some of the possessors of the government securities, for the redemption of which the aforesaid sum of one hundred and fifty-seven thousand pounds is applied, are willing to continue their money, upon loan, payable at a further period, which, with the tax of forty thousand pounds now agreed to be assessed and levied this year, will be sufficient to redeem the government securities, with the interest thereon, which will become due in June, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-eight; wherefore, for the ordering, directing and effectually drawing in the sum of forty-three thousand five hundred and eighty-five pounds and fourpence, and to the end that the same may be apportioned, assessed and levied in the easiest manner we are able, for the benefit of his majesty's subjects, and also that his majesty's government within this province may have the better and more speedy effect of said grant, we, his majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the representatives in general court assembled, pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

[Sect. 1.] That each town, district, parish or other place within this province, be assessed and pay, as such town, district, parish and place's proportion of the sum of forty-three thousand five hundred and eighty-five pounds and fourpence, the several sums following; that is to say,—

[Sect. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send out his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town, district, parish or other place within this province, that are taxed, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town, district, parish or other place, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all rateable polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns, districts, parishes or other places, or next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town or place, at five shillings and fourpence, and proportionably in assessing the additional sum paid out of the treasury to the representatives, for their travel and attendance aforesaid (excepting the governor, lieutenant-governor and their families, the president, fellows, professors, Hebrew instructor and students of Harvard College, settled ministers and grammar-school masters, who are hereby exempted as well from being taxed for their polls, as their estates being in their own hands, and under their actual management and improvement; as also the estate pertaining to Harvard College); and other persons, if such there be, who, through age, infirmity or extreme poverty, in the judgment of the assessors, are not able to pay towards public charges, they may exempt their polls or estate, or abate part of what they are set at, as in their prudence they shall think fit and judge meet.

Treasurer to issue his warrant to the selectmen or assessors.

Rules for assessment.

[Sect. 3.] And the justices in their general sessions, in the respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns, districts, parishes and other places in such county, in proportion to the province rate; and the assessors of each town in the province are also directed, in making an assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule; and the incomes of all estates, both real and personal, lying within the limits of such town, district, parish or other place, or next unto the same, not paying elsewhere, in whose hands, tenure, occupation or possession the same is or shall be found, and also the incomes or profits which any person or persons, except as before excepted, do or shall receive from any trade, faculty, business or employment whatsoever, and all profits which shall or may arise by money, or commissions of profit, in their improvement, at twelvepence per pound; and to abate or multiply the same, if need be, so as to make up the sum set and ordered hereby for each town, district, parish or other place to pay; and in making the said assessment, to estimate houses and lands at six years' yearly rent whereat the same may be reasonably set or let for in the place where they lye: saving all agreements between landlord and tenant, and where no agreement is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax set upon such houses and lands (new cleared lands for tillage not to be rated until the first crop be taken off); and to estimate negro, Indian and molatto servants proportionably as other personal estate, according to their sound judgment or discretion; as also to estimate every ox of four years old and upwards, at forty shillings; every cow or heifer of three years old and upwards, at thirty shillings; and every horse and mare of three years old and upwards, at forty shillings; and every swine of one year old and upwards, at eight shillings; goats and sheep of one year old and upwards, at three shillings each; the several creatures above mentioned to be taxed to their respective owners or occupants, by the assessors of the town in which the owners or occupants dwell: likewise requiring the assessors to make a fair list of said assessment, setting forth, in distinct columns, against each particular person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for houses and lands, and how much for personal estate, and income by trade or faculty, and if as guardians, or for any estate, in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly expressed; and the list or lists so perfected, and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collector, or constable or constables of any such town, district, parish or other place, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collector, constable or constables, with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the last day of November next.

Treasurer to issue his warrants to constables or collectors.

[SECT. 4.] And the treasurer, for the time being, on receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector, or constable or constables of such town, district, parish or place, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of each respective sum assessed on each particular person, and to pay in their collection, and issue their accompts of the whole, at or before the thirtieth day of March, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty-eight.

And be it further enacted,

Notice to be given to the inhabitants to bring in a true list of polls, and estate in possession, the first day of September.

[SECT. 5.] That the assessors of each town, district, parish or other place, respectively, in convenient time before their making of the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in a town-meeting or by posting up notifications in some place or places in such town, district, parish or place, or notify the inhabitants some other way, to give and bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls and rateable estate they shall be possessed of on the first day of September next, and income by trade or faculty, and gain by money at interest, which they are to render to the assessors, on oath, if required; and if they refuse to give in an account of the money at interest, on oath, the assessors are impowered to doom them; and if any person or persons shall neglect or refuse so to do, or bring in a false list, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors to assess such person or persons, according to their known ability in such town, in their sound judgment and discretion, their due proportion of this tax, as near as they can, agreeable to the rules herein given, under the penalty of twenty shillings for each person that shall be convicted by legal proof, in the judgment of said assessors, in bringing in a false list; the said fines to be for the use of the poor of such town, district, parish or place where the delinquent lives, to be levied by warrant from the assessors, directed to the collectors or constables, in manner as is directed for gathering the town assessments, to be paid into the town, district or parish treasury, for the use aforesaid: saving to the party aggrieved at the judgment of the assessors in setting forth such fine, liberty of appeal therefrom to the court of general sessions of the peace within the county, for relief as in the case of being overrated. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estate as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting shall not be admitted to make application to the court of general sessions, for any abatement of the assessment laid on him or them.

[SECT. 6.] And if the person be not convicted of any falseness in the list, by him presented, of the polls, rateable estate, or income by trade or faculty, business or employment, which he does or shall exercise, or in gain by money at interest or otherwise, or other estate not particularly assessed, such list shall be a rule for such person's proportion to the tax which the assessors may not exceed.

And forasmuch as, oftentimes, sundry persons, not belonging to this province, bring considerable trade and merchandize into the same, and by reason that the tax or rate of the town where they came to is finished and delivered to the constable or collectors, and, before the next year's assessment, are gone out of the province, and so pay nothing towards the support of the government, though, in the time of their residing here, they reaped considerable gain by trade, and had the protection of the government,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Transient traders to be rated.

[Sect. 7.] That when any person or persons shall come and reside in any town within this province, and bring any merchandize, or trade to deal therewith, the assessors of such town are hereby impowered to rate and assess all such persons, according to their circumstances, pursuant to the rules and directions of this act provided, though the former rate may have been finished, and a new one not perfected, as aforesaid.

And be it further enacted,

Merchants to be rated for carrying on trade in any town besides where they dwell.

[Sect. 8.] That when any merchant, trader or factor, shall set up a store, and traffick, or carry on any trade or business, in any town within this province, not being an inhabitant of such town, the assessors of such town where such trade and business shall be carried on as aforesaid, be and hereby are impowered to rate and assess all such merchants, traders and factors, their goods and merchandize, for carrying on such trade and business and exercising their faculty in such town, pursuant to the rules and directions in this act: provided, before any such assessors shall rate such persons, as aforementioned, the selectmen of the town where such trade is carried on shall transmit a list of such persons as they shall judge may and ought to be rated, within the intent of this act, to the assessors of such town or district.

Selectmen to transmit a list of such persons before they are rated.

[Sect. 9.] And the constables or collectors are hereby enjoined to levy and collect all such sums committed to them, and assessed on persons who are not of this province, or are residents in other towns than those where they carry on their trade, and pay the same.

And whereas it has been the practice of some of the inhabitants of the town of Boston to remove to some other town in this province, and there reside for some months, to avoid paying their part of the taxes in the town of Boston, to which they really belong, to the great injury of the said town,—

Be it therefore enacted,

Inhabitants of Boston who remove out of town, and return in a year, to pay their taxes in said town.

[Sect. 10.] That when any inhabitant of the town of Boston shall remove to any other town in this province, and shall, in one year after, remove back to said Boston, and shall have been taxed in the said town, shall be subject to pay said taxes, in like manner as he would have been had he not have removed from said Boston (saving so much as he shall be taxed in the town removed to), anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

And be it further enacted,

Inhabitants of Ashby to pay taxes in the several towns from whence it was set off.

[Sect. 11.] That the inhabitants of the town of Ashby, in the county of Middlesex, shall, the present year, pay province and county taxes in the several towns from whence it was set off, said town of Ashby not having certified this court the proportion of taxes they paid in the said town the last year; and the assessors and collectors or constables of the several towns from whence said town of Ashby was taken, are hereby impowered to assess and collect the same. Casks to be branded.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 2.] That any person who shall adulterate any potash or pearlash, by mixing the same with any lime, marine salt, or any other matter foreign to the nature of those commodities, or by any other way or manner whatsoever, and afterwards offer the same to sale, shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding thirty pounds nor less than five pounds, according to the nature of the offence, for each ton thereof, and so, in proportion, for any greater or smaller quantity of potash or pearlash.

CHAPTER 22.

AN ACT FOR BUILDING AND MAINTAINING A LIGHTHOUSE ON THE EAST END OF THE GURNET, AT THE ENTRANCE OF THE HARBOUR OF PLYMOUTH.

Preamble

WHEREAS the South Shore, so called, from Point Alderton to Cape Cod, is very dangerous, by reason of many rocks and shoals at a distance from the land, and there being no safe harbour, all along that coast, but that of Plymouth, and it being generally thought that a lighthouse erected on the east end of the Gurnet would be very serviceable to the navigation and commerce of this province, and be a means of preserving the lives and estates of a great number of his majesty's subjects, by directing the distressed, in stormy and tempestuous weather, into the aforesaid harbour; therefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

A lighthouse ordered to be erected on the east end of the Gurnet.

[SECT. 1.] That there be a lighthouse erected, at the charge of the province, on the east end of the Gurnet, to be kept lighted from sun-s[i][e]tting to sun-rising; that from and after the building of the said lighthouse, and kindling a light in it useful for shipping coming into or going out of the harbour of Plymouth, or other harbour within the Massachuset[t]s Bay, there shall be paid to the receiver of impost, by the master[s] of all ships and vessels going in or belonging to the port of Plymouth (coasters excepted), which have hitherto been exempted from paying light-money, by the general court, the like duty or light-money as is paid, by every other ship or vessel coming in or going out of the harbour of Boston, agre[e]able to an act of this province passed in the first year of King George the First, [i][e]ntitled "An Act for building and maintaining a lighthouse upon the Great Br[u][ew]ster, called Bacon Island, at the entrance of the harbour of Boston." 1715-16, chap. 4.

And be it enacted,

[Sect. 2.] That the commissioner or receiver of impost be and hereby is impowered, by himself, or his deputy by him appointed, to receive the said duties, and to recover the same and give a certificate therefor in the same way and manner as by the aforerecited act is provided. Impost officer to receive the light-money.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 3.] That no ship or vessel belonging to the port of Plymouth (coasters excepted), shall be cleared by the naval officer, until a certificate be produced that the duty of the lighthouse be paid; and the ship or vessel, with the master, shall stand charged with the duty thereof, till paid to the commissioner of impost. Plymouth vessels not to be cleared without a certificate of payment.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 4.] That the person appointed by this court to keep the said lighthouse, shall be under the same rules and directions with respect to his duty, and also under the same penalty for neglecting the same, and the fines shall be recovered in the same way and manner, as in and by the aforerecited act is provided. Keeper of the lighthouse to observe rules, on penalty.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 5.] That a committee of this court be appointed to build the said lighthouse, of such dimensions, and in such manner, as they may be directed by the said court. [Passed February 27; published March 5, 1768. Committee to build.

CHAPTER 23.

AN ACT TO IMPOWER COMMISSARIES TO SETTLE A LINE OF JURISDICTION BETWEEN THIS PROVINCE AND THE PROVINCE OF NEW YORK.

Whereas a controversy has long subsisted between this province and the province of New York, concerning their boundaries and the extent of their jurisdiction, to the great detriment of both; and the contests arising therefrom have been attended with great confusion and disorders, and are likely to be productive of further most mischievous consequences; to prevent which, and to remove the cause of future disputes, it appears necessary that a line of jurisdiction between this province and the province of New York should be settled by the mutual consent and authority of the legislatures of both governments, agre[e]able to his majesty's most gracious designs and permission, signified by the right hon[ora]ble the Earl of Shelburne; and whereas great doubts arose in the minds of the commissaries of New York, on the conference at New Haven, whether the commissaries on the part of this province were sufficiently authorized, by a resolve of the court only, to treat with the commissaries on the part of New York, and settle the line of jurisdiction between the said provinces; for the removal of such doubts, and to the intent that his majesty's gracious recommendation of an amicable settlement may, if possible, be complied with,— Preamble

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

Commissaries empowered to agree on a line of jurisdiction.

That the Hon[ora]ble Thomas Hutchinson, Esq[r]., lieutenant-governor of this province, the Hon[ora]ble William Brattle, Esq[r]., and Edward Sheaffe, Esq[r]., shall be commissaries on the part of this province, who shall have, or the major part of them shall have, and hereby are declared to have, full power and authority to agree with the commissaries appointed on the part of New York, on a line to be run, for a line of jurisdiction, between the two provinces, to which line of jurisdiction this province shall extend; and after such a line is agreed upon and determined by the commissaries on both sides, or the major part of them for each government, the commissaries appointed by this act are hereby impowered and authorized to employ such surveyor or surveyors, chain-bearers, and such and so many other persons as may be found necessary to perform the executive part, to run, mark and ascertain the said line, in conjunction with such as may be appointed for that purpose on the part of the province of New York. And the settlement of the line aforesaid, by the commissaries aforesaid, shall, after his majesty's confirmation thereof, be and remain the line of jurisdiction between the said provinces. [Passed March 3; published March 5, 1768.

Which line shall remain such, after receiving the royal sanction.

NOTES.—All the acts of this year, public and private, were printed,—chapter 8 separately; and the engrossments of all are preserved, except of chapters 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, and 15.

The following is the title of the only private act passed this year:—

"An Act to empower Abigail Conqueret of Lancaster in the County of Worcester, Wife of Lewis Conqueret Mariner to commence and prosecute to final Judgment and Execution, certain Action or Actions against Francis Morris and Thomas Legget of Leominster in said County, and for subjecting the said Abigail Conqueret to the Action or Actions of the said Francis Morris and Thomas Legget, as though she was sole and unmarried."—[Passed June 25.

The acts of the first session were certified for transmission July 22, 1767. No record has been found of the receipt of these acts, although the Governor's letter dated July 27, stating that the secretary of the province was "now transmitting" them, was read at the Board, October 13.

The report of Sir Matthew Lamb upon these acts, dated January 18, 1768, was received January 19, and read February 4, when the draught of a representation was ordered to be prepared proposing the repeal of the private act above named. This draught was prepared and signed February 18, 1768.

The acts of the second session were certified for transmission, April 5, 1768, and laid before the Lords of Trade June 10, 1768, when they were ordered to be sent to Sir Matthew Lamb for his opinion thereon. No report from Sir Matthew Lamb has been found, probably none was made by him since his death occurred on the sixth of November of that year. A vacancy in the office of counsel to the Board of Trade remained from the decease of Sir Matthew Lamb until the appointment of Richard Jackson to that post, on the 30th of April, 1770. On the 14th of January, 1771, Mr. Jackson made a report on these acts—which, it appears, had been sent to him by order of the Lords of Trade for that purpose—that he was of opinion that the same were proper in point of law. He, however, made several comments on chapter 22, as shown in the note to that chapter post.

As nothing to the contrary appears, it is to be presumed that the public acts of this year received a virtual approval by lapse of time.

Chap. 2. "June 6, 1764. Chap. 8. "June 12, 1766. The Secretary also carried down to the House a Message from the Governor, founded on a Petition of Francis Le Blanc a French Accadian praying Relief, accompanying the said Message which is as follows viz^{t}—

And praying Relief.

In the House of Representatives Read: and it appearing that the facts set forth in this Petition are true, and that there was a mistake in apportioning the Representatives pay in the Towns of Sheffield and Great Barrington, the Town of Sheffield's just proportion being £17: 9: 6 and the Town of Great Barrington's but £9: 15: 6, so that it appears that Great Barrington paid £3: 14: 6 more than its just proportion. Therefore Resolved That said Sum of Three pounds, fourteen shillings and six pence be deducted out of the Town of Great Barrington's Province Tax in the next Tax Bill & added to the Town of Sheffield. In Council, Read and Concurred. Consented to by the Governor."—Ibid., p. 454.

Chap. 10. The act of the last year (1766-67, chap. 8), to prevent frauds by the adulteration of potash and pearlash, expired by limitation, July 20, 1767. On the day of its passage, however, the House of Representatives renewed their efforts to ascertain the best processes of making and assaying potash, with a view to such further legislation as would effectually encourage its manufacture and prevent its adulteration, by appointing a committee, consisting of the Speaker, Mr Adams and Mr. Hancock, to write to the Society of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce, in London, relative to the subject, and directing the Speaker to sign and forward the letter.

All that has been discovered of this correspondence is the following reply of Dr. Templeman, the secretary of that society:—

"Sir, The favour of Your Letter was received, which was immediately communicated to the Society; who have directed me to summon the joint Committees for Chemistry and the Colonies on so interesting a subject, and likewise to write Letters to the most eminent Chemists in England, who happen not to be Members of this Society, and to send them Specimens of different sorts of Pot Ash imported from America; requesting them to examine the Pot Ash with the greatest accuracy, and to report their opinions on so important an affair.

As You mention in Your Letter that You are uncertain whether the Process that has been followed in making the Pot Ash is a good one; in order to form a judgment in that particular, the Society request the favour of You to procure and send them an Account of the Process that has been made use of, and also Specimens of the Salt so made, in order to make Experiments thereon.

The Society have much at heart this valuable Branch of Commerce; and think themselves much obliged to the Honourable House of Representatives for this early information. I have the honour to subscribe myself in the name of the Society,

Sir, Your most obedient humble Servant

Strand November 8th 1766 PETR TEMPLEMAN, Secretary

To Thomas Cushing Esq.

Speaker to the Honble House of Representatives at Boston in New England."—Mass. Archives, vol. 59, p. 519.

During the third session of the Assembly, the same year, another committee, consisting of Messrs. Hancock, Tisdale, Sheaffe, Dexter and Taylor of the House and Messrs. Danforth, Brattle, Bowdoin and Tyler of the Council, was appointed "to inquire into the process in making potash, and the several assays that have been made for fixing the standard, and report." This committee was completed by the third of February, and, some three weeks later, submitted the following report:—

"The Committee of both Houses appointed for the purposes mentioned in the Second article of the annexed Order, having been informed that two young Gentlemen in the Town of Boston (namely Dr Danforth & Dr Warren) had taken no small pains & made a great variety of Experiments in order to discover the Fraud used in the adulteration of Potash & pearlash and had at length succeeded therein. The Committee applied to those Gentlemen to show a specimen of their skill in that matter, who attended them accordingly & made sundry curious Experiments on those Manufactures, not only on such as were genuine & unmixed, but on such as were adulterated with Lime or Sea salt, as also on such as had been adulterated with both; and made different Experiments for those different purposes, as also an experiment for investigating the greater or less degree of the adulteration. These several Tryals were exhibited in the presence and view of the Committee and the Success of 'em was answerable to what those Gentlemen had (before the making them) given us to expect; and as their method of assaying required as little time as perhaps the nature of the Case will admit of, The Committee are humbly of opinion that these discoveries relative to the Subjects mentioned, are worthy the attention of the Government, as they may be of great advantage for detecting fraudulent practices in preparing those manufactures and for supporting the Credit of an article (for Exportation) of the greatest Importance to this Province.

W. BRATTLE by order."—Ibid., p. 529.

This report was accepted by the Council, Feb. 27, and another committee was nominated, to consider and report what action should be taken "in consequence of said report." In this, the House refused to concur, but ordered the report to be recommitted to the same committee, together with the following petition of William Frobisher.

This person, whose name first appears in the records of the Assembly early in 1765, as a petitioner in connection with this business, was subsequently generally admitted to be the inventor of the process of manufacturing potash, which came to be universally adopted in the province.* He was afterwards appointed, under the state government, assayer-general of potash and pearlash. His petition which was referred to the above committee was presented some time before the foregoing report was made, and ran as follows:—

"To his Excellency Francis Bernard, Esq^r Governor in Chief in and over his Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay; the Hon^ble the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled Jan^ry 28th A. D. 1767.

The Petition of William Furbisher of Boston, Humbly shews, That your Petitioner in the Year 1753 after long Study and indefatigable Industry found the true Way and Method of making Potash in America, and shipped two Tons of the same in the Year 1754 for London, and went himself with the same; which Potash by the Trial of a skilful Chymist and one of the best Soapboiler's, both of London was highly approved of. In September 1755, your Petitioner returned to Boston; at which Time Potash was at a low Price, Insurance and Freight high; for which Reason he was obliged to lay aside the making Potash; and missing his due Reward he was disenabled from pursuing the same, altho' a Reward of £3000—Sterling was granted by Act of Parliament to M^r Thomas Stevens† for his Discovery and Publishment of the same: whose method has since plainly appeared to be of no Service, either to the Mother Country or America; whereas your Petitioner's Plan gave Light to the making whatever has been made good since in America, whatever may be said to the contrary. And to enable your Petitioner to effect the same he was obliged to sell off his utensils for carrying on the Soapboiling, and Tallowchandlers Business, and quitted a well accustomed Shop in Boston, and removed about Sixty Miles in the Woods to fix his Works he, together with M^r Caleb Wilder (who he taught the Business) erected Works, and for some Time employed from 30 to 40 Hands daily; and your Petitioner lost both Hands & Labour. Your Petitioner would represent to your Excellency and Honour, that when he was in London he was at Great Expence and Trouble in attending the Right Hon^ble his Majesty's Commissioners, Chimists, and Soapboilers, in proving the Potash he carried Home to be good, and the Probability of the Mother Country's being supplied with Potash from America, and other advantages that might arise to them by making Remittances, as well as making a Wilderness in America, become a fruitful Field: After all this Your Petitioner returned Home to Boston in great anxiety of Mind, having sunk his all, got greatly in Debt and spent the Prime of Life; Wherefore Your Petitioner humbly prays your Excellency and Honors to take his Case into your wise consideration, with the Schedule hereto annexed, and that you would be pleased to appoint him Assayer of Potash, brought to this Market under such Regulations as in your great Wisdom you shall think proper—and in Duty bound shall ever pray,

The following is, probably, the "schedule" referred to in the petition. It is followed, here, by a recommendation from leading citizens of Boston, which seems to have been presented at the same time.

"The fixing a proper Plan for making Potashes to one Standard, and proving it when it is not so, is as interesting to America, as the first Discovery of it was. As a proper Direction, it is to be laid down from the first taking of Wood Ashes to the finishing the Potash: and as this is certainly the Case in Russia & it concerns us to be on the same Footing, or a better if we can: and as I was encouraged by John Hancock, Esq^r to look into the assaying of Potash, and fixing the Regulations to make the same to one Standard of Goodness, I do presume to give Reasons to a Committee of this hon^ble Court, if they shall think fit to appoint one, for the Sediments being so unequal, That is, from ten Grains only, from one Ounce to two Penny weight ten Grains, the Potash equally looking well and merchantable to the Eye; and also to shew how to avoid the same, and to reduce these extravagant Sediments; and also the method to be taken, that the manufacturing of Potash may be fully known in America, and as fully vindicated at Home to be as good as any that ever arrived at the London market from Russia, or elsewhere; and that by this Method the Manufacturer of Potash may make as much in Quantity as he has done formerly, and in my Opinion he may make more; as I judge by my long and daily Experience of almost twenty years in Wood Leeches, I think I have got as much good Lye from fifty Bushells of Ashes as I have got from fifty eight, which is a great advantage; and I would observe, that in Case the Maker of Potash makes a misgo so that the Potash don't turn out to his mind he may be directed how to mend it; and in that Case he bring none to Boston but such as will bear to be inspected. and in another Case, I hope to give Light in England to the Consumption of Potash as ten to one. at present the hard Soap Boilers in England do not make use of Potash in making hard Soap, but Spanish ashes; and I have

They have now ceased in this town: The price of wood will not admit of their being carried on to advantage in the capital.

While the committee had the subject under consideration, after recommitment, Mr. Frobisher addressed to them the following petition:—

"To the Honble Samuel Danforth Esqr Chairman, and the Honble Gentlemen of the Committee relative to my Petition. Whareas I did petition to the honble Court signifying the great Expences and Losses I had been at in the first making of Potash in America: And whereas I have after numerous Experiments, and great Loss of Time and Labour, at Length discovered a Method of making Potash, which will bring it to the merchantable Standard; and which being communicated to the Publick will enable any Person to make it agreable to that Standard, and mend what is of an inferior Quality, so as to bring it up to the Standard; For want of which knowledge the Manufacturers at present labour under great Inconvenience and Discouragements; and the Potash sent to England being of an inferior Quality and of different Degrees of Goodness, make the Value of it to the Purchaser quite uncertain; and by this means it has got into great Disrepute, to the great Detriment of the Province—now as I apprehend the Method I have discovered will serve to bring the Potash made in the Province all to one uniform Standard whereby the Inconveniences aforesaid may be remedied, I beg Leave to make the following Proposal, Vizt That in Case the Honorable Court will make me a Grant of a Sum equal to my Losses aforesaid, being upwards of Seven Hundred Pounds Sterling; the Payment thereof to be made to me within a reasonable Time after it has been found by Experience, that the Method will answer, and be of publick Utility; and of which the honorable the General Court shall be themselves the Judges.—I will communicate my Method of making Potash, and the whole of my knowledge relative thereto.—If it should not succeed the Sum granted will not be paid; but if it should succeed the Benefit arising to the Province, will by many Degrees more than counterbalance the Sum to be granted. This Proposal I pray the Favour of the honorable Committee to communicate to the Great and General Court. I am Gentlemen,

On the 19th of March the committee, having been changed by the substitution of Messrs. Taylor and Hussey for Col. Taylor and Mr. Dexter, and Capt. Thayer in place of Mr. Hancock, reported as follows:—

"The Committee of both Houses appointed on the 28th of Janʸ last to enquire into the Process of making Potash—& the several assays that have been made for fixing the standard; To whom also the Petition of Wm Frobisher toogether with a former Report of your said Committee relative to the several Assays (made in their Presence & View) for assaying of Potash—& discovering when the same was adulterated, & to report what may be proper for the Court to do thereon—Having duly considered the same—Report as follows—viz. That the Petitioner Wm Frobisher declared to the Committee that he was not desirous of being concern'd as assayer of Potash—; but in relation to a uniform method of making good & merchantable Potash, He delivered to the Committee certain Proposals in Writing (to be communicated to this Honble Court) relative to the Discovery of such his method for the Benefit of the Publick, Which Proposals are herewith exhibited for the Consideration of the Government.

as as to what respects the Report which was committed to us for Consideration—We are humbly of opinion that for ascertaining the Goodness & Purity of Potash & Pearl ash that may be exposed to Sale for Exportation, & discovering any adulteration therein—and for supporting the Credit of those Commodities—, That one or more assayers be appointed by this Court—for assaying of the same, and that a Bill be prepared & brought in for setting forth their Duty, & regulating the Business that shall be assigned them—

Which is submitted—

This report was read, and the consideration thereof was referred to the first session of the next Assembly.

At the May session, 1767, the present chapter, differing from chap. 8, 1766-67, only in the omission of § 2, and the exception in § 5, of the former act, was passed; and nothing further of importance relating to this subject appears in the records until the third session, when another committee, consisting of Messrs. Partridge, Sheaffe and Hall, was appointed by the House, "to consider of some methods to prevent the adulteration of potash, and to preserve that manufacture in the province." To this committee, Messrs Brattle and Tyler, of the Council, were subsequently joined.

Mr. Frobisher, soon after, renewed his petition, re-inforced, now, by the certificate of the "Two Emminent Physitians" referred to therein, and a commendatory letter from Benjamin Lincoln, Jr., to his father, in whose manufactory, at Hingham, Frobisher had been performing certain experiments illustrative of his method of making potash. This petition, which, with the accompanying papers, follows below, was immediately referred to the committee above named:—

"To His Excellency Francis Bernard Esq The Honourable the Counsel and the Honourable the House of Representatives in General Court Assembled January. 1768 The humble petition of William Frobisher &c sheweth That, in the year 1751 and 1752, your petitioner was upon the discovery of a process for making pot: ashes, and in the year 1753 discovered, what in fact was the design of the Brittish Parliament, in granting the £3000; viz^{t} for a method, practicable and adapted to the circumstances of the Colonists in general, whereby they might make pot: Ashes equally good, and merchantable with the best then in demand, and which were then purchas'd of Forreigners. In the Year 1754. Your Petitioner, made four Hogsheads and embark'd with them for London; where upon his arrival he apply'd to two Emminent Chymists for Assay, and afterwards to a soap: maker for practical proof of them, all of whom declar'd them posses'd of all the Quality, of the best forreign Ashes: and as such declar'd their readyness in the publick prints, to give an attested proof thereof. At this Juncture M^{r} Stevens. was upon his applycation, and with the Assistance of powerful Friends, obtaind the reward Abovemention'd; for the discovery of, and making publick his process, which with the construction of his utensils time has fully shewn, to be so complex and expensive, that even persons of Fortune could not Attain to the profitable use of them, and must have been attended with the total overthrow of the Manufacture, had not the present, which is a crude immitation of your petitioners process stept in. Thus disappointed, your petitioner had the additional misfortune by a great importation of Russia pot: Ashes, which effected the design of the Russia Merchants in reducing the marketable value of American pot: Ashes upwards of 50 per Cent; and a warr with france which then broke out and enhanc'd the premium for Freight and Insurance, to be Oblidg'd to return to America, and meet his ruin without remydy; having in the undertaking sunk his whole interest upwards of £700 sterling.—Since which time the pot: Ashes made in America, have been so inferior in Quallity, and are now in such disrepute, as to prevent the advantages of this Noble staple, becoming so extensive as otherwise they would. Your Petitioner at the request of John: Hancock esq^{r} having made a thorough exammination into the several causes of this evil and demonstratively prov'd them, with their remydy, in the presence of, and at the Manufactory belonging to Benjamin Lincoln Jun^{r} Esq^{r} at Hingham. by divesting the Alkaline Salts of every heterogeneous matter, even the Neutral salts themselves in a practical course of work, which Neutrals Tho' a grand Objection when Left in the Alkali, yet when seperated appears to have great Medicinal Advantages, as will appear, (Two Emminent Physitians being willing to render the Honourable Court an Account of them if desir'd). Your Petitioner begs Leave to Observe, that his process is calculated, to and has all the advantages of being simple, certain, and cheap, that increases the quantity, and improves the quallity, from the same Materials without Augmenting the expence of the process.—Your Petitioner, thinks it unnessary to enlarge on the advantages that may result from the publication of his Process to the Publick, farther than thus; the saving to the manufacturer in his dust ashes is vastly considerable; the certainty of a Flux which has hitherto been, and must continue to be doubtful. after the present method of work, will be establish'd; and the safety of the merchant here in the purchase, as well his dependance on its reception at home will be secur'd; From all which premises, Your Petitioner flatters himself, that very great advantages must arise from the publication of his process, and your Petitioner, in case the Honourable Court should not think the proofs he has already given sufficient, is willing to give such farther satisfaction as shall be by them required. and Your Petitioner in consideration of a Grant of Un-Appropriated Lands. such as the Honourable Court shall Judge Equall to his past Misfortunes, and the great pains and expence he has been at in the present improvement, is willing to publish his Process, with the whole of his knowledge relative thereto: and if the said process does not prove itself of Publick Utility, desires no consideration, but if it should the Advantages must by far more than Counter ballance the Consideration. And Your Petitioner as in Duty bound Will ever Pray—

"To the whole Court &c The encouragement of useful Arts having ever held an high place in the Character of the most flourishing States, We presume it will not be taken amiss that we recommend to the notice of the Fathers of our Country a Discovery which by four or five months diligent application, and close observation, we have found singularly beneficial to ourselves and patients—M^{r} William Frobisher having extracted a certain substance from Potash in preparation, (which he observes much injures the commodity if left with it) first applied to R. Hirons for his judgment upon it, who after some examination took about two drams of it disolved in water which gently operated three times as a purge, without the least griping, sickness or uneasiness; and next day communicated the Salt with advice how it appeared and had operated to T. Young. Y—order'd some solutions, filtrations, mixtures of acids and alkalies, ustion, decrepitation &c to be performed on it, at which H— was also present and observing no signs of acid or alkali or any thing more than a strongly fixed Basis of Sea Salt, holding some affinity with the taste of Epsom Salt and operating in a fourth part the quantity with more ease and incomparably greater efficacy as a lenitive purge, and beyond any thing else (of equal safety) ever tryed by either, as a kindly opening and gently deterging alterative, have used it constantly ever since. and their first stock being used up they on their behalf engaged Mr Frobisher to make a batch of Potash on purpose to furnish them with the Salt abovementioned which portion was found equally efficacious with the former—The process for obtaining this salt being known only to Mr Frobisher and Benjamin Lincoln Esq. as the subscribers are informed, they think themselves in duty bound to give this information, that Mr Frobisher may be suitably regarded and the Country put in possession of a medicine which every skillful Practioner, knows has been as great a disideratum * in their Art as Longitude is in Sailing—Numerous instances of the above related Facts will be given at any time when called for—

"Honle Sir I have seen Mr William Frobishers Petition to the General Court in which he Prays he may be compensated for his Great care pains & Expence in having made a thorō Examination into the Several causes why Our American Pot-Ashes are of an Inferior quallity & for discovering the Same and a remedy thereof he mentions that his Process is both Simple and certain yt it Increases ye Quantity and Improves ye Quallity without Augmenting the Expence and that he hath Extracted from the Alkali a Neutral Salt which Neutral is of utility in the Medicinal way — This I take to be the Spirit of his Petition and as therein he mentions my being Present when he made the Experiment in Justice to his cause would Observe that I am convinced his method of Preparing the Wood Ashes and his regular Process in making the Pot-ash is to be Prefer'd to ye method which I have Practised upon there remains Little or no doubt in my mind but that upon his Plan the Quantity is Increased & the Quallity of the Pot-ashes Improved by his Extracting therefrom a Salt which upon trial is found to be a Neutral with other Foreign matter Intermixed which Extraction Greatly Facilitates the Flux so that on the whole I am convinced his method will reduce Pot-ashes nerer to one Standard of Goodness for the want of which we have greatly suffered.—

After this, except a message from the House, Jan. 26, 1768, that the committee last appointed "may be directed to sit as soon as may be," and the substitution, at the same session, of Mr. Danielson, for Col. Partridge, on the committee, and the appointment of a committee, in the first session of the following year, to bring in a bill (which was never reported), to prevent the adulteration of potash, and later, in that session, the appointment of Dr. Calef, Major Doane, Capt Thomas and Mr. Greenleaf, in place of the Speaker and Messrs. Otis, Sheaffe and Foster, on the committee to consider methods to prevent the adulteration of potash, nothing further appears to have been done. The present chapter was revived and continued, by sundry acts, until after the adoption of the Constitution.

Chap. 11. "June 11, 1767. The Secretary delivered the following Message from his Excellency the Governor to the two Houses respectively viz^{t}

Gentlemen of the Council, and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives.

Last Winter I received a Letter from the Earl of Shelburne signifying his Majesty's Commands that Care be taken that a due obedience be paid to his Majesty's Royal Proclamation for restraining the Indian Trade and preventing encroachments upon the Indian Country. I have reserved the communication of this until the subject matter should come before you in the course of business; which it does now by the time for renewing the Indian Trade Act coming on. I have more than once represented to his Majesty's Ministers that it is not in my power to carry the Proclamation into execution without the aid of the General Court; and that so far as it hath been hitherto obeyed, has been effected by means of the aforementioned Act. I now desire that you will take the whole of the said Letter into consideration and provide for what is required thereby, either by the same Act, or by another as you shall see cause. FRA. BERNARD."—Council Records, vol. XXVII., p. 40.

"June 18, 1767. May it please your Excellency.

Your Excellency's Message to both Houses of the 11 Instant together with his Majesty's Royal Proclamation for restraining the Indian Trade & preventing Encroachments upon the Indian Country, as also the Earl of Shelburne's Letter signifying his Majesty's Commands that a due obedience be paid to the said Proclamation, we have most attentively considered—And are convinced that neither were founded upon any Complaints against this Province by his Majesty's Superintendants for Indian Affairs. Nor will any one presume to say 'that the most unprovoked violences and murthers which have been lately committed on the Indians under the protection of his Majesty' were done by this Government; 'or that any one Settlement hath been made by us without proper authority, and beyond the Limits prescribed by his Majesty's Royal Proclamation of 1763; or that We have made Settlements beyond the utmost Boundaries of any Province in America, in consequence of which the greatest discontents among the Indians have arisen which may endanger the peace of his Majesty s Provinces, and the safety of his Subjects'—We say, may it please your Excellency, it is impossible that these Complaints were made against us because they were without even a colour.

It is with pleasure that we remind your Excellency and inform the world that greater care was taken of the Indians by our pious ancestors during the old Charter, and by this Government under the new, even to this day, than is ordered or recommended either by the Proclamation or the Letter aforesaid—But about three years after the arrival of our Forefathers the first Settlers of the Land viz[t] Anno Domini 1633 they made a Law in these words, "That no person shall henceforth buy Land of any Indian without License first had and obtained of the General Court; and if any offended herein, such Land so bought shall be forfeited"—And lest the Indians should be defrauded in their Trade in the same year they made a Law that no person should trade with the Indians for any sort of peltry &c excepting only such as are authorized by the General Court under the penalty of one hundred pounds for every offence. And so tender was their Regard for them upon other Accounts that there were Indian Instructors provided; the Bible which they were then perfect Strangers to, translated into Indian, as well as other Books the means of Instruction, English and Indian ministers provided for them, the Gospel preached to them, Churches gathered, some of which continue even to this day: By Law severe penalties were to be inflicted upon any that should sell them strong drink: By Law the Justices of every Shire were bound to give it in special charge to the Grand Jury to inquire and present the Breaches of said Laws, Provision was therein made, that when any damage should be done the Indians in their Fields, tho' unfenced, it should be made good by the Town where the Land lay. Provision was likewise made for their being incorporated into Townships, they to be vested with all the priviledges of other Towns. They were impowered from among themselves to appoint Indian Justices to hear and determine small Causes that might arise among the Indians. This was the Care the Government took of the Indians under the old Charter, and this very much endeared the English to them. The Indians had a perfect confidence in the Government, lookd upon them as their civil and spiritual Fathers, and went to them in all their difficulties as Children to a Father.

May it please your Excellency—These are a few of the many Instances of the Care our Forefathers took of the Indians: nor hath the Scene been changed at any time since. There is now a standing Law of this Province made in the Reign of King William and Queen Mary, declaring every deed of bargain & Sale, lease, release &c of any Lands, Tenements or Hereditaments within this Province as well for term of years as forever procured or obtained from any Indian by any person at any time since the year 1635, the year the abovementioned Law was made without license first had and obtained, or that shall hereafter be made or procured without the license & approbation of the Great and General Court or Assembly of this Province for the same, shall be deemed & adjudged in the Law to be null and void & of none effect. The same Care hath been and is now taken of them in every other instance; there are Laws now subsisting prohibiting the English selling strong drink or Trading with them, to prevent their being drunk by the one and cheated by the other: there are Churches and Congregations of Indians in this Province to whom the Gospel is preached, ministers ordained over them, the Sacraments administred to them, Schoolmasters provided for the instruction of their Children, decent respectable Houses for public worship erected, and all without the least expence to them. There are Districts and Parishes in the Province wherein the English & Indians unitedly enjoy the same privileges; and in one of our Towns they unite in voting for Representatives—with respect to the Eastern Indians—By the instigation of the French perhaps as inhumane as themselves: How much and how many Cruelties have our people met with from them? How much human Blood have they spilt? How much Treasure have they obliged us to expend?—Yet when they desired peace, did the Government ever refuse them? and in the year 1726 when a peace was concluded by the then Lieu[t] Governor Dummer, whose memory is precious to them and us, there were Truck houses erected by a Law of the Government, both in the Eastern and Western Frontiers, and the Trade in them was put under the wisest & most equitable regulations in favour of the Indians, and things are sold at the Truck house even to this day, to the Indians, as cheap as they could purchase them singly at Boston. There is not one Tract of Land in the Eastern Country enjoyed by the English, but what was purchased of the Indian Sachems, their Deeds acknowledged and Recorded; and when there has been any Trespasses by any of the English upon the Indians, there hath been the utmost care taken by the General Assembly, if sitting, if not, by the Governor & Council to bring the offenders to condign Punishment.

Nor, May it please your Excellency hath the Government omitted anything that can be suggested from the princi'les of humanity and justice from the year 1633 to this day for the interest of the Indians in their several dispersions throughout the whole Province: the conduct of the Government towards them we glory in, we make our boast of as unrivalled—And we persuade ourselves that your Excellency as the Head of the Province & its Father hath, or will make these Representations to his Majesty's Ministers. Upon the principles of Christianity, upon the Rules of good policy Justice and equity we have ever acted towards them, sensible that the violation of these principles will be attended with fatal consequences, and that if a due obedience had been paid to his Majesty's Royal Proclamation, and a due attention given to proper Restraints on the Conduct of the Indian Traders, those Evils that took place in some of the Southern Governments might have effectually been avoided—It is with the highest satisfaction we reflect upon the Governments Conduct relative to the Indians all free and spontaneous on our part, especially as it so happily coincides with his Majesty's Sentiments.

And we do assure your Excellency that being animated by the same Principles, we shall do everything that duty to the King and the Rules of good policy, of justice and equity to the Indians can require.

To the foregoing message his Excellency made the following Reply.

Gentlemen

I never understood that the Charges contained in the Earl of Shelburne's Letter were particularly intended against this Province, as there have been no complaints of this kind made from hence that I know of. There has been but one instance of murther of Indians hapned within my time; and in that, the Government exerted itself to the utmost to discover and punish the offenders, and to give satisfaction to the Indians, in the latter of which we had all desired Success.

The Justice and tenderness which this Government has exercis'd towards the Indians which have been intermixed with the people, is, I believe very well known; such instances as have hapned within my time have been faithfully represented, and the Province has had full credit for them. But still, great care remains to be taken of the Eastern Indians who are not the objects of domestic regulations. And this cannot be done without restraining the hunting and Trading of the English in their Country, which have been & ever will be the Causes of frequent offence given to the Indians in those parts. Injuries of this kind are much better prevented than redressed. I therefore depend that you will carry into present execution the Assurances you give me at the close of your Address, by continuing the present Act for restraining private Trading with the Indians and hunting in their Country which will otherwise expire with the present Session; or by bringing in another Bill for the same purposes."—Ibid., p. 65.

Chap. 12. The following extracts are from minutes, in the Public-Record Office, of meetings of the Board of Trade, held at the dates given with the respective entries. They relate to the preparation of the letter to Gov. Bernard, from which a copious extract is given below, respecting a proposed amendment of the annual impost act, suggested by some features of the impost act of 1760–61 (chap. 18).

"Secondly—to propose to him [Gov. Bernard] an amendment to the Act of 'Impost and Tonnage' in order to render it more consonant to the Laws of Trade.

Thirdly—to desire him to transmit an account of the amount of the Duties which have arisen upon the said Law for seven years last past, distinguishing the amount under each particular Article and how much has arisen upon the Importation of Rum, Sugar and Molasses, the produce of foreign Colonies."—"Trade Papers," (Feb. 2, 1762) vol. 64, p. 27.

"The Draught of a Letter to the Governor of the Massachusetts* having been prepared conformable to the Directions upon the Minutes of yesterday, was approved and ordered to be transcribed."—Ibid., Feb. 3, p. 29.

"Upon consideration of the Act for granting to his Majesty certain Duties of Impost and Tonnage, it appears to us, that it would be more correct if in that part of it where it states the duties payable upon Importation of goods in general, there were some words which should restrain the importation of such Goods to those Ships only, which by Law may trade thither.

If an amendment of this nature can be obtained, it will in our opinion render the Act more consonant to the Acts of Parliament for regulating the Plantation Trade, and therefore it is our duty to recommend it to your consideration, when another Act shall be offered for your Assent.

The examination of this Act naturally led us to enquire, what was the annual amount of the duties imposed by it; which we found charged in general in the Treasurers accounts; but as it does not appear from those accounts what has been the amount of the Duties upon each article, We should be glad you would transmit to us an account thereof for seven years last past distinguishing particularly the amount of the duties upon Rum, Sugar and Molasses and what part thereof has been paid upon these Articles imported from Foreign Colonies."—Lords of Trade to Gov. Bernard, Feb. 4, 1762: "Mass. Bay, B. T.," vol. 86, p. 134.

"I will order the proper Officer to make out an account of the duties of tunnage and impost specifying the duties upon Rum, Sugar and Molasses as well as he can But I much doubt whether he makes any distinction between Foreign Sugars &c. and those of our own Islands."—Extract from Gov. Bernard's letter to Lords of Trade, May 17, 1762: ibid., vol. 78, L. l., 37.

"The account of the Impost and Tonnage received with your letter of the 17th of May does not at all answer to that which We required and expected since it does not distinguish what part thereof arises upon the produce of the British and what upon Foreign Colonies; It was your duty to have insisted upon the proper Officer making out the account in the manner We directed or to have given reasons why he could not, and it is with concern that We are obliged to repeat our Orders to you upon this head and to require a punctual and due obedience to them."—Lords of Trade to Gov. Bernard, Nov. 24, 1762: ibid., vol. 86, p. 144.

Upon the receipt of the impost act for 1763–64, this subject again engaged the attention of the Lords of Trade, and they accordingly made the report or representation to the Privy Council, from which an extract is given in the note to 1763–64, chap. 19, ante. The Privy Council thereupon passed the following order for the preparation of an additional instruction to the Governor. The instruction itself follows this order and the minutes hereunder given of the action of the Board of Trade in accordance therewith:—

* Sic: "Bay" omitted.

The King's most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas there was this day read at the Board, a Report from the Right Honorable the Lords of the Committee of Council for Plantation Affairs, upon considering a Representation of the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations, upon sundry Laws passed in his Majesty's Colonies in America and particularly upon an Act passed in the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England on the 27th of January 1764, Entituled 'An Act for granting unto His Majesty several Rates and 'Duties of Impost and Tonnage of Shipping.' And it appearing that by a Clause in the said Act, a double Impost is directed to be paid for all goods in general imported by the inhabitants of other Colonies, by which means it might so happen that goods imported from Great Britain and coming thro' the channel or intervention of other Colonies would be subjected to the payment of the Duties of Impost as upon Foreign Commodities—His Majesty in Council taking the same into consideration, is hereby pleased to order, that the said Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations do prepare and lay before His Majesty at this Board a Draught of an additional Instruction for the Governor of the said Province to procure an amendment to be made in that particular Clause exempting from Duties of Impost all British Goods coming thro' the Channel of any of the other Provinces or Colonies on the Continent of North America or of the British West India Islands, together with all such Foreign Goods and Merchandize as shall be imported from Great Britain either directed or through the intervention of other British Colonies provided such Foreign Goods &ca have paid the Duties in Great Britain

"Additional Instruction to Our trusty and Wellbeloved Francis Bernard Esquire, Our Captain General and Governor in chief in and over our Province and Territory of the Massachusetts Bay in New England in America: Given Whereas it hath been represented to us that by the Laws which have been heretofore annually enacted for several years past in our Province of Massachusetts Bay, for granting several rates and duties of Impost and Tunnage of Shipping; such Duties of Impost have been established with an Exception as to all goods of the produce and manufacture of Great Britain: But that in the Law last enacted for this purpose, the said exception is varied, so as to admit a doubt whether British Goods and Manufactures imported into our said Province from any other Colony may not be subjected to the said Duties; It is therefore Our Will and Pleasure, that you do not upon any pretence whatsoever give your assent to any Laws for granting any Duties of Impost upon Goods imported, unless there be a Clause inserted therein, exempting from Duties of Impost all British Goods coming through the Channel of any of our other Provinces or Colonies on the Continent of North America, or of our West India Islands, together with all such Foreign goods and merchandize as shall be imported from Great Britain, either directly or through the intervention of other our said Colonies, provided such Foreign goods and merchandize have paid the Duties required by Law in this Our Kingdom of Great Britain."—July 24, 1767: "*Mass. In Council Read and Concurred Consented to by the Governor."—Ibid., p. 311.

The foregoing extracts sufficiently explain why the name of Lieutenant-Governor Hutchinson stands first in the commission appointed to settle the boundary between the provinces of New York and the Massachusetts Bay. He had enjoyed exceptional opportunities for the study of the rise and progress of the western settlements, and for a correct understanding of the conflicting claims of jurisdiction by the contiguous governments, in the preparation of his history of his native province, traditions of the government of which, in many unpublished details, he had derived from his kinsmen and associates, who had held important public positions. He had, also, while serving on the committee, doubtless gathered information, and gained experience, in his intercourse with the representatives of the neighboring governments, peculiarly advantageous in negotiating for his constituents; and, moreover, he had received, for his labors, a reward, from the province treasury, that was generous, by the standard then prevailing. It would, therefore, have been imprudent, as well as vindictive, to have, virtually, superseded him in an office for which he had become qualified partly at the public expense—and in which, by his acknowledged learning, industry and address, he could render unequalled service to the province, —solely because of his known obsequiousness to the Crown, especially when that office afforded no chance for the betrayal of the rights of his constituents, through servility to the Crown or through ambition for its preferments.

It is, perhaps, unnecessary to add that nothing their contemporaries have alleged, or the scrutiny of time has revealed, justifies the suspicion that the political opponents of Hutchinson, were, as a body, capable of being actuated by spite, envy or revenge, in their conduct of public affairs.

These facts should be borne in mind when the following passage is read:—

"The house was brought to a publick accusation of the lieutenant-governor Such, however, was the inconsistency of conduct, that, a few days after this charge of ambition and lust of power, which had special reference to the several posts he sustained, the same house of representatives, in conjunction with the council, added another, though temporary, yet very important post, by electing him the first of three commissioners empowered to adjust and settle a controversy long subsisting between the two provinces of Massachusetts Bay and New York, respecting their boundary lines. This was the more observable, because it had long been the practice, with scarcely an instance to the contrary, to confer such places on such only as were members of one or other of the houses of assembly."—Hutchinson's Hist. Mass. Bay, vol. 3, p. 177.

AN ACT IN ADDITION TO AN ACT, INTITLED "AN ACT FOR ERECTING THE NEW PLANTATION CALLED HUNTSTOWN, IN THE COUNTY OF HAMPSHIRE, INTO A TOWN BY THE NAME OF ASHFIELD."

Whereas by the act, intitled "An Act for erecting the new plantation called Huntstown, in the county of Hampshire, into a town by the name of Ashfield," it is, among other things, enacted "That all taxes already raised for settling a minister, or that may be raised for his support, for building a meeting-house, clearing and repairing roads, be levied on the several proprietors of said plantation, according to their interests, until the further order of this court; and that said inhabitants and proprietors of said town, proceed by the same rules, in levying and collecting said taxes, as proprietors in new plantations are obliged, by law, to observe"; which paragraph in said act is, in several respects, insufficient for the purpose for which it was designed, and some provision is absolutely necessary, to enable the proprietors of the lands in said town to levy and collect the monies by them already granted for the purposes aforesaid, and to enable them to grant, assess, levy and collect such further taxes and assessments as may be necessary for the [same purposes *],— Disallowed by the privy council, July 31, 1771. Preamble. 1765–66, chap. 13, § 3.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

[Sect. 1.] That the proprietors of the lands in said town of Ashfield, divided or undivided, be and they are hereby impowered, at any meeting or meetings of said proprietors, warned and called agre[e]able to the directions of one law of this province, made in the twelfth year

1712-13, chap. 9. of the reign of her late majesty Queen Ann, intitled "An Act directing how meetings of proprietors of lands, lying in common and undivided, may be called," by a major vote of said proprietors, to be collected according to their interest in the same lands, to make choice of a clerk, treasurer and assessors, and any other officers that proprietors of
—and agree upon raising money, common and undivided lands may chuse; and also may agree upon the raising, assessing, levying and collecting all such sums of money as they shall judge necessary to compleat the building and finishing of their meeting-house, and the settlement and support of their minister, and for the laying out, making, clearing and repairing of public and private ways there, until this court shall otherwise order; and that the monies so granted shall be assessed upon the lands, of each original right in the
—on the 250-acre rights. said town, that are already laid out or agreed to be laid out, being two hundred and fifty acres to each right; and that every part of the said two hundred and fifty acres, in whose hands soever the same may be, shall be and hereby is subjected to the payment of its proportionable part of such monies so granted for the purposes aforesaid.

Preamble. And whereas, before the act of incorporation aforesaid, a tax of forty shillings, on each original right, was agreed upon and assessed by said proprietors, which is but partly collected; and, since the said act of incorporation, another tax of twenty shillings, on each original right there, has been agreed upon and assessed, and no part thereof collected; both which taxes were, by said proprietors, agreed upon and appropriated to the purposes aforesaid only,—

Be it enacted,

The 250-acre rights subjected to the payment of taxes: [SECT. 2.] That what remains unpaid of the said two taxes, and all future taxes that may be agreed upon and made, agre[e]able to the foregoing provisions in this act, shall and may be levied of the said two hundred and fifty acres already laid out, or voted and agreed to be laid out, by said proprietors; and every part of the said two hundred and fifty acres, in whose hands the same may be, shall be liable to the payment of a proportionable part thereof; and that if any proprietor of any such lands, as aforesaid, shall neglect or refuse to pay his proportion of any such taxes heretofore duly assessed, or hereafter to be assessed, agre[e]able to this act, the assessors of such taxes are hereby impowered —otherwise the lands may be sold. to make sale of such delinquent proprietor's land there, for the payment thereof, in the same manner as hath heretofore been provided in an act or law of this province, made in the second year of his present majesty's 1761-62, chap. 44. reign, intitled "An Act to subject the unimproved lands within this province to be sold for payment of taxes assessed on them, by order of the great and general court, and votes and agreements of the proprietors thereof, and to enable proprietors of new plantations to levy province and county taxes laid on them." [Passed June 24; published June 30.

"* * * by this Act the proprietors of Lands in the above Township of Ashfield are impowered to levy and collect such Taxes and Assessments as they shall judge necessary to compleat the building of a Meeting House and for settling and supporting an Independent Minister; And this Act further directs that the Monies so granted shall be assessed upon the Lands of each original right in the said Town consisting of 250 Acres each every part of which in whose hands soever the same may be is made subject to the payment of its proportionable part of such monies so granted for the purposes aforesaid.

This Clause, whereby all persons of whatever sect or persuasion in religion, occupying Lands in this Township are equally and indiscriminately taxed for the support of the Independent Church therein established, is in our opinion equally unusual and unreasonable particularly in the case of the Sect commonly called the Antipedobaptists, it appearing that out of seventeen families of which this Township, at its first settlement consisted, twelve of them were of the above sect or persuasion, We therefore beg leave humbly to propose to Your Majesty to signify Your Royal disallowance of this Act."—Representation of the Lords of Trade, May 31, 1771: "*Mass. CHAPTER 13.

AN ACT TO PREVENT A FAILURE OF JUSTICE, BY MEANS OF OFFENDERS, IN ANY OF HIS MAJESTY'S COLONIES ON THIS CONTINENT, ESCAPING INTO THIS PROVINCE, OR FROM ONE COUNTY IN THIS PROVINCE INTO ANOTHER, TO AVOID THE PUNISHMENTS OF THEIR OFFENCES.

Whereas it often happens that persons who have committed criminal offences in other of his majesty's colonies, before they can be apprehended, flee into this province, and by that means, thro'[ugh] the difficulty and delay that must generally attend a legal arrest of such offenders and sending them back for a proper tryal, do escape the punishment their offences justly deserves; for preventing whereof, and to

Justices of the peace empowered to issue their warrants against offenders escaping from other colonies:

[SECT. 1.] That when and so often as any criminal offender or offenders in any other of his majesty's colonies, shall make his or their escape from justice, and come into this province, and any proper process shall issue against such person or persons where he or they committed such offence, and he or they shall be pursued, and followed into this province, it shall be in the power of any of his majesty's justices of the peace within this province, in their respective counties, on application to them made, to issue their warrant against such offender or offenders, that they may be brought before them, or some other of his majesty's justices of the peace for said county, to be examined thereon; and if they shall think proper, on such examination, they may and hereby are impowered to commit, or, by warrant under their hands and seals, directed to the sheriff or his deputy, or the constables of the several towns, as may be necessary, to send and convey such offender or offenders to the confines of such colony from whence they have escaped, and there to deliver such offender to some proper officer in such colony, that they may be holden to answer for such offence according to law, there; and, where it shall be necessary, such offender be conveyed thro'[ugh] several counties in this province, in order for his being returned to the colony where he offended as afores[ai]d, every of his majesty's justices of the peace, in their several and respective counties, shall be and they are hereby impowered, by warrant, as aforesaid, to order and direct the conveyance of such offender thro'[ugh] their several counties, towards the place where he offended.

Preamble.

And for the furtherance of justice in the most easy and expeditious manner, where such offenders in any one county in this province shall escape into any other county in the same,—

Be it further enacted,

A justice of the peace may act in the same manner, with respect to offenders escaping from another county.

[SECT. 2.] That when and so often as any justice of the peace in any county within this province, on complaint to him made, shall issue his warrant against any criminal offender, for any offence committed in such county, and the said offender shall have escaped into any other county, it shall be in the power of any justice of the peace in such county where such offender is, to proceed in the same method, in apprehending such offender and sending him back for tryal to the county from whence he came, as in the case aforesaid, where the offender shall have come from another colony. CHAPTER 14.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY WITH ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND POUNDS, TO BE APPLIED FOR THE REDEMPTION OF GOVERNMENT SECURITIES THAT WILL BECOME DUE IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND SIXTY-NINE.

WHEREAS, in and by an act made and passed in the seventh year of his majesty's reign, intitled "An Act for supplying the treasury with the sum of one hundred and twenty-five thousand eight hundred and fifty pounds, to be applied for the redemption of government securities that will become due in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty-eight," among other things it is enacted that a tax of one hundred and thirty-two thousand one hundred and forty-two pounds ten shillings be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal within this province, to enable the treasurer to discharge the receipts and obligations that will become due in June, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-nine; and in case the general court shall omit levying and proportioning such tax at their session in June, seventeen hundred and sixty-eight, the treasurer of the province, by the act aforesaid, is directed to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the assessors or selectmen of each town and district within the province, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal within their several towns and districts, for their respective parts and proportions of the sums before directed and engaged to be assessed; and whereas it is uncertain whether the new valuation can be compleated, so that a tax can be levied and apportioned, this session; and this court looking upon it as a matter of the last importance to support the faith and credit of the government; and as the possessors of the government securities that will become due in June, seventeen hundred and sixty-nine, are willing to continue their money upon loan, payable at a further period; therefore,—

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, [Sect. 2.] That if this court shall levy a tax this year, to be paid into the treasury for any part of said sum of one hundred thousand pounds, the treasurer is hereby directed to borrow so much short of what he is otherwise directed to borrow by virtue of this act. Proviso.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 3.] That the treasurer, in issuing said receipts and obligations, and the committee chosen to countersign them, shall observe and be governed by the rules and directions given them by an act of this Treasurer to observe the directions of the act of the

And be it further enacted,

Money borrowed, to be applied for the redemption of government securities.

[SECT. 4.] That the said sum of one hundred thousand pounds, ordered to be borrowed by this act, when received into the treasury, shall be applied by the treasurer for the redemption of government securities that will become due in June, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-nine.

And in order to draw said money into the treasury again, and enable the treasurer effectually to discharge the receipts and obligations (with the interest that may be due thereon) by him given in pursuance of this act, we, his majesty's most dutiful and loyal subjects, the representatives of the province of the Massachusetts Bay, in great and general court assembled, have chearfully given and granted unto his most excellent majesty a tax of one hundred and five thousand pounds, to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal within the province, according to such rules, and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within this province, as shall be agreed on and ordered by the great and general court or assembly at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-nine, and to be paid into the public[k] treasury on or before the thirty-first day of March, one thousand seven hundred and seventy; and pray that it may be enacted,—

And be it accordingly enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, [SECT. 5.] That there be and hereby is granted unto his most excellent majesty the sum of one hundred and five thousand pounds, to be accordingly levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within the province, according to such rules, and in such proportions on the several towns and districts within the province, as shall be agreed on and ordered by the general court or assembly at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-nine.

And be it further enacted,

If the general court shall not then agree on a tax, the treasurer is to issue his warrants agreeable to the last preceding tax act.

[SECT. 6.] That if the general court, at their session in May, one thousand seven hundred and sixty-nine, and some time before the twentieth day of June in said year, shall not agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sums which by this act are engaged to be paid in said year, apportioned, assessed and levied, then and in such case each town and district within this province shall pay, by [a] tax to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their limits, the same proportion of the said sum as the said towns and districts were taxed by the general court in the tax act then last preceeding.

CHAPTER 15.

AN ACT TO ENABLE THE INHABITANTS OF LENOX IN THE COUNTY OF BERKSHIRE, WITH OTHER PROPRIETORS OF LANDS THERE, TO RAISE TAXES ON THE LANDS THERE, FOR BRINGING FORWARD THE SETTLEMENT OF THE SAID LANDS, AND FOR OTHER PUBLIC PURPOSES FOR THE BENEFIT OF SAID DISTRICT; AND ALSO TO INFORCE THE PAYMENT OF SUCH TAXES AS HAVE BEEN GRANTED BY THE INHABITANTS OF RICHMONT IN SAID COUNTY, AND ARE NOT COLLECTED.

Whereas by one law of this province, made and passed in the fourth year of his present majesty's reign, intitled "An Act to enable the proprietors of the plantation called Yokum Town and Mount Ephraim, in the county of Berkshire, to grant taxes on their lands, and bring forward the settlement of said plantation," it is enacted, that the purchasers of said plantation of Yokum Town and of Mount Ephraim shall be and accordingly are incorporated into one distinct propriety, and are vested with the same powers and privile[d]ges as, by the laws of this province, proprietors in common are vested with, so far as is necessary for the calling meetings, granting taxes upon the lands of the said purchasers in said plantation, assessing, collecting and disposing of the monies so raised, laying out, making and repairing necessary ways, and for the carrying forward the settlement of the said plantation agre[e]able to the order of the general court; and whereas, afterwards, the said new plantation was, by another law of this province, incorporated into a town by the name of Richmont, and, by the same law, it was provided and enacted that all taxes to be raised within said town for the settling a minister, building a meeting-house or meeting-houses, laying out, making or repairing roads, be levied upon the several proprietors of said plantation, according to their interest, agre[e]able to the act first aforesaid, until the further order of the general court; and whereas sundry taxes have been agreed upon and assessed, agre[e]able to the act aforesaid, and for the purposes aforesaid, on the proprietors of lands in said Richmont, part of which remains uncollected, and the same cannot be collected without the further aid of the general court,— Preamble. 1763–64, chap. 24, § 1. 1765–66, chap. 16, § 2.

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, [Sect. 1.] That the lands in said Richmont, of the several proprietors there assessed as aforesaid who have not paid their respective proportion[s] of such assessments, shall be subject to the payment thereof, and to sale therefor, by the assessors there who made such assessments, in the same manner as the lands of proprietors in new plantations were liable to be sold by virtue of an act made in the second year of his present majesty's reign, intitled "An Act to subject the unimproved lands, within this province, to be sold for the payment of taxes assessed on them by order of the great and general court, and votes and agreements of the proprietors thereof, and to enable proprietors to levy province and county taxes laid on them." Lands in Richmont subject to taxes as in new plantations. 1761–62, chap. 44.

And whereas, since the making such assessments as aforesaid, the easterly part of said Richmont hath, by one law of this province, made in the seventh year of his present majesty's reign, been incorporated Preamble. 1766–67, chap. 11.

into a district by the name of Lenox, and, from the consideration of the peculiar circumstances of the said district, it appears reasonable and necessary that, for the present, the taxes that may be raised there for settling a minister, building a meeting-house, laying out, making and repairing highways, be levied upon the several proprietors of said district, according to their interest in the lands there,—

Be it therefore enacted,

[SECT. 2.] That all taxes that shall be voted and agreed upon in the said district, for settling a minister, building a meeting-house, laying out, making or repairing highways, shall be assessed upon the several proprietors of those lands, according to their interest in the lands there, until this court shall otherwise order; and that the several proprietors of lands in said district, whether resident in said district or not, shall have equal right, according to their interest therein, to vote in the granting and raising such taxes; and that the same shall be granted at meetings of the said proprietors, to be called agre[e]able to the directions of an act of this province, made in the twelfth year of the reign of her late majesty Queen Ann, intitled "An Act directing how meetings of proprietors of lands lying in common may be called;" and that, in case any such proprietor shall neglect or refuse to pay his proportion of any such tax so set on him as aforesaid, the same shall be levied by the sale of his lands there, by the assessors, according to the directions and in such manner as is prescribed in the act aforesaid, made in the second year of his present majesty's reign; and that all sales of such delinquent proprietor's lands, for such taxes, agre[e]able to the rules in said act prescribed, shall be good and valid to all intents and purposes whatsoever. Be it enacted, —and to grant money.

Preamble.

And to the end that the proportions of the several purchasers aforesaid, in said lands, and the assignees to whom they have respectively conveyed any part of the same, under contract of doing any share of the settling-duties aforesaid, may be the better known in said town,—

CHAPTER 17.

AN ACT TO ESTABLISH A TOLL ON THE GREAT BRIDGE BUILT OVER THE RIVER PARKER, IN THE TOWN OF NEWBURY, IN THE COUNTY OF ESSEX.

Preamble. 1750-51, chap. 14.

WHEREAS the bridge some time since built over the river Parker, in the town of Newbury, for the building of which a lottery was granted by this province, has been found of great utility to the public[k], and the same being now in a considerable measure worn and decayed, the managers of the last lottery having also advanced a considerable sum over and above what was raised by lottery, towards building the said bridge; for [the] reimbursing the said money, and for repairing [of] [the] said bridge, no provision is yet made,—

CHAPTER 18.

AN ACT TO REVIVE AND CONTINUE AN ACT MADE IN THE FIFTH YEAR OF HIS PRESENT MAJESTY'S REIGN, INTITLED "AN ACT FOR ALLOWING NECESSARY SUPPLIES TO THE EASTERN INDIANS, AND FOR REGULATING TRADE WITH THEM, AND PREVENTING ABUSES THEREIN," WHICH IS NEAR EXPIRING.

Preamble. 1764–65, chap. 30.

WHEREAS the aforementioned act is found by experience very beneficial for regulating the trade with the eastern Indians,—

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives,

That an act, intitled "An Act for allowing necessary supplies to the eastern Indians, and for regulating trade with them, and for preventing abuses therein," made in the fifth year of his present majesty's reign, in all and every article and clause, matter and thing, be and hereby is revived, and shall be in force until the thirtieth day of June, which will be in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and sixty-nine. [Passed and published June 30.

NOTES.—But one session of the General Court was held this year. The House of Representatives of the previous year issued a circular letter to the sister houses of representatives, and of burgesses, in America, explaining the position of the House on the question of the relations of the colonies to Great Britain, respecting the authority of parliament, with the professed purpose of insuring harmonious action by the colonies in their assertion of their rights as against the encroachments of parliament and of the ministry. The Governor, at this session, acting under instructions from the Earl of Hillsborough, the newly appointed secretary of state for American affairs, demanded a rescission of the vote authorizing the circular, which being refused in the House, by a vote of 92 to 17, he, on the first day of July, in pursuance of his instructions, dissolved the Assembly, by proclamation, after having, the day before, prorogued it to the third of August.

All the acts of this year were printed; and the engrossments of all are preserved.

No certificate for transmitting these acts has been found; but the letter of Secretary Oliver accompanying them, and bearing date August 31, 1768, was laid before the Lords of Trade on the 24th of October following.

No record of further action on these acts has been discovered except what appears in the note to chapter 5, post, and in the report of Richard Jackson, dated January 24, 1771, showing that chapter 13 had been referred to him by the Lords of Trade for his opinion thereon in point of law, and in the minutes of the Lords of Trade of January 30, 1771, showing that the draught of a new instruction to the Governor of the province was ordered to be prepared, upon consideration of Mr. Jackson's report. See note to 1769–70, chapter 1.

Chap. 1. This is the last instance of the passage of an act granting an allowance, from the province treasury, to a governor appointed by the Crown. The repeal of the Stamp Act had removed the grounds upon which it was proposed to grant salaries from the imperial treasury to the appointees of the Crown; and the annual grants by the province had continued, without interruption, until the close of Bernard's administration.—See note to 1765–66, chap. 1, post.

Bernard, by whose recall the command-in-chief devolved upon Hutchinson, being about to be absent from the province by the royal permission, and, as he claimed, with the prospect of returning, asked, during the first session of the Assembly, for the year 1769, for an allowance, as usual, which, according to his instructions, would, during his absence, be divided between himself and the Lieutenant-Governor; but the House, having, unanimously, agreed upon a petition for his removal from office, were in no mood to comply with this request, especially as they had no assurance of his being continued in the office after the first of the ensuing month of August, up to which time his services had been paid for, in the grant of the previous year. Hutchinson received one grant (1769–70, chap. 8) for his services as lieutenant-governor after Bernard's departure; but two subsequent grants to him, in that capacity, one of £325 and the other £506, and two other bills passed after he received his commission as governor—each making the usual grant of £1500—failed to receive his assent, he having secretly received advices that "certain and adequate provision for the support of the civil government" in the colonies, had been deemed expedient to be made by parliament.

"To his Honor the Lieutenant Governor, the honorable his Majesty's Council, & the honorable House of Representatives in General Court assembled.—

The Petition of the Baptist Committee of grievances, acting in the Name and by the Appointment of the Baptist Churches met in Association at Bellingham in this Province the 11^th^, 12^th^, & 13^th^ days of September last,—humbly sheweth,

That altho' the Baptists have been repeatedly disappointed in their Addresses to the General Court, and have not obtained that Relief from their Distresses which We humbly conceive all our people are intitled to as Men, and Christians, and Subjects of a free Government; yet, very unwilling to leave any mean untryed, and hoping all things from this Court, We, the Comittee aforesaid, with great earnestness, and seriousness do recommend Ourselves to you, Gentlemen, whom we consider as the Gaurdians of Our Rights and Privileges as well Religious as Civil, the Protectors of the Injured, the Fathers of Our Common Country;—And beg leave to say that we are encouraged, in this Our Address, from the Consideration of the Rights of Mankind having been so well defined in the Votes of this Honorable House, by which We are taught to think 'That No Taxation can be equitable where such Restraint is laid upon the Taxed as takes from him the Liberty of GIVING his Own Money Freely'—This being True, permit Us to ask—With what Equity is Our Property taken from Us, not only without Our Consent, but violently, contrary to our Will; and for such purposes, as we cannot, in faithfulness to that Stewardship with which God hath Entrusted Us, favour—Permit us therefore to lay before this honorable Court the grievances of which We complain and pray your friendly, as well as Legislative Interposition; that Our Brethren may be saved from threatening Ruin; who have suffered much in their Persons, and Estates, to the great disquietude of their Minds, and Distress of their small and Chargeable Families;—And these Evils have arisen from some of the Laws of this Province, which are Ecclesiastical in their Nature, and bear hard upon Us, and, as we think, deprive Us of a Charter privilege; Especially One Law, made in favour of the Proprietors of the Town of Ashfield, in the County of Hampshire; which is contrary to, and in Respect to that Town, supersedes all Acts of General Court heretofore enacted, and declared to be in favour of Baptists— In consequence of which Law, and by a power granted in the same to the proprietors of Ashfield aforesaid, Three hundred & ninety eight Acres of Our Lands have been sold to build, and remove, and repair when moved, a Meeting house, in which we have No part, tho' Our Money helpt to build it: and to settle and support a Minister whom we cannot hear. The Lands were valued at £363 L M^{y}, sold for £19, 3 / L M^{y}; so that Our Loss is, £344. L M^{y}—part of the Lands aforesaid belonged to the rev^{d} Eben^{r} Smith a regularly Ordained Baptist Minister, who, together with his Father and others, their Brethren, in the last Indian War, built at their Own Expence, a Fort, and were a Frontier; and this they did for two years without any help from any Quarter; from which, we beg leave to say, that they deserve at least the common privilege of the Subjects of the Crown of England —Part of said Lands had been laid out for a burying place, and they have taken from Us Our Dead.—They have also sold a Dwelling House, and Orchard, and pull'd up Our Aple Trees, and thrown down Our fences, and made our fields waste places —Permit Us further to add, That the Act of the General Court made with Design to favour Us, and for the same purpose hath been renewed from time to time, is attended with such Difficulties as render it ineffectual, in many Instances, and by No Means sufficient to answer the good purposes, for which, we are willing to believe, the Honorable Court intended it—The Difficulties arising from this Quarter of which we complain we are ready to lay before the House whenever it shall please them to call upon Us.—

We must beg your Indulgence while we recite One thing more, which we deem hard, and that is, a Proviso, in the above mentioned Law, or Act of General Court, by which No Baptist can avail himself even of that Law in New-settled Towns, and we are thereby virtually prevented from settling in such New Towns.

Should we go thro' with an Enumeration of all Our Grievances we must take up too much of the time of this Honorable Court, which we are unwilling to do; We therefore pray the General Court to relieve Us in the following Instances: viz^{t}—

1st To repeal a Law entitled "An Act in addition to an Act, entitled, An Act for erecting the New Plantation called Huntstown in the County of Hampshire, into a Town by the name of Ashfield—And restore to the Baptists, in said Town, the Lands which have been taken from them to support the Minister settled by Law, and give them Damages for the great, and many Injuries they have been made to suffer.

2^{dly} To enable Our Brethren in Different parts of the Province to recover Damages for the Losses they have been made to sustain on a Religious Account.

3^{dly} To grant perpetual Exemption to all Baptists, and their Congregations from all Ministerial Rates whatsoever according to the full Intent and meaning of the Charter of the Province; that we may all enjoy full Liberty of Conscience, as Others his Majesty's Subjects, in this Province, And also to disannul all such Rates laid heretofore on any of Our people in this Government. And your Petitioners as in Duty bound shall ever pray

"To his Excellency Thomas Hutchinson Esq Captain General and Commander in Chief of his Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts bay &c &c

The honourable his Majesty's Council, and the honourable House of Representatives in General Court assembled at Cambridge the 27th day of March A D 1771—

The proprietors of the town of ashfield in the county of hampshire having been, by order of the honourable general court at their session in november last, notified of y^{e} petition of three of the baptist committee of grievances, acting in the name & by the appointment of the baptist churches met in assosciation at bellingham in this province in september last, then preferred to the s^{d} general assembly, that the said proprietors might on the second tuesday of the next session of the said court shew cause, if any they have, why the first prayer of the said petition should not be granted; & having taken the said petition and order into their consideration, beg leave, by their committee whose names are hereto subscribed to return the following answer, as containing, in their humble opinion, clear and sufficient reason why the said first prayer of the said petition should not be granted.—But, because the grievances complained of, tho' said especially to arise from the act mentioned in the said first prayer of the petition, are general grievances, before they enter upon y^{e} matters intended more directly in answer to that first prayer, the proprietors conceive it to be both proper and necessary to offer some things, more generally, in answer to the petition. They also conceive it to be a duty they owe to God and their Country, not to be dispensed with, as well as to You, gentlemen, (considered, with great propriety, by the petitioners as the guardians of our religious and civil rights, protectors of ye injured and the fathers of our common country) to lay open the character and real springs of action, of some of those people in this part of the province, of late, and not till lately, called baptists or anabaptists; tho' they mean to have a more especial regard to those of this denomination at ashfield. The said proprietors beg leave therefore to remark in the first place, that the rule the petitioners have set up, & on which alone they seem to ground their claim of exemption from, what they are pleased to call, grievances and which they are forced by the laws of this government to suffer, is falsely applied, and therefore all arguments bottomed on it must be inconclusive. Natural rights (and the petitioners in this argument can mean no other) as the respondents humbly conceive, are in this province wholly superseded in this case by civil obligation; and in matters of taxation individuals cannot with the least propriety plead them; and the plea of injustice in taking away their property by law, because they cannot feel themselves willing to give it (and this is the evident basis of the petitioners plea) will in its consequences, if admitted, forever exempt all men in the province from the payment of public taxes if they should happen not to be inclined to pay them. The question therefore that seems evidently to arise with respect to these people is this, as we humbly apprehend, whether good policy dictates or requires the holding them still under their civil Obligation in this instance, or the releasing them from it and in the present case restoring them to a state of nature? And of this the respondents are sure your excellency and honours cannot rightly judge unless the real character and true springs of action of the people professing themselves baptists, in this part of the county in particular, (we profess not to be acquainted with others) are fairly laid before you.

And here the truth obliges us to declare, that those people with and about us, who have now assumed the name of anabaptists were originally separates, as they were vulgarly called, from the established churches, without other name or distinguishing appellation than that of Separatists. The causes or springs of whose separation have been such as these—to wit with some it was an unconquerable desire of being teachers; a privilege or indulgence which could be no otherwise insured to them, but by a disorderly separation from the churches to which they belonged and seting up a meeting of their own (a thing easily effected when enthusiasm runs high) calculated for their purpose, and regulated according to their own peculiar taste. Others have gone off on account of some disgust or prejudice taken and imbibed either against their minister or some of their brethren, which their virtue was not sufficient to overcome and remove—

Some have left the Churches and gone to those people because they had been guilty of such offences as justly exposed them to a kind of discipline to which they could not feel themselves willing to submit. And some have had the effrontery to say, that the standing ministry is corrupt, ministers themselves unconverted, the churches impure & unholy, admitting unconverted and unsanctified persons into their communion &c In a word these meetings or churches or whatever else they might be called, as well since as before they took their present denomination, have been a kind of receptacle for scandalous and disorderly christians: and may, with some degree of propriety, be considered as a sink for some of the filth of christianity in this part of the country; and on this account, chiefly, do they merit, (if this be meritorious)—Thus pride, vanity, prejudice, impurity and uncharitableness seem to have originated, and much also to have supported a sect so pure that they cannot hold communion with ordinary christians. We would, however, candidly suppose some of these people have been influenced by motives in themselves good and pure, but by their connections and converse they must, by this time have much forfeited their former right to candour and a charitable judgment—People whose springs of action are so low and corrupt cannot reasonably be supposed to be influenc'd in their religious matters by virtuous and steady principles, accordingly it has been ever found from their original that they have no stability, nor their covenants any perpetuity; For some of them, after entering into their peculiar kind of covenant, have broke to pieces & formed anew three or four times within about thirty years; And even at this day, one of these separate soscieties (professing now to be baptists) whose whole number collected out of several towns—amounts only to twenty male members, or thereabouts, is divided into two parts, the one too pure for communion with the other. And thus they have been in a fluctuating unstable state from the beginning. Apprehending at length that some distinguishing appellation might intitle them to more notice and respect, and hoping at the same time to serve a purpose they have long appeared to have in view, viz the saving of their mony, they have of late collected and formed their divided and broken numbers into one baptist, or anabaptist soscietv or church; from which as was observed above some have already gone off. It would be tedious, and more than the respondents choose at present, to enter so minutely into the history of these people as otherwise might be proper to establish the matters above alledged; whenever it shall be thought necessary it can and will be done—

At present we shall content ourselves with assuring your excellency and honours that the foregoing account is not exaggerated.

We beg leave to observe here, that as it belongs to the justice of the legislature to protect and support all regular religious soscieties of protestants of every denomination, so it equally belongs to their wisdom and prudence not to encourage such as cannot, in any tolerable sense, answer the valuable ends of religion to the Community—The legislature, we humbly conceive, cannot, with any propriety, interpose in matters of religion, farther than to secure the good and prevent the ill effects of it to the state. Whenever, then, any religion or profession wears an ill-aspect to the state, it is become a proper object of attention to the legislature—Of this kind, most evidently, is that religion which rejects men of learning and ability for teachers, and altogether chooses such as are illiterate and men of ordinary abilities. It's evils do not need to be pointed out. It may suffice to mention one thing which is a clear consequence of it, and that is a kind of poisoned enthusiasm which perplexes and endangers the churches—And this is the religion of y^e^ people whom we have been describing—

It is therefore humbly hoped that if any farther indulgencies or exemptions should be granted the baptists, a just and necessary distinction may be made between those soscieties which are regularly formed and properly organised, and such whose very being reproaches religion, and their principles subversive of all those ends of it which it is the proper business of y^e^ legislature to secure to the state as far as shall be found practicable—

Having said these things, in general, we beg to be heard more particularly in answer to the first prayer of the said petition—And in the first place would observe to your excellency and honours, that ashfield, formerly huntstown, is a township which was granted to a number of persons for public services then thought to merit such a favour. The grant, however, was upon these conditions (besides certain reservations that were made) to wit, that the grantees or their assigns should settle sixty families in the township, build a meeting house, and settle a learned orthodox minister of the gospel there, or in other words, a legal minister—And without performing the Conditions of the grant, we apprehend neither the original grantees or their assigns could hold their lands—If any certain time was limited for the fulfilling these conditions, the impossibility of doing it on account of the indian wars, has procured us the favour of the government, & the forfeiture has not been taken. As soon as it was found practicable the proprietors begun the settlement, and have ever since been pursuing the business as fast as might reasonably be expected under those difficulties & embarrassments which have been assiduously thrown in the way—

The respondents beg leave to shew in the next place that the monies which have been granted and raised by virtue of the act complained of by the petitioners, have been raised chiefly for the purposes of fulfilling those conditions above mentioned and for repairing the ways—And it ought to have prevented the complaints of these people to consider, that they were under the same necessity to raise these monies that the other proprietors were, in order to hold their estates. They took their lands upon conditions well known; if they now dislike them, reason and common sense loudly proclaim that they ought to sell their estates to those who would gladly purchase them with those conditions annexed, or else that they entirely hold their peace—And we trust, when facts are truly & fully stated to your excellency and honours, you will find these people have not now, and indeed never had any just ground of complaint against us on account of our having sold their lands; so far from this, they have even wilfully & perversely obliged us to do it.

By the act complained of the proprietors of Ashfield were not only enabled to raise mony for building their meeting house and repairing their ways, but, as was reasonable in the infant state and low circumstances of the inhabitants at that time and perfectly agreable to or rather in exact pursuance of the true spirit of y^e^ Conditions upon which they held their estates, perplexed too as they were by the baptists, they were also impowered to raise mony for the support of their minister; and for these purposes have they raised monies as they had occasion—To show that this grant of power to y^e^ proprietors to raise mony for supporting their minister was perfectly conformable to the spirit of the conditions of the original grant of their lands, we beg leave to observe, That the obligation or injunction laid upon the proprietors by the government to settle sixty families and a minister, can have no other so worthy and generous intendment as this, viz That all the proprietors of whatever denomination should contribute equally towards the support of the first legal minister, until the people supporting him should amount to sixty householders in number; and if the best and most worthy intendment be the best rule of construction, then, as there was not at the time of making this grant of power to the proprietors that number of householders actually there, the consequence is clear that the monies raised by virtue of the act were merely for the purpose of performing y^e^ Conditions of y^e^ grant, even that for supporting the minister among the rest—

As the proprietors have assessed the monies raised for these several purposes, generally & indiscriminately, the baptists have ever taken advantage of it, and worked out their rates upon the ways (heedfully however spending that labour upon those ways which might more immediately benefit themselves, which ought to have been laid out on the ways in general in the Town) And by this means they have frequently brought the proprietors into their debt and received orders upon the treasury—This notwithstanding, when called upon for their rates they have refused to pay them and taken the mony due for that labour out of the Treasury; and thus forced us into measures of which they now unreasonably complain. And so far have we been from a wanton and unreasonable use of the power given us by that act, and wholly to take away the plea of inability, when their lands have been by such perverseness forced upon sale to raise their rates, we have frequently offered them the loan of our mony to prevent y^e^ sale, and it hath been as often rejected.

We beg leave to observe before we finish this head, that the representation the petitioners make in their petition is both very unfair and false—They represent that 398 acres of their land worth £363 lawful mony have been sold for £19. 3. for building a meeting house in which they have no part, and for setling and supporting a minister they cannot hear. As the valuing their lands is wholly arbitrary, they may fix that value as they please; we do not believe they are of so great value—But, as to the number of acres sold, the representation is not true, there having been only 306 acres sold in the whole—If y^e^ sum for which it was in fact sold be really small, the proprietors are not to be charged with fault—There was not only great care taken to sell those lands, the sale of which might least incommode the owner, but great pains also to obtain the value of them—but the highest bidder according to custom must have it—and purchasers can't be laid under any force or control in those cases—

That the proprietors have ever knowingly sold any of their lands laid out for a burying place, is not true. One of the lots, part of which is sold, we have since the sale been informed has had one still-born infant buried in it; but whether y^e^ lines including the part sold will take in that infant; is matter of real doubt and uncertainty; however this may be, we can truly say, we have no disposition to disturb their dead. The charge of our having sold a dwelling house, we are constrained to say, is notoriously untrue. As is that also of our pulling up their apple-trees and throwing down their fences.

The former is so far from the truth, that we have ever been desirous to know where the loss of their lands would least hurt them, and scrupulously endeavoured to serve them in this particular; altho' when we have made the inquiry y^e^ answer has been 'sell where you please'—The petitioners further say that the proprietors have sold part of the lands of 'the Rev^d^ Ebenezer Smith a regularly ordain'd 'baptist minister'—As this seems to be particularly pointed & is clearly intended to represent a grievance of a peculiar and extraordinary kind, the respondents humbly trust they shall be indulged a manly and just freedom in their remarks upon it, & by the gravity and seriousness of these remarks shall hope to set their candour and good temper in the best light at the same time—In answer then to this part of y^e^ charge we confidently affirm that y^e^ same is grossly collusive, and nothing less than an insult upon this hon^ble^ Assembly—That there is such a man as Ebenezer Smith, is true—That this same Ebenezer Smith is 'a regularly ordained minister' in a legal, or scriptural, or any other commonly received sense of y^e^ words, is as notoriously not true. By an antient statute of this province a minister is to be 'able learned, orthodox'—By a later statute in addition to it, no man, who has not had an education at some university College or public academy, or received a degree from one of these, or at least received testimonials respecting his being qualified for the work of the ministry from the major part of the ministers in the county in which he is minister, is intitled to the benefits expressly provided in the law for ministers—and therefore in law is not a minister. And one who has not some of those qualifications cannot, especially in an address to y^e^ legislature, with any propriety or truth, be called a regularly ordain'd minister. And that this M^r^ Smith has no one of the requisites or qualifications pointed out above, not only we, but the petitioners themselves perfectly know; except, perhaps, orthodoxy—And even of this we must doubt, if ability constitutes in part, the rule for determining this point—In proof of his unfitness in point of ability, (and he can have nothing else) it shall suffice to note one instance of his weakness and unpardonable ignorance as a teacher—taking occasion to say something in one of his discourses upon that passage of scripture in which mention is made 'of the thick bosses of God's buckler'—instead of 'buckler'—he gave his hearers y^e^ word 'butler'—being interrogated by one occasionally present as to his meaning, he explained himself so as clearly shewed he meant to connect the other part of y^e^ sentence with 'butler'—in the proper and commonly received sense of the word. And we have good reason to conclude he still remains unassisted by any extraordinary supernatural light or influence; and at the same time to say, that he has none of y^e^ qualifications of a minister according to the laws of Christ, or of this province, unless those of simplicity and orthodoxy—He will appear still less to deserve so high a stile when it is considered, that the governing views in his ordination were, the preventing the proprietors any advantage from y^e^ legal & regular settlement of the ministry among them, and their, that is, the baptists availing themselves of the right and other advantages which belonged to the first legal incumbent.

We mention this not only to support the charge of collusion & abuse, but also to convince your excellency and honours, that y^e^ people who with such views will ordain and receive such a teacher, cannot greatly merit of the government—These things might be sufficient to shew that their whole complaint (or indictment rather) is groundless, but since they have represented their situation as most disastrous and sad under an administration as just and mild as any under heaven, and seem to be claiming exemptions upon the plea of conscience, we must beg to be heard a word upon this point also—& In order to show that, both the plea of these people and their claim upon that plea are groundless, we would observe that their pretensions cannot be supported by facts. Those who first left the churches, (and those also who have gone off since) separated upon some of those grounds of separation above pointed out. The leader and father of the separates (as they are most properly called) at Ashfield left y^e^ church of south hadley among other reasons because they did not see fit to espouse a quarrel he had engaged in with one of the brethren, for telling a most trifling story about his pulling the teeth of his own children to make trial of certain instruments he had been constructing for the purpose—So far from being baptists, they never for a course of years, to our knowledge, pretended to be of that denomination; or thought of refusing to pay taxes with us; but were acting and voting with us in the affairs of the propriety—And their conduct, both then and ever since, has savour'd more of a high kind of quakerism, than any thing Else—(in religion)—The truth is at first, and for some time, they neither knew what they were nor how to name themselves—Pride and vanity (some of the earliest springs of separation) having caused them irregularly and unwarrantably to leave the humble post of the ordinary and modest christian for that of teachers, they exercised themselves in this business till it had grown somewhat easy; their importance and the difficulty of a return to their duty encreasing in pretty equal proportion, it soon became impossible for persons so holy as they, and favoured with such an extraordinary friendly correspondence with heaven as they were, to submit to the humiliating circumstances that must attend a dutiful return to their first station—Thus they have been forced by their pride into that religious course in which they still remain—But, as we said above, they have all along been anonymous, till they happened upon the lucky name of baptists; assumed, we have no doubt, to serve that grand purpose their petition holds up to view—This account, we humbly trust, will not only fully wipe off or prevent the reproach intended us, but also place y^e government in a better point of light than has been intended by them.

On the whole, as the act complained of was made to aid the proprietors in performing the Conditions of the grant of the township, and did not extend their power further than was clearly necessary, as the proprietors have always endeavour'd religiously to conform in their proceedings to y^e directions of it and never wantonly or unnecessarily sold the lands of y^e baptists, and as the people of this denomination at ashfield cannot ground a claim of favour upon any of those valuable ends of religion to the community, which every profession entering such claim ought manifestly to answer, the respondents rest assured, that your excellency and honors will not, for anything offered by the petitioners, grant their prayer for the repeal of the said act—For the same reasons, together with these in addition, to wit, that the taxes for procuring which the baptists lands were sol^d, were raised for purposes which they were equally with us bound to see effected and in effecting of which they as a body and as individuals have really profited, and that it would be both unjust and illegal and set the government against itself to order restitution or damages according to the prayer of the petition, they rest farther assured, that for any thing offered by the petitioners your excellency and honours cannot, and therefore they humbly trust you will not grant any part of the said first prayer of the petition—all which We humbly submit to this honourable Court.—and as in duty bound will ever pray &c—

"Apr. 12, 1771. A Petition of Benjamin Beal and others Proprietors of Lands in Ashfield in the County of Hampshire—Setting forth That a number of the Proprietors of the said Ashfield unknown to the Petitioners applied to the General Court and, in the eighth year of his Majesty's Reign, obtained an Act to impower the said Proprietors to raise Monies for sundry uses in said Act mentioned; by virtue of which, large Sums of Money have been assessed on the Lands in said Town, which have been paid by the Proprietors, or their Lands sold for that purpose—That the Petitioners apprehend this way of raising and collecting Monies is attended with great expence and much wrong thereby oft times done to the poor, the Widow and the Fatherless—And, inasmuch as the said Proprietors have paid within eight or ten years past about fifteen hundred pounds lawful money—Praying that they may be relieved.

In the House of Representatives—Resolved that the prayer of the foregoing Petition be so far granted as that the Petitioners notify the Proprietors of Ashfield of this Petition by leaving with the Clerk of said Proprietors an attested Copy of this Petition that they shew cause, if any they have, on the second Wednesday of the next Session of the General Court why the prayer thereof should not be granted, and that all proceedings in consequence of the Law of this Province, in the Petition mentioned, be staid in the mean time; the Copy above referred to, be left with the Clerk of the said Proprietors thirty days at least before the said second Wednesday of the next Session of the General Court. In Council, Read & Concurred, Consented to by the Governor."—Council Records, vol. XXVIII., p. 506.

"Apr. 17, 1771. A Petition of the Rev^d Samuel Stillman and others a Committee of the Baptist Churches met in association at Bellingham in Septem^r last—as entered the 15 day of November last.

In Council, Read again together with the Answer and Ordered that William Brattle and William Sever Esq^rs with such as the hon^ble House shall join be a Committee to take the same into consideration, hear the parties and make Report what they think proper this Court should do thereon. In the House of Representatives, Read and Concurred and Cap^t Barney, M^r Akin and M^r Ingersoll of Westfield are joined."—Ibid., p. 519.

"Apr. 25, 1771. The Committee appointed the 17 instant on the Petition of the Rev^d Samuel Stillman and others a Committee of the Baptist Churches, made the following Report viz^t

The Committee upon the Petition of the Rev^d M^r Stillman Smith and Davis have attended the service assigned them and very fully heard the parties, beg leave to Report—1^st That if said Reverend Gentlemen had in their Petition treated the General Court with more good manners and truth, they would have cast no blemish upon their sacred Character by so doing—2^dly There is an essential difference between Persons being Taxed where they are not represented, therefore against their Wills and being Taxed when represented and when what is Taxed is only in consequence of what was the very condition of their Grant, which no body compelled them to enter into, but was intirely voluntary on their part: If a Person of any denomination removes from hence to England in order to purchase a Freehold and lives there—he knows what the consequence will be as to his paying Tythes, yet after he does remove and purchase there, can he with any justice complain when Tythes are demanded, and upon a refusal to pay for them or to be destrained on for them; or when a Man purchases an Estate under a Mortgage and he knows it to be so, what sort of Conscience would that be that could not consistent therewith discharge the same? The Petitioners complain that their Estates were taken from them against their Wills: and very right it should be so when their wills and their Consciences are against doing what they engaged to do and what if they had not engaged to do they would never have had any grant of them at all. The General Court have made sundry Laws for the relief of Baptists: The last gave universal satisfaction 'till of late, but still if there can any thing further be done for their relief consistent with the Laws of God or Man, or not repugnant to either, your Committee hope it will be done, and therefore upon the hearing earnestly desired the Revd Mr Davis in writing to lay before the Committee what he desired further might be done so as that we might lay it before your Excellency and Honors. Your Committee would further observe that A D 1735 upon the Petition of Ebenezer Hunt and others, the Court granted them a Township of the contents of six miles square, and that said Town should be laid out into sixty three equal shares, three for Public uses, and that on each of the sixty shares the Petitioners in three years from the confirmation of the Grant settle one good Family, have a House built, six acres of Land brought too, and that they settle a learned Orthodox Minister there, build and finish a convenient Meeting house for the Public Worship of God, and that each settler give Bond &c to the Province Treasurer for the fulfilment of said Conditions, and if the duty on any lot was not performed, said Lot with its rights to revert and be at the disposition of the Province.—That A D 1765 said Plantation was erected into a Township by the name of Ashfield wherein it was Enacted that all Taxes that should be raised for settling a Minister, for his support or for building a Meeting house &c be levied on the several Proprietors of said Plantation according to their interests until the further Order of the Court: This Act of Incorporation no ways militates with the Conditions of the original Grant but is rather in affirmance of them. In the eighth year of the Reign of his present Majesty there was an additional Act to the first mentioned in no wise repugnant to the other, wherein provision is made for the sale of any Proprietors Land lying in said Town that should be delinquent in performing the Conditions aforesaid.—Now the Petitioner Smith and others are aggrieved at these proceedings, say they are deprived of their Charter Right, liberty of Conscience; that they are persecuted, and that they ought to be free from performing these Conditions on their parts, because they are of another Perswasion viz^{t} Baptists, and that by the Laws of the Province relating to the exemption of Baptists they are excused; and the Laws relative to Ashfield so far as they respect them touching Ministerial charges or the building of a Meeting house should be repealed and they exempt from paying Taxes as aforesaid:—Upon which your Committee beg leave to observe, that in humble imitation of the spirit and disposition of the good people of this Province and of the whole Legislature of it for a great many years back if they thought it any way effected liberty of Conscience, in the least militated with any Law of the Province in their favor, we should Report in favor of their Petition, but we apprehend quite the contrary for the reasons following viz^{t} There never was a Law relating either to Churchmen Baptists or Quakers exempting them from paying Taxes considered as Proprietors or Grantees in a new Plantation. The Laws relative to them respect only such Rates as are assessed by Towns, District, or Parish, and this distinction is very material and very rational and not anti-christian. The end and design of the Grant of waste Lands by the General Court is this, that they shall be improved, that which was meer nature should be cultivated and improved for the increase of his Majesty's good Subjects in this Province, their Trade, produce and business; this is quite agreable to the design of King William and Queen Mary in their Grant of the Charter: but how can this be effected when perhaps half in every new granted Township refuse complying with the Conditions of the Grant, pleading Conscience, which Conditions they were perfectly acquainted with when they accepted the Grant. In new Townships the Grantees when all unite to perform the Conditions go thro' a vast many hardships and encounter a thousand difficulties before the same are performed; to excuse any under any pretence whatsoever therefore would be unreasonable and cruel upon the rest, if they were obliged to do their own duty and the duty of their delinquent Brethren. Is this Conscience? Or is it conscience that a Man should not be obliged to do what he hath solemnly and voluntarily covenanted to do? Now what other method can be devised, but to sell the Lands of those who conscientiously say they will not be as good as their word or keep their Covenant tho' it be so greatly to the prejudice of the Public? Is it not more favorable to these delinquents that part of their Land be sold in fulfilment of their engagements than that the whole should revert to the Province? which is the very Tenure of their Grant and by which they hold their Lands—Your Committee find that in the sale of these Lands there was no unfairness but every thing was quite fair, quite neighbourly and quite legal. Upon the whole your Committee tho' desirous that every thing might be done that can be desired for Persons of every denomination of Christians whereby they may worship God in their own way and according to their Consciences without any let or molestation whatsoever; yet for the reasons abovementioned and many more that might be offered it is our opinion that said Petition be dismissed.

"To the Right Hon^ble the Lords Commissrs of Trade and Plantations.

Sheweth,

That by a Grant from the General Assembly 1765, the Plantation of Hunts-town in the County of Hampshire was erected into a Township by the name of Ashfield with a condition that the Settlers should build a Meeting place and support an Independent Minister—That 17 families were settled in Ashfield, of which 12 being Baptists, a Baptist Church was immediately established there—That the Independents also established a Church there, requiring the Baptists to support their Minister, agreeable indeed to the terms of the Grant but contrary to a General Law freeing Baptists and Quakers from taxation towards the support of other Churches—That the Baptists therefore refused to pay towards the support of the Ashfield Independent Minister That in May or June 1768 an Act passed in addition to the aforesaid Act of 1765 which confirmed the Grievance complained of—That the Baptists still refusing to comply their effects were destrained for payment That they have since petitioned the Assembly for a repeal of the Ashfield Law passed in 1768, and that, not having obtained such repeal, Your Petitioner—humbly prays, on behalf of the said Baptists, that his Majesty will be graciously pleased to disallow the said Ashfield Act and as speedily as may be judged convenient, as the time limited for the King's disallowing it is now very near expiring. [1765–66, chap. 13.] [1757–58, chap. 20.]

Your Petitioner begs leave also further to observe, that he apprehends the Act passed Nov. 20. 1770, at the request of the Baptists, for the amendment of the General law in their favor, does not operate to remedy the Grievance complained of in the Ashfield Act of 1768 and apprehends that this is the opinion of Governor Hutchinson, as well as the Baptists themselves—He also presumes, if any other object of the Ashfield-Law (besides that respecting the interests of the Baptists and Quakers) shou'd be affected by the General disallowance of the said Act, that that inconvenience may be remedied by the Assembly's passing another Bill to that purpose

And Your Petitioner &c."—"Mass. Bay, B. T.," vol. 81, O. o., 13.

Present

The King's Most Excellent Majesty in Council Whereas the Great or General Court or Assembly of His Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England did in June 1768 pass an Act which hath been transmitted intitled as follows, viz^t—

An Act in addition to an Act intituled an Act for erecting the New Plantation called Hunts Town in the County of Hampshire into a Town by the name of Ashfield.

Which Act together with a Representation from the Lords Commissioners for Trade and Plantations thereupon having been referred to the consideration of a Committee of the Lords of His Majesty's most Honorable Privy Council for Plantation Affairs—The said Lords of the Committee did this day Report as their opinion to His Majesty that the said Act ought to be disallowed—His Majesty taking the same into consideration was pleased with the advice of His Privy Council to declare his Disallowance of the said Act; and to order that the said Act be and it is hereby disallowed and rejected—Whereof the Governor, Lieutenant Governor or Commander in Chief of His Majesty's said Province of the Massachusetts Bay for the time being and all others whom it may concern are to take notice and govern themselves accordingly."—"Mass. Bay, B. T.," vol. 81, O. o., 62.

"When such noise was made at Boston about the Ashfield affair, Governor Hutchinson happened to look and find that the word Support was not in the original grant of those lands; and perhaps he might hope, that by relieving the Baptists, he should draw them to his side of the controversy betwixt America and Britain. Be that as it may, he privately sent for one of their committee, and advised him to send the Ashfield law to a friend in London, who might present it to the King in Council; and he promised to write to Governor Bernard, who passed it, to use his influence to have it repealed. This was done, and its repeal was effected, and then their oppressors had their turn at waiting upon one Assembly after another unsuccessfully; for though several acts were framed for them, yet the consent of the Governor

Chap. 12. The following petition was read in the House of Representatives, Feb. 5, 1765, and referred to a committee, who reported a bill, on the 18th of the same month, which provided for the building and maintaining a bridge, at the place designated, at the equal, joint expense of the town of Westfield and the county of Hampshire. This bill was committed, the next day, and the petitioners were directed to prepare a new draught. The new bill was read a first time, in the House, Feb. 21, and, by the 27th of the same month, was enacted. See, ante, 1764–65, chap. 23.

"To his Excellency Francis Bernard Esqr Captain General & Governour in Chief in & over his Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England & vice Admiral of the same to the Honourable his Majesty's Counsel & House of Representatives in General Court now sitting at Boston—January 9th A D 1765. The Petition of David Mosley, Eldad Taylor, John Shepherd, Elisha Parks, & Samuel Mather a Committee chosen & appointed by the Town of Westfield for that Purpose, most humbly sheweth;—That whereas the Town of Westfield for twenty years last past, chiefly at their own Expence & Charge, have kept and maintained a cart Bridge of twenty four Rods in length a cross Westfield great River near the Mills, to the great Utility & Advantage not only to the Inhabitants of said Town & the Towns adjacent, but to the Publick in general, in Time of the Freshets or high Water, which frequently happen in the Course of a Year for many Days together so deep & rapid as to render it impassable at any of the ford Ways, which Inundation increased the last Spring viz in February to such a Degree as to carry away the Mill Dam above the Bridge, which was the Safeguard of the Bridge & which was followed with the total Destruction of Said Bridge (which was something decayed by Age) although it was the second Bridge in that Place built within twenty years, & altho' the Town willing to exert themselves to the last Degree to the Support of a Bridge there for the publick Good as well as their own yet finding themselves over burthened with heavy Charges constantly arising on them from the numerous other Bridges they support a cross the divers Rivers & Streams running through sd Town & with which the Town is very much embarrassed they cannot by any Means agree to rebuild Sd Bridge at their own Cost & Charge as they are overborne with Expences of the like Nature. Therefore we your Memorialists humbly hope that your Excellency & Honours will take the Premises into your wise Consideration & take such Steps & make such Orders respecting the same as you in your Wisdom shall think proper in Order to the Rebuilding Said Bridge, which must unavoidably fail without your Honours Interposition & your Petitioners as in Duty bound shall ever pray—

} Committee for the Town of Westfield"—

Mass. Archives, vol. 121, p. 425.

The act of 1764–65, chap 23, provided that the town of Westfield might build and maintain the bridge, and authorized the court of sessions for the county of Hampshire, upon application of the town of Westfield, to tax the inhabitants of such of the several towns and districts in the county, as the court should think it reasonable, for the expense; the money to be raised in such sums as the court should agree upon, from time to time. The act did not provide that any portion of the expense should be actually incurred by the town of Westfield before applying to the court of sessions, nor was any power conferred upon the court to control the erection, repairs or management of the bridge. The court, in the exercise of their discretion, declined to levy a tax or order any allowance, under the circumstances; whereupon, the inhabitants of Westfield again appealed to the Legislature for assistance, in the following petition, which was read in the House, and referred to a committee, Jan. 27, 1766:—

"To his Excellency Francis Bernard Esqr Capt Genl & Govr in Chief in & over his Majesty's Province of Massachusetts Bay in Nw England & Vice Admi of the Same. To the honble his Majesty's Council & the House of Repr in genl Court Assembled at Boston fifteenth day of January Anno Dom: 1766—The Petition of the Inhabitants of the Town of Westfield in the County of Hampshire; Humbly Shewing, that we labour under great Difficulty & Disadvantage, for want of a cart Bridge, over the great River in Westfield at or near Wellers Mills; where the last Bridge stood; and we being unable among ourSelves, to build and maintain a Bridge, over that River: By Reason of the great Number of chargeable Bridges, in the Town over considerable Rivers & Streams; that the Situation thereof, renders us singularly chargeable with; And the Inhabitants in Years past have sustained heavy Charges in building, and maintaining Bridges; over the River at the Mills; which have been highly serviceable; for Carriages and Travellers; & would still remain So; was one there erected. And the Inhabitants having made Application to the Court of Sessions, for the County, for Some Assistance (who were impowered to grant the Same) to enable the Inhabitants, to build & maintain a Bridge there; at two Terms successively; & the Court of Sessions for the County have wholly neglected, to consider our Application, or to grant any Help or Assistance upon the Premisses. Wherefore the Inhabitants humbly pray your Excellency & Honors would take our Case under your wise Consideration; & grant us such Help & Assistance upon the Premisses; as might enable us, to build & maintain a Bridge at the Mills aforesaid: or such other Methods as your Excellency & Hon^rs in your Wisdom shall see meet; and as in duty bound your Petition^rs in behalf of the Inhabitants shall ever pray.

Although it appears, by the indorsements thereon, that this report was read and accepted in Council as early as Feb. 20, 1767, and that the following order in the House was passed only three days thereafter, the following paragraphs are taken from the Council Records as of the date hereunder given: —

"Mar. 10, 1767. The Committee appointed the 14^th of June last on the Petition of the Town of Westfield praying that they might be assisted in building and maintaining a Bridge in said Town near Wellers Mills, having reported it as their Opinion that the County of Hampshire ought to contribute one third part towards the charge of building such Bridge, but that they be not held to pay any part towards its maintenance, the following Order passed thereon viz^t—

In Council, Read and accepted: And Ordered that the Petitioners have liberty to bring in a Bill accordingly. In the House of Representatives, Read & nonconcurred and Ordered that the Petitioners have leave to withdraw the Petition.

In Council, Read and Concurred."—Council Records, vol. XXVI., p. 454.

Nothing further has been discovered relating to this subject, until June 24, 1768, when, according to the House Journal, upon the petition of John Ingersoll, "praying that the court of General Sessions of the Peace for the county of Hampshire, may be empowered to assess a sum of money on all the inhabitants in said county, for erecting the bridge," &c., an order was passed, in the House, that a resolve be brought in, to notify the towns and districts in Hampshire County, of the petition. Upon being sent up to the Council this order was nonconcurred in, on the 25th; and the following order was passed, which, notwithstanding the date hereunder given, appears to have been concurred in by the House on the same day.

"June 27, 1768. A Petition of John Ingersol of Westfield—Setting forth—That it would be very beneficial to the Inhabitants of the County of Hampshire to have a Bridge built over Westfield River in the great Road from Boston to Albany and that the same would be very commodious for Travellers; but that it would be too great a burthen on the said Town to be at the sole expence of building such Bridge. That he apprehends a great part of the County would be well pleased to have it built at the charge of the County. And praying that the Court of General Sessions of the Peace for the County aforesaid may be impowered, if they see cause, to assess a Sum of money on all the Inhabitants of said County sufficient for the said purpose.

In Council, Read and Ordered that the Petitioner have liberty to bring in a Bill for the purpose mentioned in his Petition. In the House of Representatives, Read and Concurred."—Ibid., vol. XXVII., p. 386.
